GIRL KILLED, 20 INJURED IN COE HILL TORNADO

35 KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK AT DUGALD, MAN.

Campers' Special Collides With Standing Train

Car Catches Fire, Spreads Rapidly to Other Coaches

By JACK AVESON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Dugald, Man., Sept. 2 —(CP)— At least 35 persons, probably more, died last night in the flaming wreckage of a 13-car Canadian National Railways' Campers' Special which piled head-on into a standing Transcontinental passenger train at this flag station 20 miles east of Winnipeg.

Some feared the actual number who perished at the end of a holiday weekend might never be known. By mid-morning — less than 12 hours after the wreck, worst in Western Canada's history —22 bodies wrapped in gunny sacks lay in the basement of a funeral home in nearby Transcona.

A stream of ambulances moved slowly between that town and the debris-splashed right of way here about which railway police threw a cordon to keep all spectators at bay.

All but two of the bodies are burned beyond recognition. These two had ben decapitated.

Only two dead identified are Gaye Lewis, 64, of Transcona, engineer of the special, and Mrs. Albert Simpson of St. Vital, Winnipeg suburb, a passenger. The former died on his way to hospital at St. Boniface, where 15 injured are recovering, and the latter after reaching there.

Wander Relentlessly.

A group of relatives wandered relentlessly outside the funeral home but they will not be permitted to attempt to identify the dead until an inquest has been held, possibly tonight if searchers are satisfied all bodies have been recovered by then. More waited at the Transcona police station.

One Transcona woman said she couldn't count the number she had directed to the funeral home.

Some of the gunny sacks were pitifully small — one the size of a man's two fists, doubled together.

By WALLY HILTON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Dugald, Man., Sept. 2 (CP) — Flaming railway coaches, oil storage tanks exploding and shooting flames hundreds of feet in the air, people wandering around in a dazed condition—that was what I saw when I arrived at Dugald.

I saw canoes, luggage and dunnage bags, which probably belonged to some of the victims just returing from vacation, strewn along the right of way.

I saw five victims alongside the track who were probably thrown from the coaches when the trains collided. I saw the charred remains of two others in the still-burning coaches.

The cab of the Minaki Special was crushed in and looked like an accordian. The coach directly behind the tender on the east-bound train was hanging to the tender, its front wheels torn off by the impact.

I talked to a railway employee who was about 200 yards from the scene at the time of the collision. He told me he had assisted five persons—two women, two men and a little girl—from flaming lumber and debris on which they had been thrown.

Driven Back by Heat

He said the girl appeared unhurt and was in a sitting position. But, sadly, he said he hadn't been able to extricate one man from the wreckage. The heat had driven him back. He himself had his hands badly lacerated and one arm was burned.

I talked to a mail clerk who had a head injury and a hip injury, received when an overhead tank broke loose and struck him. His head was swathed in bandages and he was badly shaken but his chief concern was the mail.

Pulled Eight Out

I talked to two soldiers who were on their way to Toronto on leave who had pulled at least eight persons from the wreckage. One, a woman, had both legs broken. They told me they could hear people moaning inside the coaches which had left the track and caught fire.

I walked to a woman who lives close to the track where the accident took place. She told me she happened to be looking out her window and saw another woman on the east-bound train changing her baby's clothing. Just then she heard the crash. She thought at first, along with her husband, that one of the old drums had exploded.

I talked with a man who lived 3-4 mile away and he said the impact shook his house. Windows which were raised none too securely were slammed shut.

87 Burn to Death In Paris Theatre

Paris, Sept. 2. (Reuters)— Eighty-seven names on a typewritten list pinned to a board before the little town hall of the Paris suburb of Rueil today gave the official death toll in the disastrous fire in the select movie theatre Saturday night.

Sobbing women and grave-faced men read the names of a baby of eight months, two engaged couples, and a boy of one year who had been taken to the movies by his 13-year-old brother.

At the head of the list was the mayors announcement of the mass funeral of the victims to be held today and his order that all shops and public establishments of Rueil were to be closed for the period of the funeral.

At Rueil hospital another announcement told of 17 seriously injured persons under treatment, there or at nearby Nanterree and St. Germain, while 40 were said to have been treated at the drug stores for slight injuries.

JAPAN MUST MAKE EFFORT TO RAISE THEIR STANDARDS

British Commonwealth Conference on Jap Peace Treaty Ends Session

Canberra, Sept. 2 —(CP)— H. V. Evatt, external affairs minister of Australia, today told the closing session of the British Commonwealth Conference on the Japanese peace treaty that the solution of Japan's future "can lie in comprehensive international effort to raise the standard of welfare" throughout southeastern Asia and the Pacific.

Evatt, chairman of the conference, said that "Japan must contribute her utmost towards raising those standards."

"If she does so she will share in the improvement. Australia does not want Japan to become a starvation area in the rest of the world."

The Canadian delegate, Defence Minister Brooke Claxton, said those who attended the conference must be convinced of the usefulness of frank and free exchange of views.

He had often thought it would be a good thing if other countries could "sit in" on such a conference. The points on which they would be convinced were: There was not a lingering trace of imperialism; there was no exercise of pressure in dealing with the defeated enemy; there was no desire for revenge nor display of sentimentality; and the purpose of the conference was to establish a world in which all peoples could live freely in peace and happiness.

"Canada has the most friendly, most cordial and warmest feeling towards Australia. I shall return with a new appreciation of Australia and Australia's problems and potentialities."

Want Increase.

Yesterday conference sources indicated they want the 11-power Far Eastern commission increased to 12 to include Moslem Pakistan.

The five main points arising from the conference which the Commonwealth would like to see in the Japanese peace treaty were:

1. Security against future aggression by Japan.

2. Limitation of Japanese territory to four main islands and such minor islands as the peace conference might decide.

Residents Rally to Assistance Of Helpless Victims of Twister

Coe Hill, Ont., —(Staff)— Residents of this tornado-stricken area rallied today to the assistance of helpless victims of Saturday night's twister which sent a score to hospital, took the life of another and caused unestimated damage to buildings and property.

Scarcely recovered from the terrific shock which numbed the entire community following the storm debacle, villagers got solidly behind a special relief committee formed yesterday by Reeve Clarke Rollins.

Reeve Rollins and David Wanamaker established the nucleus of the committee which was soon augmented by three other volunteers.

No time was lost. Yesterday morning a hurried meeting was called and by noon over $450 had been subscribed by villagers and those in the storm area.

Subscriptions are coming in hourly, and an appeal will be sent to the "outside" for funds and clothing, furniture, etc.

Families Homeless.

"Families are homeless as a result of the worst storm in the history of this township," Reeve Rollins said. "We have to act and act quickly—if we are to provide shelter for these people before the cold weather sets in. Everything will have to be built from the ground up as there is not a stick left which can be used in reconstruction. Furniture has been smashed or blown to the four winds. There is absolutely nothing left in the path of the storm."

Yesterday, search parties scoured the fields in the outer rims of the storm-path recovering furniture, machinery and other salvageable objects. Pieces of furniture were found as far as 300-400 yards from the foundations of the homes they once occupied.

Expert woodsmen were out all day removing large trees levelled by the fury of the storm. In some cases entire blocks of timber were twisted off like match sticks. Trees were found stripped of their branches and bark, standing like huge white poles, etched against the green of their more fortunate counterparts.

The appeal for help has gone out over the district, Reeve Rollins said. "We will accept anything, cash, clothing or building material. No donation will be too small. Residents of Wollaston township are doing a heroic job in coming to the aid of their unfortunate neighbors and friends."

"But we must have outside help, if we are to house these victims of the storm before winter comes. This village and township will do all in its power to afford relief but other assistance will be gratefully appreciated," the reeve said.

Situation Grim

"The situation here is very grim," he added. "One does not know the extent of the damage unless he covered the entire storm stricken area. The actual amount has not been estimated, but it will be a terrific figure."

Practically all of the survivors who passed through harrowing experiences in the ninety-second savagery of the tornado, have nothing but the remnants of the clothing they wore. Some have not even a stitch to call their own. Neighbors have come to their aid with some clothing and shelter. The need is vital and all donations whether cash, clothing or material should be sent to Reeve Clarke Rollins at Coe Hill or to the Special Relief Committee in that village.

Post-War Era Has Brought Us Bitter Disappointment And Deep Concern---Truman

Quitandinha, Brazil, Sept. 2— (AP) —President Truman declared today that although the United States has an "aversion to violence" this is no "invitation to others to take liberties with the foundations of international peace."

"No great nation has been more reluctant than ours to use armed force," he said in an address prepared for the closing session of the inter-American defence conference, but that "must not be misread as a lack of determination on our part to live up to the obligations of the United Nations Charter.

"Our military strength will be retained as evidence of the seriousness with which we view our obligations."

Truman said the post-war era "has brought us bitter disappointment and deep concern.

We find that a number of nations are still subjected to a type of foreign domination which we fought to overcome.

18 GESTAPO, S.S. MEN CONVICTED OF WAR CRIMES

Guilty of Murdering On Hitler's Order, 50 British, Dominion Airmen

Hamburg, Sept. 2 — (Reuters) — A war crimes court today convicted 18 Gestapo and S. S. (Elite Guard) men accused of murdering, on Hitler's orders, 50 British and Dominion airmen, including several Canadians, who made a mass escape from Stalag Luft 111 in Silesia in March 1944.

All 18, who had pleaded innocent both to two general charges of killing and carrying out orders in violation of the laws of war and to seven charges of shooting individual officers, took the verdicts stoically. Sentences will be passed later.

Altogether 76 R.A.F. and Allied Air Force officers made the mass escape through a tunnel from Stalag Luft III on the night of March 24-25. Of these 50 were shot, 15 were returned to the camp, and eight were detained by the Gestapo. Only three managed to escape.

The Canadian, according to German documents were FO. Henry Birkland, West Calgary, FO. Gordon A. Kidder, St. Catharines, Ont.; FO. George W. Wiley, Windsor, Ont., Flt.-Lt. Patrick W. Langford, Field, B.C., Flt.-Lt. George E. McGill, Toronto, and Flt.Lt. James C. Wenham, Winnipeg.

The ashes of the massacred officers were stated by one witness to have been kept by Max Wielen, former head of the Breslau criminal police, in a group of urns in a steel safe.

Another witness, Maj.-Gen. Adolf Westhoff, chief of the war prisoners department of the German army, recalled a conference of Nazi leaders at Hitler's headquarters at which Hitler ordered the escaped officers to be shot on recapture.

Many of the officers were shot by "a murder squad" in the woods in the Goerlitz area. Evidence recalled others were driven handcuffed in couples in motorcars along an autobahn (super-highway). At a lonely spot the handcuffs were removed and they were allowed to get out ostensibly to "stretch their legs" then as their backs were turned they were shot.

Twister Cuts Swath 500-Yards Wide Thru Two Counties

Buildings Demolished, Trees Uprooted and Roads Blocked

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Staff Reporter)

Roaring out of the northwest with all the fury of its southern counterparts, a tornado screamed across southern Haliburton and North Hastings counties late Saturday afternoon leaving a trail of death and destruction in its wake.

One twelve-year-old girl, Myrna Ferguson, died instantly when the storm smashed the home of her grandparents to kindling wood. A younger brother Vernon, hovers between life and death in hospital. Eleven-year-old Marjorie Peacock was rushed to a Toronto hospital on Monday morning in a desperate effort to save her life.

Twenty persons were injured, some of them seriously and all were rushed to Bancroft Red Cross Hospital. Provincial Police Constable Hatch, first officer to arrive at the scene, immediately sent in an S.O.S. to Red Cross headquarters, Toronto, for assistance.

Cottages Ripped

Gaping excavations, splintered debris, scattered furniture and other contents are all that remain today of a half-dozen farm homes and a score of buildings. Cottages were ripped from their foundations. A C.N.R. station is wrecked beyond repair. Trees are levelled and utter desolation remains in the five hundred yard path of the storm which swept down suddenly on an unsuspecting countryside.

Several people were hurled hundreds of yards into tall trees where they hung screaming in terror as the wild, death-dealing tornado raged about them.

Interviewed on Monday afternoon Reeve Clarke Rollins, of Coe Hill, which bore the brunt of the storm, stated that all is "utter desolation in the swath cut by the tornado. There is not one piece of wood 10 feet long that is serviceable left in the area. It is the worst storm to strike this part of the county in its history. We are doing all we can to bring aid to the homeless and injured."

Struck at Gooderham

Crescending from a dull moan to a shrieking roar, the twister struck savagely at the village of Gooderham, Haliburton County late in the evening, tearing and ripping its way for a distance of sixty-five miles southwest over the rolling farmlands of Hastings. The storm cut a swath estimated less than a half-mile in width, before it blew itself out near the Lennox-Hastings border.

The district of Coe Hill bore the full force of the savage fury of the tornado. Viciously it twisted down, striking ruthlessly from a few miles outside the village then slightly diminishing as it appeared to be satisfied with the damage down in that area.

Three farm homes, were completely demolished, the fury of the storm twisting and smashing the heavy frame building until nothing was left but matchwood. Twelve-year-old Myrna Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ferguson, of Coe Hill, who was holidaying with her grandparents, was instantly killed when the home crashed about the family.

Found in Trees

Neighbors racing to the rescue, found the five occupants of the home hanging in trees. Terrified with their clothing ripped from their bodies they gazed in horror at the strewn wreckage of their home that lay scattered in the fields.

With the dead girl were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Neal; her brother Vernon, who is critically injured and an uncle, Elmer Neal. All were taken to Bancroft Hospital. Two cows and three pigs died under debris.

Next to feel the brunt of the storm was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell. The Campbell family consists of the parents and five children. With them were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Campbell and Gerald Campbell. The home was completely destroyed as was that of a Marshall family nearby.

Fantastic Stories Run Rampant Through District

Madoc, Ont. (Staff)—Fantastic stories ran rampant in this Central Hastings County district following the tornado which swept a 500-yard swath of Hastings and Haliburton counties late Saturday evening leaving a trail of death and destruction.

As the first news of the disaster seeped through over damaged communications, imagination ran riot and many and varied were the versions of the twister which wreaked havoc in the village of Gooderham, Haliburton, demolished houses near the village of Coe Hill and levelled trees and buildings along a sixty-five-mile path of terror and damage.

One resident of this Central Hastings village, who has a number of relatives residing in the Bancroft area, was told that that village was a shambles; that several had been killed and an unestimated number injured.

Gathering his family and other relations he raced to the northern part of the county to discover that Bancroft had missed the fury of the storm.

Another story which gained credence as it was spread was to the effect that Lake L'Amable, was practically wiped off the map, and that the tornado had swept the water from the lake.

Yet another yarn, the figment of a powerful imagination had residents here in a dither with its "facts" that two truckloads of caskets had been seen racing toward Coe Hill to take care of the huge death toll caused by the storm.

One story had it that Coe Hill was practically obliterated, and that the dead amounted to a staggering number.

It was not until early Sunday morning that the true facts regarding the storm damage came through to a worried populace. Many families here are closely related to people living in the storm-stricken area and there were many anxious hearts and minds on Saturday night.

City and District News

FIREMEN HAVE QUIET HOLIDAY

Firemen enjoyed a comparatively quiet holiday weekend with only one call being received, that only Monday to a Frank Street residence where an electric motor of a household refrigerator burned out. Damage was slight, being held to refrigerator parts, although the home for a while was filled with the acrid smoke from the overheated motor.

CANNING FACTORIES START OPERATIONS

With the cool weather of the past week helping to slow up the ripening of tomatoes, canning factories in the district expected to commence running tomatoes this week. Last week several factories ran tomatoes for brief periods but there was insufficient quantity to keep the plants in continuous operation.

Late setting of tomatoes, due to wet weather conditions last spring, has set the ripening period back considerably with commencement of canning operations being behind that of the normal season.

65 BEGINNERS AT ST. MICHAEL'S

Registration at St. Michael's Academy for the coming term reached a new high as 520 pupils registered this morning. Of these sixty-five were beginners.

Seventy students registered at St. Michael's High School. Total registration for both schools was 590.

PAIR ARRESTED IN THEFT OF CAR

On instructions from Chief Lavender of Marmora, local police over the holiday weekend recovered an American car which had been reported stolen. The car, a 1941 Plymouth coach bore an Illinois licence and was recovered at the rear of the McCarthy theatre early Monday morning.

Discovering the car at the rear of the theatre police on the beat correctly surmised that the party in charge of the car would shortly be returning to the vehicle. When the show was out police apprehended Dirk McCaw, Harvey Street, Peterborough, who was in charge of the car, and Wilfred Smith of Madoc. Also in the party were three girls.

McCaw and Smith were held in custody with Chief Lavender of Marmora being notified.

In the advertisement of Moira Fuels Ltd. Saturday, the price of the Honeywill Electric Janitor should have been $31.75.

POLICE CHECKING IDENTITY OF DRIVER

Quite frequently what is referred to as the meanest thief is reported in the newspapers but this concerns a motorist who might easily take first place for meanness on the part of a driver.

Over the weekend Roy Hilton, Wallbridge Road, parked his bicycle in front of a local restaurant. A bit later a motorist drove his car up to the curb the car passing over the front wheel of the bicycle. The motorist got out and took a look at the broken wheel, then got back in his car and drove away.

What possibly the motorist did not know was that a pedestrian got his number and police are checking for his identity.

NEW DECORATIONS IMPROVE APPEARANCE OF CITY COURT ROOM

The city court room above the police station today glistens with a much needed new coat of paint as decorations which have been in progress during the past few weeks have been completed. Court officials voiced their approval of the newly-decorated room as court was resumed at the regular place following decorations.

Fallen plaster in the ceiling has been repaired with the ceiling boasting a new coat of white muresco. Walls also are done in a light hue, while the color of the painted wainscotting has been lightened. Decorations were done by George Crocker, city hall caretaker.

Rural Children To be Transported To the Collegiate

Today marks the inauguration of a new school bus servise from outlying districts to Belleville Collegiate Institute.

On Saturday the first contract to transport high school pupils in South Hastings was signed in the office of Public School Inspector R. H. Macklem. Through the offices of the North Thurlow Board of Trustees arrangements have been completed to transport approximately forty pupils from North Thurlow and northwest Tyendinaga, beginning today.

The bus operator, Arthur Boldrick, Plainfield has purchased a new bus and will pick up pupils at S.S. 22 and S.S. 26 Tyendinaga; Roslin, Plainfield, Maple Leaf and Zion's Hill and will transport them free of charge to and from the B.C.I. daily.

Inspector Macklem stated today that much of the credit for the establishment of the bus service which will put the benefits of secondary education within reach of all school children in North Thurlow should go to Chairman A. E. Bates of the Board. Mr. Bates and his trustees, the inspector added, have shown by their progressive action that School Area administration brings advantages to rural children.

34 Fatalities Marred Labor Day Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

A heavy toll from automobile accidents marred the Labor Day weekend in Eastern Canada as 34 persons died violently, 24 of them in mishaps involving motorcars.

Three persons were drowning victims, two burned to death, one died as a result of a tornado and four were killed in a variety of accidents.

Seventeen of the deaths occurred in Ontario, 13 in the Maritimes and four in Quebec.

A train-bus crash at Wilmot Crossing, P.E.I., took four lives as bus driver Roy Keenan, 34, of Murray Harbor, P.E.I., and three of his passengers died when the bus collided with a freight train. Six-year-old Isobel Murray of Little Harbor, P.E.I., and Mrs. Ambrose Mitchell of New Glasgow, N.S., were killed in the crash Saturday night, and Mrs. Henry Llewellyn, Pictou, N.S., died in hospital Sunday.

Three children died near Dartmouth, N.S., Monday when the automobile in which they were riding collided with another vehicle, broke through a bridge rail and plunged into a pond. The victims were Alice Rowan, 16, Port Wallis, N.S., and Eileen Cross, 13, and her six-year-old brother Donald of Woodlawn, N.S. The driver of the car, an uncle of the Cross children, managed to jump clear.

Hit by Truck

Lewis D. Rynold, 29, of Sheffield Mills, N. S., was killed Sunday when the truck he was driving collided with an automobile on the highway between Canning and Centreville in Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley. John O'Leary, New Maryland, N. B., was fatally injured by a truck which struck him Saturday night on the road near Fredericton.

In Montreal a Rimouski, Que., couple, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Nadeau, were killed when two autos collided Sunday on a city street. In two other Montreal accidents on Monday 11-year-old John Rudel died when a truck knocked him from his bicycle and Armand LaFrance, 48, was fatally injured when he fell from one auto into the path of another.

In Ontario seven persons died in separate accidents in which their cars went out of control and landed in a ditch or overturned. The victims included James Howard Crozier, 19, who died near Brockville Saturday night; Raymond Lamb, 22, Streetsville, Ont., near Milton Saturday night; Thomas B. Fleming, 20, crushed by a truckload of lumber Saturday near Otterville; Clifford Chartrand, 32, Toronto, at Port Rowan Sunday; four-year-old Douglas Dresser of Toronto, near Dundalk Sunday; Clifford Wyonch, Wiarton, at Owen Sound Sunday, and J. T. Woodcock, Detroit, at Chatham.

Eva Mae Clarke, 31, of London, Ont., died when a tractor sideswiped her car at St. Joachim, Ont., Saturday and seven-year-old Lois Siroski was killed Saturday at Renfrew, Ont., when she was struck by a jeep.

Walter Bubiasz, 36, of Windsor, died in Windsor Saturday night after he was struck by a motorcycle and an automobile and John Lionel Lefevre, 36, suffered fatal injuries at Tillsonburg Monday when a runaway auto pinned him against a signboard.

Two drownings

There were two drowning victims in Saint John, N.B., harbor as Edward Morris, 35, Advocate, N.S., was knocked from a tug into the water by a swirling towline Saturday, and Ellen Hanley, 31, leapt into the water from a burning motor cruiser Monday.

Michael Yacko, 62, of Windsor, died in a farm blaze near Comber, Ont., Sunday night and one-year-old Burtrum McLellan of Three Mile Plains, N.S., was killed Saturday when an exploding oil stove set his home afire.

The tornado that struck eastern Ontario Saturday night claimed a victim when 12-year-old Myrna Ferguson was crushed by falling timber from an overturned barn at Coe Hill, Ont.

At nearby Bancroft, Truman Woodcox, 61, died in hospital Sunday from injuries believed to have been inflicted by a flying saw tooth which lodged in his chest.

Robert Kennedy, 53, was crushed to death at Toronto Saturday when caught in the rollers of a paper machine, and sub-Lieut. John D. MacDonald of London, England, fell to his death from a fifth-floor dowtown Toronto hotel window.

In Montreal Sunday night 15-year-old Laurier Dube was killed when he was knocked from a delivery wagon as the horse bolted.

Govt. Troops Supported By Tanks, Artillery

Quito, Ecudor, Sept. 2 (AP)—Government troops, supported by tanks and artillery, were reported today to be driving against counter - revolutionary forces south of Quito and Col. Carlos Mancheno's nine-day-old regime said insurgent resistance was "easing."

Last night Ambato radio, broadcasting the first communique issued so far by insurgent headquarters, said rebel troops were battling Mancheno's forces "in the vicinity of Ambato," a strategic rail town 80 miles south of Quito.

A radio broadcast from Ibarra, 60 miles northeast of Quito, said troops from Tulcan had arrived in Ibarra and were thrusting toward the capital. The troop garrison at Tulcan went over to the side of the anti-Macheno forces yesterday.

Troops in Quayaquil were reported to have made an abortive attempt to join the revolt but latest reports said they still were under government control and that quiet prevailed throughout the city.

Mancheno, who seized control of the government in a bloodless coup last week, abolished the constitution shortly after assuming power and declared in effect the 1906 charter, which gave him virtual dictatorial powers.

VIEWS BIG BOMBERS

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 2 (AP)—Expressing the wish that "anyone with ideas of world aggression might see this," Air Marshal Sir Hugh W. L. Saunders, Chief of the R.A.F. bomber command, exclaimed "colossal" yesterday as he viewed the B-36, largest land-based bomber in the world, at the Convair plant here. "A fleet of 100 of these planes should carry weight in any argument," he added with conviction.

Gandhi Embarks On New Fast

Calcutta, Sept. 2 (AP)—News that Mohandas K. Gandi has embarked on a new fast to continue "until sanity returns to Calcutta" spread like wild fire today through this great city, where Moslem-Hindu communal hostility erupted in a bloodshed again yseterday.

People from non-curfew areas began trekking toward Gandhi's residence shouting: "Long live Mahatma Gandhi . . . victory to the Mahatma." A spokesman in the crowd declared: "These demonstrations are a token of atonement for the violence around Ganrhi's residence Sunday night and an expression of hope that he may revoke his determiation to fast."

Police were forced to use tear gas yesterday to break up a howling Hindu mob which besieged the compound where Gandhi is living in Calcutta with the former Moslem Premier of Bengal. The crowd became unruly when Gandhi refused to emerge to look at the body of a Hindu allegedly stabbed by Moslems.

Police said the number of killings yesterday was estimated "in two figures and the injured in three figures."

Gandhi's anncuncement of his fast said:

"An urgent summons has called me to Punjab. But since the Calcutta bubble seems burst, with what face can I go to Punjab.

"The weapon which has hitherto proved infallible to me is fasting. What my word in person cannot do, my fast may.

"If my fasting touches the swarming elements of Calcutta it will do likewise in the Punjab also.

"I therefore begin fasting from 8:15 p.m. Monday and end only if and when sanity returns to Calcutta.

"As usual I would permit myself to add salt and soda bicarbonate to the water I may wish to dring during the fast."

Death and destruction which tore a five-hundred-yard swath through Eastern Ontario counties late Saturday afternoon, when a 90-second tornado ripped and slashed a twisting gash through peaceful farm and timberlands, fashioned many stories of miraculous escape from death.

The Grim Reaper, riding a spiralling funnel of twisting cloud, illuminated by darting rapier-like flashes of lightning, vented his tornado wrath mainly on homes, buildings and property. He struck once, savagely, when eleven-year-old Myrna Ferguson, Coe Hill, had her skull crushed by a flying piece of timber. She died instantly.

The grandmother of the dead girl, Mrs. Harvey Neal, who lost her home and all her possessions, tells a graphic story of her experience during the storm.

Saw Storm Approaching

"Myrna was in the kitchen with me helping to dry the dishes," Mrs. Neal recalled. "I looked out and saw the storm. I said to her, 'The barn is going to be blown over'. I closed the doors and windows in the house and then saw the men (her husband and two sons) running to the house. The front door blew open and I rushed to shut it. That is the last I remember.

"When I recovered I was lying face down on the ground where the door had left me. The floor itself was gone and I was trapped under a beam. My shoes were gone . . . we found the little girl amid the wreckage."

Just a few yards away from the Neal house stood that of the Fred Marshall family. His five children were all injured while Marjorie Peacock, a guest, was blown with his daughters, Jean and Merle from the top storey of the house to the top of a hill 100 yards away.

Carried by Wind

"I saw it coming," Marshall said. "It seemed to roll over and over and carried trees, roots and all, at least 200 feet in the air. I suddenly found myself flying through the air. I crashed into the branches of an elm tree fifty feet away and when I came around there was nothing left of the house. . . . The stove is away back in the bush. My car was wrecked and there isn't enough left of the house to start a fire.

Mrs. George Parks, wife of a service station owner at Robinson Lake, two miles on the Coe Hill road off Highway 62, lives today to tell the story of a narrow brush with death.

She was standing in the kitchen of her home when the tornado struck. Suddenly, the trunk of a tree six inches in diameter drove through the west wall of the house, crashing through the frame structure. In Mrs. Parks' arms was a young baby.

Miraculously the tree trunk stopped just as it struck Mrs. Parks' side. She escaped with painful bruises. The baby was unhurt.

The Parks' home was twisted partially out of shape by the spiralling action of the tornado. It will have to be demolished and rebuilt. A cabin owned by Parks on Robinson Lake, disappeared into air as the storm struck. An ice house is missing.

An unidentified minister who was staying in a tent near Spring Lake a few hundred yards away, is wondering today how he missed the destruction. His tent was untouched, as the tornado levelled property in the vicinity.

TED GREEN, PARTNER OF KINGSTON HIGH AT BOWLING TOURNEY

Forty-two mixed doubles teams, a very creditable entry, played in the tournament staged at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club greens on Labor Day. The rinks came from every club in the district and the competition was exceptionally keen with the greens in fine condition and the weather ideal for bowling.

Ted Green and his partner from Kingston won the Queen's Hotel trophy and first prize for the high three-game total with Fred Mallory and Mrs. William Whitty from Stirling winning the Tip Top trophy and second prize. Fred Harper and Mrs. Charles Mott was third three-game high.

Wilfrid Price and Mrs. Price also from the local club won the two-game high total with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyde winning the one-game high. The visitors expressed their appreciation of the enjoyable time tendered by the local club.

Sawmill Worker Dies of Injuries; Inquest Ordered

Bancroft, (Special.)—Truman Woodcox, resident of the town line Faraday Township, age 61, who was employed at Wesley Bier-Worths' Mill, Dungannon township, was injured Friday when it is believed saw tooth broke off a circular saw lodging in his chest. He was admitted to the Bancroft Red Cross hospital and attended by Dr. S. S. Lumb, of Bancroft. His condition did not improve and he passed away at the hospital Sunday evening.

Owing to the nature of the injury and the fact that the fatality was caused by an accident in the sawmill an inquest has been ordered on principle by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan which will be held at Bancroft at a later date not yet decided upon.

Mr. Woodcox leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, Caroline; four daughters and two sons at home and one married daughter.

POST-WAR

Many of the remaining peoples of Europe and Asia live under the shadow of armed aggression."

European economic recovery had lagged because of "political fear and uncertainty in addition to the devastation caused by war."

He laid down a four-point American foreign policy under which he said the United States will pursue the quest for peace with no less persistence and no less determination "than we applied to the quest for military victory."

The Points:

1. Under the Marshall plan, the United States intends to do its best "to provide economic help to those who are prepared to help themselves and each other." The United States is prepared to do everything it can within safe limits, that will be helpful and effective."

2. Fidelity to the United Nations. "We shall not forget out obligations under the charter, nor shall we permit others to forget theirs."

3. In carrying out its obligations to achieve world stability and peace, the United States is determined "to remain strong."

4. The problems of countries in the Western Hemisphere are different in nature from those of Europe and cannot be relieved by the same means, but "will be approached by us with the utmost good faith and with increased vigor in the coming period."

Truman's address highlighted the closing session of the conference at which delegates have hammered out unprecedented defence pact binding the American republics to joint action in case of armed attack on any peaceable country in the hemisphere. Canada has been invited to sign the pact later.

Signing of the treaty by the 19 participating powers, in President Truman's presence, was arranged for this afternoon.

CAMPERS' SPECIAL

The Special, Winnipeg-bound from Lake of the Woods resorts, was carrying an estimated 750-850 passengers when it crashed into the Transcontinental at about a 35-mile clip. In the wild confusion which followed no one is sure who survived, who died, and while the C.N.R. issued a statement at dawn it contained no additional information.

Burst Into Flames

The second baggage car—the first was the only steel coach on the train—burst into flames at the impact, the following coaches split their couplings, sprawled crazily along the right of way and one by one caught fire.

So did a nearby grain elevator and oil storage tanks. Boiling paint ran down the sides of the one steel coach. Flames shot skyward for hundreds of feet; oil tanks exploded. The intense heat quickly drove back the survivors and the passengers of the Transcontinental—where only minor injuries were suffered—as they tried desperately to reach the trapped.

Telephone operators summoned ambulances, doctors, police and firemen from Winnipeg, St. Boniface and Transcona but there was little they could do except pick up the injured who had already crawled or been helped to safety.

Hundreds of automobiles, their occupants drawn by the sirens and the red glare, visible for six miles, sped to the scene. The spectators saw both locomotives locked together, the baggage car of the Transcontinental raised partly over the tender ahead, flaming passenger coaches and debris. They heard the screams of the hurt and trapped.

The stories of the survivors were similar. They had been talking, card-playing or dozing when the crash came. They fought their way out or were pulled out by the more fortunate. Scores did not know how they had lived.

All Playing Bridge

G. A. Stone, Bob Creighton, Nora Paterson and Belle McIntyre, all of Winnipeg—most of the Special's passengers were from the Winnipeg area—were playing bridge when "all of a sudden there was a lurch as though we were braking fast," Stone said.

"Then came a jar which threw the two girls on top of us. The table just seemed to disappear and the lights went out. The car left the rails and one end went into the ditch.

"A bolt of flame, like an electric flash, came right through the car and then the car caught fire. I don't know how we got out the window but we did. I saw one girl lying on the right of way with her arm cut off as clean as if it had been done with scapel.

"Our coach burned slowly but the one behind seemed to go up like a flash. I don't know how the people there fared. Outside, the flames lit up the scene just like daylight. People were running around looking for their friends and screaming but there was not what you'd call panic.

"We were certainly lucky. Nora found two-four-leafed clovers yesterday, strange to say."

Two Canadian Army men—Sgt. A. G. Clark and Pte. E. H. Tutt of Toronto, bound home on leave, pulled at least eight persons to safety; a passenger on the special, Charles E. Taylor of Vancouver, said he and another man had run to the front of the train after the crash, had kicked in a door of the leading coach and rescued four or five before the heat drove him away.

He said he had seen the bodies of two women with their heads torn off.

Carried on Sign

Taylor and two nurses—Joyce Rutherford and June Wallace—did what they could for the injured.

Then, he said, he noticed a man lying beside the locomotive. "We looked for something to carry him on and the only thing we could find was the station sign. We tore it off, placed him on it and carried him that way to a truck we had stopped."

Others said the man probably was engineer Lewis who died on his way to the hospital.

At one time four light aircraft from the Winnipeg Flying Club were standing by to transport the injured but plans to use them were cancelled when it was found all possible emergency fields were covered with grain. One plane actually did land but it remained at the scene.

A railway police cordon, thrown about the scene of the wreck, kept back hundreds of spectators who had driven there.

That highway sign "School—Slow" took on new meaning this morning for thousands of motorists throughout the country as schools opened their doors for the commencement of the fall term. Caution was redoubled as every road led the hurrying steps of school pupils back to their books and classrooms for another year of study and play.

The undercurrent of excitement that heralds the return to school began several days ago. Mothers and fathers told their young sons and daughters of the wonders to be beheld and experienced at school. Then came the added thrill of a shopping trip downtown where junior was made to feel like a cabinet minister as parents, shop keepers, clerks, policemen, and bus drivers, catered to his every whim. A new school bag in various shades of brown and black allayed any suspicion that school is not a place where the youngster reigns supreme — well almost.

And then there was the trip to the barber shop for the boys. The long tangles of hair that floated about the little heads were unmercifully cropped and the little tykes descended from the seat of the mighty looking like a miniature business executive a trifle uncertain of his stock. There was a slight puffing of the chest as the gentlemen realized they were starting on a great adventure.

Then comes the eventful morning. Mother is up bright and early getting breakfast; our hero is well wrapped as he sits at the table; the comb is ever busy; the wash cloth is constantly dabbing; shoes are given an extra polish; and junior is on his way. Father or mother accompany the beginner to school where hundreds of other boys and girls are cavorting with more or less abandon. He feels a bit out of place amongst all these people and then he sees his pal Johnny. Well, things aren't so bad at that. Soon he finds that several of his playmates are starting too and all the strangeness disappears. This looks as though it might be fun.

In high school the story is much the same with the cast considerably older and taller. The shy nervousness of the ninth graders contrasts sharply with the studied carelessness of the veteran thirteenth graders. Old friends renew acquaintancehips which were somehow allowed to lapse during the summer vacation. Holidays are talked over gloatingly. Camps, far away cities, strange names and strange places, are spoken of with a familiarity that bespeaks the traveller.

Assembly Opens

Then the bell rings and everyone hurries to the assembly room, crowded this year to capacity. The principal stands up and a hush falls over the hall. The familiar exercises are quickly over and then the teachers are introduced. All the old friends of former terms and all the future friends are received with warm enthusiasm.

Off to register! You file out of the assembly hall and enter the classroom which will be home away from home for the next ten months. You meet your form master— a harsh name that belies the sterling person that he or she is. You pick up the timetable and work out your own particular adjustments. Then the list of textbooks is posted and the class dismissed.

Downtown comes a book-hungry crowd that swamps the available facilities. Texts, pencils, pens, note paper, scribblers, loose leaf books, crayons, erasers rulers, mathematical sets and drawing equipment, disappear as quickly as busy clerks can pass it out. Everyone hurries here and there in orderly fashion. The excitement is contagious. You see it, you feel it, you can't escape it, because it is everywhere. School is going in again.

Fined for Swearing Over the Telephone

New Season of Activity

Today marks the beginning of another season of work and effort for hundreds of thousands of Canadians. The holiday period is over, all too short to be sure, but still most have benefited by the rest and recreation with no thoughts of the work-a-day life that has been our portion since the previous year.

Schools are again in session and for thousands of youngsters an entirely new life will have begun for them in their first day of school. From now on their days will be filled with the duties that go with studies and they will learn the discipline of the class room which is so different to what they have been accustomed in their homes. And we think most mothers will heave a sigh of relief now that some of their responsibilities have been shifted to other shoulders.

The coming of Autumn opens an entirely new vista of life which in Canada is one of the most pleasant of the year. Bright sparkling days, cool evenings with a tang in the air that is peculiar to this great season, make it for many the most pleasurable time of year.

This Canada of ours is a wonderful country. We are blessed with a plenitude of the good things of life which are available to all who will make the necessary effort to acquire them. We have freedom of action which is denied to those who live in most other countries and we enjoy a standard of living that is one of the highest in the world. We are, indeed, a favored people.

So at this period of the year when we garner the fruits of the field and the orchards and start our preparation for the harsher months of the year we should pause and give thought and thanks to a kind Providence who has made all this possible. Sometimes we are somewhat careless about taking all our blessings for granted.

Food Parcels to Britain

According to a recent statement by the Post Office Department the flow of private parcel shipments to the United Kingdom has greatly increased in the past few months. It stated that shipments so far this year had outstripped the 1946 figures of 15,000,000 pounds.

In view of the latest restrictions placed in force by the British Government the shipments of food are likely to show increases even over the heavy shipments of the first six months of this year.

Canadians, who have relatives and friends in the Old Country, should continue their gifts of food and even increase them. Letters received here expressing thanks for food gifts emphasize the fact that nothing is more welcome than a parcel containing chocolate bars, canned meat, cooking fats, canned fruit and even certain cosmetic articles for the feminine members of the family. Above all, make sure that the contents of the parcel are securely packed. We heard of one case where a portion of the contents was spoiled by the breakage of a package of soap flakes.

Parcel post rates are 25 cents for the first pound with a 15 cents rise up to nine pounds. The tenth pound costs an additional five cents. Thus, for a ten-pound parcel the shipper pays $1.50. On parcels over ten pounds and up to fifteen pounds the cost is now $2.00. Over fifteen pounds and up to twenty pounds the rate has been reduced to $2.50.

So act now and bring some measure of comfort to those fine people overseas in their time of need. It will pay big dividends.

Taxing Childlessness

Enforced state separation of husband and wife is bad enough, but when the Government which separates them decides to tax the wives on the ground of their "childlessness," the situation gets worse. Yet this is what is happening to the young Russian girls who married young Britishers and have been refused exit permits to join their husbands in England.

The tax is not a discriminatory tax. It is imposed on all Soviet citizens over the age of 20 (in the case of students, 23) and it represents an amount of about £50 a year. But the obvious unfairness of taxing these separated wives goes without saying.

Not many women are involved in this curious predicament and there is, in the world, much greater human suffering than theirs. But their plight throws strong light on the savage determination of the Kremlin to reduce to a minimum every aspect of life which would increase the understanding and co-operation between the U.S.S.R. and the rest of the world. The cruelty of the ruling is not its least objectionable feature, comments the Montreal Star.

What would it matter to a nation of 175 millions that a handful of its citizens should marry and go to live abroad? But Stalin says "No," and the ruling is inflexible. Vishinsky, one of his foreign commissars, half jokingly said the reason was that "women talk too much." The jest was in itself revealing. Behind it, however, is the stern insistence of the Soviet that its citizens shall stay at home, work hard for the component state, and have nothing to do with foreigners.

So this handful of unhappy, separated wives, stay in Russia because they cannot get out, and their husbands send them from England the £50 a year one must pay the state for the privilige of remaining childless.

Contrasting Attitudes

Many a veteran this year has received a form letter from the Income Tax Department, pointing out that in the excitement of enlisting and so on he forgot the small matter of cleaning up his income tax before going off to fight a war. At the bottom of the form was typed in the amount claimed by the Department to be still owing.

It's an honest debt, as most veterans will agree. The Sault Star comments that many a chap, as he enlisted, decided to postpone tax payments, if only on the chance he would not be around to be dunned when the shooting was over. It was a grim gamble. However, as the Star concludes, the Income Tax Department has the memory of an elephant and the tenacity of a Mountie.

Many an ex-serviceman will ponder as does the Stratford Beacon-Herald — on the contrast between the government's insistence on its income tax pound of flesh, and its paternal attitude toward draft dodging and desertion by zombies. It's a curious commentary on the official attitude that a man who refused to accept the most serious responsibility of citizenship—defence of his country in a time of war—should be graciously pardoned once the shooting was over, while the man who voluntarily accepted that responsibility should be dunned for a few dollars he forgot to pay six or seven years ago.—Woodstock Sentinel Review.

New York's Civilized Canines

An acquaintance of ours was hailing a taxi at the corner of Park and Sixtieth one recent afternoon when a large English bulldog, promenading in the custody of a chauffeur, and a French poodle, held in check by a uniformed maid, suddenly went for each other, tugging at their leashes and raising an unearthly racket of barks and snarls. According to our man, an apartment-house doorman hurried up to them and called out, "Gentlemen, please!" whereupon the two dogs fell silent and went off in opposite directions without so much as a backward glance.—The New Yorker Magazine.

A Question of Identity

When he was in America a number of years ago, Wu Ting Fang, the great Chinese diplomat, met an American woman at a reception. She did not know who he was, and she asked him sweetly, "What 'nese' are you Japanese, Javanese or Chinese?"

"I'm Chinese," replied Dr. Wu, and then he continued, "What 'kee' are you—monkey, donkey or Yankee?"—Wall Street Journal.

ADVICE TO HER

You shouldn't marry if you think
That never cross he'll be
And shout: "Where didya hide the ink?"
As if a bear were he.
Though now he rises from his chair
When you come in the room,
He'll cease to notice you are there
Soon after he's a groom.

You shouldn't marry if you're not
Prepared to see him change,
With habits you'll dislike a lot,
Both troublesome and strange.
Though perfect now he seems to be,
Time strains the rarest bloom;
And all his faults you'll plainly see
Soon after he's a groom.

Make sure your love can stand the test
All faithful wives must meet—
Which is to share both worst and best
And patiently stay and sweet.

Though love the wooer much exalts,
Expect some days of gloom;
For every man uncovers faults
Soon after he's a groom.

TWISTER CUTS

Glen Beggs, an occupant of the Campbell house which was ripped off its foundations, flung into the air and twisted into bits, lived to tell of the twister lifting a woodshed some distance from the house. It disappeared into the funnel of the twister and seconds later the storm struck the home lifting the Campbell family and Beggs with it. Campbell and his wife and three children were slightly injured and were unconscious when found by rescuers.

Twisted victims of the tornado's fury were the home of Ernest Anderson occupied by himself and his wife and the barn of a brother, Jack Anderson, living nearby. The barn disappeared as if by magic, as the demolition-dealing storm struck with all its savage power.

Continuing its path the twister levelled a stand of timber at Paudash twisting off large trees as though they were tooth picks. Birch trees twelve inches in diameter lay by their jagged stumps twisted off by the storm.

Service Station Struck

Roaring along in an easterly direction, the twister struck at the service station of George Parks at Spring Lake, fourteen miles south of Bancroft. It ripped the roof off the building, hurled it, a smashed twisted wreck, a distance of 100 yards, then freakishly drew an automobile from the garage and flung it atop the roof wreckage. Lace curtains torn from the windows were driven into crash apertures of the wrecked building as expertly as if they had been put there by a human hand.

From this point the twister vented its fury on the home of Foster McKelligan. It tore the building from its foundation smashing the partitions and leaving the home a demolished wreck.

Crosses Spring Lake

Crossing Spring Lake on its tour of construction, the storm ripped through weeded country, levelling trees and causing a complete disruption of railway services between Trenton and Bancroft. Fallen trees and other debris lined the tracks for considerable distance. Bell telephone lines were ripped down, causing a complete stoppage of this communication to Bancroft.

Dr. S. R. Beatty, Madoc physician, who was one of the first medical men on the scene, told a dramatic story of the harrowing experiences of some of the victims. "The storm struck so quickly", he told newspapermen, "that no one seemed to know what happened. The scene was one of utter demolition. Houses, buildings and trees lay in twisted masses, with wreckage strewn all over the countryside. You could easily tell the path of the storm. It looked as though a giant bulldozer had ripped a path across the countryside.

Smashed to Ground.

He was told by one of the survivors, Dr. Beatty said, that "I was lying on the floor when the storm struck. I felt the house sway. When I woke up the only thing I saw was some boards being blown up in the air high above the trees. The wind tore at the house, lifted it up and smashed it on the ground."

At Gooderham village where the tornado struck in its initial force, the C.N.R. station was wrecked, three persons injured and three cottages hurled across the Pine River in the brief two-minute visitation of the storm.

The train had scarcely pulled in when the storm fiend struck. The crew dashed for shelter and even as they did the roof of the station was ripped off in a thunderous roar. It crashed down on the stationery train, rolling five box cars off the tracks. Splintered glass showered over passengers as coach windows staved in. Then the tornado swept back to the station wrecking it beyond repair.

Jammed in Station.

Mrs. A. Carmichael, station master, was in the building with her daughter, Fay, of Lindsay, when the terror of the skies swooped down in all its power. They were jammed in the station as the building "suddenly went out of shape." The entire rear and side of an express shed east of the Carmichael living quarters entirely disappeared. They tried to get out of the station but were imprisoned by piles of debris which jammed the doors. Trainmen eventually rescued the two women. Mrs. Carmichael suffered a cut finger. Her daughter escaped with slight injuries.

The station is completely wrecked and the Carmichael family have taken temporary quarters in a box car.

Sites of the wrecked cottages dot the other side of the Pine River. Tall pines and cedars which line the bank are now nothing but stripped poles. Many fell across the highway but were later removed.

An agricultural hall near the station where the townsfolk used to hold exhibitions has entirely disappeared as has a barn owned by John McColl, farmer living one mile west of the village.

One Tree on Another

The freak of nature of the tornado is evidenced in tops of barns blown off with hay spilled all over the countryside. In one place the top of a tall elm was ripped from the trunk. The storm, in grim humor, tore off the top of a large balsam tree and deposited it on the elm.

Some of the injured were unrecognizable when they were taken to Bancroft Hospital. They were caked with mud, blood and dirt. The skin was torn in almost its entirety from the faces of several victims. One woman had a large piece of lumber driven clear through the calf of her leg. A brood sow died from the effects of a piece of plank driven through its body. A tea-kettle was seen hanging precariously from its perch high atop a tall tree. Clothing, pieces of furniture dot the foliage of many trees just off the path of the storm.

Cars Jam Highways

It was estimated that 1,000 cars filled with the curious jammed the highways leading to the path of the storm on Sunday afternoon. Yesterday, all roads leading to the desolated areas were filled with queues of cars en route to the scene.

On Sunday augmented detachments of provincial police were sent to the scene of the damage and maintained order.

Provincial Police Constable Jack Hatch, Madoc, was one of the first to arrive on the scene. "You would have to see the damage to actually believe what happened," he said. He told of one house carried 150 feet from its foundation and then smashed to pieces. There was not a piece of furniture left. All kitchen and other furniture was blown out. Yet in the cellar, jars of preserves stood in orderly array as though nothing had happened.

Storm Hits Mazinaw

The storm roared over Lake Mazinaw north of Highway No. 41. Messrs. Bill Brown and Claude Tice, and their wives, of this city who spent the weekend on the lake told of wholesale destruction caused by the twister.

"When we reached the head of the lake about 11 p.m. Saturday night, 25 Department of Highways workers were clearing a path of twisted trees and debris from the highway, said a member of the party. In one spot approximately 85 feet spruce, pine and birch trees were uprooted and flung a distance of 50 yards, and deposited on the opposite side of the highway. Workers hewed a path through piled timber to clear a way for traffic." The path destroyed was between one-quarter to one-half mile wide.

Dwight Brown, farmer residing near the lake said that about 5:45 p.m. Saturday saw a dark funnel whirling and twisting in the sky. Leaves and other debris formed an umbrella high in the sky.

"As I looked," Brown said, "the funnel dipped and twisted in to the lake. It struck the opposite shore and I could see a path hundreds of yards wide practically cleared of timber as the tornado struck. It tore through the trees while branches, limbs and leaves were whirled in all directions."

CONVERSATIONAL SPRAY

Please explain in your column what is the "conversational spray to which you refer from time to time, also how to overcome it.

It is the danger against which surgeons, assistants, nurses and attendants wear masks—the danger that their quiet conversational spray may infect the wound. If no one present in the operating room ever spoke, sneezed or coughed face masks would be unnecessary.

Nowadays nearly everyone, except a few doctors, teachers and business executives, knows it is not only impolite but dangerous to spray persons who happen to be within range of cough or sneeze spray. If you have an elementary conception of good manners or good hygiene you will naturally try to avoid being caught a second time across the desk, counter, lunch or bridge table from the boor who spatters the environment with the mouth or nose spray of open face coughing or sneezing.

Well, child, that is all right so far as it goes. At least it is a gesture towards good behavior which shows you are not quite so ignorant as Mr. and Mrs. Spatterall assumes you must be else you wouldn't take it uncomplainingly the second time. But that's all it is, a mere gesture. So far as hygiene is concerned it protects your hetalth about as much as watching only buses and trucks when crossing the street and paying no attention to the heaps and chattel mortgages would protect your safety.

I have no absolute proof of the truth of this, no more than there is for the idea that cough and sneeze spray is dangerous, but I believe the spray of ordinary polite or quiet conversation is just as likely to carry respiratory infection as the spray of open-face cough or sneeze is. Conversational spray is identical with open-face sneeze or cough spray, consisting of particles of moisture, particles or droplets which may or may not contain the germs or virus of disease. The only difference is that, whereas sneeze or cough spray ordinarily carries up to ten or twelve feet, conversational spray has a shorter range, seldom over five feet, ordinarily two or three feet.

A picture widely published in magazines not long ago purported to be a high speed photograph of an open-face sneeze, showing graphically what the possibilities may be when a person with Cri (any of the Common respiratory infections) — call it Kree or C-R-I as you prefer—goes about distributing samples like that.

I shall not risk boring readers by repeating the list of diseases commonly spread via conversational spray. The list includes measles, diphtheria, infantile paralysis etc.

If you are still with me, may I not add one more unpleasant truth: Not only the visible droplets but the invisibly fine droplets—microscopic—may contain the germs or virus of disease. Therefore the mere fact that you do not feel the impact or see the spatter coming is no assurance that your vis-a-vis will not get you just the same, selah.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Bed Wetter

Son 17, just graduated from high school, wants to enter college, but still wets the bed. (D.P.H.)

Answer — A good many boys in their late 'teens required special training to correct bed-wetting after they entered the army or navy in the war. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for pamphlet on the Habit of Bed-Wetting—ask in writing.

Seven Year Myth

Please state just what parts of of the human body regenerate or rejuvenate every seven years. (S.G.)

Answer — That notion is as groundless as the "seven-year" itch. The itch (scabies—pronounced as a three-syllable word —ska-bi-eeze) last from a few hours to a few days, according to the accuracy and promptness of diagnosis and the skill and thoroughness of treatment. Body cell and tissues are being constantly renewed, some more slowly than others. No one can estimate whether complete renewal of a given tissue or organ requires weeks, months or years.

Incredible

I owe you a great debt of gratitude for your wonderful little book "Training for Diabetes." It meant nothing less than the salvation of our son (E.J.W.)

Answer — This a read (and) reread) letter day here. It is a long, long while since anyone has gone to all the trouble of writing just to says thanks. Thank you, sir.

Any spirited young man has no fear for the future. He's determined to "get some place" and earn a good income.

That's as it should be. But experience shows that the men who have built up estates on the firmest foundation are those who steadfastly invested part of each year's earnings in life insurance.

For years they and their dependents have enjoyed the peace of mind that comes from financial security. Mortgages have been paid off and children educated. Now these men are taking life easy.

What of yourself? What do you plan to be worth in 1977?

Bus Driver Dies From Killer Type Infantile Paralysis

Toronto, Sept. 2. (CP) — Undertaker assistants dressed in gowns, caps and gloves like surgeons in an operating room, yesterday removed from Toronto Isolation Hospital the body of Preston Peeber, 27-year-old Orillia, Ont., bus driver who died of bulbar, the "killer type" of infantile paralysis.

The body was taken directly to the cemetery without embalming and only a graveside service read. The dead man's English war bride and their two-year-old daughter, Sandra, were unable to attend the services because they were quarantined in their home at Orillia where Peeber became ill a week ago. The unusual precautions were taken to prevent spread of the disease.

Peeber's mother left her home in Commanda near North Bay early last week and also was quarantined. In Bulbar polio the virus invades the brain cavity.

70,000 RETURN TO WORK

Detroit, Sept. 2 —(CP)— Some 70,000 General Motors employees will return to work today after layoffs of one to seven days due to the steel shortage, it was announced yesterday. At Flint 13,700 are due to return to work, 8,600 will resume at the Detroit Chevrolet plants and the others will be back at plants scattered throughout the U.S.

Reporter Not Barred From Court

Edmonton, Sept. 2. (CP)— Attorney-General Lucien Maynard in a prepared statement issued here Saturday said that former Police Magistrate Arthur Beamont of Lethbridge, did not bar a reporter of the Lethbridge Herald from his court room.

The statement said investigation showed that the reporter had been requested to leave the Magistrate's private office. It added that Mr. Beaumont had not refused to allow the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to bring their cases into the city police court room.

The Attorney-General reported there was no friction between the R.C.M.P. and Mr. Beaumont but because of the difference between Mr. Beaumont Lethbridge's Police Commission, Mr. Beaumont's resignation had been accepted.

Washington, Aug. 30 — (AP) — An attempt to "cool" the fury of a tropical hurricane by dropping dry ice into it will be made by the United States Army and Navy during the current storm season, Capt. Gromyko Charges U.S. Seeking Atomic Monopoly Lake Success, Aug. 30. (AP) — The Soviet Union yesterday charged once more that the United States is seeking a world-wide monopoly on atomic energy.

In a long-awaited declaration delegate Andrei A. Gromyko also rejected a series of six papers approved by a majority of the United Nations atomic energy commission. The documents, which Russia refused to help draft and on which she had not committed herself until now, deal with constituting and running an international atomic control agency.

Gromyko told the committee that every statement by the United States "convinces us" that the United States is seeking a monopoly.

He said the papers seek to project the interests of one country by securing a monopoly for that country in atomic energy.

Gromyko hurled the monopoly charge at the United States for the first time last Spring. It was met then by a snappy reply and denial from Warren R. Austin, United States delegate. Frederick H. Osborn did not reply yesterday but indicated he would study Gromyko's speech carefully.

Gromyko said the six papers, on which various sub-committees have worked for three months, were extensions of the original United States plan presented in June 1946, by Bernard M. Daruch and which the Soviet Union repeatedly has refused to accept.

His statement made clear that the wide disagreement between Russia and the United States remained unchanged. It also made clear that the second report of the atomic commission to the Security Council, due Sept. 15, would not have Russia's approval.

The committee is in the final stages of drawing up the report, to be based on these papers. It expects to meet steadily next week in an effort to have the report finished before Sept. 10 but delegates were not optimistic on that point. The full commission must give final approval.

After hearing Gromyko, Richard Miles, Britain said there was no point in trying to rewrite the papers to "accommodate" the Soviet Union.

H. R. Wei, China said this second report would be better than the first, last December on which Gromyko refused to vote. Wei said this report would have a section devoted to minority views while the first report contained only the ideas of a majority of 10 members of the 12-member commission.

New Decontrol Measures Expected to be Made Within Next Few Weeks Says Ottawa

Ottawa, Sept. 2 (CP) —A government statement outlining new decontrol measures, perhaps the last of the six-year-old war-induced stabilization program, is expected in unofficial circles to be made some time within the next few weeks.

It is considered likely that as well as announcing the dropping of most of the price ceilings still remaining that this statement also will give some clue as to the final wind-up of the Prices Board, the finance department agency which enforced the price ceiling policy.

Word of the final disbandment of the Prices Board has been expected for some weeks and when it does come it is expected to report that the few remaining functions of the board will be turned over to another finance department devision.

There is a possibility that the latest decontrol move will include the lifting of price ceilings probably effective around Oct. 1, of ceilings on the major cut still under control. Ceilings also will come off many other goods and services.

Controls are expected to continue on sugar — both as to price and the nation — and on rentals. If the decision is taken to disband the Prices Board, these likely will be the two major control measures still left to turn to other finance divisions.

John Hackett, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for the Quebec constituency of Stanstead, is scheduled to be elected president of the Canadian Bar Association when it meets here next week.

Mr. Hackett, prominent Montreal lawyer and now Dominion Vice-President of the association will get the post unless a change in election procedure is decided upon.

It is customary for the Dominion vice-president to move into the presidency. He will replace Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court who was elected president last year.

The elections are scheduled to take place next Friday after five days of discussions on a wide range of legal matters.

Woman Suffering From Starvation

Winnipeg, Sept. 2. (CP)— City Police Sunday night rescued from her Arlington Street home an aged woman, suffering from starvation and exposure, who is believed to have locked herself in because she feared eviction.

She now is in hospital.

A neighbor said someone bought the house a few weeks ago and served an eviction notice on Mrs. Stephens, who said she "wasn't going to move and wasn't going to let anyone into the house".

Needless to say, Lantigen "E" will again be used next year, as I found no ill effects, but definite relief.

"Who wants to help me with the dishes?"

Miss Ethel Patterson, 47, John St., Kingston, writes: "I like Super Suds fine for all washing ... silks, rayons, cottons and woollens, It makes them soft, clean and white and my colored things look just like new. Super Suds makes the dishes sparkle and it's very easy on the hands."

Thank you, Miss Patterson, for your grand letter. You see, Super Suds is Concentrated. Super Suds actually gives you far more washing-power, which means sudsier, longer-lasting suds, for easier and quicker washdays. And Super Suds costs no more than ordinary washday soap.

GUY LOMBARDO DRIVES IN RACE AND WINS HEAT

Herb Mendelson's Craft, Notre Dame, Wins Famous Silver Trophy

Detroit, Sept. 2 — (AP)—Canadian-born Guy Lombardo, driving as a guest pilot, sent Miss Great Lakes of Detroit over the Silver Cup speed boat course on the Detroit River yesterday at an average speed of 71.218 miles an hour to capture the second 45-mile heat of the race from Herb Mendelson's Notre Dame, another Detroit craft.

Lombardo, a native of London, Ont., who was unable to enter his Tempo VI in the race because of engine trouble, had the satisfaction of beating Notre Dame, but the trophy went to Mendelson's craft on points. Notre Dame, winner of the first heat last Saturday, finished with a total of 700 points.

Second place on points went to Ernie Wilson's Miss Canada III, of Ingersoll, Ont., which finished fourth in today's heat; third place to Lou Fageol's So Long of Kent, Ohio, while Great Lakes, which did not finish Saturday, accumulated only 400 points for fourth place in the final standing for the two 45-mile heats.

Danny Foster, whose Miss Peps V, of Detroit, Gold Cup winner this year, was forced out of Saturday's first heat, made an heroic bid for today's heat, but after leading for 16 miles, during which he pushed his craft up to 75.675 miles an hour, he was forced out by engine trouble.

Bandleader Lombardo, who had been pressing Notre Dame for second place, overtook the big white Mendelson craft and on the fifth time around the 4½-mile course went into first place and held it to the end.

JERSEY GIANTS ONLY ONE GAME BEHIND ROYALS

Montreal Has the Advantage in That Team Has Two More Games Than Jersey City to Play

(By The Associated Press)

Time is running out on Jersey City Giants in their battle to overhaul the International League's Montreal Royals.

Brilliant pitching by Jake Wade and Hub Andrews enabled the Giants to take a twin bill from Newark Bears 5-0 and 6-3 Monday while the Royals divided a doubleheader with Buffalo Bisons.

Wade scattered nine hits in turning in his 16th win and his second straight shutout over the Bears while Andrews gave up 7 in notching his 12th.

The Royals turned back the Bisons 6-5 in a 10 innings with Dick Whitman's fourth hit of the game breaking up the struggle but Walt Pierce tamed the league-leaders 3-0 in the seven-inning finale on three safeties.

Syracuse's third-place Chiefs took both ends of a bargain encounter from Baltimore Orioles 5-2 and 3-2. Hank Hauer broke up the nightcap by belting his 49th home in the ninth inning to snap a 2-2 tie.

Howie Moss of the Orioles clouted his 51st of the season in the first game to remain two circuit drives ahead of Sauer in their battle for home-run honors.

Jim Konstanty set the Wings down on five hits in the initial game while Jock Thompson yielded three blows in the seven-inning nightcap. Gene Desautels singled home Fred Chapman with the only run of the lid-lifter and Austin Knickerbocker singled to one run of the windup.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 2 — (AP) — Jeanette MacDonald is mixing a career in opera because she wants another try at the movies.

The red-haired soprano is happy with her return to the screen in "The Birds and the Bees" and said she wants to do more.

"For the first time, I play myself. In the past, I always portrayed a flighty young thing who didn't know what was coming around the corner. But I'm not 'Naughty Marietta' any more."

The movies "require more of my youth" and that's why she wants to stay here to renew her film career. Since a year or more is required to learn each opera, she will let that wait until later. She reported that MGM has a couple of deals cooking for her.

At Last!

Clark Gable has finally seen "Gone with the Wind." At the world premiere in Atlanta he was so weary from the civic celebration that he put his feet up on the railing before the front row and slept right through the picture.

When it came to the premiere here, his wife, the late Carole Lombard, said she didn't want to sit through the four-hour show again. So they walked though the crowds, down the aisle and right out the back exit. Recently a friend arranged a showing and invite Clark. "Good picture," he comments.

Around the Lots

Ronald Reagan will accompany Jane Wyman to "Johnny Belin" locations at Fort Bragg in Northern California, even though he isn't in the picture . . . Hep cats will be happy to hear that Woody Herman is getting back into the band business . . . Economy note: "Stations West" now is called "Station West" . . .

Pete Lawford, who started out to be a dramatic actor, dances with Judy Garland and Cyd Charisse in "Easter Parade" . . . Claudette Colbert will wear long skirts in "State of the Union," so I guess it's official . . . John Lund, Sonny Tufts and Steve Cochran raised a lot of cash for the cancer fund at the Tahoe Village Hotel...

Brief Review

"Song of the Thin Man" (MGM) is apparently the swan song for the sleuthing Nick Charleses and it is an okay bow-out for them. This time William Powell and Myrna Loy try to trace down a murderer on a gambling ship. The proceedings could be more sparkling, but there are enough fast talk action and swing music to offset the dull spots.

AT THE CAPITOL—Jeanne Crain gazes worshipfully at her handsome French teacher, Glenn Langan, who is lecturing her on her in attention to studies. Lynn Bari seems to find the situation amusing. Jeanne is starred with Langan and Miss Bari in Twentieth Century-Fox's nostalgic Technicolor comedy, "Margie," which is now at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program also in Technicolor "Cobra Woman," starring Maria Montez.

Cards' Flag Hopes Brighten, Those of Red Sox Flicker, In Major Loop Stretch Drive

Dodgers' Margin Cut to 6½ Games but Odds Still Against Red Birds

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The flag hopes of the St. Louis Cardinals brightened considerably today while those of Boston Red Sox flickered noticeably as the major league pennant races roared ino the September stretch drive.

The odds were still against the Redbirds despite their double win yeserday which cut the leading Brooklyn Dodgers' margin to 6 1-2 games in the National League.

While everyone with the exception of some die-hards in Boston and Detroit, have conceded the American League crown to New York Yankees, the Red Sox gained some new hope, however slim, by virtue of their sweep of a doubleheader from the Yanks in Boston yesterday.

The Cards whipped Pittsburgh Pirates twice in St. Louis 6-5 and 8-2, winning the first game in 10 innings. Ralph Kiner had put the Bucs in front with a three run homer in the first inning, his 40th of the season.

Brooklyn and Philadelphia exchanged 5-0 shutouts, the Dodgers winning the first game of the morning-afternoon doubleheader. A surprisingly tremendous turnout for the morning game resulted in a confusion which caused Brooklyn President Branch Rickey to offer a public apology concerning the unwieldy manner in which the crowd was handled.

Giants Win Two

New York Giants swept both ends of a double-header at the Polo Grounds from Boston Braves 2-1 and 12-2, and set a Major League home run record while doing it. They smashed three to set a club mark of 185 established by the Yankees of 1936.

Manager Bucky Harris of the Yankees was chased by Umpire Nick Jones for "delaying tactics" as the Red Sox spanked the pace-setters 6-3 and 4-1. Denny Galehouse and Earl Johnson held the Yanks at bay to register the victories.

The third place Tigers won two from Chicago White Sox 6-5 and 7-2, scoring two runs in the last half of the ninth to pull the first game from the fire.

Tribe Wins Pair

Bob Feller further disproved insinuations that too much pitching last fall hurt his effectiveness, as he twirled his third straight victory and his 17th of the year by pitching Cleveland Indians to a 2-1 victory as the Tribe captured two games from St. Louis Browns. The Indians won the second game 4-2.

Washingon Senators dealt the Athletics their fifth and sixth successive losses by winning both games 4-0 and 7-4. Mickey Haefner pitched the shutout. Six double plays, one under the major league record, failed to help the A's in the second game.

Subjected to a 1-0 shutout in the first game when Bob Chipman outhurled Ken Raffensberger in a southpaw pitching duel, Cincinnati Reds turned on first time starter John Miller for 10 runs in the first inning to defeat Chicago Cubs in the second game 13-2.

UNITED STATES WINS DAVIS CUP

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 2 — (AP) —Once more the Davis Cup belongs to the United States, saved by California's tennis buddies, stubble-haired Jack Kramer and shoeless Ted Schroeder, in a 4-1 triumph over the challenges from Australia.

They'll bring the big silver bowl out of hiding again next year but it may be a long, long time before the tennis world sees another singles battle like the one ysterday in which Schroeder outlasted Dinny Pails to apply the clincher to the five-match series.

For 71 games the two players fought, with Schroeder discarding his shoes half the time and Pails missing several chances at victory, before the American finally won out 6-3, 8-6, 4-6, 9-11, 10-8.

It was the longest singles match ever played in a Davis Cup challenge round, being topped in the number of games only by the 81 contests needed by Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston to turn back James Anderson and John Hawkes of Australia in 1923, last previous time the challenge round was held at Forest Hills.

In the finale in which Kramer crushed John Bromwich 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Bromwich, who carried Schroeder to four sets in the first round was no more match for the incomparable Kramer than Pails had been.

This one comes from Peterborough: "Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jones of Erie, Pa., are holidaying at South Beach Hotel in the Kawartha Lakes District. On Thursday, Mrs. Jones wanted to do some shopping at Young's Point, but friend hubby had all the money, and was below the dam in a boat fishing. His wife hollered from shore, "I want some money to go shopping." The fisherman refused to come ashore, so he hooked a two dollar bill on his plug bait, and cast, intending to land the plug and the money on shore. Alas, the cast was short, and the money bait dropped into the water. He reeled it in, but 20 feet from the boat, a two pound bass spotted the bait, and struck. The fish was securely hooked and Mr. Jones landed the bass and the two dollar bill intact. Then he dropped the fish in the boat, and cast the wet bill again. It landed alongside the woman on shore. That's the first time in the history of the Kawarthas that any fish other than a "sucker" was caught by money.

Point Anne Wings came through handsomely in Kingston on Saturday night when they won the third and deciding game of their second round Intermediate "C" playdowns against the fancied Parham squad. Pat Maracle rose to all kinds of pitching heights and the dusky chucker hurled one of the best games of his career.

Backing him up with their war clubs, the Wings pounded two Parham hurlers for a total of thirteen hits for nine runs, four of them coming in the eighth when they drove D. Goodfellow to the showers. They also ignored his successor and greeted him with two hits for a needless run. The Parham squad looked a powerful aggregation when they defeated the Wings here last week, and that third tussle looked like anybody's ball game. Apparently the Pars fell apart, or at least they left their batting eyes at home for they could do little or nothing with the Maracle slants.

• • •

Jack Carson's Latta crew dropped the first game of their OBA Intermediate "B" first round playdown series against Napanee in Gibbardville last night by a 13-9 score. The game was a free-hitting one and there was plenty of excitement before the boys called it a day. The second game of the series will be played at the Exhibition Grounds here at 8:30 on Thursday night.

• • •

Tomorrow night the Trenton Flyers and the Batawa Shoemen resume their Intermediate "A" series. Bata tacked on 8-5 defeat on the Kelley-Reinhardt gang in the first joust and the grapevine has it that Flyers are far from satisfied with the outcome of that tilt.

• • •

As a matter of fact we have it on excellent authority that the lads in blue have entered an official protest about something or other and have formally filed the billet doux with the OBA and the Batawa management.

• • •

In any event the squads go back to the diamond wars at the Exhibition Grounds tomorrow night in the second game of the series and you can bet your grandpappies falsies that there will be no love lost in that set-to. There may be fireworks, and in any case there should be a rip-roaring baseball battle. Game starts at 8.30.

• • •

This village makes its floodlight boxing debut in Exhibition Park on Friday of this week with an outstanding card of beak-busters from all parts of the district. Heading the card is Golden Gloves welter champ, Glen Dafoe, Trenton who matches leather with "Slugger" Hayes of Campbellford. Hayes comes by his moniker right well and is one of those lads who keeps pushing leather in all directions. Dafoe is no panty-waist when it come to slinging fists and the bout should be productive of some real ring action.

• • •

In the semi-final is that up-and-coming youngster Carl Clapper whose fight here some time ago drew the attention of Toronto promoters. The youngster who favors a hard-hitting aggressive style is matched with Young Corson, of Kingston, who comes here with quite a reputation. Also on the card are such well-known leather-pushers as Ray Lucas, Baldy Young, Soup Mondeville, Jumping Jerry Downes and others.

• • •

Tonight Point Anne Wings meets the Wooler team in the third round of their Intermediate "C" playdowns. Wings are really hot and are looking forward to another victory. However, Wooler, if past history is a criterion will not go down without a struggle and who knows, they may topple the Wings. The game gets under way at six o'clock.

• • •

Tomorrow night the Leafs, conquerors of the Kingston Legion in their first Intermediate "A" game, trek to the Limestone city for the second game of the series. The Legionnaires face elimination and may be depended on to not go down without a struggle.

TORONTO INDIANS WIN OPENER 16-7 FROM WINDSOR

Toronto Argos Defeat Winnipeg Blue Bombers Twice Over the Holiday Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

King football thudded into his autumn throne room for his earliest Canadian debut yesterday, as Toronto Indians came from behind on their home field for a 16-7 conquest of Windsor Rockets in the opening game of the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior campaign.

Six other teams observed Labor Day with a continuation of the inter-league and inter-sectional exhibition warfare which began 10 days ago. In Winnipeg, the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts plastered an 11-0 defeat on the hometown Blue Bombers for a clean sweep of their two-game weekend series; at Hamilton, the battling young Wildcats of the O.R.F.U. surged from behind for a fourth-quarter 9-6 triumph over the Tigers of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union; at Ottawa another Big Four team, Lou Hayman's Montreal Alouettes, trampled the Capital's hapless Trojans of the O.R.F.U. 32-16.

The campaign leading to the east-west classic for the Dominion Title rolls into high gear next Saturday with 10 of the Dominion's 13 teams playing scheduled games—all six of the O.R.F.U. entries, two of the Big Four's and two of the Western Interprovincial Union's three.

Roll to Fast Start

The Rockets rolled to a fast start against the Indians with a converted touchdown in the first quarter. Leo Bucheski went over for the major score, Jerry Dawson converted. But from then on the Windsor team managed to get only a single point, kicked by Bill Addis in the third quarter, while the Indians tallied a touchdown in each of the last three quarters, converting one.

One of the Dominion's most potent scoring pairs—Royal Copeland and Joe Krol—produced 10 of the Argos points in their morning game at Winnipeg. Copeland raced around the end from the Winnipeg 10-yard line for a touchdown in the third quarter. Then in the last minute of play he threw a forward pass to Krol who ghosted his way 20 yards through the Bombers for a major which Byron Karrys converted.

Virgil Wagner, the U.S. Product who shared honors in the Big Four last season with Krol, scored two touchdowns to lead the Alouettes to their easy triumph over the Trojans.

Even the much-discussed Frank Filchock wasn't able to show much power for the Tigers at Hamilton where the youthful Wildcats won the Glassco Cup, emblematic of the City Football Championship, for the first time. Frank Gnup's squad had the better of the play during the first half when the Tigers got the only point—a single by big Bob Masterson.

POINT ANNE WINS THIRD GAME OF OASA PLAYDOWNS

Defeat Strong Parham Nine in Third Game at Kingston by 9-2 Score

Point Anne Wings, pounding out thirteen hits behind the six-clout pitching of Pat Maracle, surged into the third round of the O.A.S.A. Intermediate "C" playdowns at Victoria Park, Kingston, on Saturday night, when they defeated the strong Parham nine by a 9-2 score. The game was the third of the series, the Pointers knocking off Parham on their home diamond 3-2 and the enemy returning the compliment at the Point last week by a 4-2 score.

D. Goodfellow, starting hurler for the Parham nine, proved no puzzle to the Leaf hitters. They got to him early and often and broke out in a batting running splurge in the eighth when they scored three runs off a quartet of clouts that not only clinched the game but sent the righthander to the showers. Godfrey relieved him but he wasn't much better than his predecessor and the Wings promptly pounced on his offerings for a brace of hits and another run.

Pat Maracle, on the other hand, was well nigh invincible. The dusky flinger hurled masterful ball holding the opposition to six hits four of which came in the eighth and ninth chukkers. He struck out six with his mates fielding superbly behind him.

Wings Open Scoring.

Wings opened the scoring in the first innings when Whalen who had singled ahead of Everett, raced across the plate when Loft drove out the third smash of the innings. They added another in the second off Pat Maracle's hit and a Parham bobble.

Scoreless until the sixth they pounded out three hits off the bats of L. Maracle, Pat Maracle and Buchanan for a brace of runs, and then put the game in the bag in the eighth with four markers. Three hits by L. Maracle, P. Maracle and Loft, aided by a sacrifice and an error accounted for a quartet of tallies. They added another in the ninth when Everett scored on Green's smash to centre field.

Maracle held the enemy runless until the sixth innings when they scored their first tally of the game on a walk and two putouts. They got the second and last run in the eighth when Maracle eased off and T. Goodfellow poled out a long hit to centre. He crossed the plate when brother B. Goodfellow singled for the second hit of the innings. Parham threatened in the ninth with a brace of blows by Cronk and Bird but Maracle settled down to retire the last two batters easily.

Loft Batting Hero.

Phil Loft was the batting hero of the piece with three solid hits. L. Maracle came through with a pair as did Pat Maracle. Other Point hitters were Bennett, Whalen, Everett, Einlan, Green and Buchanan. In short, every man on the Wings' squad connected safely.

Simonettes, two of them, two Goodfellows, Bird and Cronk were the only Parham players to get hits.

The teams:

Point Anne — Bennett, rf; Whalen, 2b; Finlan, ss; Everett, cf; Loft, lf; L. Maracle, 3b; Green, c; P. Maracle, p; Buchanan, 1b.

Parham — (G. Simonette, 3b; T. Goodfellow, ss; B. Goodfellow, cf; Idcari, rf; Simonette, c; Cronk, lf; Bird, 1b; Bertram, 2b; Goodfellow, D., p; Godfrey, p.

Score by innings:

Parham	000 001 010—2	6	2

Governor-General Trophy Won by Belleville Rinks Defeating Verdun, Que., 52-26

First Time in 19-Year-Old History of Cup That Belleville Has Reached Finals

Ottawa, Sept. 2 — (CP)—Playing cautiously through an intermittent drizzle of rain, the Belleville rinks skipped by A. Wonnacott and Ottawa expert H. C. Argue, defeated the Verdun, Que., rinks of G. Ritchie and A. Henderson here Saturday by a total score of 52-26 to win the 19-year-old Governor-General Trophy, emblematic of top lawn bowling honors in Canada. Viscount Alexander was not present to present the trophy donated in 1928 by Lord Willingdon.

The Belleville players were jubilant over their victory since this was the first year rinks from that centre have reached the finals.

Argue's rink defeated Ritchie's during the three-and-a-half hours play by a score of 33-11, while Wonnacott topped Henderson 19-15.

Cliff Argue who skipped one rink had Gordon Edwards as lead, Howard Hanton as second and L. E. McLean as vice skip while Ab Wonnacott, the skip of the other rink had Jerry Hyde as lead, Austin Watkin second and Ray Zufelt, vice skip. The rinks won their way into the final round by defeating Kingston.

Ottawa East Wins Juvenile Game from Petes

Ottawa, Sept. 2 —(CP)— Notwithstanding sloppy fielding, Ottawa East came from behind to edge Peterborough Y's Men 7-5 in the second game of a best of three series, and win the Eastern Ontario O.B.A. juvenile baseball championship, on the campus of St. Patrick's College, here yesterday. The Ottawa team had previously won the first game at Peterborough 6-1.

The winning play was a repetition of that engineered by the Ottawa aggregation in the first game. Following a steady lag in the first five stanzas, which saw Peterborough chalk up four tallies to Ottawa's one and another in the first half of the sixth, Ottawa East rallied in their half to gain two runs. In the seventh, Blanchfield, starry southpaw of the Capital City nine, held the Y's Men scoreless. During the Ottawa batting period, Peterborough's able righthander, Pagett, who had held the Ottawans steadily, began to tire.

Taking advantage of Pagett's sore arm, Parrington scored for Ottawa and Blanchfield walked to first. Richards doubled to deep centre and Blanchfield tallied Peterborough shifted Pagett to shortstop and Conlin to left field, while Wade took over the mound.

Knowing that Wade fielded badly, the Ottawans filled the sacks and then initiated their winning squeeze-play. First Richards scored on Tyrell's bunt then Robillard, on Paul's bunt.

Peterborough yanked Wade and Conlin was sent in. Conlin pulled the Y's Men out of a hole by striking out two Ottawa batters with the bases loaded. Earlier, in the sixth inning, Conlin sought to break the Peterborough jinx of batting against a left-hander, when he homered to deep centre.

Sports Roundup

New York, Sept. 2. (AP)—Johnny Mize has one important factor in his favor in his quest for a new major league home run record. The big, phlegmatic guy has no nerves . . no matter what the pressure, large Jawn just shifts that huge chaw of eating tobacco from one apple cheek to the other, stands up there solidly and stolidly, and takes his cut . . If he hits, all right. If he doesn't hit all right. Right now Mize is even with Babe Ruth's record pace of 60. He hasn't been able to hit for the circuit in his last five games and his home run output remains at 44 in 128 games—Ruth walloped his 44th on Sept. 2 also in his 128th game.

Haven't had seven real meals in a month I've lost 40 pounds; down to 230 now . I tell you, I'm ready". . . Ed Coach George Murtagh looked up and grumbled; "Ready for what?. . . "Well, I don't exactly know," Mush admitted, "but I'm ready." . . . Apparently ready for the dinner table.

Time Out

Paul Zimmerman, Los Angeles Times: "Footballer Don Bunge, Redskin centre, preached a sermon at the Eagle Rock Baptist Church the other night .He's a divinity student. . . after the sermon he sold 17 tickets to the Times Charity game between the (Cleveland) Rams and the (Washington) Redskins . . . At that rate, Don should have no trouble getting his congregation to fill the collecting plate."

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By WALL MARCHBANK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Sept. 2. (CP)—Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson feels that the brass hats on the Montreal Tennis scene are falling down badly in their relations with the press. Fergie rapped the tennis moguls over the knuckles in his column after sports writers failed to receive invitations to exhibition matches involving the Czech Davis Cup stars Jaroslav Drobny and Vladimri Cernik, against Canadian talent.

Said Fergie:

"One of the troubles with tennis here is the lack of public relations . . Most of the tennis people never think of the sports writers except to denounce them for neglecting to publicize the events they stage . . . These events, as a rule, don't amount to much, but just how are sports writers in Montreal expected to give these 10-cent contests their proper due of publicity, when they can't even get in to see them unless they climb a protective fence?" . . . .

"The natural deduction is that tennis here, an expanding game, is badly in need of a friendly relations man who will make sports writers feel that it isn't necessary for them to creep in by the basement . . . Even the recent (Davis) Cup series developed one very stupid and offensive incident (offensive that is to sports writers who don't need any free meals but who object to being snubbed) when they were excluded, all but one, from a dinner tendered the Czechs and Canucks . . . It isn't the food (all of us eat) it's the idea of the thing. . . ."

HAMILTON TIGERS ALL WASHED UP

(By The Canadian Press)

Only club dropped from the Mann Cup playoff race and a second barely kept its hopes alive in Ontario Lacrosse Association holiday playdowns which saw six clubs in action.

Through for the season are Hamilton Tigers, league leaders in regular-season play, who dropped their third straight game to Mimico Mountaineers at Hamilton to lose their best-of-five series. Mountaineers staged a last-quarter rally to take game 8-7, after walloping the Tabbies 15-6 Saturday night.

After absorbing two straight defeats, the second a resounding 18-6 lacing at Brampton, Saturday night, Weston West Yorks turned the tables on the favored Excelsiors Monday night at Weston, turning in an 11-3 victory for their first in three starts. Fred Hatton paced the Weston attack with four goals.

At St. Catharines the Mann Cup champion Athletics bounced back from a 14-6 loss to the Georgians at Owen Sound Saturday. Winning their Labor Day setto 12-4. Carson Myers and George Urquhart had three goals apiece for the winners, who lead their best-of-five series two games to one.

The Death of a Doll

By Hilda Lawrence

CHAPTER 2.

The blue was a suit that every woman in New York was trying to wear that fall. It was a bright, electric blue that dulled the eyes and hair of all but the very young, and consequently drew the middle-aged and sallow like a magnet.

Ruth dwelt on the blue. Seventy-five dollars in stores like Blackman's, sixteen-fifty on Fourteenth Street. She had eleven dollars saved up and her week's salary was untouched. She asked herself what she was waiting for. Take out eight for board, she figured rapidly, no carfare, and lunch in the cafeteria is twenty cents. I can do it and maybe a hat to match. And who's to tell me not to? This is a new like and I want to look nice. I can do the glasses next month. Who's to tell me the glasses come first? Well, maybe Mrs. Sutton, but—She put Mrs. Sutton out of her mind. I want the blue, I need it. There's nothing like a touch of color after black all day....That Miss Brady said dinner was from six to eight. I'll eat right away and get down to Fourteenth Street. Saturday night, they'll be open late. I'll wear it to the dining room tomorrow. There's nothing like a good first impression, and you never know when you may meet somebody. Some of the girls may have relatives in New York and Sunday's when they'd come to call. And have dinner, maybe. Sunday dinners are always special . . . She saw herself entering the dining room, alone and poised sitting at open of the small tabls, saying somthing pleasant to the maid who served her. Wearing the blue.

The house was staight ahead. She went up the steps.

Miss Small raised her head when the door opened. This was a stranger with a suitcase, therefore the new girl. She consulted the card quickly, verifying the name. Miller, Ruth. It was important to get a name right, to make a girl feel as if she were expected and wanted. She stood up.

"Well, Ruth," she said, holding out a hand.

Ruth advanced, blinking in the light of a powerful lamp that a previous social worker had installed for a purpose. It was trained to shine directly in the shifting eyes of board-payers who had spent their money for new clothes and claimed their pockets had been picked again, and in the calm, wide eyes of supplicants for weekend passes to visit what they called married sisters.

Ruth narrowed her eyes and saw a young woman with fair hair and a bright smile. She was disappointed. It wasn't Miss Brady. Miss Brady was dark and thin and her voice was loud and comical. Who was this? Then she remembered. This must be Angel, Miss Angeline Small, the social worker who was Miss Brady's assistant. Moke and Poke, the two stock-room girls from Blackman's, had described her. Miss Small does a lot of good, they'd said; she keeps you from making a mistake that'll ruin your whole life for a minute's pleasure.

She smiled at Miss Small when she took her hand. All around her were girls, coming and going, laughing and talking.

Miss Small adjusted the light. "There," she said, "that's better, isn't it?"

It was better, much better. She had almost been blinded by the glare, and now she looked eagerly about her. She could see the other girls clearly.

She saw the dark blue curtains at the dining-room door, the elevator and its uniformed attendant, the telephone switchboard and its operator, the girl with red hair who slouched against the office railing and whistled under her breath. There was a single yellow rose on the desk and an open money box filled with bills and silver. Miss Small had light blue eyes and a rosebud mouth.

"Kitty Brice and Lillian Harris," Miss Small's voice was saying, "this is the new girl, Ruth Miller. She'll be in 706 with April Hooper. Lillian, I'm afraid you'll be late for work, dear. Are you waiting for something?"

The red-haired girl drawled, "Not any more." She removed her felt hat, cuffed it into new angles, and sauntered to the door.

"Seven-o-six," she said over her shoulder. "I'm in 606. Drop down sometime."

Miss Small went on. "Lillian is rather abrupt, but you mustn't mind. And now, my dear, let's talk about you. Do you want your dinner at once or would you rather go to your room first?" It was a stock question and the answer was always the same. Room first. To primp. A faraway look came into Miss Small's eyes. She had made that answer herself three years ago, when she stood where Ruth was standing now, and Monny had smiled across the desk.

"Who's it for, dear?" Miss Small wanted to know "Not Minnie May again?"

"Yes, Miss Small. Miss Small, I'd ask you to find me another roommate, I really would, except that I'd have Minnie May on my conscience. I think she needs my influence, I really do ,and because of that I'm willing to put up with a lot. But it's hard on me."

"I'll have a little talk with Minnie May later. Didn't I see her just a minute ago?"

"Yes, Miss Small. She came down with me but she went right up again. She says the whole place smells of last night's fish. She's—well, she's in a state, and it isn't last night's fish, either."

When the girl went away, Miss Small suddenly realized, that Ruth Miller hadn't answered her question. She examined her sharply and closely for the first time and was disturbed by what she saw. Why, she's frightened, she told herself. Or is that shyness? No, it's fright. She looks as if she were cornered, or caught, or something dreadful like that. She looks terrified. For a brief moment Miss Small felt the contagion of panic, but she quickly recovered. She rapidly scanned the lobby, but there was nothing unusual that she could see.

The invisible diners chattered behind the blue curtains, as harmless as a cageful of sparrows. Mrs. Fister, the housekeeper, stood by the dining-room door calmly collecting the tray and guest checks. Jewel lounged beside the elevator, waiting for the after-dinner rush. At the switchboard, Kitty's bony hands darted from plug to plug, and her monotonius voice droned on without a break.

Miss Small's eyes met Ruth Miller's for an instant and the girl looked away. She made a quick decision

"I know what we'll do," she said briskly. "Here's your key, your room is at the rear. Now you run along and look things over, and when you're ready, come down to room 506. That's mine. I have a nice little suite all to myself. We'll have our dinners sent up there, and I'll tell you all about our little rules and so on. Fun? And you'll want to know about your roommate, too. She's just gone in to dinner, but she'll be around later."

"I have to go out," Ruth said. They were the first words she had spoken and they were thick and strangled.

Miss Small nodded agreeably, but she left the office enclosure and followed the shabby figure to the front door. "Some other time then," she said. "But do take your key; slip it in your purse, dear. There now you're really one of us!" She pretended not to see the shaking, fumbling hands and went on brightly. "And let me have your suitcase. I'll send it up to the room and you'll find it ready and waiting when you come back."

She carried the suitcase to the desk and shook her head reprovingly when Kitty Brice laughed.

"Didn't want to give it up, did she?" Kitty said. "Hung on like a drowning man. Would you say she peddled diamonds or rope?"

Miss Small smiled wryly. "Another odd one, I'm afraid." She sighed, and returned to her work.

At 10 o'clock the lobby was deserted except for Miss Ethel Plummer an elderly spinster who took over the desk at night.

In Miss Small's suite, Miss Brady was stretched full length on the low couch, her untidy black head resting on pillows. Miss Small sat at her feet. Within easy reach was a small table holding a spirit lamp and china It was the hour for hot chocolate and confidences.

Miss Brady reached for her chocolate and took a deep swallow. Her long, ugly face relaxed, her eyes smiled. "This is the best part of the day...Marshall-Gill made me late. Talk, talk, talk, all about nothing. She swore she'd sent the stuff over for the party costumes. Did she?"

"She did. All cut out and sewed only the masks to do."

"Coo!" Miss Brady said. "She'll be on hand for tea tomorrow, as usual, and sees no reason why we shouldn't do the masks then, Sunday or not. What do you say?"

"Whatever you say, Monny."

Miss Brady's eyes clouded. "What's wrong, Angel? You're miles away, you've got something on your mind."

Miss Small hesitated. Then, "I'm worried," she said simply.

Miss Brady sat up and scowled. "Has some little tramp—"

"No, no, Monny. Everything's all right. I mean, don't look like that! Nothing's happened at all. Only one sick tray, Minnie May, hangover, and only two weekend passes and I know they're legitimate."

"Then what—"

"The new girl, Monny. She came."

Miss Brady was openly puzzled. "Well? What's wrong about that? Isn't she all right? She looked all right to me."

"I don't know, but I have the most awful feeling. As if she were going to—bring us trouble."

Miss Small explained. She described the sudden transformation at the desk, the fear that took over eyes and hands, the averted face. "She was natural enough when she came in exactly as you said on the card. Shy, quite ordinary in a nice, quiet way. Then all at once something happened. She changed, right before my eyes, and it frightened me. Somehow I got the idea that she saw something, or heard something, but I can't imagine what."

"Who was near the desk?"

"I thought of that, too. Just the usual crowd going to the dining room, stopping for mail, nobody that stood out. Wait a minute. Dot came for a tray check for Minnie May."

"Dotty, the girl evangelist! Who else?"

"Jewel at the elevator, Kitty at the board. Kitty noticed it, too; I imagine they all did. It seems ridiculous when I tell it like this. Kitty, Jewell, all of them as drab as Ruth Miller herself . . . Oh!

"Got something?"

"Lillian Harris was hanging around. She said something flippant, I forget what it was. Then she went off to her job. The Miller girl went out, too, a few minutes later . . . She didn't have dinner."

Miss Brady looked thoughtful. "Harris," she said.

"I don't know what you mean by that, and I don't see how it fits in here," Miss Brady answered. "Lillian Harris was well recommended, but if she hurts you in any way, out she goes."

Miss Small raised puzzled eyes. "What do you mean when you say she was well recommended? She came here after that rule about references was thrown out."

Miss Brady grinned when Miss Small recalled the rule. They had drafted it themselves and fought for its adoption. They'd argued that a girl's past was her own private business and insisted on her right to live it down if she wanted to. The Board had fought back prophesied scandal, and lost. From that time on, no one was asked for a reference. The rule was three years old and so successful that Miss Brady sometimes forgot its origin.

New location is being built for part of Trans-Canada Highway, which will be flooded by the Des Joachim hydro development. Spectator is seen holding his ears as the king-sized charge went "Boom."

Labor Called Upon to Take Political Action

(By The Canadian Press)

Calls for labor to take political action to increase its strength were issued by spokesmen yesterday as Canadian workers celebrated Labor Day with giant parades, sports meets, picnics and other observances.

A record-breaking parade of 25,000 union members at Toronto highlighted the demonstrations as the marchers trooped into the Canadian National Exhibition grounds after a three-mile tour.

The workers later heard messages from Percy Bengough, President of the Trades and Labor Congress and Murray Cotterill, President of Toronto Labor Council (C.C.L.).

Like Hamilton's Mayor Sam Lawrence who addressed a Labor Day gathering at Hamilton, Mr. Cotterill called on labor men to take political action.

"Present governments reflect the social and political power of the employers," he said. "By accepting more community responsibility and by presenting a more unified political front on election days, workers can wrest a greater share of social and political power."

Want Price Control

Mr. Cotterill advised labor to control the political party which they choose to represent them. Mr. Bengough called on the government to re-establish price control in deploring the rising prices of commodities

In another Toronto Labor Day address, Walter J. Mason, National legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor in Washington, denounced both Communism and the United States Taft-Hartley labor-curbing law. He told an A.F.L. rally that the World Federation of Trade Unions was Soviet-dominated and was "merely the instrument of oppression operated by the government for the purpose of enslaving the workers of Russia."

Some 5,000 members of 56 labor unions affiliated with the Montreal Trades and Labor Council paraded at Montreal. An annual track and field meet was Ottawa's chief celebration and sports events featured other observances across Canada. Thousands of United States visitors crowded all highways to the border last night after spending the holiday in Canada. Tourist traffic was reported to have reached a record high at Fort Erie, Ont.

Pilot Killed, Two Injured In Air Race

Cleveland, Sept. 2 (AP) — In the wildest race in sports flying history, four planes dug into the wet dirt near municipal airport during the running of the Thompson Trophy classic at the National Air Races yesterday. The toll was one pilot dead, two injured and one able to walk away from a mass of burning wreckage.

The day saw Cook Clelane of Cleveland boost the world's closed course record to 396.1 miles an hour, a jump of 12 miles and set a Thompson mark for one lap by turning up 404.4 miles an hour.

The Professional Racing Pilots Association was called into meeting this afternoon to discuss steps to increase safety and spectator enjoyment. There were intimations the pilots will ask for stricter regulations for both fliers and planes, and also will seek changes in the race courses.

Cleland's performance in the 20-lap 300-mile race for $16,000 first prize topped a brilliant three day exhibition. A second Cleland entry, flown by Richard Becker of Cleveland, finished second.

The third Cleland plane figured in the day's tragedy. Tony Jannazo, popular Cleveland flier crashed with it in the seventh lap and died in the wreckage. All three planes were United States Navy Corsair fighters powered with the largest and most powerful reciprocating engines ever flown.

JAPAN MUST MAKE

3. Prohibiting Japanese-operated key industries such as armament and aircraft manufacture.

4. The Japanese should be prevented from using or conducting research into atomic energy.

5. Breaking up of the Zaibatsu monopolistic banking and industrial concerns that have controlled Japan for many years.

The delegates also believed that establishment of a supervisory commission with headquarters in Tokyo to implement the terms of the peace treaty was necessary.

One of the commission's principle responsibilities would be to supervise imports into Japan to guard against the possibility of building up stocks of potential war material.

U.S. ASKED TO REDISTRIBUTE 'FORT KNOX GOLD'

14 Gestapo and S.S. Men Sentenced By Court to be Hanged

Six Canadians Among Those Slain After Mass Escape

By SEAGHAN MAYNES

Hamburg, Sept. 3 (Reuters) — A deathly silent court packed with Germans today heard the British War Crimes Tribunal sentence 14 Gestapo and S.S. men to be hanged for the murder of R.A.F. and Allied Air Force officers after the March, 1944, mass escape from Stalag Luft III in Silesia. Six Canadians were among the 50 slain.

Max Wielen, Chief of Breslau criminal police, who received and passed on Hitler's orders that recaptured officers be shot, got life imprisonment.

Those sentenced to death were found guilty of the individual murder of 12 of the 50 officers shot after recapture.

In addition to Wielen, one other of the accused got life imprisonment and two were sentenced to 10 years.

The accused, brought into court one at a time to hear their sentences, showed little emotion before being rushed away by armed military police after hearing the court's decision.

Among the 14 sentenced to death was S.S. Staff Sgt. Erich Zacharias, Gestapo Frontier Police, for being concerned in the murders in Czechoslovakia of Sqdn. Ldr. T. G. Kirby Green, R.A.F., and F. O. G. A. Kidder of St. Catharines, Ont.

Two-Years' Hunt.

The two-months' trial was the result of a two-years' hunt through Germany to track down the men responsible for the massacre of the Allied officers.

All accused had pleaded innocent both to two general charges of killing and carrying out orders in violation of the laws and usages of war and to seven charges of shooting particular officers.

With one exception all were Gestapo men and most also were superior officers in the S.S. (Elite Guard.)

Altogether 76 Allied air force officers made the mass escape through a tunnel the night of March 24-25, 1944. Three made good their escape, while of the 73 recaptured 50 were shot, 15 were returned to the Sagan camp, and eight were detained by the Gestapo.

The ashes of the massacred officers were said to have been kept by Wielen in urns in a steel safe.

Maj.-Gen. Adolf Westhoff, chief of the war prisoners department of the German army, testified about a conference of Nazi leaders at Hitler's headquarters at which Hitler excitedly ordered the escaped officers shot on recapture.

Many of the officers were shot by "a murder squad" in the woods in the Goerlitz area. The evidence revealed that others were driven, handcuffed in couples, in automobiles along an autobahn (German six-lane express highway). At lonely spots their handcuffs were removed and the prisoners were allowed to get out, ostensibly to "stretch their legs." Then, as their backs were turned, they were shot.

Armed Gunmen Rob Bank of $500

Toronto, Sept. 3 (CP)—Two armed gunmen held up the Royal Bank of Canada branch at Queensway and Rosemead Avenues in nearby Etibocoke about 1 p.m. today and escaped with $500.

The men, one wearing a taxi-drivers hat and the other sun glasses, forced three bank employees and two customers to lie on the floor while they scooped up the money and fled.

Scores of Ships Await Completion, Refit or Scrap

Glasgow, Sept. 3 —(CP) — Scores of ships of the Royal Navy lie idle in Scottish waterways, rusting and almost derelict, awaiting completion, refit or the breaker's yard.

More than 30 are laid up in Gareloch, arm of the Clyde Estuary northwest of Greenock where there are 20 more. Sixty lie at Rosyth, on the Firth of Forth, and smaller numbers elsewhere.

Because of shortages of men and materials, the Admiralty has decided naval tonnage must not be competitive with merchant ship-building being built or reconverted after war service. Work on naval vessels has been almost entirely suspended.

A naval correspondent of Lloyd's List estimated 500 British warships are laid up at naval bases without proper refit or preservation. He estimated one-fifth are so obsolescent and rundown that they are not worth the expense of a refit but that the other 400 should be fixed up.

They include battleships, several large fleet aircraft carriers completed during the war, heavy cruisers, latest type light cruisers of the Dido class, new battle class destroyers and recently-completed frigates, corvettes and minesweepers.

Work is going ahead on a few naval ships, marine reporters said, but the pace is snail-slow. Skeleton staffs are completing several aircraft carriers at Belfast, including H.M.C.S. Magnificent which is being loaned to Canada by the Royal Navy, but all are far behind schedule.

ECONOMIC CRISIS IN EUROPE ACUTE STATES LOVETT

Believes Some American Action Needed Before End of Year to Form Recovery Plan

Washington, Sept. 3 — (AP)— Robert A. Lovett, under-secretary of state, said today that the economic crisis in Europe is developing much faster than expected and some kind of American action to meet it apparently will be necessary before the end of the year.

In making the grimmest presentation of the European picture since State Secretary Marshall put forward his self-help recovery plan, Lovett repeatedly refused to say outright that a special session of Congress would be necessary later this year.

But he strongly indicated to a press conference that a special session might be needed.

Lovett told reporters it now is apparent that the deterioration in Europe's condition means that the problem will be upon the United States sooner rather than later.

He said that appropriate steps evidently will have to be taken in a matter of months rather than some time next year. Such steps might cover either temporary devices, such as extension of financial assistance by the world bank where possible, or might embrace what he called permanent measures.

By permanent measures he obviously referred to the Marshall plan for extension of American assistance to Europe on a long range self-help basis.

Cites Two Reasons

At another point, Lovett said that his personal view is that the United States will have to "take a hard look at the situation" before the end of 1947.

There are two reasons, he said, explaining:

1. In his view, the effects of the British financial crisis have been "contagious." Lovett said he could not enlarge upon this but it is a known opinion of American officials that Britain's recent successful efforts to relax provisions of her loan agreement would bring requests for help from other European countries.

2. The resources of many European countries have had to be diverted from productive uses—such as the purchase or manufacture of machinery for new plants—to non-productive uses such as the purchase of food.

Lovett said their troubles have been brought on partly by "acts of God" such as floods and droughts, and partly by "human frailties" in management.

Many countries, he said, have run through their store of resources simply to exist. In addition, France has her worst wheat crop since Napoleon's time and the potato crop is bad.

After mentioning Britain and France, Lovett said he did not mean to pick them out as requiring assistance more urgently than any others but only as examples of the general crisis over western Europe.

Men's Ankles Will Soon Be on Display As Fashion Decrees Shorter Trousers

By LORRAINE LARKIN

With women's legs and ankles losing the battle against the longer skirt, men's fashion designers have decreed the male ankle will come out from under. Men's trousers, they say, will be at least two inches shorter.

Tony Williams, fashion arbiter for the annual list of best-dressed men, warned gloomily that the way things are going, men will be lucky if they have any pants left at all.

"The shorter trouser with cuff will barely touch the top of the shoe," he said.

A spokesman for a chain of men's clothing shops said pants on eastern university campuses will barely meet the top of the sock.

The charter members of the SYMPTI, (Sam you made the pants too long) club have the sanction of women fashion designers.

Claire McCardell declared, "It's time we women had something to look at." Tina Lesser said she was in favor of "attractive, colorful and sensible men's clothes" and declared "shortened trousers mark the first move in that direction."

Lanky motion picture star Jimmy Stewart: "Doesn't make much difference to me. My pants always run up my legs anyhow."

Lester Gaba, stage designer: "I've been told my ankles are very seductive, so I'll welcome the new fashion. And if they take away our shoulder pads, we'll just have to square our shoulders and bear it."

Conservative, British - born actor Brian Aherne: "Haberdashery dogmatism! A gentleman will shun them."

Toronto, Sept. 3 (CP)—Sixteen cases of murder and six of attempted murder will be among the more important criminal cases to be tried at the Fall Assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario, it was revealed in a list released today.

The list of cases for the Autumn sittings includes 20 manslaughter, 14 rape, nine attempted rape, two armed robbery and one each of corruption, breach of duty by a public official, bribery, attempted bribery, defamatory libel and robbery while armed.

Major interest is expected to centre around the case involving Rocco Sisco and Roger Gauthier, charged jointly with the murder of Velair Vandebelt, pretty Toronto nurse found strangled with a plastic belt near Cochrane last June.

The schedue of murder case sittings includes:

Haileybury Sept. 8.—Hilton MacDonnell, charged with the axe slaying of his brother, and transferred to the Ontario Hospital at London when found unfit to stand trial at Haileybury Assizes in 1945, now is said to be fit to stand trial.

Sarnia, Oct. 14 — Joseph Taylor is charged with the murder of his wife, Reta Taylor. He was found guilty at the Spring Assizes this year but the Court of Appeal ordered a new trial.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 14 — Edgar James Simons is charged with the murder of Mrs. Katherine Rupert and her infant son. It is alleged that Simons shot the pair at a camp owned by the husband of the slain woman while the owner was away.

Kingston, Oct. 20 — Leon Stafford, a Negro from the State of Georgia, is charged with the murder of a man named Harrison whom it is alleged he stabbed to death during the course of or following a gambling game at Lake Ontario Park.

FAMILIES FACED WITH ULTIMATUM BY DOUK SECT

Warned to Join Sons of Freedom Group or Get Out of Community

Nelson, B.C., Sept. 3, (CP) —Twelve independent Doukhobor families living on Krestova hilltop today were faced with a Sons of Freedom ultimatum to join the Sons or "get out" of the barren community some 25 miles northwest of here.

The three-day ultimatum was issued late last night accompanied by the peculiar ceremonial rites that precede most important Doukhobor actions.

Led by the elders of the Sons, a band of some fifty men, women and children began marching through the dusty, rutted roads winding through Krestova—capital of the fanatical group that has confessed to setting fire to several orthodox community buildings in recent weeks.

Singing Russian hymns, the band visited the homes of the 12 Krestova residents who are not members of the Sons. Majority of the "marked" families had lived at Krestova since 1914 and long before the Hillgatop community was set aside for the Sons of Freedom, following their break with the orthodox group.

Each family was called on to join the Sons of Freedom, who said that non-joiners would be ejected from the community at the end of three days. No threats were made to burn the homes of families refusing to comply.

A spokesman for the Sons said that his organization was taking the drastic measure because of the mass arrests during the holiday weekend in which 28 people were apprehended. Earlier 15 others had been arrested. All are charged in connection with recent arson attacks on Doukhobor settlements.

NOT GOOD PICKERS

Portland, Me., Sept. 3 —(AP) —The weather bureau staff picked yesterday for a picnic at nearby Sebago Lake.

Yesterday Portland was deluged with more rain than had fallen here in all of August.

The picnic was cancelled.

M. F. GREGG, V.C., NAMED MINISTER OF FISHERIES

R. B. Hanson, Former Leader of Conservatives in House, Says He is "Turncoat"

Ottawa, Sept. 3. (CP)— Friendly, scholarly Milton Fowler Gregg, president of the University of New Brunswick and Victoria Cross winner of the First World War, yesterday entered the Federal Cabinet as Fisheries Minister, succeeding Hon. Frank Bridges, who died unexpectedly three weeks ago.

Official announcement of his appointment and swearing in as a privy councillor at Government House came from Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the new minister himself followed this with the disclosure that he plans to tender his resignation as University President first thing today.

The appointment means that he will run as Liberal candidate in the federal by-election called for October 20 in the New Brunswick riding of York-Sunbury, the traditional Conservative stronghold which Mr. Bridges captured in 1940 when he entered the Commons and the Cabinet.

Mr. Gregg, whose appointment was a tight secret until the news became known Monday night, arrived in the capital yesterday morning to confer with the Prime Minister and later drove with Mr. King to the Government House for the swearing in ceremony. The official announcement came shortly afterwards.

At Frederiction Dr. Gregg's acceptance of the summons to Ottawa, brought from Hon. R. B. Hanson, former Conservative House leader in the Commons, the charge that Dr. Gregg was a "turncoat".

Asked to confirm a report that he had labelled Dr. Gregg a turncoat, Mr. Hanson said:

"This man was a Conservative and we appointed him to office as Sergeant-at-Arms under the Bennett Government in 1933 or 1934, he was always a Conservative and the family was Conservative.

OPERATOR HELD AS WITNESS IN TRAIN COLLISION

Death Toll Officially Placed at 30 But Might Easily Rise Above 35 Estimate

By JACK AVESON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Dugald, Man., Sept. 3 (CP)— More than 30 bodies had been recovered from the fire-blackened debris of a Canadian National Railways' Campers' special early today as workers resumed their grim task of sorting through the wreckage where late Monday night the westbound holiday special crashed into a standing transcontinental passenger train.

Twenty seven bodies had been located before the workers took time out for their first rest in 17 hours last night. This morning two more were recovered shortly after the task of sifting through the ashes of the flame-devastated train was resumed.

Then an undisclosed number of additional bodies, charred and brittle bones mainly, were found.

Still uncertain is the exact number of dead, but police officials said that it may easily rise above the early estimate of 35.

Meanwhile, developments in the disaster to the 13-car train —worst wreck in Western Canada's history—which brought a tragic finish to a Labor Day weekend for many of the estimated 700 aboard when it crashed into the standing express, included these:

1—R.C.M.P., announced that Donald F. Leslie, 55, of Digald, Canadian National Railways train despatcher, was being held on a coroner's warrant as a material witness in the collision;

2—Inquest into the tragedy was adjourned for an indefinite period after jurymen had been sworn in at Transcona, 10 miles west of here, where the bodies of most of the victims had been taken;

Statement Issued

3—Railway officials issued a statement late last night listing 27 persons as dead, with 13 others all in good condition, still in hospitals;

4—Identification of the dead bogged down last night after five of the 27 badly-scarred bodies which had been recovered had been either positively or tentatively identified;

5—Police officials said the death toll could rise substantially once the search through the wreckage had been completed;

6—Among survivors, the acetylene lamps used in the nine wooden coaches of the 13-car campers' train were generally blamed for the magnitude of the disaster. Had these lamps not been used, they said, the fire which swept through the train immediately following the crash would not have ignited with such lightning-like rapidity.

No details other than the bare announcement concerning the holding of Leslie were given by

Britain Went to War With Germany Eight Years Ago This Morning

Eight years ago this morning the voice of the late Prime Minister Chamberlain, almost breaking with emotion and intense nervous strain, told the world Britain had gone to war with Germany.

In the quiet of a September Sabbath, the Prime Minister's broadcast marked the end of years of appeasement and uneasy peace, and threw the resources of the British Commonwealth "against brute force, bad faith, injustice, oppression and persecution."

Two days previously Germany had attacked Poland. An ultimatum to Hitler to withdraw his forces expired at 11 a.m. Greenwich time and Britain and France immediately declared war. Canada, her parliament in recess, made her official declaration Sept. 10.

A few hours after Chamberlain had spoken, the King sounded a rallying call to his people to "stand calm, firm and united" against the German challenge to civilized order in the world.

Canadians, in the midst of the last holiday weekend of the summer, heard the broadcasts with the realization of the grim task before them. All over the Dominion preparations began for the part Canada would play in the war which threatened freedom.

Newspaper offices from Halifax to Victoria, normally deserted Sunday mornings, buzzed with activity as bulletin after bulletin recording each development spewed from Canadian Press teletypes. Many papers published extras. And later that Sunday the war came abruptly home to Canada with news of the sinking of the Athenia with many Canadians on board.

The conflict that was to end in victory only after six dark years of grim struggle had begun.

Way to Increase Purchasing Power Devastated Areas

— Bevin

Foreign Secretary Addresses British Trade Union Congress

Southport, England, Sept. 3 — (CP)—Foreign Secretary Bevin called for a British Commonwealth Customs Union today and said the United States should redistribute its gold hoard buried in Kentucky.

Addressing the Trades Union Congress, Bevin said his proposal for an Empire Customs Union—the elimination of tariffs in Commonwealth trade—was made on his own responsibility.

He was not speaking for the cabinet, he said.

The Foreign Secretary said that for the United States to put into circulation its huge gold stocks, idle in underground vaults at Fort Knox in Kentucky for a decade, would constitute "one of the readiest ways to assist in increasing the purchasing power of the devastated areas of the world."

Of his proposal for a Commonwealth Customs Union, Bevin said:

Must Settle Business

"I do not think we can avoid any longer common defence and the acceptance of certain common economic principles if we are to avoid these constant recurring crises.

"We have got to settle this balance-of-payments business in the world or it will be constant chaos. There are ways of settling it. I know these Americans will be upset, but I have got to upset somebody. My own conviction is that she handicapped herself and caused high taxation in her own country by failure to redistribute the Fort Knox gold.

"If you find another gold mine in the world it would assist you—it would be a great advantage—but there is gold which had already been mined and it is doing nothing.

"I am quite sure that is one of the readiest ways to assist in increasing the purchasing power of the devastated areas of the world"

Frequently Interrupted

Speaking of the world situation, Bevin said:

"From the Adriatic to Vladivostock, over one-seventh of the globe — I am not criticizing but simply stating a fact — you have almost complete autocracy. You have the United States with a productive capacity that could only be absorbed in the end by a standard of life in the world at least double what it is now. Then we have within this Commonwealth both primary products and resources which have been sadly neglected."

Referring indirectly to yesterday's debate within the Congress on direction of labor, Bevin declared "we cannot go back to individual ownership . . ."

Bevin was frequently interrupted by applause and received a tremendous ovation at the speech's conclusion. Many observers were of the opinion that if the speech had been delivered before yesterday's discussions on direction of labor, it would have cancelled out many of the detailed criticisms voiced during the debate.

Denies Report

Bevin said he was accused of tying Britain to the United States and protested:

"My God, I am here this morning to appeal to you to fight for our independence in the workshop. Who can accuse me of wanting to be subservient to the east or west?"

Bevin said he reluctantly supported the $3,750,000,000 loan from the United States because he believed it would "give us until 1949.

"Our calculations were wrong and, if I may make this confession, we are moving behind all the time because we have not the production or the resources to carry it out."

Bob Elliott Named Coach Of Queen's U.

Kingston, Sept. 3 (CP) — Bob Elliott of Kingston, former Queen's University football star and wartime coach here, is appointed coach of the Intercollegiate Union squad, the school's Athletic Board of Control announced today.

Elliott replaces Frank Tindall of Syracuse, N.Y., Queen's coach in 1939, who resigned yesterday because of pressing business reasons. He was to have taken over the club this fall after war services interrupted his coaching here.

The Queen's team scheduled to open the Intercollegiate Rugby Union schedule in Montreal against McGill University Oct. 11, was coached last year by Doug Monsson of Chicago.

No practice sessions have been staged yet.

State-Wide Search Ends Tragically When Body Found

Hamilton, Sept. 3 —(CP)— Provincial and state-wide search for Douglas B. Jones, wealthy lumber executive of Snyder, N.Y., ended tragically today when his body floated into the shore at Crystal Beach, Ont. He was last seen at a dance early Monday at the Buffalo Canoe Club, Point Abino, Ont.

Mr. Jones, 30-year-old former U. S. coastguardsman, was to have raced his yacht, "Windsong" on Labor Day from Port Maitland to Buffalo. When he failed to appear at starting time a search was made.

Later his dinghy was picked up four miles away by the steamer Lebanon. Mystery surrounded the finding of the small craft as the oars were stowed and the painter was inside the boat, showing that it had neither been used, nor had it broken away from its mooring.

United States Coastguards and Provincial Police have made an intensive search since he was reported missing which only terminated this morning when an attendant at the Lake Erie pleasure resort reported to police that a body had floated in to shore.

TWO INJURED AT DEVIL'S ELBOW

Two persons were injured shortly after 1.30 a.m. today when the car in which they were riding went out of control near the "Devil's Elbow", Highland Avenue and crashed into a telephone pole before coming to rest in a badly wrecked condition.

The injured are Jim McKay, 290 Beresford Avenue, Toronto, and Miss Marylin Roland, 26 Old Mill Drive, Toronto. McKay suffered injuries to his back, and facial lacerations while Miss Roland sustained head injuries and body lacerations. Both were taken to hospital by the Martin Funeral Home ambulance.

The car was proceeding in an easterly direction when it swerved out of control and hurtled off the highway into the pole. The pole was not broken.

AUGUST HOTTER THAN LAST YEAR

August this year was hotter than the same month a year ago, as everyone has been saying all along. Official figures on the weather show that the high for August, 1946 was only 87.5 while this year the mercury soared to 93. The low for 1946 was 41 while this year the lowest that was recorded was a balmy 45.5.

The mean temperature for the month, and this is what counts anyway, was 68.5 for August 1946 while this year it was 72.5. That mean temperature figure is the reason that it was so hard to get to sleep at night.

There was a heavier rainfall this month than in the same period last year. In 1946 the rainfall was 1.46 inches while this past month 1.66 inches of rain fell. All in all August past was a record-shattering month.

Owners Within Rights States City Solicitor

Owners of the Belvedere Hotel and the J. B. Boyce properties are entirely within their rights in blocking off the road running along the rear of their properties on the east bank of the river, members of city council were informed Monday evening by the city solicitor.

At a previous council meeting Alderman Hyde had asked that the solicitor inquire into the legal right of the above two proprietors in blocking off the north end of the once proposed Riverside Drive. He contended that the public had used the driveway for more than ten years, thus making it a public thoroughfare.

In his report to council City Solicitor Collins stated that there was nothing on the records to indicate there are any rights of way reserved for general public use on the property in question.

"Then this means that the Riverside Drive project is all off?" asked Alderman Allin.

To this Mr. Collins replied verbally and in the affirmative.

Tornado Relief Fund:

Cash Donations Are Needed Immediately for Stricken Families

Last Saturday morning broke clear and warm on the rolling farm and timberlands of North Hastings. It was typical Autumn day with a tang of coolness in the air. Farmers went about their daily toil. Little children played in the garden, or about their homes. All was right with the world.

Little did the farming folk of this district know that death and disaster, even then lurked around the corner.

A few hours later, an unsuspecting populace felt the full force of Nature's power. A twisting funnel of death and destruction spiralled out of the northwest wreaking havoc in its narrow path. Lightning flashed down from sullen black thunderheads. The reverberations of thunderclaps added to the din. Deluging rain poured down as the storm took a heavy toll of property and timber.

"Roaring like six freight trains" the tornado struck, savagely, ruthlessly. The mighty forces of nature were pitted against the puny efforts of man.

Several Families Homeless

Today several families in the Coe Hill district, which felt the full force of the storm, are homeless. One of their members is dead. Seventeen children and several adults, literally blown to the skies amid the debris of the homes, have not a stitch of clothing to call their own. This will be forthcoming. But vitally needed is funds with which houses can be built.

No time must be lost. Winter is around the corner. And winter in this district is severe. These "orphans of the storm" eked a living from the rock-strewn farms they call home. They are not blessed with a large amount of money.

At the present time six farm homes lie in matchwood, strewn over the desolated countryside. Furniture has been destroyed. These victims of Nature's wrath need help and need it immediately.

Warm-hearted neighbors are coming to the rescue with food and some clothing. The Red Cross is helping to a great extent. But those of us, who reside "on the outside" fortunately outside the path of the tornado, are asked to contribute funds in order that these victims may be housed this winter.

Must Act Quickly.

"We have to act and act quickly," Reeve Rollins said, "if we are to provide shelter for these people before winter sets in. Everything will have to be built from the ground up as there is not a stick left which can be used in reconstruction. Furniture has been smashed or blown to the four winds. There is absolutely nothing left in the path of the storm . . . This village will do all in its power to afford relief, but we will need outside assistance and need it right away. Time is the important factor. . . . The situation is very grim."

The Ontario Intelligencer has today inaugurated a Tornado Relief Fund to aid these unfortunate people. All donations of cash will be gratefully received, no matter how large or small and immediately forwarded to the stricken area.

Appeal is Urgent.

Remember, Belleville could have been in the path of the storm. We must be thankful and grateful that we were saved the terror, death and destruction that the people of North Hastings experienced. It might have been any or all of us.

The appeal is urgent. As Reeve Rollins has stated, no time must be lost. Nature, like time, waits for no man. Action, immediate action, is imperative. Please send your cash donations to the offices of this newspaper—and do it now.

Official receipts will be issued.

Aerial Ladder, New Pumper Purchased by City Council For Fire Dept., Cost is $45,000

Purchase of an aerial ladder and a new pumper for the local fire department was ratified by city council at their first open meeting of the fall season held Tuesday evening. The new equipment will cost $45,000 and will be purchased from Bickell-Seagrave, the order for the two pieces of equipment to be made as soon as possible.

A by-law for the borrowing of the necessary money for the purchase of the new fire fighting equipment was given three readings in council, the cost to be spread over a ten-year period.

With the reading of the recommendation for the purchase of the new fire fighting equipment Mayor Frank Follwell stated that he supported the purchase of the aerial ladder from Bickell-Seagrave, but urged that a local dealer might be considered for the pumper. "If conditions are equal I think the Belleville dealer should be considered," he said.

The Mayor urged that a Belleville dealer for Mack trucks, an American company now manufacturing fire pumpers, should be considered.

Here, however, Alderman Allin urged the purchase of Canadian-made equipment, while Alderman Chamberlain stated that Bickell-Seagrave were willing to stand by their original offer of the two pieces of equipment for $45,000 despite the fact that prices had increased ten percent. It meant a saving of more than $4,000 for the city, he pointed out.

All Canadian Made.

Chairman of Fire Alderman Newton Wilbur pointed out that Bickell-Seagrave equipment was all Canadian made and had been recommended by Fire Chief William Lynch. In addition the company could give quick service on their equipment. "Time is important," he urged, "there is no reason for holding this up."

Alderman Butler pointed out that Bickell - Seagrave and LaFrance had been the only two firms to submit tenders when these were called by the city.

"The committee appointed by council recommended this equipment and I think the council should support their recommendation," submitted Alderman Vanner.

When the vote was called on the recommendation for the purchase of the equipment, the recommendation carried by a 7-6 margin. Approving the purchase were Aldermen Armstrong, Butler, Chamberlain, Harvey, Tice, Vanner and Wilbur. Opposing were Mayor Follwell and Aldermen Allin, Clarke, Duffy, Hyde and Lazenby.

P.U.C. Requested by Council Not to Sign Water Agreement Until Certain Areas Defined

The supply of water from the Belleville Filtration Plant to new residences being constructed in the townships adjoining the city boundaries came up for discussion at council Tuesday evening the ultimate decision being the passing of a recommendation requesting the Public Utilities not to sign any agreement with Sidney or Thurlow for the supply of water until such time as the corporation decides what areas will be taken into the city by annexation.

Discussion on the matter was opened by the reading of a communication from the city solicitor advising that the title of the Reynolds property in the College Street area was now vested with the city. Plans are to construct Integrated Housing in the area, the construction to be under the direction of J. R. Rashotte, local contractor.

"If the Public Utilities Commission is going to supply water to these new residences, they will always remain in the township," stated Alderman Tice. "No one wants to pay city taxes if city conveniences are provided in the township."

Should be Sold Direct

Here Alderman Butler declared that the city should look favorably on the supply of water to veterans' houses outside the city and claimed that the present procedure of supplying such water should be brought up to date. Water should be sold directly to the user and not first to the township, he said.

Alderman Allin interjected that there could be more cooperation shown in the installation of water and sewer services. Considerable money was lost to the city through separate trenches being dug for these services he said. It was shown the Dept. of Health, Toronto, will not allow two services in the same trench.

The alderman later brought in a recommendation to ask the ratepayers whether they still favored the water utility being left with the Public Utility commission, or whether it should be turned back to the city. The recommendation was referred back for consideration.

Read Proposed Agreement

Here Mayor Follwell read for the benefit of councillors a proposed agreement between the Commission and the township of Thurlow regarding the supply of water from city mains to the township. The agreement would run for ten years with metered water to be supplied to the township at the rate of 15 cents per 1,000 gallons.

The agreement appeared favorable to the Commission but there were many angles to be considered insofar as the city was concerned, according to the Mayor.

Alderman Tice stated the city should determine the area to be annexed to the city and begin annexation proceedings at once. "Under the present program Thurlow township will give garbage collection and fire protection and take the taxes," he said.

Alderman Chamberlain thought the proposition may be costly for the city if the Commission went ahead over the heads of council in supplying water to the township, while Alderman Clarke wondered if the Commission had the legal right to sell water outside the city. Alderman Armstrong also felt the city should get busy with annexation proceedings.

Limit to Output

Here the Mayor pointed out that the output of the city filtration plant had its limits, and it was quite possible that it would be called upon to supply considerable additional water as result of expansion in the city. Additional filtration beds could be added at the plant, but at a cost, he added.

Present agreement between the city and the township with regard to the supply of water will continue in force until the new agreement is signed. No action will be taken by the Commission with regard to the new agreement until members of council are fully acquainted with the proposition, stated the Mayor.

Board of Health Objects to Water Being Turned Off

Board of Health intervention and objection to water being shut off at the dressing rooms at the East and West Belleville playgrounds, thus inconveniencing tenants using the buildings as temporary living quarters was seen at council Tuesday night.

Briefly addressing council Glencoe E. Thompson, chairman of the Board of Health stated the two playground buildings were occupied by several families, including children, and that somebody had been good enough to cut off the water.

Possibly these families would be willing to pay for water, but they have not been asked, it was suggested.

The Board of Health chairman also expressed the displeasure of the board in the delay in the opening of the public lavatory on the market square. When no public lavatory facilities were available, several weeks ago the Board had ordered lavatories in the city hall basement cleaned up and these were not in good condition. He suggested that the new lavatory on the market square be placed under the jurisdiction of the Board of Health, and asked that council take action in having water turned on at the playgrounds.

Should Be Provided

Mayor Follwell agreed that it should be the business of the city to see that the people using playgrounds buildings as living accommodation should be provided with water, while Alderman Armstrong stated that inability to secure the necessary equipment had been holding up the completion of the public lavatory on the market square.

Alderman Duffy stated water at the playgrounds had been turned of at the direction of the Board of Education and that they had refused to have it turned back on.

Alderman Chamberlain considered it a possibility that families using the playgrounds buildings were not making any effort themselves to secure other living accommodation but Alderman Duffy returned that when people are thrown out onto the street, the city had moral obligation to provide accommodation.

Continuing he said that ten housing units were needed immediately for families who had no homes. The horse barns at the exhibition park could be used but the Parks Board had refused.

CRUISER MISSING

Boston, Sept. 3 (AP)—The United States coast guard last night reported that the 30-foot cabin cruiser Dorema with seven persons aboard has been missing since Saturday when she left the Dorchester Yacht Club for Marblehead. The craft, owned by Albert W. S. Donovan, of Boston, was unreported at Marblehead.

Heavy Agenda For Commission At First Meeting

Considerable business was transacted at the first meeting of the fall term for the Public Utilities Commission held on Tuesday afternoon and as the business was not completed, the meeting adjourned until next Monday afternoon. Chairman Russell Wotten was in the chair and Commissioner Duff and Follwell were in attendance.

The agreement with the surrounding townships, Thurlow and Sidney, respecting the supplying of water was read by the Manager, O. H. Scott, and upon completion Mayor Follwell asked that the agreement eb laid on the table until the next regular meeting of the Commission. The Mayor thought that the Council should have some knowledge of the agreement and whether the members were in favor of the agreement seeing that annexation of certain parcels of land was before the Council at the present time. "It is certain that if these residents in the townships secure water they will not be inclined to come into the city," said His Worship. Thurlow Township has signed the agreement. Water will be sold under the agreement for 15 cents per thousand gallons. The Manager stated that the purification plant was nearly to capacity and if more service is added it would be necessary to increase the plant.

Gas Plant Discussed

The gas plant was under discussion for a considerable time and the Manager stated that at the present time there was a deficit of $14,500 made up of $7,500 from 1946 and $7,000 till the first of August. He also stated there were outstanding cheques to the amount of $6,797 which could not be paid because the utility did not have the funds as no money had been received from the Corporation. Mr. Scott said that revenue was down, coal was dearer and many of the consumers were turning over to electricity. The Mayor promised that money would be forthcoming in the near future.

100 feet of the westerly portion of the Boyce Estate on the West Hill will be purchased by the Commission at a price of $10 per foot frontage and will be used to further beautify the Purification Plant.

Review Given

Further discussion of the gas plant revealed that at the present time 194 users did not use $10 worth of gas in a year, 159 that did not use $20, 119 that did not use $30, 57 that did not use $40, 39 that did not use $50, 11 that did not use $60, eight that did not use $70, two that did not use $80 and four that used over $100. In 1941 there were 756 domestic users and there were 39 that did not use $5 worth, 66 between $5 and $10, 147 between $10 and $20, 76 between $20 and $30 and 78 over $30. At that time there were 406 range users.

The Lloyd Construction Company may be engaged to complete the dock at the Purification Plant. It was also learned from an inquiry at the last meeting that the floodlights at the Exhibition Grounds are being supplied with power at a cost only of the power used plus the service charge. A letter was received from the Northern Electric Company informing the Commission that 16 of the key employees contemplated building homes in a new subdivision opened by Bert Docter on the golf course property and a request was made for water services and sewers. The Company will be informed that a resolution on the Commission's books states that those seeking water will have to deal with the township rather than the municipality as the lots are outside the City limits.

Want Estimate of Cost

Mayor Follwell inquired of the progress of the pipe across the Moira River and he was informed that no plans had been made due to the higher cost because of the high level of the river. It was moved that an estimate of the cost at the present time be obtained. Front Street lighting came under fire and it was learned that due to the shortage of steel the light standards will not be available until the end of December and it was suggested that the cable be ordered so that all the material would be on the ground when construction work started and that the cable be purchased from the Northern Electric Company.

Roofing for the Public Utilities building and the Purification Plant was discussed and after the tenders were read, it was decided to have an inspector look at the roofs and give a report before any contract or work was proceeded with. The Mayor made a number of enquiries one asking for the holiday schedule of the Commission, and also what arrangements were being made to charge for power for the artificial ice plant at the Arena.

Despite the fact that it was slightly "off season" Kiwanis Club members took a mythical tour to Florida at their regular weekly luncheon on Tuesday as they were addressed by one of their more-travelled members — Arthur Baragar — who annually migrates between Belleville and his winter home in Florida.

Giving the highlights of a motor tour to the sunny south, Mr. Baragar described the route through the 1,000 Islands as the most interesting, in that it afforded the opportunity of passing through the famed Adirondack Mountains and of travelling on Bear Mountain highway and of seeing West Point and New York city.

"But at the same time," he added, "do not forget to keep your eyes opened between Belleville and the International Bridge at Ivy Lea. Some of the prettiest scenery of the entire route is there."

Trip in Itself

New York city was described as being a trip in itself but there was still a great deal that could be seen merely by passing through via the George Washington Bridge, seeing the Battery, the Statue of Liberty and crossing to the mainland by way of the Holland tunnel.

From there he advocated taking the skyway road over Newark and passing on to Philadelphia, the cradle of American liberty. The battlefield of Gettysburg and Fredericksburg at the head of the Shenandoah Valley with its famed orchards and underground caverns were "musts".

From here there was a choice of routes, either over the hills to Washington and Williamsburg, or if a coastal route was preferred, down the skyline drive through the Cumberland Mountains to Atlanta.

Jacksonville, the first city to be reached in Florida was apt to be disappointing as it appeared as a typical northern business city. Soon however the tropical country was reached as one passed through Daytona Beach and Orlando, but Palm Beach was actually the first tropical city.

Can See Gulf Stream

Here the speaker described the Gulf Stream as being actually discernible from the ocean through its distinctly different coloring. Miami and Miami Beach were two separate cities, the first being the business centre and Miami Beach, the playground of the world.

A trip through the Everglades was described as being interesting the first time through, while Key West was well worthwhile but possibly monotonous as one passed over innumerable bridges.

Pontagonda, Mr. Baragar's home town, is on the west coast of Florida at the head of a bay similar to the Bay of Quinte. Here there was good fishing and a royal welcome for any Kiwanis members who happened to pass through.

BIRTHS

TREVERTON — Mr. and Mrs. Earle Treverton (nee June Bell) wish to announce the birth of their son, Percy Earle, at the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday, August 31st., 1947.

WEAVER — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weaver are happy to announce the arrival of their son, at the Belleville General Hospital on Thursday, August 28th., 1947 — a brother for Linda.

CULHANE — Mr. and Mrs. Leo Culhane (nee Stella Callaghan) wish to announce the birth of a daughter, Donna Marian, at the Belleville General Hospital on August 30th., 1947.

THEOBALD — Gordon and Mary Theobald are happy to announce the arrival of their baby son (Clark Ian) on September 2nd., 1947, at the Belleville General Hospital.

HEARING IMPROVED

Teaneck, N.J., Sept. 3 (AP)—The hearing of four-year-old Howard Sturm of Midland Park was "slightly improved" by an airplane ride taken in an attempt to cure him of the total deafness he has suffered for a year, Dr. Sigmar Hilfer, said last night.

The boy will be given "several more" rides, said Dr. Hilfer, who suggested the experiment in an attempt to cure the deafness which came on when Howard was stricken with acute spinal meningitis.

Bateman Motors, Ltd. Opens New Sales, Service Station

Introducing a new departure in conveniences and facilities for automotive sales and service, the new home of Bateman Motors Ltd., North Pinnacle Street, is a distinct credit to its owner, C. Arthur Bateman, and to the city of Belleville.

Complete with every conceivable facility for the servicing of automotive equipment, the new building has well appointed departments for every phase of business operations from its fully modern and well lighted office, right through the service and parts departments, to the ultra modern paint shop and washing and greasing racks.

Space, the commodity greatly lacking in many present day garages, has been kept foremost in mind in the planning and building of the new home for Bateman Motors Ltd., which Tuesday morning saw the transfer of business from the previous site on Moira Street.

To Handle Supertest Products.

Built on the site of what was previously Doyle's Terrace and of another double frame house just to the south, the new and handsome structure rests on a lot with a 225 foot frontage on Pinnacle Street. The site has a depth of approximately 190 feet, giving space to spare for the building proper measuring 100 x 70 feet and for the office annex 25 x 45 feet. Here besides the service department will be constructed a modern service station where Supertest products will be handled.

Distributors for Dodge and DeSoto cars and Dodge trucks for Belleville and district, and distributors of Oliver tractors, farm equipment and Goodison threshers for seven counties in Eastern Ontario, Bateman Motors Ltd. will serve a wide range of customers from their new home. The new business site is the result of unbounded faith in the future prospects of the automotive and farm machinery industry.

Started in 1941

For ten years a partner with the local insurance firm of Haig, McDougall and Bateman Ltd., the proprietor of Bateman Motors Ltd., turned to the automotive business early in 1944 when he secured the local distributorship for Dodge and DeSoto. Farm machinery lines were soon added and from there the business of the firm has rapidly widened.

General manager of the firm is Morley C. Ward who has charge of all departments. The office which has up-to-date equipment, including dictaphone, is in charge of Ambrose Whalen who has under him three female office employees.

Carrying a full line of parts to cover a long range of different automobile makes, the parts department and stock room is planned for convenience and availability of the needed part. This department is in charge of Kenneth McKnaught who has two assistants, assuring of prompt service for the customers in a hurry. Over the parts department is a mezzanine floor for added storage space.

Repair All Cars

Qualified Class "A" mechanics under L. J. Boyer as service manager and with Lee Bradshaw as assistant, staff the service department where repairs on all types of cars, trucks and tractors are featured. The service department features the most modern greasing equipment by Alemite.

Adjacent to the service department is the paint shop which is completely closed off to prevent odors permeating throughout the main building. The paint shop is in charge of Fred Davis, who is unsurpassed in this particular field. The shop features vapor proof bulb lighting and fibre glass filters for safety.

Concrete Block Construction

As for the building itself, the concrete block construction with its office annex extending to the street, strikes a new departure in garage construction.

It is heated by steam blowers and radiators; has high overhead doors accommodating the highest vehicles on the road and has every facility for the working comfort of the many employees.

No expense has been spared and there are lockers and special washrooms for the mechanics, while special washrooms are provided for the office staff. Offices and parts departments are illuminated by fluorescent lighting.

Construction of the new building was under the personal direction of Mr. Bateman while W. A. Watson, local architect, drew the plans.

Symbolic of Britain's powerful air strength, during the last war, 16 four-engined Lincoln Bombers of No. 617 "Dam-Buster" Squadron landed at Trenton Air Station yesterday afternoon, after a tour of the United States and a brief aerial visit to the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto.

The squadron will remain in Trenton until Friday, Sept. 5. It plans to take off on that date for Gander, Newfoundland, where it will install long-range fuel tanks for its trans-Atlantic flight, and is scheduled to arrive at its home base at Bimbrook, Lincolnshire on Sept. 15.

During their stay at Trenton, members of the squadron both air and ground crew will be taken to Toronto via bus on a tour of the Canadian National Exhibition.

The squadron circled the Trenton Station and took twelve minutes to land. It was greeted by Air Vice Marshal E. E. Middleton, CBE air officer commanding Central Air Command, and Group Captain H. H. Rutledge, OBE, commanding officer of the station. The squadron was led on its flight to Trenton by Flight Lieutenant Jim Crowe, DFC and Bar.

In attendance at the arrival of the famous "Dam-Busters," besides the commanding officers were Air Commodore W. W. Brown, Chief Staff Officer; and other members of the staff.

Garbed in their respective overalls of the blue of the flying crews and the white of the ground crews, the squadron personnel formed a colorful picture as they paraded from the huge aircraft to the square where they were inspected by Squadron Leader A.G. Lang, DFC and Air Vice Marshal Middleton. Many of the men were trained in Canada and some have relatives in Montreal, Toronto and Oshawa.

GETS NEW POSITION

St. Catharines, Sept. 3 — (CP) — E. M. Nason, assistant city engineer of St. Catharines for the last 26 months, will leave here Saturday to become director of public works at Saint John, N.B., it was announced last night at city council meeting.

Clothing and Furniture For Storm Victims Should Be Sent to City Hall

Belleville citizenry, ever cognizant of the needs of victims of war, catastrophe, or any other disaster, has once more rallied to the aid of the stricken people of North Hastings who were deprived of homes, furniture, cattle and barns in the tornado which slashed a path of desolation through two counties last Saturday.

The Red Cross rushed to the aid of the stricken victims immediately upon receipt of the news. Consignments of blankets were sent from Toronto while President Morley Duff of the Belleville branch ordered further supplies from the Bancroft area."

"The Red Cross here stands ready to assist in any way possible" Mr. Duff said, and is anxious and willing to do whatever it can.

Today Mayor Frank Follwell received a communication from Reeve Clarke Rollins, of Coe Hill village requesting assistance. Money clothing, furniture is immediately needed.

But well ahead of the Reeve's letter came offers of voluntary assistance. Members of Quintena Rebekah Lodge generously offered to sponsor an appeal. Another came from the staff of the District Weights and Measures staff here.

Mayor Follwell realizing the generous gestures of these organizations, expressed his sincere appreciation of their acts, but decided that one central place should be allotted for the receipt of clothing and furniture.

The Ontario Intelligencer has inaugurated a Special Tornado Relief Fund for the receipt of cash donations, and all gifts of money should be sent or brought to the business offices of this newspaper.

Arrangements for the receipt of clothing were completed this morning and potential donors should call Telephone Number 327, the City Hall, or leave their parcels at the City Fire Department Upper Front Street. Those who cannot deliver their gifts of clothing, if they call the above number will have their packages called for.

police or other officials. Railway officials announced yesterday, however, that a thorough investigation into the wreck would be held. In Ottawa the Board of Transport Commissioners added that they too would enquire into the disaster.

While the coroner's jury, sworn to duty last night, was dismissed for an indeterminate period after viewing the scorched remains of the victims, the lone undertaking parlor at Transcona was filled with groups of anxious relatives and friends of the missing all evening.

Efforts to identify the dead had meagre results. Only two, Gaye Lewis of Transcona, engineer on the "Campers" Special, and Mrs. Albert Simpson of St. Vital, a Winnipeg suburb, were definitely identified.

Tentative identification of two of Mrs. Simpson's daughters, Winnie and Betty, was also made, while less certain identification was made of Donna Barlow, 17-year-old neighbor of the Simpsons.

Railway officials said that a complete list of those missing was almost impossible to compile. The only person who knew exactly how many passengers the Campers' Special had carried, Conductor Fred Skogsberg, was among the missing. His ticket receipts were believed to have been destroyed when fire made a screaming inferno of what had been a happy trainload of holiday makers returning from a Labor Day weekend at Minaki, Ont.

While relatives and friends returned to the Transcona morgue again today, hoping that in a second visit they might recognize a watch, ring, bracelet or locket as belonging to the missing, work was resumed at Dugald of clearing away the maze of debris covering the tracks by the little red-walled flag station.

Their overnight rest was the first the workmen had had since the collision took place late Monday. Even before they retired last night carloads of spectators thronged the area, anxious to get a first-hand glimpse of the wrecked train.

Twelve R.C.M.P. constables were needed to control the traffic, while others were constantly on the alert to prevent the almost 10,000 visitors from pushing their way through the ash-strewn wreckage.

The gravel highway leading from Winnipeg to Dugald, 20 miles east, was filled with dust from the wheels of passing cars, hiding the grain stooks in nearby fields from view.

Today the number of visitors was down, only the odd automobile gliding to a stop at the small village. The workmen continued sifting through the ashes. Police officials said that some of the dead would probably never be discovered, even if the sifting continued for a week, so devastating had been the flames which swept the train.

The second baggage car had been the first to blaze, flames bursting forth immediately following impact of the two engines. Then the coaches behind, one by one, were caught in the spreading tenacles of the flames,

Tornado Victims Need Help

The death, injury and property damage such as caused by the storm on Saturday in north Hastings are one of the prices we must pay for the vagaries of nature on the rampage. The miracle of the disaster was that there were not more deaths than the one reported so far. Only the fact that the path of the tornado was principally in uninhabited, wooded country held the casualty list so low.

No one who has not seen the results of the force of a great wind storm can visualize the destruction that lies in its wake. Our tallest trees and trees with the strongest fibres are as match-wood to the wind. This tornado laid trees in windrows so that what was once a splendid forest is now a mass of tangled tree trunks impenetrable to all but the smallest animals.

Press pictures display scenes familiar to us but which have been taken formerly in United States areas where storms of this nature are more or less an annual occurrence. Buildings were completely obliterated with their structural material lying, scattered and broken, over the countryside.

* * *

The unfortunate victims of this catastrophe were families who cannot stand their losses without help from neighbors and others from outside the district. Farms in the affected area are small generally, and their owners are therefore people in modest circumstances. Sympathy will naturally be extended to them from all sides but something more substantial is needed to rehabilitate them in the shortest possible time. They must have homes and their barn buildings must be reconstructed before winter arrives.

The Red Cross has forwarded already a substantial amount of blankets and bedding but clothing is needed as well. But over and beyond this a considerable sum of money is required to purchase supplies and tools, furniture and kitchen utensils as well as the incidentals of small but important nature which go with home-making and agriculture.

* * *

In order to speed the matter this newspaper will be glad to accept cash donations to a relief fund for tornado victims. Simply mail cheques or money orders to this office or come in and make a donation at the desk. Think of this matter as something which might have happened right here in Belleville and how much help from outside would be appreciated, and then act as we would expect others to do. Donations of any amount will be gratefully accepted and promptly acknowledged.

Still Potent

There may be long-range rockets on the way and long-range planes that make anything we have known before rank with the horse and buggy standard. But there is a long-range weapon that is a pretty old one and it has done quite a few things that people are apt to forget.

It caused a blackout of Boston in the First World War. Its depredations were watched along the Atlantic coasts, and its missiles landed in California and British Columbia in the Second World War. And it came close to beating us in both of these wars thinks the Hamilton Spectator.

The U-boat, of course, now looming up as a potentially vital weapon in any future conflict.

It is reported that American naval authorities are considerably worried about the rapid building of a submarine fleet by the Russians, with all the ingenious new devices that Hitler's scientists had perfected as the last war drew to a close, and luckily for us could not use.

Indeed, the U-boat that Germany started with in 1939 was a primitive affair compared to what came out into the oceans four and five years later.

The German raiders started with an underwater speed of not much more than 7 or 8 knots; ended with speeds variously estimated at from 15 to 20.

They could at first stay below the surface only for a relatively short time before having to come up to re-charge; the "Schnorkel" gave them a breathing apparatus that got rid of exhaust fumes and brought fresh air in, thus extending their "unseen" cruising range to enormous distances and making them relatively safe from radar detection.

With incredible speed and skill the British navy found counter-measures for all these inventions. It is still suggested that there were others about which the public knows nothing, and that might—had the war gone on—changed the whole complexion of things.

Yet in spite of all these techniques there is still one great advantage of the U-boat that sounds painfully obvious, but is its most insidious power; it is able to elude radar and interceptory detection in a way that aerial missiles cannot. Over the vast stretches of the ocean its marauding tactics were most easily combatted in a concentrated battle; in its ability to cover great distances without being spotted, it has no peer.

Now with the atom bomb and its fearful possibilities when detonated under water—if one exploded in New York harbor the city would be uninhabitable—there is some reason for American concern about Russian U-boats. The Russians are poor technicians, and poor naval strategists, but with German assistance and German devices they might produce a U-boat of menacing strength.

Another Asteroid is Found

A rock two or three miles in diameter, cruising in a circular orbit around the sun out in space some 50,000,000 miles beyond the earth, has been discovered by the Lick Observatory in California. This asteroid, much too faint to be seen by the naked eye, was detected by the photographic plate.

Something like 2,000 asteroids have been catalogued, and new one are continuously being found so there is little that is novel about them. However, there was a time when they were of prime interest to astronomers and organized effort was put forth to search the heavens for them.

This interest reached its peak toward the end of the 18th century. William Herschel, a German musician who went to England and took up the study of astronomy and mathematics, built one of the finest telescopes of his time and was rewarded by discovery of the planet Uranus.

Until that time only Mercury, Venus, the Earth, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn were known. Already, however, a geometric pattern of planetary distances from the sun had been worked out. The position of Uranus fitted in with the pattern and aroused new interest in it.

There was, so to speak, an empty seat between Mars and Jupiter, so astronomers went to work in earnest to find the planet that should be there. An organization was formed for this purpose.

On the first day of the 19th century Giuseppe Piazzi found what was believed to be the missing planet and named it Ceres. It revolves around the sun in about four and one half years and has a diameter just under 500 miles. Under the most favorable conditions it is just visible to the naked eye.

About a year later another was found at about the same distance from the sun and named Pallas. Two more turned up soon after. Then about 40 years later, with improved methods to assist them, astronomers turned to the job again and found miniature planets by the dozens in that belt between Mars and Jupiter where mathematical calculations said there should be a planet.

Out of these discoveries the theory evolved that a planet once was situated between Mars and Jupiter but had broken into pieces, the fragments being called asteroids. Astronomers conjecture that many thousands exist in the solar system. Since they move about the sun at comparatively high speeds, they make a streak on the photographic plate in contrast with the pin point of a star. That is how they are detected from time to time.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

JUST FOLKS

ADVICE TO HIM

You shouldn't marry if you think
  Your faults she'll never see,
And never hide away the ink,
  Forgetful where, to be.
Though now she's delicate and sweet
  And fragrant at your side,
It may be onions she will eat
  Soon after she's a bride.

You shouldn't marry her unless You're sure you'll never frown
To find a lady's morning dress
  Is not an evening gown.
Though now with her 'tis joy to sup,
  Her manners glorified,
She may dunk doughnuts in her cup
  Soon after she's a bride.

Make sure your love can undergo
  The changes marriage brings.
To err is human, as you know,
  And none of us has wings.
Though now no flaw in her you see,
  Since you are starry-eyed,
You'll learn how human she can be
  Soon after she's a bride.

Duke of Windsor But Not Duchess May be Invited

London, Sept. 3 — (CP) — "A Londoner's Diary," gossip column in Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, commented today on reports the Duke of Windsor, but not the Duchess, would be invited to Princess Elizabeth's wedding and said that "any such discrimination against the Duchess would be outrageous."

"What has the Duchess done that she should be held up to continuing ridicule in this way?" the columnist asked. "As the wife of the bride's uncle, if for no other reason, the Duchess should be accorded the dignity of an invitation to her niece's marriage."

The paper said the report that the Duchess would not be invited came from the United States. It said the Duke would not come if asked alone. Buckingham Palace said the invitation list has not been completed.

Fire-Wielding Sons of Freedom Surrender Quietly

Nelson, B.C., Sept. 2 (CP)—The fire-wielding Sons of Freedom, radical Doukhobor sect which has spread its reign of terror through the pastoral west Kootenay Valley, are surrendering quietly to provincial police officers endeavoring to end the incendiarism.

Police swooped down on the hill-top village of Krestova, B.C., twice yesterday arresting a total of 16 men and women. They were charged with the riotous destruction of property or with arson. The former carries a maximum penalty on conviction of life imprisonment, arson a maximum of 15 years.

Meanwhile five miles to the south, the orthodox settlement of Shoreacres, storm-centre in the sect war between the rival Doukhobor groups was undisturbed. All but two of 19 people apprehended during the weekend were charged in connection with the burning of buildings at Shoreacres.

To date, 26 of the men and women who have spread fear throughout the orthodox Doukhobor settlements in the district with wild night raids which left some 30 schools, communal houses and private home smoking ruins, have been taken into custody and charged with arson.

The Sons twice have admitted responsibility for the acts, stating that the buildings were fired as part of their campaign to win over recruits to their faith, claimed by them to be the true Doukhobor religion. They claim the buildings burned were being used for purposes other than those for which they were built.

DEAFNESS, HEAD NOISES AND SNORING

Once a correspondent told me how he had surprised his wife—or maybe had surprised him — what would you say? — anyway one of them was astonished when he or she chanced to catch the other making horrible grimaces before a mirror etc., etc., but the story has a happy ending, for as it proved, the grimaces were a system of regular exercises I had recommended for deafness and tinnitus—tinnitus being a 10 dollar word for head noises.

I'd print complete directions for the exercises here, if I dared. When I was young and in my prime I had more courage about that than I have now. Bitter experience has made me cautious. It is not funny when your instructions, direction or recipes get mangled by the printers, and I don't intend to lose any more sleep worrying about the consequences. So the instructions for these exercises which I recommend for deafness and tinnitus or head noises are given only in the pamphlet Deafness and Tinnitus, available on written request if you provide stamped envelope bearing your address. Do not use a clipping, please.

In the chapter on snoring in Little Lesson No. 21 How To Breathe (for No. 21 send 25 cents and stamped self addressed envelope) these grimace exercises are described among other corrective measures. Numerous readers have reported that practice of the exercises seemed to overcome snoring.

That is reasonable enough, especially the "hike" and "k" exercise, which takes up slack or tends to prevent undue relaxation of throat muscles—and relaxation is a cause of snoring. If you are a snorer perhaps you can catch yourself at it if you set a watch upon yourself as you drift in the borderland between waking and sleeping. If you catch yourself beginning to snore even a little, do a few "hikes" and "k's" immediately—that is, hold your throat in the position it is in to sound the "k" at the end of the word "hike.". That will stop the snoring for a while.

K.M.E. says he did the exercises for about three weeks and found that he again heard the birds so plainly that he thought they must be fighting. Then he listened to his wrist watch and for the first time heard it tick. Then for a while the world he moved in seemed noisy and the telephone seemed so loud that it startled him. Now he has put aside the mechanical hearing aid he has used for years. He is so grateful...he is keeping up with the exercises. If I'll let him know what brand ... (Thank you sir, but I do not use 'em. However, if you have e'er a pipe and some Walnut Blend about you, I have a match.)

Some persons may breathe almost soundlessly when asleep but the breathing of a healthy person when asleep is generally audible. Audible breathing is not snoring, altho the distinction between them depends considerably upon the sensitivity of the auditor.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Acid

Citrus fruit acid ceases to be acid after it enters the stomach, I believe you say. Into what does it turn and how soon? (H.W.M.)

Answer — The citric acid in orange, lemon, lime, grapefruit etc., is oxidized in the liver and converted into carbonates of the alkalies such as potassium, sodium, magnesium carbonates and thus it increases alkalinity of the blood, decreases acidity of the urine. Do not confuse acid-base balance in the blood and tissues with the hydrochloric acid of the gastric juice. Whether a patient with hyperacidity (with or without peptic ulcer) may take any citrus fruit or fruit juice depends upon the patient's individual experience—if such food or juice "agrees" the patient may take it with benefit.

Tobacco

I am forty, do not drink but smoke a lot. For the past two years I have had more and more itching or burning pains in the calves of my legs. Doctors say there isn't much known about Buerger's disease. Some advise me to quit smoking, others say the smoking doesn't cause it. (R.B.H.)

Answer — I'd quit smoking if I were in your place. The characteristic effect of tobacco is constriction of arterioles (the smallest arteries visible under microscope). Chapters about Buerger's disease (thrombo-angitis obliterans) in booklet about heart and artery diseases —CVD —for copy of booklet send twenty five cents and stamped envelope bearing your address.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How many Hessian soldiers served in America?

The number of Hessians who served with the British forces in America during the Revolution is estimated at 29,867.

Employing mercenaries was not unusual at that time. Several petty German states and Swiss cantons were in the habit of letting out their armed forces for hire. The British ministry of George III, himself Elector of the German kingdom of Hanover, wanted 50,000 soldiers and 28,000 sailors to suppress the American rebellion and it was unable to recruit that many men in the British Isles for this purpose. Attempts to get men from Holland and Russia failed.

In September, 1775, Landgrave Frederick II of Hesse-Kassel agreed to let the British have 22,000 men. Under the contract the Landgrave received seven pounds for each man and a bonus of 2,200 pounds for himself. The soldiers received the same pay as British soldiers. For each man killed the Landgrave received the amount of the levy-money, and three wounded men were counted as one killed. The Landgrave received a total of about 1,700,000 pounds, which he used to build the city of Kassel. Similar contracts for 3,000 men were made with the rulers of Brunswick, Analt, Waldeck and other German principalities.

Since the majority of these mercenaries came from Hesse-Kassel they were all known to the Americans as "Hessians." Frederick the Great of Prussia, perhaps more out of dislike for England than love for her Colonies, objected to Germans hiring out to a foreign power and is said to have threatened to charge them at the same rate as cattle when they passed through his territory.

The army brought over by Admiral Howe to New York in 1776 contained 10,000 Hessians, and Hessians fought in nearly every important engagement of the war from Long Island to Yorktown. Many of the Hessians used rifles instead of muskets and the British thought they would counteract the American riflemen. Actually the Hessian rifles were no match for the long-barreled rifles made by the gunsmiths among their German cousins on the American frontier. The Hessians—the original riflemen of Europe — were called "jagers."

The Declaration of Independence said that the King of Great Britain "is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation." Americans charged the Germans with all sorts of brutality and looked upon them as "Huns from Hell." James Fenimore Cooper (1789-1851) said when he was a boy "Hessian" was a term of contempt and it is still synonymous with "mercenary" or "venal person."

By June, 1777, nearly 15,000 of the British troops in America were Hessians. Growing hostility toward England in Germany made it hard to raise troops there after 1778. Opposition to the use of mercenaries against the Colonists was also strong in England. William Pitt condemned the practice in his famous speech in the House of Lords in 1777. Yet as late as 1781, just before Washington moved his army to Yorktown, Sir Henry Clinton was reinforced by 3,000 Hessians from overseas.

MONTREALROYALS MAY REPRESENT THE DOMINION

Only Go If Time Out is Given in Their Quebec Hockey Schedule

Montreal, Sept. 3. (CP)—The possibility arose today that Canada might be represented in hockey at the 1948 Olympic games by Montreal Royals, the Allan Cup champions, but there were provisos involved in the club's acceptance of a bid that seemed to tip the scales in the other direction.

Gus Ogilvie, manager of the Champs, said last night Royals would travel to Switzerland to compete in the Olympics providing arrangements could be made where they could obtain a layover in the Quebec Senior Hockey League schedule.

Ogilvie said Royals would have to be given a period of grace allowing them to fly to Europe, compete in the Olympic games and fly back. His announcement followed the disclosure in London by George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, that Royals had been given a bid to the Olympics.

Dudley expressed belief, in making the announcement, that Royals would not find it possible to make the journey to Europe, nor would any other top line team. The C.A.H.A. officials said that the time involved would mean too great a revamping of schedules for top teams to consider the proposal.

The invitation to Royals occasioned some surprise since the team's status had been under question as a result of the strict Olympic definition of an amateur. Some months ago Frank Selke, general manager of the Forum, said he couldn't see how Royals could compete in the Olympic because they were not amateurs but players who played hockey for money.

JERSEY GIANTS CLOSING IN FAST ON THE ROYALS

Can Take Over First Place by Winning and Montreal Losing

(By The Associated Press)

For the first time since early May Jersey City Giants can take over first place in the International League tonight provided they defeat the Bears in Newark while the league-leading Montreal Royals get tripped up by Rochester Red Wings.

Following last night's games, the scrappy Little Giants edged within a half game of the Royals by knocking off the Bears 12-4 while Montreal was held to a scoreless five-inning tie by Buffalo.

A heavy downpour ended the tight pitching duel between the Bisons' Tex Shirley and Al Gerheauser of the Royals with one out in the last half of the sixth.

It was the final game between the two teams and therefore cannot be replayed.

Jersey City walloped three Newark hurlers last night for 19 blows in winning 12-4 with Jack Graham collecting his 32nd home run of the season. Les Layton also homered for the Giants to tie their club record total of 128 set by the 1932 club. Frank Colman hit two round trippers for the Bears to give them 149 for the season and a club record. The old mark, set by the 1938 team, was 147.

Baltimore rattled 14 hits off three Syracuse pitchers to romp to a 9-1 victory behind the three-hit pitching of George Hooks. Babe Dahlgren hit his 18th home run for the Orioles.

Rochester and Toronto were not scheduled.

WEDDINGS

MELBOURNE—ROPER

Holloway Street United Church was the scene of a very lovely candlelight marriage service at seven o'clock on Saturday night, August 30th, when Helen Edith daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Alfred Roper, 33 Howard St., became the bride of Robert Cleland Melbourne, Toronto, son of Mrs. Robert Melbourne and the late Mr. Melbourne. Rev. J. A. Dilts performed the ceremony and the church was decorated with baskets of mixed gladioli and ferns. The organist was Mr. William Connor. Mr. Arnold Dilts sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony and Mrs. Arnold Dilts sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a floor-length gown of white slipper satin and lace which ended in a short train, a heart-shaped headdress of seed pearls and fingertip veil of embroidered French net and carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Jack Hunter, wore white silk eyelet embroidery with orchid satin headdress and mitts. The bridesmaids Miss Marion Wannamaker, cousin of the bride, wore white dress with green satin headdress and mitts. Contract spelled backward sounds like "to card knock." No word need be backward to knock experts. Some of them already do things in reverse. Like the showing of suits.

The order of choice of showing suits is: With equal lengths, the higher rank is bid first; with unequal lengths, first bid the longer. This is the normal manner of showing suit lengths.

♠Q J 10 2
♥A
♣A Q 3 2

With three suits of the same length, first bid the higher rank. Thus, open this hand with a bid of one spade. Strength has nothing to do with it. Only length and rank in suits that are biddable.

On the next round this hand will bid the diamond suit; providing diamonds is not bid by partner, this hand will mention the suit next. Always takeout before assist.

In this manner partner knows that the second mentioned suit is not longer than the first mentioned suit. Because the longer of two suits should be mentioned first in the normal policy.

Suppose partner bids a suit and then shows a different suit of lower rank. If he follows normal rules, he promises that the second suit is not longer than the first. Positively.

Suppose partner bids a suit and then shows a different suit of higher rank. If he follows normal rules, he promises that the second suit is shorter than the first. Absolutely.

Some experts form a habit of ignoring the showing of their suit lengths. They sacrifice this info in an attempt to show hand types of varying degrees of strength. This is known as reversing.

By reversing the order of suits, they attempt to show partner a stronger hand. Or the other way round. Or sideways. Doing things in reverse has been a favorite pastime of experts.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 3 —(AP) — Tough luck, girls, you might as well start ripping out that hemline. Because Hollywood's famous women are tumbling for the much-vaunted long skirts.

Film stars have long led the pack when it comes to establishing new fashions. Let Gloria Glamoor appear on the screen with a rose in her hair, and millions of housewives will show up at breakfast that way.

Though it wasn't the idea of the film stars to lower skirts (legs being an important commodity here), the girls are apparently following the dictates of the style experts. Here are the answers I got from my query, "What do you think of the new long skirts:"

Irene Dunne: "We'll all be wearing them soon. Fashion arbiters are the most arbitrary and determined people in the world. Look at the family album for proof."

Betty Hutton: "I like them. Men have had the privilege of ogling for too long a time; now let them use their imagination."

Susan Hayward: "They are a boon to American womanhood. They make it easier to get in and out of a car without showing the upper leg."

Ann Southern: "I'm all for them. They make short girls look better."

Dorothy Lamour: "Why should women follow every whim of fashion? Long skirts are one of the silliest. Why should a girl cover up pretty legs and discard a whole wardrobe?"

Loretta Young: "I'm in favor of lowering, but not to the ankle. That makes skirts look shrouded."

Maureen O'Hara: "I think they are more lady-like. It is more provocative to lift the skirt and show the calf than to expose a bony knee."

Final word on this momentous matter comes from Bob Hope. Says he:

"Women are never satisfied. Now that they can get nylons, they want to cover them up."

Sights and Sounds

Bob Hope playing nine holes with South Africa's Bobby Locke before going to work... Dick Powell, now tough cowboy in "Station West," twirling a six shooter ..... Lana Turner showing off her new feather bob for "Homecoming." That girl has more hair changes than Charles Boyer.

HORNS IN ON SHOW

EXPENSIVE STORK

One of the newest residents of the Philadelphia Zoo is this shoe-billed stork, sometimes known as a whale-head. The price tag on this fellow, whose habitat is in the upper reaches of the Nile River, reads $1,400. There's a friend for him in his new home who has been living at the zoo since 1928. The older resident is a man-hater because someone gave him cod-liver oil when he first arrived.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was running around the living room pertending I was equipped with radar and trying to see how close I could come to the ferniture without touching it, and I tripped over the skinny little gilt chair that ma bawt at the auction, and we both went over, and I got up all right but the chair had to stay down on account of one of its legs having broke off, and I thought, Oh boy she's going to be mad.

Meening ma on account of the gilt chair being among her favorite ferniture and I thought, Oh well, she'd probably feel even worse if it was my leg instead of the chair's.

Giving me a idea how to make her feel relieved instead of mad, and she was sewing in her room and I stuck my head in saying, Hay ma, I broke something.

Oh dear, I knew I heard a decided thump, ma said. Well, I might as well hear the worst, what did you break? she said, and I said, I broke a leg.

What, what do you mean, what are you talking about, come in here, ma said.

Which I did, and ma said, Why, you crazy silly thing, you're perfectly safe and sound.

G, ma, I didn't mean my leg, I meant the leg of a chair, I said, and ma said, Well do you think that was any way to tell me for land sakes? Did you think you're being funny? she said.

No mam, I said, and ma said, Did you think you're being smart?

No mam, I said, and she said, Then what do you think, or dont you think at all?

Yes mam, I think I made a mistake, I said.

And I quick went out before ma felt naturel enough to ask me what chair it was.

Groundwork Laid For Canada-Wide Bowling Tourney

London, Ont., Sept. 3 (CP)— Groundwork has been laid for a Canada-wide lawn bowling competition.

This was announced last night at a dinner which followed completion of provincial finals of the Ontario Lawn Bowling Association. Doubles honors went to C. Weymouth and A. S. Hustwitt of the Canada Club of Toronto while Charles Dennis of London Elmwoods captured the singles title.

Both Prof. Nelson Hart of London, President of the Canadian Lawn Bowling Council, and Harvey Hazelwood of Port Colborne, Ont., O.L.B.A. head, spoke of the possibility of a nine-province playoff for a Canadian lawn bowling title.

Prof. Hart said a recent trip through the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia convinced him that Western Canada lawn bowlers were in favor of a national competition.

"It would cost possibly $10,000 to $12,000 a year to operate the tournament but we expect within the next six months to find some company willing to come up with the money," said Prof. Hart.

Indoor winter lawn bowling has been successful in British Columbia, A. A. Langford, Honorary President of the Ontario Association, reported.

"The greens are regulation size, much similar to regular outdoor greens," he said. "Seating accommodation is provided and the clubs report they are able to pay their way in the winter and show a small profit."

Recently returned from a western tour, Mr. Langford said he found some greens only 90 feet long. He suggested that all clubs and associations stick to the regulation 126-foot green.

AT THE CAPITOL — Bob Hope finds it difficult to keep his mind on his favorite brunette, Dorothy Lamour, in their new co-starring comedy, "My Favorite Brunette," which comes Thursday to the Capitol Theatre. The Paramount release features Peter Lorre and Lon Chaney, who add to Bob's hilarious difficulties. On the same program Jimmy Wakely in "Six Gun Serenade."

Picton Dealer Hauling Ice From this Port

Point Traverse, Sept. 3 — A shortage of ice at Picton is making it necessary for one local dealer to haul his supplies from here, where a large quantity of ice is stored at the fishing colony.

Ice is also being transported to the Main Duck island, for the packing of lake fish brought into that fishery by commercial fishermen.

Praying Mantis

Farmers working in hay fields report that several specimens of praying mantis have been found.

Making their appearance in the county about 1936 the mantis was introduced from Europe and is believed to have reached Ontario by way of New York state. It is harmless except to other insects, is safe to handle and makes an interesting pet. They are one of our good immigrants since their food is mostly noxious insects. It is said that they are the only insect that can turn its head without turning its body, and it scratches itself like a dog.

U.S. Lawyers

The palatial cabin cruiser Uraad of Rochester, N.Y., called here over the weekend. Aboard the fine boat were four men, all of them Rochester lawyers. They indulged in some bass fishing before leaving this harbor on Sunday.

Seek Shelter

Seven boats, including cabin cruisers and sailing sloops, were forced to take shelter here on Saturday, out of a high southwest wind that blew over the lake.

Picks Up Passenger

An American owned seaplane from Rochester, N.Y., taxied into this harbor Monday forenoon, to take aboard a Mr. Milliman, president of the Rochester branch of the Central Trust and Savings Bank, and a companion.

Mr. Milliman was one of a fishing party in these waters aboard the sailing sloop Fairwind, when word was received of the sudden passing of a close associate.

A plane was immediately despatched to "pick up" Mr. Milliman and return him to Rochester. No Customs Office here, the plane called at Picton, secured clearance papers, and then put in here for its passengers.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Frank Sedore's Point Anne Wings continue their winning ways in the Intermediate "C" playdowns. Fresh from their third-game victory over Parham in Kingston on Saturday night, the Wings blanked the Wooler team 5-0 at the Point last night. It was a real pastime after the second innings with both Pat Maracle and Stacey, Point Anne and Wooler hurlers turning in masterful efforts.

• • •

The Woolerites kicked the ball around for four errors in the first two heats and these clustered with four bunched hits accounted for all the Point runs. Both teams stood out with their fielding after the two first stanzas and backed their pitchers to the hilt.

• • •

The teams meet for the second joust in Trenton on Thursday night under the floodlights at the Trenton Softball Park with the curtain raising at 8:30. Wooler appears to be well fortified in the pitch- and catching division while some of the infield and a couple of fielders look good. But some of their bobbles were easy ones, and they can't afford to commit 'em with a team like the Wings around.

• • •

Stacey, Wooler hurler, who has seen plenty of softball wars appears to have lost none of his cunning and speed and his fast one was smoking across the plate at times. McColl centrefielder for Wooler, is another husky who has ballplayer written all over him. The big fella pulled off a couple of sensational catches last night which would have gone for hits in any man's game.

• • •

But the prize catch package of last nights bundle of outfield clutches was that pulled down out of the ozone by Ole Cux Bennett. Austen, Wooler 1st baseman, leaned heavily into a fast Maracle shoot. The ball shot up in the air, and did a "High-O-Silver" due west and seemed to all intents and purposes headed for the Bay Bridge.

• • •

But it hadn't reckoned with the ability of Ole Cux, the demon rightfielder. He gathered up his creaking limbs pumped 'em up and down like pistons until the circulation was fair and the arteries softened up, hitched up his pants, started to hum "When the Ball is Poled up Yonder I'll be There," dug in his spikes, and started to run.

• • •

The ball described a wide arc in the sky. Cux shaded his eyes with his glove; squinted like a jack-rabbit with hay fever and tore off on another tack. The crowd was standing by this time and even the royal supporters of the honorable opposition, stood with mouths agape. The ball came down out of the sky kicked a couple of clouds out of the way, and decided to make a one point landing one quarter mile west of Cux's glove.

• • •

But Cux was equal to the vagaries of a baseball on the lam. As it neared the ground fully a dozen feet away, he leaped into the air. His glove wagged in the sunlight as if waving a tender good bye. A last despairing leap that would have done justice to a six-foot buck rabbit and there came a resounding plop. Cux looked down and couldn't believe his eyes. There between one thumb and two fingers lay the ball, humiliated but in good shape Cux threw on the emergency brakes, skidded to a slow stop, whirled and threw the ball to the infield. They're going to present the Point Anne City Hall to the veteran at a special ceremony next Good Friday.

• • •

According to our underground operator who spends most of his time hobnobbing with the beak-busting fraternity, this main bout between Glen Dafoe, Trenton's gift to the golden gloves welterweight championship and "Slugger" Hayes, who gets his mail up around Campbellford way, has all the earmarks of a grudge fight.

• • •

The battle will headline the card being offered by the Canadian Legion under the floodlights in Exhibition Park come Friday gloaming, and 'twill be the first time in the history of the city that such a sight has been offered to the leather-pushing faithful.

• • •

It seems as though the "Slugger" has been mulling the matter over in his mind since Dafoe was crowned king of the Hastings and Prince Edward welters, and has come to the conclusion that he (The Slugger) perhaps could cop a big chunk of the glory that goes with such a title. In fact he is of the opinion that had he been in the ring that night against Dafoe, the handsome Hiram Walker Company Trophy would now be adorning the trophy table of the Family Hayes in Campbellford.

• • •

Now M'sieu Dafoe, being a considerate lad, except when he is in the ring, has other ideas. He doesn't think for a minute that the Slugger can put the "bee" on him, nor his gloves for that matter. "He's just a nice young fellow, trying to get along" murmured La Dafoe, "but he has to learn a lesson some time. And I think next Friday night would be a most opportune time to put the Slugger in his place," Which means, perhaps, that there may be fireworks on hand when the two clash in the ring come Friday evening.

• • •

Columnar orchids of the weekend go to the two rinks of the Belleville Bowling Club which swept through to neat victories in the Governor General Trophy Tournament held in Ottawa last Saturday. Skips Cliff Argue, and A. Wonnacott led their rinks to sparkling wins to annex the famous cup, the first time it has ever been won by Belleville bowlers.

• • •

Thanks to the efforts of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club this village has been occupying plenty of prominent spots recently on the bowling map. The mens' rinks for the Corbin Gold Trophy, an annual Civic Holiday affair here, is known from coast to coast, and its popularity is increasing by leaps and bounds. Due to the efforts of Cliff Argue, a member of the Ontario Lawn Bowling Association Council, a large district league was formed here last year, and this, too, has rapidly become popular.

• • •

The annexing of the Governor-General's Trophy on Saturday is another feather in the cap of the ability of local rinks, most of which are second-to-none in the province. The city should be proud of these sportsmen, who, unheralded and unsung, go about their favorite sport each year bringing additional credit to not only the game, themselves and their club, but to the community as a whole.

• • •

Sports tidbit tonight is that second joust between the Trenton Flyers and the Batawa Shoemen. Shoemen copped the first nod last week with an 8-5 win over Flyers, and the Kelly-crew are all set to even matters just as are the Shoemen to take the Intermediate "A" playdown series in two straight. Game called under lights at 8:30.

POINT ANNE WINS FROM WOOLER 5-0 IN FIRST GAME

Maracle Let Opposition Down With Four Hits and Never in Danger

In a game that developed into a neat hurling duel after the second innings, the Point Anne Wings defeated the Wooler squad, Trenton Town League champions, 5-0 in the first of their two-of-three series in the third round Intermediate "C" playdowns last night.

Three Wooler errors and four Point hits accounted for all the scoring in the first two frames, the Wings shoving over two runs in the first innings and three in the second. After that, runs and hits were scarcer than the proverbial hen's teeth as far as both teams were concerned.

The game was played at the Point diamond and the teams clash again at Trenton on Thursday night at 8.30 under the floodlights.

Major League Catch

Pat Maracle turned in another superlative hurling job, letting the opposition down with four scattered hits. He struck out six and issued no passes, but his team turned in a masterful fielding effort behind him. "Cux" Bennett pulled off a major league catch in the sixth innings off Austen, Wooler first baseman, that had the fans standing on their feet. He ran a long distance from his postion and on the dead run stuck out his hand and speared the ball in midair, cutting off what would have been a home run.

Stacey, veteran Wooler hurler, also turned in a sterling pitching chore after a shaky two innings. He was touched for one hit in the first and three in the second but after that held the Wings bats to one hit and no runs over the remaining seven heats. He struck out five and issued two walks.

The Pointers scored their first two runs after two were retired in the first innings. Whalen got on on an error and was forced at second. Finlan raced home when Everett poled out a long triple to centre field and scored when the fielder threw the ball out of the lot.

L. Maracle led off the second innings with a single and went to second when J. Green got a life on Austen's error. Pat Maracle went out and Buchanan drove in Green with a smash to centre field. L. Maracle was forced and Bennett went to first on the fielder's choice. Mike Whalen then drove out a long triple to right field scoring Bennett and Buchanan. That ended the scoring for the game.

29 Face Maracle

Only 29 men faced, Pat Maracle over the nine innings route and the slim hurler was never in any danger. He bore down with a man on base and with errorless support, he had nothing to worry about with a five run lead.

L. Maracle got pair of hits for the Point with triples by Whalen and Everett and a single by Buchanan completing the hitting. Austen, Redcliffe, McColl and G. Redcliffe were the only Wooler batters to connect safely. McColl's fielding for Wooler was a feature of the game.

The teams:

Point Anne—Bennett, rf; Whalen, 2b; Finlan, ss; Everett, cf; Loft, lf; L. Maracle, 2b; J. Green, c; P. Maracle, p; Buchanan, 1b.

Score—

Wooler	000 000 000	—	0	4	6

WINS DOW AWARD

JOE HICKMAN
OF NANAIMO, B. C.
rescues crew man despite own serious injuries

There were three crew members in the cab of the small locomotive as it puffed up the steep grade. Ahead lay a sharp bend in the track . . .

Engineer Joe Hickman was the first to see it . . . a runaway freight car piled high with coal hurtling round the curve, swaying crazily, out of control! Hickman yelled for the crew to jump, then leaped after them from the cab. But in spite of his warning, the men had no time to run clear before the coal car crashed into the engine. There was a scream of rending steel . . . steam spewed from the engine . . . tons of coal poured over the wreckage.

Hickman staggered to his feet. Blood streamed from his face. His leg was badly lacerated. But in spite of his severe injuries, his first thought was for his crew. He had seen one of them smothered in the coal. Frantically, he dug with his bare hands until he had found his friend, and was able to drag him clear. Hickman then staggered half a mile for help before he finally collapsed from his injuries.

We are proud to recognize the brave and unselfish actions of Joe Hickman, of Nanaimo, B.C., through the presentation of The Dow Award.

The runaway coal car hurtled toward the small engine at a terrific speed. Engineer Joe Hickman warned the crew to jump, then leaped after them from the cab, a second before the terrible crash.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers.

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Only two major league baseball games were played Tuesday—both in the American circuit and neither affecting the standings.

In one, Cleveland Indians defeated St. Louis Browns in Cleveland 3-2 to move within three games of third place. In the other Washington Senators topped the Athletics in Philadelphia 7-4. Red Embree blanked the Browns until the ninth when they scored two runs and drove him from the box.

Early Wynn won his 14th, limiting the A's to 10 hits. It was Philadelphia's seventh straight loss.

A six run sixth-inning off Joe Coleman carried the Nationals to victory.

While most major league teams took a rest, observers studied the attendance records.

With an unofficial count of 17,819,773 paid admissions for games through Labor Day, the major leagues appear certain of breaking last year's attendance record. They are less than 725,000 admissions short of bettering the 1946 mark of 18,534,444 paid which some observers said never again would be approached.

This year, the National, involved in the tighter pennant battle, already has topped last year's figures with 9,162,192, a record for the league. The American has drawn 8,557,581.

New York Yankees, like last year, are far out in front in club attendance, having drawn 1,970,542 to the huge Yankee Stadium in 53 more dates. They are expected to crack the mark they established last year when they drew 2,265,512. They have 16 more home dates in which to do it.

Brooklyn Dodgers are pacing the National League clubs with 1,701,638 cash customers. They have four more home dates in which to better their 1946 record high of 1,796,824.

Ten clubs, six in the National and four in the American already have passed the 1,000,000-mark and four of these have surpassed their previous record. The latter four are New York Giants, 1,397,975; Cleveland Indians 1,443,079; Boston Braves 1,175,278 and Pittsburgh Pirates 1,022,839.

Most of the other clubs are ahead or close to their total turnstile count of last year. The one keen disappointment is the American League's entry in St. Louis. The last place Browns are having one of their poorest years at the gate, having drawn only 317,139 in 59 home dates. They will be lucky to draw 350,000 at the rate they are going.

YANKS RECALL STARR

Boston, Sept. 3 (AP)—New York Yankees announced they would be joined today by rookie pitcher Dick Starr, just recalled from Newark of the International League, where he won nine and lost five.

Yankees' catcher - outfielder Larry Berra was sent back to New York last night because of more trouble with his throat. He may need to have his tonsils, said to be infected, removed, but it is hoped the operation can be postponed for the present.

SAUER NAMED MOST VALUABLE PLAYER IN LOOP

Leads International League in Hitting and Runs Batted in

New York, Sept. 3 —(CP) — Hank Sauer, fence-busting outfielder of Syracuse Chiefs, has been named the International League's most valuable player for 1947, Lloyd McGownan, president of the circuit's baseball writers' association, announced today.

Sauer, who leads the league in hitting and runs batted in was the first choice of 29 of the 32 writers who participated in the poll. He received 253 points out of a possible 256. Sauer is batting at a .334 clip and has belted 49 home runs and 135 runs.

The Syracuse star also was named on every ballot for an outfield berth on the International League's 1947 all-star team announced today. Sauer received 32 votes while his all-star outfield teammates, Howie Moss of Baltimore, the League's home run leader with 52, and Dutch Mele of the Chiefs received 13 and nine votes, respectively.

Roy Campanella, Montreal's Negro catcher, won the backstop position almost as easily, gaining 31 out of 32 votes.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, Sept. 3 —(AP) — Babe Ruth has been telling west coast fans that the 1947 baseball has a lot more "rabbit" in it than when he hit his 60 homers ... if that's correct, we wonder how the pitchers can hold the thing long enough to throw it... or maybe that's the solution to the third major league problem. They'll have to station big league outfielders in California to catch drives from the east ... Tuss McLaughry, coach of the eastern football all stars, figures the "T" formation is the easiest for a team to learn in a short time ... tennis pro Fred Perry and three colleagues are taking off for a South American tour but Fred's main objective is to jack up sales of British tennis equipment in Latin America.

Nothing to Bragg About

When Charley Bragg, president of the Los Angeles Bowling Association, recently started to build a house, he used his 1947 bowling ball as a cornerstone ... Charley, judging by his average in the A.B.C. tournament last spring decided that was one way to be certain that none of the timbers would fall.

Winnipeg, Sept. 3 — (CP)—It may come as a shock to those who take for granted the existence of a Western Canada Rugby League but for the second time in less than a month the hint has been tossed out that teams are finding the going tough.

The first warning was sounded by Dave (Regina Leader - Post), Dryburgh who noted sadly that Saskatchewan Roughriders had tossed everything but the city hall into the pot and "if they can't come close to the top this term, it will be a good many years before local citizens make another stab at it."

Now, it's Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan who wonders whether Winnipeg is capable of supporting first-class football. And if — football fans shudder at the mere thought — Winnipeg's Blue Bombers fold up, and Saskatchewan Roughriders do the same, the odds are that Calgary will see little profit, financial or moral, in maintaining a team merely until playoff time comes around.

Allan didn't stop at the football outlook. His pessimism embraces everything from hockey to civic enterprise in Winnipeg. This is what he says:

"In a great many fields of endeavor, it must be admitted, Winnipeg has lost the drive and initiative of pioneering days and no longer gives leadership. Worst of all, however, is the docile acceptance of a secondary role which reduces Winnipeg to a sort of branch office of Toronto or Montreal.

"In sports, hockey is a prime example. Winnipeg produces an overabundance of top-flight hockey talent and makes little or no use of it. Pro hockey is not a two-bit affair and a pro team would starve to death here. Furthermore in a city of almost 300,000, so few people are interested in winning the Allan Cup that Winnipeg can no longer support senior hockey in the style to which its exponents have become accustomed. We can't keep our juniors at home or operate junior clubs without financial assistance from Toronto, Montreal and Chicago. Our best players go elsewhere to achieve recognition. How low can a city of this size sink.

"When it comes to naming its exhibition grounds, Toronto did not hesitate to annex the whole country and call it the Canadian National Exhibition. Vancouver's Exhibition, which used to be a ramshackle affair about on a par with River Park, (a Winnipeg amusement park now dismantled) modestly confined itself to appropriating the Pacific Ocean.

"But what do we do? Do we forget that Winnipeg was once the gateway to the Great West, the dominant city of the prairies. Either we haven't the vision to see past Poplar Point or we are too timid to proclaim our's as the Great West Exposition or something similar in scope."

Canberra — (CP) — Dynamo lighting sets for bicycles, formerly imported from Britain, are now being made in Australia. Since 1942 500,000 sets have been produced here and the product now is being exported to 17 different countries.

CHAPTER 2.

"I mean I knew about Harris," Miss Brady explained. "She used to have a friend here, used to visit the friend before she moved in herself." "Suddenly I am very, very sick and tired of this job," she said. "There's nothing to it any more, I don't know why I stay. If I had half the sense I was presumably born with, I'd chuck the whole works and take you with me."

"Monny! You're thinking about Europe again!"

"I am, and why not? Don't look at me like that; you know it's been on my mind for weeks. Listen: I get my grandmother's money next month, so why don't we resign? Reasons of health, and that's no lie, you look a wreck; and we'll grab the first boat and stay for a year . . . Angel, you look about ten when you smile like that. Feel better now?"

"Much!"

"That panic about Miller was probably your nerves. You're exhausted and I don't wonder. All these messy brats pouring out their beastly little troubles. Did you tell Miller about April Hooper?"

"Monny, I'm heartbroken! I'll go up there now, I'll go at once—"

"Forget it," said Miss Brady. "I'll tell the girl myself tomorrow."

But as things turned out, no one told Ruth Miller anything.

Ruth Miller returned to Hope House at 11:30 with the once-chance. But she had been running had forced herself to buy it. It was all she had left of the new life she had planned.

A few hours before, when she had confidently walked into the future, she had come face to face with the past. Run, she had said to herself, run; you still have a chance. But she sad been running for years, from city to city, from job to job, putting time and distance between herself and a screaming promise, and her route had been a circle. Above the chatter in the lobby she had heard one voice. In a sea of strange faces one face was not strange. It's a scheme, she'd said, it's a destiny. I'm lost

But she had run again, out into the night, pleading with herself to be calm. She'd thought of Mrs. Sutton, maybe Mrs. Sutton would take her in and ask no questions. Maybe she'd listen and advise. But then she'd remembered that Mrs. Sutton was leaving town.

She'd begun to cry, standing on a corner and turning slowly and steadily as if she were surrounded. The fog was thick and the passersby were dim and shapeless. She could follow me and I wouldn't know it, she wept; I wouldn't see her. My eyes—

That was when she'd remembered the eye doctor. The only man she knew except Mr. Benz. And his office wasn't war away, an office and apartment combined. She'd talk to him and he'd tell her what to do. He'd been, well—friendly. He'd been well—interested.

She's climbed the stairs to his office, ut no one had answered her ring She'd slipped a note under the door, asking him to call her at Hope House. "Leave a message if I'm not there," she'd written, "and tell me where I can reach you. I need some advice. It's important to me." She couldn't tell him how important. She couldn't write a word like death. It would look hysterical.

She'd left the doctor's building and walked to Fourteenth Street, telling herself to buy the blue because he would see her in it. But the scheme took care of that.

Ten minutes after she left the building a cleaning woman swept the note into the hall, down the single flight of stairs, and out into the gutter. Later on the rain washed the words away.

Outside the shop window she had looked at the blue and talked to herself again. Talked and argued. Maybe I made a mistake, she'd said. Lots of people look alike, you're always hearing of cases. There was even a man who looked like the President. And she didn't act queer when she saw me, she acted like she'd never seen me before. So I could be wrong . . . But she saw her own shaking hands and knew in her heart that there was no mistake.

But I'll go back there tonight, she'd said. I've got to. There's my suitcase and the telephone call. Nothing can happen if I go straight to my room tonight and lock the door. A big houseful of people, I'll be safe for one night. He'll call tonight or tomorrow and he'll tell me what to do. Maybe I'll laugh about this in a day or so. I bet I laugh, I bet I do. She'd tried to laugh then but it had sounded wrong.

Miss Plummer looked up from her embroidery when Ruth came in. "I've been waiting for you," she said kindly. "Kitty said you had gone out."

"Have I had a telephone call?"

"No, dear. You had me worried, staying out so late all by yourself. We lock up at midnight, except in the case of a special pass, and I wondered if you understood. Been buying something pretty?"

"I bought a suit."

"That's nice. My name's Plummer, Ethel Plummer My sister's the housekeeper here and if you're hungry I think I can get you a little something."

"No thank you, Miss Plummer. I'd rather go to bed."

"You're a sensible girl, I can see that. Your suitcase si in your room, dear, and you can run yourself up in the elevator, that is if you're not timid about machinery."

"I guess I am a little. I don't think I've ever tried to run an elevator."

"Well, never you mind, I used to be afraid myself, but you'll get over it the same as I did. I'll take you up this time and you'll see how easy it is."

On the seventh floor Miss Plummer pointed down a bare, dim hall lined on one side with closed doors. "You see that big door straight ahead? That's the fire door. You go right on through to the other side. There's a short hall back there, with the bath, the telephone, and your own room. It's the only room at that end and it's nice and quiet, almost like a little house set off to itself."

"Miss Plummer?" Her voice broke and she tried again. "Miss Plummer, do outside calls come in on that phone?"

"Oh yes. When that happens we rink a bell in your room." Miss Plummer smiled a good night, and the elevator closed.

Her room was dark. She could hear nothing but she knew someone was there. The unknown roommate, already in bed and asleep. It had to be the roommate, it couldn't be anyone else.

She found the switch and tumped it. In one of the two beds a small girl sat up in a welter of blankets, rubbing her short, fair curls and yawning.

"Hello," she said. "I had to go back to work after dinner, did you?"

"No, I went shopping." Ruth hesitated. "I'm sorry, but they didn't tell me your name. I'm Ruth Miller."

The small girl laughed. "I knew that. There's not much I miss! I'm April Hooper. I work around the corner, in the drugstore. Where do you work?"

"Like Moke and Poke. Have you known them very long? You do know them, don't you?"

"They sent me here." She held up the suit and shook out the folds. She was tired, but she knew she had to be polite. She needed April. "Look, April," she said. She held up the suit.

But April had no eyes for clothing. She rattled on. "Moke and Poke are nice. Some people think they're fresh, but I don't. When the weather's bad and there's ice on the pavement, they call for me. Even when they have dates, they call for me. They take the time. That's nice, isn't it?"

"It surely is." Ruth hung the suit in the closet and closed the door. Chatterbox, she thought wearily.

"I think they're pretty, too." April said. "Their hair is so soft, and they take good care of their skin. It's like velvet. I like to touch their faces and they don't mind. It isn't often that you find a nice person who's pretty, too. .. What do you look like, Ruth?"

Ruth looked aghast at the small figure huddled in the middle of the bed. Why, the child's feeble-minded, she told herself with horror. Why didn't they tell me about her. Feeble-minded.

A cloud came over April's face. "Oh," she said "I'm sorry, Ruth. That's a shame, that's what it is. Nobody told you about me and I've scared you. But you're not to feel bad about me because I don't mind at all. I'm blind."

Ruth went slowly to the tumbled bed. Her hands automatically smoothed the covers and rearranged the pillow. April's hand found one of hers and held it fast.

"You're not to feel bad, do you hear?" she insisted. "When you're born that way, it doesn't make any difference."

When the lights were finally out, Ruth lay awake for a long time. She had promised to breakfast with April in the dining room. There was no help for it. She had no choice.

"We fixed it," Moke said. "You are going to eat at our table. One big happy family. Hey, Clara, two more breakfasts."

"Miss Brady's looking for you, Ruth," Poke said. "She wants to tell you about this afternoon, at least that's what she said."

"As if we couldn't tell you just as good," Moke jeered, "and no fancy lies thrown in. It's about the tea. We have a tea every Sunday, but this one's different. And worse. We got to make masks for the costume party . . . House birthday party. House is five years old."

"Got all our teeth and can we bite," Poke said. "Let me tell it, let me. Now get this, Mrs. Marshall-Gill, head of the Board, dreamed up a costume party, everybody dressed alike, rag dolls with the same old false face so nobody knows who anybody is. Rag dolls, I'm not kidding, with rag faces and holes to see and breathe through. She's even got a prize for the girl who guesses the most other girls. So we're going to make the masks this afternoon, in the lounge. It'll be a scream. With bought refreshments."

The breakfasts came on two trays. Ruth pushed hers aside Nine o'clock and he hadn't called. Nine o'clock. The lobby had been full of people when she and April went through. She had walked with her eyes lowered. People had crowded about them, jostling. She couldn't do that again.

"I can't go," she said suddenly and sharply.

Even April looked surprised.

"I can't go," Ruth repeated, but she spoke softly. "I'm expecting a call, I may have to go out." She put her elbows on the table and shielded her face with her hands.

Moke frowned and her shrewd young eyes moved about the room. Girls coming and going, House girls, the regular gang. Nothing to make a person turn white and hide her face. She looked at Ruth again. Not eating, either. Sick and no fooling. Sick or something. "Okay," she said lightly, "but you got to come for a minute anyway. It's a—what do I want to say, Poke?"

"A obligation."

Moke grew uneasy. She felt responsible and helpless. Maybe Ruth really was sick. We got her in here, she argued silently, and it's up to us to see she's okay. She fell back on her own never-failing panacea. "Listen, Ruth, why don't you go back to bed? Poke and I always do on Sunday. Go on, it'll do you good"

"MIRACLE" GIRL

Two years ago, Dianna Hartt, young Australian ballet dancer, was so seriously burned in a dressing room fire at a Sydney theatre that no hope was held for her recovery. Now she is on a world tour with her mother. When she reaches the United States, she plans a visit to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., for treatment that may restore use to her leg muscles, which have atrophied during her long illness.

Britons' Russian Wives Will Have To Stay at Home

London, Sept. 3 (Reuters) — The 15 Russian wives of British subjects will remain in Russia and will not be allowed to join their husbands in Britain.

That is the latest ruling given by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vyshinsky on a subject which has concerned the British Foreign Offices, as well as the couples. Foreign Minister Bevin intervened on the husband's behalf, only to be turned down.

Last British appeal was made to Vassili Kuznetsov, president of the Soviet of Nationalities of the Supreme Soviet, when he visited London earlier this year.

A foreign office spokesman here said Vyshinsky had given his negative answer in a letter to the British Charge D'Affaires in Moscow, Frank Roberts.

Vyshinsky, after turning the British request down flat, referred to a matter which has been worrying the Soviet Union. He wants British occupation authorities in Germany and Austria to send home immediately Baltic citizens, including children, on the ground that they rank as Soviet citizens.

Britain maintains that no person not a citizen of the Soviet Union before Sept. 1, 1939, can be compelled to return to present Soviet territory but any children will be returned to their parents provided details are given by Soviet authorities.

Vyshinsky's letter was being examined by the foreign office, which is deciding whether anything further can be done to help the Russian brides and their husbands. Most of the husbands were British servicemen stationed in Russia during the war.

Justice Directs New Hearing Of Charges Laid

Toronto, Sept. 3 — (CP)—While modern thought and ideology have changed since Ontario's Lord's Day Act was framed, it is not the court's prerogative to destroy the effect of the statute, Mr. Justice G. A. Gale of the Ontario Court of Appeal said yesterday in directing a new hearing of charges against the Icelandia Skating Rink of violating the Act.

Mr. Justice Gale allowed an appeal by Alexander Ross Skinner against dismissal of the charge last March by Magistrate T. S. Elmore on the grounds that the complainant had not proved he had leave from the Attorney-General of Ontario to proceed with the charge and that the rink's Sunday operations were "a work of necessity."

His Lordship said: "If the Sunday practices were discontinued, neither life nor property nor health would be imperiled in any tangible way."

Mr. Justice Gale suggested that a campaign to convince parliament that recreational facilities should be made available to curtail potential delinquency would undoubtedly receive widespread support.

"But the way to abolish the effect of a statute is to have it repealed by competent authority, not by seeking distorted interpretations from the court."

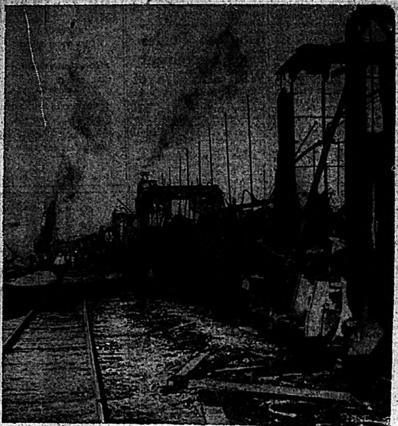
BEVIN'S PROPOSAL PART OF MARSHALL PLAN



These smouldering and smoking wooden coaches are nothing but burnt-out skeletons as a result of the train wreck at Dugald, Man. It is feared that many passengers were cremated in the flaming coaches. Workmen continue to sift the ashes of the 11 burned out coaches that burst into flames after the train collided head-on with an eastbound transcontinental passenger train. Disaster is being investigated.

PERPETRATOR OF DEATH HOAX WILL GO TO HOSPITAL

Former Lieutenant of Navy Supposed to Have Died in Cadiz Explosion

Quebec, Sept. 4 (CP)—Sub-Lieut. Julien S. Gagnon, of St. Gedeon, Que., who admitted to police yesterday that he was the author of an hoax that had his wife, child and family mourning over his supposed death in an explosion in Cadiz, Spain, two weeks ago, will be returned to Ontario Hospital at Hamilton where he was once a patient.

The hoax was exploded by provincial police while his relatives who live in the Lake St. John district, were waiting arrival of a bottle supposedly containing his ashes from a Quebec undertaking establishment. Gagnon is a former member of the Royal Canadian Navy.

The mysterious manner in which the "remains" arrived at the funeral parlor aroused the suspicions of employees who called police.

The hoax began a few days after an explosion in a Cadiz torpedo factory Aug. 18 in which 134 persons perished. A Quebec newspaper received a mysterious call from a "Doctor Lane," who said he was associated with the American Red Cross.

The caller told the newspaper that he was carrying news of Gagnon's death to his family, adding that Gagnon had been a member of the American freighter Norman, docked at Cadiz.

The same day, the Gagnon family was notified of his "death" in a telegram signed by the fictitious doctor.

On Tuesday of this week, a Quebec funeral parlor received the bottle of "ashes" delivered by a taxi driver who said it was handed to him by a man near a hospital.

The package bore inscriptions purporting to show it had been sent out of Cadiz by the International Red Cross. A note said it was Gagnon's ashes.

Then "Dr. Lane" telephoned instructions regarding disposition of the ashes. As the call seemed of a suspicious nature, police were notified.

The call was traced to a public telephone in St. Malo ward in downtown Quebec. Police waited about the place and soon picked up "Dr. Lane" who, they said, admitted he was Gagnon.

Burglar Alarm Systems Installed In Many Banks

Toronto, Sept. 4 (CP) —Banks in Ontario cities have installed burglar alarm systems and posted nightwatchmen as a result of recent bank robberies, it was learned today. The precautions were taken as a result of a series of emergency conferences between bank officials and municipal chiefs.

Similar alarms systems are being installed in rural and suburban areas, but it was learned that the Royal Bank of Canada branch at suburban Etobicoke had not been so equipped before it was robbed of $1,000 in cash by two bandits yesterday.

Search for the two men is continuing.

Telegram Claims Internal Trouble In CBC Increasing

Toronto, Sept. 4 (CP) —The Telegram says in a newspage story today that the resignations of two Canadian Broadcasting Corporation executives, D. C. McArthur and Jean-Marie Beaudet, "is expected to be a dynamic fuse that will eventually explode in parliament."

Resignation of Mr. McArthur as chief news editor, effective Sept. 30, was announced last night. Mr. Beaudet's resignation as western regional director was announced last Friday.

The Telegram story added:—

"Internal trouble within the CBC has been increasing and it is believed the whole breakdown will have to be aired and investigated in parliament soon.

"Other resignations are expected to follow within the next few days.

"The clash in Canada's National radio is attributed to a dictator-complex suffered by the general manager, Dr. Austin Frigon, and deeply resented by heads of departments."

BOLT STRIKES COW

Brockville, Sept. 4 — (CP) — Lightning missed 65-year-old Frank Bertram as he sat milking a cow in his barn at nearby Salton, but a bolt struck the cow and set the barn ablaze. Suffering from shock, Bertram was able to crawl away from the fire.

31 OFFICIALLY LISTED AS DEAD IN DUGALD WRECK

Board Member Says Campers' Special Should Have Taken the Siding

Dugald, Man., Sept. 4 —(CP)—The official toll of dead and missing in Western Canada's worst railway disaster — the head-on Labor Day-night collision of a Canadian National Railways' vacation special and an eastbound Transcontinental — stood today at 31.

There were indications this might be the final figure although the list, issued by the C.N.R., lacked two names contained in revised private estimates, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Dame, reported missing from their isolated Minaki, Ont., farm. Minaki was one of the Lake of the Woods resorts at which the Campers' Special had taken on passengers.

Railway officials said, however, a preliminary but thorough search of the ruins of the flame-swept, 13-car special — the coaches were wooden — disclosed 29 bodies, only two of which could be identified. Two others had died in or on the way to hospital in the Winnipeg area, 20 miles west of here.

To Hold Funeral.

Funeral services for all four identified victims will be held this afternoon. Mrs. Gertrude Simpson, 52, her daughters, Winnifred, 26, and Betty, 17, will be buried after a service in Winnipeg. The husband and father, Albert Simpson, is in hospital recovering from injuries. G. R. Lewis, 63, engineer of the special, will be buried after a service at Transcona, 10 miles west of here.

Meanwhile in Ottawa, G. A. Stone of the Board of Transport Commissioners investigating the collision, said the special should have taken to a siding east of this station and "somebody was certainly at fault but it is too soon for a full report."

He said also that the first report from the board's Winnipeg agent, J. G. Cooper, disclosed the special had come into Dugald at a high rate of speed without apparent reason.

(R.C.M.P. have announced they are holding Donald F. Ledlie, 55, of Dugald, a telegraph operator, on a coroner's warrant as a material witness.)

If burial falls upon the municipality, normal when no one has claimed a body — the question remains which municipality. Although they died at Dugald, in Transcona municipality, they all resided in the Winnipeg area.

$80,000 FIRE IN UNION BLDG. OF QUEEN'S U.

Contained Large Dining Room, Recreational And Study Rooms And Offices of Journal

Kingston, Sept. 4 — (CP)—Fire partially gutted Queen's University Students' Union building on the campus today, causing damage estimated at between 50,000 and 80,000 dollars.

University officials said insurance would cover the loss.

The fire, of unknown origin, is believed to have started on the main floor. The three-storey building contained large dining room, accommodating some 400 students, recreational and study rooms, offices of the Queen's Journal undergraduate twice weekly newspaper and study rooms.

It had been extensively renovated during the summer and was to have opened tomorrow. Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal, said new dining facilities would have to be found.

Fire department officials said the entire main part of the building was destroyed and portions untouched by fire were heavily damaged by smoke and water.

The fire was believed to have broken out on the main floor and travelled through a stairway and a dumb-waiter to the upper floors.

Board to Hear Kingston Appeal On September 15

Toronto, Sept. 4 — (CP)—The Ontario Municipal Board will hear appeals at Kingston, Sept. 15, against new municipal assessment of Kresge, Woolworth and Metropolitan Stores, an official of the Board said today.

The companies are appealing against being placed in a high tax bracket, he said. Similar cases are expected in several Ontario centres where the stores are located.

No decision was reached in an appeal case at Lindsay but it is expected it will be heard again later this month. At that centre Zellers and Woolworth Stores appealed the assessments.

The officials said that the difference in assessments might amount to only about $200 in individual centres but since the stores operated in many Ontario centres, the new assessments could make a boost in taxes of several thousand dollars.

Man, Companion Attacked in Car

Chatham, Sept. 4 (CP) —Suffering severe head injuries inflicted by a man who attacked him with a rock while he sat in his parked car with his girl friend in lover's lane at nearby Harwich, Stanley Trojek, 23 of Blenheim, is in hospital here today.

Trojek's companion Miss Vickie Comanic, 23, of Chatham, was struck by flying glass when the assailant—described as a heavy set man—hurled the three pound rock through a window of the automobile.

Bleeding from head injuries, Trojek drove to a police station. He told police the assailant appeared at the car door and struck him with a rock.

Trojek locked the car doors and the man then hurled the rock through the window.

Provincial police are investigating.

MONEY BURNS UP IN SHED

Keokuk, Ia., Sept. 4 —(AP)—John Brown was one of the first Keokuk soldiers to cash his terminal leave bonds Tuesday, the first day on which United States veterans had an opportunity to turn the bonds into cash. Brown took his $200 home. He hid it in a shed. Tuesday night the shed burned down. Brown's $200 went with it.

Truncheon Drill Ordered For British Troops

Hamburg, Sept. 4 —(AP) — British troops today went through "truncheon drill" and intelligence agents combed Hamburg for terrorists in preparation for Sunday's expected arrival of some 4,400 Jews from the S. S. Exodus 1947.

Although three British transports are en route from Port de Bouc, France, with the Jews, who were taken back to France after an unsuccessful effort to enter Palestine. They refused to disembark in France. The Jews, who had no immigration permits for Palestine, will be held in two nearby camps while Britain tries to find a place for them.

Britain has decreed that as few Germans as possible shall witness the disembarkation of the group here.

Three Canadians Charged With Illegal Entry

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 4 (CP)—Criminal warrants charging three Canadians with illegal entry and accusing an Erie County Deputy Sheriff of aiding one of them were issued yesterday by United States Commissioner Boyce Butterfield.

The three Canadians, all held in New York City, were identified as John and Paul Zaplacinzki, brothers, and Louis Rothstein, 31.

The deputy sheriff, Phil Fina, was freed under $10,000 bond after his arraignment before United States Commissioner Harry Harding, who set a hearing for Tuesday. Fina was discharged as Deputy Sheriff yesterday shortly before his arrest upon complaint by United States Attorney George L. Grobe that he had brought Rothstein across the border Aug. 18.

Rothstein and Mary Litman, both of Toronto, were arrested in New York City Aug. 23 after Canadian authorities reported they were wanted for questioning in connection with the theft of between $100,000 and $400,000 from the Royal Bank of Canada in Toronto Aug. 18.

The woman waived extradition and was turned over to Detective Chief John Nimmo of Toronto, but Rothstein was held by Federal authorities and charged with illegally entering the United States because he had not revealed that he previously had been deported. The Zaplacinzki brothers were charged with entering the country "by false and misleading statements and by concealing material facts."

RESUME PURCHASE

Stockholm, Sept. 4 —(Reuters) — The Swedish National Bank yesterday resumed the purchase of sterling from the sterling area following a new Anglo-Swedish payments agreement. The bank, however, has not resumed buying sterling from the United States or other countries usually paying Sweden in dollars.

AWAITS COURT APPEARANCE

Montreal, Sept. 4 — (CP) — The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has 247 clucking hens and crowing roosters on its hands today and the owner of a chicken house is awaiting court appearance on a charge of running an unsanitary establishment.

Police raided Solomon Parkovnick's establishment yesterday after complaints that the chickens were semi-starved. The chicken house has been padlocked for a month pending court action.

WALLET CONTAINED $124

Baltimore, Sept. 4 (AP)— A 12-year-old Baltimore youth found a moldy wallet containing $124 yesterday in an abandoned house which, according to neighborhood rumor, secreted a treasure of $35,000. Raymond Willard told police he found the wallet standing on edge, and with one bill "peeking out," in six inches of debris on the foor of the kitchen of the old home. Police said the last occupant of the house was John Maul a retired gardner who died last year after living alone in the building for some 18 years.

MARSHALL MAY REQUEST SPECIAL HOUSE SESSION

Would Take Emergency Action on European Economic Crisis If Called

Washington, Sept. 4 — (AP)—State Secretary Marshall is expected to decide within the next two weeks whether to recommend a special session of Congress for emergency action on the European economic crisis.

Marshall's decision, officials said today, probably will be made shortly after George F. Kennan, the secretary's top policy planner, returns from Paris with the latest information from European officials and American authorities there.

The final decision would be up to President Truman. He has said several times that he would not hesitate to recall the lawmakers if the situation required such a step.

It appeared certain that Marshall's attention soon will be largely devoted to the European crisis. Shortly before Marshall's return by plane to Washington yesterday afternoon, State Undersecretary Lovett told a press conference that the situation in Europe is getting rapidly worse.

The main trouble appears to be that with a shortage of materials essential for continued existence — chief among them grains — European countries are confronted with a dangerously dwindling dollar supply with which to stave off economic collapse. The things they urgently need require heavy dollar expenditures.

In time, officials explained, the Marshall plan, assuming it wins approval from Congress, would relieve the acute dollar shortage and at the same time enable the European countries to promote their reconstruction and build up exports so they would begin to become self-supporting.

State Department experts have figured that a total balance sheet of European needs and possible United States commitments should be ready for the House and Senate Foreign Relations Committees by November at the earliest.

20-Mile Column Moslem Refugees On Way to Kasur

Lahore, Sept. 4 —(Reuters)—A 20-mile column of Moslem refugees, estimated at 200,000 has been straggling into the border town of Kasur, some 35 miles south of Lahore, since early Wednesday morning, and about a quarter of the column is still on its way.

Among them were said to be 2,000 persons wounded in Sikh attacks on the moving column. Doctors estimated that the number who died exceeded the number of wounded reaching Kasur.

An appeal for Christian nurses and missionaries to go to Kasur was made by Diwan Bahadur S. P. Singha, Punjab Indian Christian leader, who said: "I cannot get the sight of the maimed, fiendishly wounded and acid-burnt, from my mind." A hospital equipped for 32 beds is caring for 750 surgical cases, all badly wounded.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Sept. 4 — (CP)—Synopsis: Clear skies prevail throughout Ontario. This morning's temperatures range from the high 30s in northwestern regions to the mid 60s in the lower lakes regions. A flow of fresh cool air covers the James Bay region, and temperatures there will remain low today. However, over the remainder of the province warm weather will continue throughout Thursday and Friday with scattered thunderstorms developing during the late afternoons and evenings.

Gold Allotment Will Aid Recovery Is British View

Foreign Secretary Outlines Proposals to Congressmen

London, Sept. 4 (AP)—An authoritative source said today that Foreign Secretary Bevin's proposal for redistribution of Fort Knox gold was, in the British view, to be an integral part of the Marshall plan for aiding European economic recovery.

The informant said Bevin had made the suggestion informally in an exchange with Lewis W. Douglas, United States Ambassador to Britain, before announcing it publicly yesterday at the Trade Union Congress in Southport.

In the course of a 70-minute talk today with United States Congressmen who are investigating economic conditions in Britain and western Europe, the Foreign Secretary gave several more details of his proposal, this source added.

Bevin's elucidation of his proposal for redistributing United States gold stocks came in answer to a question from one of the Congressmen and the informant said the Foreign Secretary made these points:

Backing of Govt.

His proposal had the backing of the British government.

He believed it was unhealthy and unsound economics, out of harmony with the principles of multi-lateral trade which the United States herself was urging, for one country to hold most of the world's gold stocks and not use them.

There would be no lasting settlement of Europe's economic difficulties if continental recovery was to depend on never-ending United States loans.

Gold could become the basis of world currency systems and every nation should have access to it.

The informant said Bevin's elucidation of his proposal was received "somewhat skeptically" by the United States Congressmen. A member of the delegation said "it just doesn't make sense."

Ambassador Douglas introduced the legislators to the Foreign Secretary.

Reviewed Whole Situation

Bevin reviewed the whole world situation for the Congressmen, who fired a series of questions at him. Later Bevin was to attend a meeting of the cabinet.

The informant said it was likely new diplomatic exchanges would take place between the Foreign Office and the United States State Department on the subject of Bevin's gold plan.

Few of the American legislators who saw the Foreign Secretary this morning would disclose details of the meeting.

When asked how Bevin elucidated his gold proposal several said they were unable to answer because they had not read his speech.

The United States informant said Bevin's second proposal to the Trades Union Congress yesterday—his call for an Empire Customs Union—was not discussed at today's meeting.

Aboard Queen Elizabeth at Sea (Via Radiotelephone to New York), Sept. 4 — (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott en route to next week's meetings in London of the international monetary fund and the world bank, declined today to comment on world financial problems on the grounds that he literally was "at sea" and out of touch with international affairs.

Replying in a telephone interview to questions put to him by The Canadian Press on matters raised yesterday by Foreign Secretary Bevin of Great Britain in a speech at Southport, England, among them a proposal for a commonwealth customs union, the Canadian finance minister fired a series of "no-comment" replies as the questions were put to him.

Abbott said that Canada, as far as he knew, never had expressed any views about establishment of a customs union embracing the Dominions and colonies of the British Commonwealth. As to what such a plan would mean to Canada if it were put into effect, or how it would work, the minister reserved his views until he obtains the text of Bevin's speech.

The minister expressed no interest in speculation voiced in some quarters in Canada that, as a result of Bevin's speech, Canada now is at the crossroads of her economic future, with a rift developing between the sterling and dollar blocs.

He did not expect to attend the London conference called by Britain to discuss the pooling of dollar resources as a means of meeting their mutual dollar problems.

He thought that this conference would be of direct interest only to the Dominions and colonies, such as Australia, South Africa and the Pacific colonies, now trading in the sterling area. Canada and Newfoundland, he noted, are dollar-area countries.

Abbott is being accompanied to the London meetings Sept. 10-18 by Dr. W. C. Clark, deputy minister of finance. Other travelling companions are John W. Snyder, United States Secretary of the treasury, and Latin-American delegates to the international bank and monetary fund conferences.

The Canadian minister did not comment on Bevin's suggestion that the United States should redistribute its gold stock buried at Fort Knox, Ky.

Little Value Says Paper

Only the Financial Times gave it headlines or editorial comment —and that paper which usually reflects the London financial viewpoint, dismissed the idea as one of "little practical value."

"The fundamental issue is one of production and exchange of goods, disequilibrium in which brought the gold concentration about and would cause it to be defeated unless international trade channels were freed," the newspaper said.

Otherwise, however, Bevin's call for production and an Empire Customs Union got a general reception ranging from enthusiasm to mild approval tempered with caution.

The Conservative Daily Mail said he displayed "leadership and statesmanship."

"He was a big man before he made his speech, but when he had finished it he was bigger," the newspaper asserted.

There were no outright suggestions that Bevin should succeed Prime Minister Attlee as head of the government, but there were several strong implications in that direction.

The Liberal News Chronicle reported that "it was painfully obvious to the delegates (to the Trade Union Congress—where Bevin made his gold suggestion yesterday) that Mr. Bevin is the only man big enough to grapple with the situation."

Times Comments

The Times (independent) said Bevin "has made the most powerful contribution so far" in government statements on the economic crisis but complained that "his and his government's chief handicap is still a cloudy and partisan view of economic organization."

The Empire-boosting Daily Express, published by Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook, acclaimed Bevin's Empire Customs Union idea and said Bevin "has moved on, in the light of his experience as Foreign Minister, to a firm and strong position."

The Communist Daily Worker rapped the same idea as "the merest demagogic humbug" and renewed its oft-repeated demand for a sharp reduction in British armed forces.

The ultra-Conservative Daily Graphic approved the customs plan but said it was "put forward uncertainly, almost apologetically, as if Bevin only half believed it."

Coming Events

THE NAVY LEAGUE OF CANADA, Belleville Division, are holding their annual Tag Day, Saturday, September 6th., in the interests of the local Sea Cadet Corps and New Quinte Ship. All taggers and helpers report to Mrs. Neate at Y.M.C.A., Saturday morning. Your help appreciated.

COBOURG DECIDES ON RINK FOR TOWN

The Cobourg Rink Committee has decided on the size and construction of the proposed Memorial Rink and Recreational Centre. A brick and cement building 220 feet long and 120 feet wide is to be built. The ice surface is to be 190 feet by 85 feet with a permanent floor that will make the arena available for use twelve months a year.

The cost of the building will be in the neighborhood of $100,000 and there will be seating accommodation for 2,000 persons.

The matter of location of the rink has not been settled and owing to the reluctance of contractors to take on new contracts when materials are short the estimated cost has been arrived at after a great deal of work and study.

Commercial Fishermen, Anglers Meet Chief of Department To Discuss Fish Conservation

Measures for the conservation of fish and wild life, and at the same time protection of the interests of the commercial fishermen, the sportsmen, and those catering to the vast tourist trade were discussed at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday evening as Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, Chief Dept. of Fisheries and Wild Life, conferred with local fishermen and sportsmen.

The meeting was representative of the commercial fishermen of the district and of members of the Belleville District Fish and Game Protective Association, as well as district game overseers.

District forester at Tweed, Mr. A. Grealock, acted as chairman for the meeting and called on J. Fred Wilson, M.P.P. for West Hastings, to introduce Dr. Harkness.

Dr. Harkness pointed out to his listeners that he intended making no address, but that the meeting had been called for the purpose of getting a general picture of the conservation requirements and at the same time protect the interests of commercial fishermen and those associated with the tourist trade.

Objects Outlined

Aims and objects of the department as well as regulations governing fishing and hunting were outlined by Dr. Harkness as well as the efforts being put forth to meet with the requirements of the above groups and at the same time protect and perpetuate the natural resources and supply of game, fish, and birds.

In the open forum discussion which followed the mesh of nets and other equipment used in commercial fishing was dealt with as was the protection of fish during the spawning periods.

Removal of carp was discussed with suggestions being put forth for the licencing of spears for the removal of these fish where they are in excess. One suggestion was that the removal of carp be turned over to the commercial fishermen.

Restocking Discussed

Restocking of lakes and streams with fish was discussed with Dr. Harkness pointing out that research was constantly going on to determine which waters might be the natural home of certain fish. Restocking was not carried on in a hit or miss fashion, he stressed, but fish were placed only in waters which are the natural homes of such fish species.

Executive members of the Belleville District Fish and Game Protective Association expressed their opinions on conservation and other matters, as did commercial fishermen of the district.

Institute for the Blind Opens Drive for Funds on Monday

The annual campaign of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind in Belleville starts on Monday, Sept. 8, announced Mr. Timmins, C.N.I.B. Field Secretary for this district.

This campaign is being conducted by the Institute's Hastings County Advisory Board, of which Mr. A. D. Archibald is Chairman, Mrs. Harry Rollins is 1st Vice Chairman and tag day convener, Mr. George Wishart is secretary-treasurer, and Mr. C. L. Jewell Campaign, treasurer. Official receipts for all contributions of one dollar or more will be issued locally, and donations to the Institute are exempt from income tax, Tag Day September 20.

The Institute makes only one appeal each year in Belleville. "A generous response from the public is vitally necessary if the Institute is to maintain its standards of service to the blind people in this district," said Mr. Timmins. He explained that the object of this service is to train the blind to use their remaining four senses to the best advantage for their own comfort, happiness and independence.

Nearly 1,500 blind people in Canada last year were placed in jobs of various types by the Institute. About the same number made use of the library of Braille and talking books which are sent free of charge all over Canada. Over one thousand who had recently lost their sight received the services of C.N.I.B. home teachers.

"Through the work of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind sightless people in Canada today are enjoying greater independence, greater activity and better living conditions than ever before", Mr. Timmins stated. "With the support of the people of Belleville and District we hope to give even better service in the coming year," he concluded.

Lake Success, N.Y., Sept. 4 (AP)—Trygve Lie is approaching one of the most crucial periods in his tenure as Secretary-General of the United Nations with expressed hopes of an early break in the eastwest deadlock stalling international agreement.

With the 55-nation general assembly opening in two weeks for what some observers choose to call a make-or-break session, Lie is confident at least some of the difficulties between the United States and Russia will be wiped away, he told The Associated Press today.

Lie acknowledged that it was impossible to forecast whether the log-jam would be broken as early as this fall, but he added a conviction that "suddenly something will happen."

The 51-year-old Norwegian believes that signing and ratification of all the peace treaties eventually will clear the path for the U.N. to function at top efficiency. He was greatly encouraged by Moscow's recent ratification of the pacts with Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Finland.

He is a supporter of the Marshall economic proposal for Europe and said "the hopes of millions of people" rest on receiving help.

Lie has visited 22 countries in his globe-trotting as No 1 representative of the peace agency. Looking back on his travels, he views the American way of life as so far superior to all others that it defies comparison.

Lie believes that the United States should continue to help the rest of the world and feels that any other policy would back-fire.

"The American standard is based on exports and international trade," he told The Associated Press. "Almost all countries can't pay in dollars now. Any United States help helps the United States. It is a form of self-help."

Council Awards Contracts For Sewer Work

Tenders for the construction of sanitary sewers on Wellington and Wilkins Streets and on MacDonald Ave., were received by council Tuesday evening with recommendations being made for the award of contracts.

The Diamond Construction Company was awarded the contract for the Wellington Street sewer at $3,932.50 and also for the Wilkins Street sewer at $9,598. S. R. McCrory was awarded the contract for the MacDonald Ave. North, sewer at $3,658 and for the MacDonald Ave., South, sewer at $5,234.

Public works accounts paid during the summer recess were read in council at the request of Alderman Allin after it had been moved that they be accepted without reading. All accounts had been ratified by the Comptroller and were signed by the Public Works chairman, Alderman Harvey.

At the request of Jamieson Bone council asked for appointment of William Gerrie as a member of the Moira Watershed Commission. The appointment however, will not be effective until advice is received from the chairman of the commission.

Asked to be Excused

Alderman Hyde asked to be excused from attending the Plumbers convention to be held this month in Windsor with the result that an alternate representative was named to attend along with Mayor Follwell. Alderman Lazenby declared that the city was sending too many men to conventions which would not do the city any good.

Mayor Frank Follwell extended congratulations to members of the Belleville bowling team which won the Governor-General Trophy at Ottawa on Saturday. "It was the first time the trophy had left Ottawa," he said, as he moved that the city express its appreciation by a suitable presentation. The city comptroller and Alderman Butler were named a committee to pick out a suitable award.

Many Inquiries

Under inquiries Alderman Allin asked when the financial statement for the Old Home Week was to be published. Alderman Chamberlain wanted to know why the advertisement regarding the placing of parking meters into official operation had not been in the newspaper before Tuesday. Alderman Tice asked how much money the meters had collected prior to their going into official operation.

Alderman Duffy wanted to know what possibility there was of obtaining H-huts from the air station for living accommodation but was informed none was available. Alderman Lazenby inquired regarding a report that an insufficient number of firemen some weeks ago had proceeded to a night fire with result that larger loss than necessary had been caused. Alderman Allin wanted the local building by-law overhauled, while Alderman Vanner asked when negotiations would be started between the city and the county with respect to the purchase of the county Old People's Home.

Under motions Alderman Clarke and Alderman Tice requested the Public Utilities Commission to provide the city with an inventory as to property owned by the gas plant, while under general business Mayor Follwell supported the current year's operating loss at the gas plant was in the neighborhood of $1,000 per month.

Boston scouts were impressed with the work of Bill Meara, Knute Dobkins, and Art Cook. Alltop and Heximer will be consigned to the Hartford, Conn., Class A club of the Inter - State League.

The city's park system will be extended next year to include a playground in the St. Charles Street area for small tots in that section of the city, members of council were informed Tuesday night.

The Riverside Park on Coleman Street south of Bridge will be extended to the railway track, it was also announced by the mayor who asked that the Public Works department co-operate with the park's board by assisting to clean up the property from the present southern limits of the park.

Duck Hunting Regulations Will Be Enforced

Fred McDonald, game warden for this district, announced today that sections of the Migratory Bird Regulations, with respect to ducks, geese and other waterfowl and which operates in Canada, United States and Mexico will be strictly enforced this year due to the continuing shortage of these migratory birds.

The open season for waterfowl such as ducks, geese, Wilson Snipe and woodcocks north of Highway No. 7 will be from September 27th to November 10th inclusive and south of this Highway from October 4th to November 17th also inclusive. The bag limit for ducks in either zone, exclusive of Mergansers, will be seven of which one may be a Wood duck. POLICE COURT
Cashed Cheque In Cousin's Name,

Suspended sentence for one year on condition that court costs be paid and reimbursement made to the injured party, was the sentence given to David Maracle, Mohawk Indian Reserve, when he appeared in county magistrate's court Thursday morning on a charge of uttering a forged document. Maracle pleaded guilty to the charge.

Giving summary evidence, Provincial Constable Chas. Siple told the court that last December Maracle had signed his cousin's name to a canning factory produce cheque amounting to $55.34 and cashed it at a Belleville bank.

In explanation of the matter Mr. Maracle stated that his cousin, James Maracle, had owed him money on a contract and he had cashed the cheque as a means of obtaining payment. He had obtained the cheque when it was mailed to Marysville at a time when his cousin was absent in the United States.

Court proceedings were of short duration with the above case being the only one heard by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Charges of illegal possession of liquor and of attempting to supply liquor to an Indian laid by police against Albert Haines were again enlarged for one week at the request of counsel. When the accused first appeared in court last week he requested an opportunity to obtain counsel.

Minor traffic cases settled out of court completed the morning's docket.

Navy League Tag Day Saturday

For fifty-one years the Navy League has been serving Canada and the Empire by providing facilities for the training of sea cadets. "This training refreshes a boy physically, stimulates him mentally, and quickens him spiritually."

The value of team work and working in unison for mutual good is stressed in cadet training. Cadets learn to respect authority, and that before he can command he must learn to obey. Sea cadet training is designed to make young men and boys into the highest type of citizen.

To accomplish these ends the League operates summer camps exclusively for sea cadets, the League's share including everything that comes under the head of capital expense — provision of camp site, buildings and camp equipment. In addition to these expenses it pays all maintenance and caretaking costs.

The need for sea cadets is clearly evident by the distressing news which is daily before us. Sea cadet training is the answer to this need. The Navy League Tag Day will be held on Saturday, September 6th.

Swimming Pool Needed

The recent announcement by officials of the Belleville Purification Plant to the effect that the water of the Bay of Quinte from which this city draws its water supply is teeming with algae, a low form of animal plant life, should be a matter of concern to all residents.

It is learned from authoritative sources that algae is injurious to human beings, especially when bodily contact is made. It seems the minute organisms penetrate the head openings and are especially harmful to sinuses.

The water of the Bay here has been condemned for swimming purposes. Yet daily, large numbers of young people can be seen refreshing themselves in the polluted waters with little or no regard for edicts, nor for their health.

Yet the youth of the city can scarcely be blamed. It is their rightful heritage to indulge in healthful sport. There is no finer medium for character and body building than wholesome recreation. But sanitary facilities should be provided. A city's health depends on that of its residents, and it should be the duty of any community to see that they are available.

We do not want to convey the impression that the city's drinking water is not fit for consumption. Personnel of the Purification Plant here rigidly inspects, checks, and analyzes the flow of water to the kitchen taps. This is done several times daily. Filters are backwashed periodically. No effort is spared to give Belleville the best water obtainable.

There is no better argument for the establishment of a community swimming pool here than the condition of the Bay water, especially at the present time when algae is running rampant, glutting its minute millions on sewage that flows unrestricted down the Moira to the open water.

We do not belong to the Kinsmen Club but we heartily endorse the move it has made to establish a community pool here for the benefit of not only the youth of the city but adults as well.

With the establishment of the pool, if and when it comes about, parents will be rid of the mental qualms and worries that naturally come when they learn their children have been swimming in the Bay. Gone will be the possibility of contraction of disease, and more important, of drowning.

Expert supervision, clear, cool, clean water, will guarantee healthful exercise, elimination of fear, and a happier, more contented citizenry. By all means let us have the Community Pool, and the sooner the better.

Famous Child Surgeon Urges Greater Driving Care

Traffic accidents in which children are killed or injured can be further reduced if motorists assume their full responsibility, Dr. R. M. Wansbrough, senior surgeon of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, says in a statement in support of the Ontario Department of Highways' traffic safety program.

Dr. Wansbrough's statement follows closely the recent announcement of the Hon. George H. Doucett, Minister of Highways, that nine fewer children were killed in traffic accidents in July of this year than in July of last year and that "while this single statistic is no ground for complacency, it is a hopeful sign that Ontario is making progress in the battle against traffic accidents."

Familiar with child injuries ranging all the way from minor abrasions and bruises to bodies horribly mangled, Dr. Wansbrough states that "fast driving by motorists on narrow streets is the biggest contributing factor to these accidents. I'd like to impress this on every motorist, that to reduce the child accident toll you must reduce speed on narrow streets, proceed with extra caution and alertness through all areas where children are at play, take extra care when approaching or passing a child on a bicycle."

Dr. Wansbrough says that the largest group of child accident victims come from areas where no playgrounds are provided and children are forced to play on the streets. Many accidents are caused from "two children on one bicycle, or a child riding a bicycle carelessly or riding in traffic before he has learned how to ride properly. Children always have done and will continue to do those things which put their lives in danger. We can educate children in traffic safety—and they learn too—but we must never forget that a child is too young to estimate the hazards. He is too young to judge the speed of an approaching vehicle, and will dart directly in front of it—sometimes missing death by a thin margin—and other times not missing it."

A child, Dr. Wansbrough explains, is also too young to appreciate the reality of traffic hazards or the pain of injury or the imminence of death. In short, children require the guidance and protection of adults, and instinctively depend on it. It is, in the final analysis, an adult responsibility to watch out for our children at all times, and especially when behind the wheel of a car.

Subject to Search

The luggage of some 2437 persons, going aboard the ueen Elizabeth at Southampton, was given a going over recently by British government officials. The condition thus exists where the government now gets people both going and coming. The officials were looking for currency, and a number of women were taken off ship and subjected to a personal search. The law reads that only five pounds can be taken out of the country, and ten pounds in other than British currency, Britons who were found with more were not taken off ship but will be prosecuted on return home; foreigners were removed and await a magistrate's court.

This personal search denotes a pretty rigid condition, and certainly abridges the liberty of the subject for the welfare of the state. But the same right of search could be exercised at the Niagara Falls or Fort Erie border in case of a suspect carrying an unauthorized sum of American money out of the country. Under Hitler, in the pre-war days, it will be recalled that Germans were limited to 40 marks, although international exchange was then more near normal than it is now.

As far as Canada is affected, how and when the situation will be remedied is anyone's guess, but it won't be overnight or tomorrow. It is almost certain that drastic measures are in the making, and no one would be surprised if imports were restricted. One of the big items, it is said, is the purchase of American made motor cars in the luxury class. Curtailment of such purchases would hardly involve any hardship but there are many other items as well in the general volume of trade.—St. Catharines Standard.

The Sacredness of News

There is no reason why a popular newspaper should not be a daily budget of entertainment, if that is what the public wants—and there is plenty of evidence that it does. Many of the criticisms of the popular press that are made by superior intellectuals are irrelevant because they ignore this clear popular demand. But there is an element of sacredness about news, and though it may be printed on the same pages as entertainment, it should not be treated as entertainment. Too often the handling of news is entrusted to men who are in fact professional entertainers or showmen.—The Economist, London, Eng.

Waterloo to Become a City

The fact that Waterloo is definitely to become a city is good news to all residents of this town. Admittedly, taking on the mantel of cityhood brings with it many new obligations, but with those obligations also come some advantages that are not available in a town. One thing definitely will have to change and that is the viewpoint of minor politicians who are responsible for the workings and function of civil affairs. At the present time their viewpoint on many matters is so shortsighted as to be almost pitiful.—Waterloo Chronicle.

World's Largest Private Yacht

The world's largest private yacht is the Savarona, which was built in Germany in 1931 at a cost of $4,500,000 for the late Mrs. R. M. Caldwalader of Philadelphia and which is now the presidential yacht of Turkey. Although having only 13 staterooms, this steamship is 408 feet long, weights 4,700 gross tons, requires a crew of 72 and has an average operating cost of $25,000 a month.—Collier's Magazine.

NO TATTLETALE

Suppose upon a roguish face
You plainly saw the stains of jam,
And you'd been left to guard the place,
And were as old as now I am,
When mother asked if all went well,
Would you say "Yes" or would you tell?

Suppose you'd seen a youthful cheek
Puffed out with candy, much too large,
The mouth so full it couldn't speak,
And you, that afternoon, in charge,
When asked what through the day befell,
Would you remember that to tell?

A truthful grandpa I would be.
I want to play the sitter well,
But everything I chance to see
I don't believe I have to tell.
When mother asks me: "Were they good?"
I say they were, and think I should.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Who was Dred Scott

Dred Scott was a humble, illiterate Negro slave whose name has been embalmed in history simply because he was the innocent pawn in a "test case" that fanned the flames of civil war.

He was born in 1795 on Captain Peter Blow's plantation in Southhampton County, Virginia. In 1827, when Dred Scott was 32, Blow moved to St. Louis. When Blow died in 1831 he assigned Dred Scott to his daughter Elizabeth, who two years later sold him to an army surgeon named John Emerson.

The slave spent three years in Illinois and Wisconsin territories as Emerson's body servant. During that time he married and had two children by a slave named Harriet whom Emerson bought in 1836. Upon Emerson's return to St. Louis, Dred Scott was loaned as a body servant to Colonel Henry Bainbridge at Jefferson Barracks. When Emerson died his widow inherited Dred Scott and hired him out to various families.

In the middle-1840's Mrs. Emerson moved to Massachusetts and left Dred Scott to shift for himself. He sems to have been in poor health, unreliable as a worker and without means of support. Often he was provided for by Henry Taylor Blow, son of his first owner, who seemed to be genuinely attached to the slave and to feel responsibility for him.

Meanwhile Mrs. Emerson was married to Dr. Calvin Clifford Chaffee, who later became an anti-slavery Congressman from Massachusetts. Although she was the legal owner of Dred Scott, she did not emancipate him, as she could have done.

In April, 1846, Henry Taylor Blow, later an anti-slavery Congressman himself, started and financed a suit in the Missouri courts to have Dred Scott declared free on the ground that his residence in free-soil territory had made him a free man. Dred signed his mark to the petition without knowing what it was all about.

During the time the case was in the State courts, from 1846 to 1842, Dred Scott was under the nominal control of the sheriff, who hired him out to do odd jobs at $5 a month. After Judge William Scott ruled adversely to Dred Scott in 1852 the case was taken to the Federal courts. For jurisdictional purposes Dred Scott was "sold" to Mrs. Chaffee's brother, John F. A. Sanford, of New York, and the case went on the docket as "Dred Scott vs. Sanford." Montgomery Blair, later Postmaster General in Lincoln's Cabinet, was Dred Scott's chief counsel.

Meanwhile the slave, oblivious to all the ado being made about his status, remained in St. Louis under virtually no restraint and earned what he could by running errands and doing janitor work. After the Supreme Court ruled against his freedom in 1857, Dred Scott was transferred by another fictitious sale to Henry Taylor Blow and emancipated. Dred Scott, now a free man and a national celebrity, spent his last days as a porter at Barnum's Hotel in St. Louis, and when he died of tuberculosis in 1858, Henry Taylor Blow, son of his original owner, paid his funeral expenses.

PROPER POSTURE

Posture is important. Holding the body erect, with chest thrown forward not only makes possible better breathing with more oxygen for purification of the blood, but also provides constant mild exercise for the muscles of the trunk, say doctors.

Atomic Materials Made Available For Research

Ottawa, Sept. 4. (CP)— Fulfilment of his own prediction that medical research would be the first to benefit from atomic laboratory work, came from Reconstruction Minister Howe last night.

The Minister announced that Canada will release radio-active materials from its atomic energy research plant to doctors and hospitals, and that the release, coupled with similar United States announcement, would "open a whole new field of medical research."

Main questions on the project, which will broaden the whole field of atomic research, are expected to be answered today at a press conference in the Minister's office, at which Dean C. J. Mackenzie, president of the National Research Council, will attend.

Announcement that Canada would make the radioisotopes available to Canadian doctors came in a brief statement which paralleled an announcement from St. Louis by President Truman.

The St. Louis announcement said that the U.S. would offer all foreign countries limited amounts of 20 radio-active tracer elements from U.S. atomic ovens to speed international war against diseases.

Mr. Howe said "the action of the United States in making available isotopes to foreign governments as announced by the President will facilitate the imimmediate procurement by Canadian scientists of a wide range of isotopes.

"Under this arrangement, isotopes not available in Canada may be procured from the U.S. The procedure for the acquisition of isotopes will be announced later,"

Radio-active isotopes, described as the most important medical research tool since the development of the microscope, can be used to trace life processes and the course of diseases and drugs. The 20 now released are described as the most important for biological and medical research.

THANK HEAVEN FOR OUR DENTISTS

Right now it will seem absurd to most of you old geezers—and it would seem so to me, I suppose, if I were not a little bit balmy to begin with — when I say that prevention or even correction or at any rate postponement of the degeneration that awaits every one who attains full development, growth or maturity will be achieved in the not distant future, mainly through the correction of nutritional deficiencies from which most North Americans suffer at present.

I get right down to specific instructions or recommendations how to correct the principle deficiencies while harping on this subject in the booklet "The Seven Keys to Vite," available on written request (no clipping, please) if you inclose twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

The degeneration, the slowing down, the decline, the slow death that begins the moment one reaches the peak of growth and development, whether the peak is at 35, 45, 55, becomes manifest as decay and loss of teeth, pyorrhez, rheumatiz, arteriosclerosis, graying of haid, sallow, dry, wrinkled skin etc.

Arteriosclerosis, hardening of the arteries (not to be confused with conditions of which high blood pressure is a prominent feature or symptom), has been too much regarded as synonymous with premature or advancing senility, old age, decline. Long, long before even ophthalmoscopic examination (inspection of retina in back of eye by physician) reveal the earliest sign of arteriosclerosis, other and more obvious signs have generally been ignored by the d. f. rushing on toward his dotage. Degeneration, particularly premature degeneration, begins in most instances in the mouth. This is my firm conviction. I say that degeneration begins in the mouth, with carious or decayed teeth, pyorrhea, loss of teeth and failure to replace them immediately with functionally efficient dentures — and I mean immediately.

A fat chance any poor ignoramus has of preventing the insidious development of nutritional deficiency if his or her mouth digestion becomes crippled or impaired by disease or loss of teeth.

They tell me there are nearly a hundred million poor ignoramuses in North America who accept as inevitable decay and loss of teeth and disease of gums, the while they waste time and money on the d. f. business of brushing what wretched teeth they have left, with whatever brand of glorified soap or polish the pretty girl magazines feature this season. It does not seem to occur to these ignoramuses — and I blame the old timers in the dental profession for this — it doesn't occur to them that in North America we have

(a) the finest dentists in the world, and that

(b) the dentist can stop the progress of caries, decay and

(c) prevent development of pyorrhea and loss of teeth

(d) and the up-to-date dental practitioner can do all this and more painlessly, whatever pain the old timer gave patients with his crude methods,

(e) provided, of course, that you have enough sense to seek dental treatment as soon as you know or suspect there is anything wrong.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Nutritive Value

Does it lessen the nutritive value of milk to follow a glassful with a glassful of water at the same meal?

(J. G.)

Answer—No. If you feel thirsty you will digest the milk, or any other food, better if you satisfy your thirst with water, at any stage of a meal.

Odorous Sweating

Is there some effective remedy for odorous perspiration of the feet?

(O. A. S.)

Answer—Remedies are given in the booklet Care of the Feet—for copy send twenty cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Tomatoes

Great faith in your advice—tell me if it is bad for rheumatic patients to use tomatoes or tomato juice in their diet.

(Mrs. E. McA.)

Answer — It is good for them, or for any one else.

Good Doctor

I am prospective mother. My doctor gets his patients out of bed in three or four days in most cases. Have been advised to get another doctor who follows the accepted custom of 10 or 11 days.

(Mrs. G. M. G.)

Answer — Better keep your present doctor — and your health, vite and girlish figure. Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet Preparing for Maternity.

Book Review

One of the best known writers of this age in inspirational literature is the author of this work. Dr. Archer Wallace has written a great deal of literature of this class, much in the form of stories drawn from a wide range of sources and dealing with the ideals and motives of the young. The present book is one of the best, and should be in the hands of every boy, because in these stories they will find impulses which they can apply in their own lives. Dr. Wallace is a brilliant storyteller and artist, who has read widely and studied the problems of boyhood and youth. In these stories there is a wide range of subject to suit all readers of this age. This work is written with the clearness which marks all Dr. Wallace's work and his ability to tell a story in a way that will live in the memory is shown on every page. He writes in simple language. The stories are brief.

Boys will have their heroes and here are stories of heroes who left their marks on life in their own time. Here the author has roamed through history and life's experiences and has given these stories to the class that will most appreciate and benefit by them, the young. They reveal nobility of motive and the ideal as the values which make life's truest success.

Here appear such figures as Hans Christian Andersen, Edward Bok, Phillips Brooks, Thomas Carlyle, Joseph Conrad, Glenn Cunningham, Thomas A. Edison, David Livingstone, Joseph, Fritz Kreisler, Sir Isaac Newton, Louis Pasteur, William Penn, King Solomon, Booker T. Washington John Wannamaker, John Wesley, Isaac Watts and scores of others. There is the story of Lou Gehrig, the figure in the sports world, that inspires youth. Stories of triumph over physical handicaps and misfortunes are told in the studies of the lives of Robert Louis Stevenson, Carlyle, George Matheson and William H. Prescott.

What Dr. Wallace has done is to present in story lives that have meant much to the world. Such biographies throw a flood of light on the real principles that guide to the highest achievement.

Dr. Wallace's story-telling gift is a rare possession. It is at its best in such stories which carry the sympathy of every reader in a few words.

To make in this book the acquaintance of these heroic men from all ages is a privilege that parents will desire for their sons.

Not to boys only but to all those who have the privilege of guiding youth, mostly parents, leaders, ministers, teachers and scoutmasters, the book is invaluable.

"One Hundred Stories for Boys" is in keeping with the high tradition of Dr. Wallace's work in which he is engaged in serving a great number of the young of this generation as readers of The Onward which has a weekly circulation of 100,000. Over a million copies of his books have been sold.

Belleville Food Praised by Editor

Carman Fish, editor of National Safety News, says in a recent issue of his magazine, "The tired and hungry traveller in a strange town doesn't know one restaurant from another, and he is likely to pick the wrong one. Neon signs and chrome fixtures too often are a front for a filthy kitchen.

"I haven't forgotten the family's first motor vacation. It was positively amazing how many cooks could spoil food, and these culinary crimes were not limited to any region. They were quite widely distributed through Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and Ontario. By the time we reached Cleveland, soda mint tablets had become part of our regular rations.

"To give credit where due, there were a few towns en route where we found tasty food served in clean and pleasant surroundings. Among them were Ashtabula, Ohio, Olean and Watertown N.Y., and Belleville, Ontario.

THE SILHOUETTE CHANGES

COLONIAL

The Colonial woman of 1760 mimicked the court of France in her styles and habits. The degree of extravagance in her garb depended solely on the type of life in the colony and its degree of contact with Europe. Full skirts and bustles and a low cut neckline predominated. Today Canadian designers are styles setters—and second to none in the creation of stunning new fashions. You'll like the smart new lines and deft handling of our new Fall Coats and Dresses.

ll are Trying Reduce U.K.'s tional Debt

By JAMES McCOOK
nadian Press Staff Writer)

ondon, Sept. 4 — (CP)—Some hundreds of thousands of nds; some give pennies. A few false teeth that His Majesty's rnment can sell for cash. All trying to reduce Britain's nal debt.

ugh Dalton, Chancellor of the hequer, watching over a float- debt of £7,000,000,000 ($28,- 000,000), receives these con- utions with official thanks al- ugh the largest is insufficient ase noticeably the load of the payer.

alton has given an annual ac- nting on two of the largest s ever given the Treasury — nt £500,000 ($2,000,000) pre- ed by an anonymous donor in and £527,808 presented in by Lord Inchcape and his ly in memory of his daugh- Hon. Elsie MacKay, who dis- eared when trying to fly the ntic in 1928.

The anonymous gift was used to establish a national fund. Since its creation, further contributions of £367,495 have been received from various persons interested in Britain's welfare. The earnings on the original gift and additions brought the total value, including investments, to £1,665,083 in 1947.

The anonymous donor asked that the gift be retained and accumulated until either alone or with other funds it was sufficient to discharge the national debt. But the trustees may divert part of the gift to meet national needs at any time they think desirable, provided a substantial sum is retained so that the donor's wishes may ultimately be fulfilled.

The Elsie MacKay Memorial Fund must be accumulated for not less than 45 and no more than 50 years and then applied to reduce the national debt. It has more than doubled in value, with the original £527,808 increased to £1,393,908 in 1947, investments included.

Contributions to reducing the national debt include outright gifts of furniture, building property, jewelry, china, government pensions which the recipients make payable to the fund, and — in cases reported by officials — false teeth with some value.

In 1930, Edward S. Harkness, a United States citizen, gave the treasury an outright gift of £2,000,000 as a token of admiration. The Sultan of Johore gave a present of $5,000.

When Britain encountered financial difficulties in 1931, King George V gave up £50,000 of his income, easing the national expenses by that amount.

A BARE CONCOTION

New York, Sept. 4 (AP) — A bottle of "rattlesnake whiskey" was seized in a recent Chinatown raid by the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, which offers this recipe for the concoction:

Place a live rattlesnake in a large jar; add rice wine, dried toads, soy beans, sliced deer antlers and a handful of dried sea horses. Age six months.

James Ryan, acting district supervisor for the bureau, said the product is popular with West Coast Chinese, who believe it gives them strength.

Flat-Rolled Steel Shortage 18 Mos. Behind Promises

New York, Sept. 3 — (AP)—Deliveries of new equipment which has been expected to alleviate the flat-rolled steel shortage this year are running as much as 18 months behind promises, the Iron Age, national metalworking paper said today.

"It now looks like major flat-rolled equipment on order will not be installed much before the middle of next year," the publication said. "Present rolling mill facilities are being pushed to the hilt but steel consumers are still complaining about the steel shortage and are shutting down in some instances until banks of stock are built up."

Declaring that the industry this week "bore earmarks of wartime days," the Iron Age said demand was on the increase but raw materials "were tighter than ever."

In addition, the breakneck wartime pace "is at last catching up with the mills," and serious major repair programs, many of them involving blast furnaces, must be undertaken immediately.

All this came at a time when carryovers (unshipped tonnages carried over into the next month) had been increasing with every major producer.

"There is no danger that steel production will slip sharply, but demand is so strong that even a three-or four-point decline will be enough to force a complete revamping of present steel quotas."

Despite the Labor Day holiday the industry's operating rate was unchanged this week at 93.5 per cent of capacity. No significant change in the scrap markets was reported.

Judge German Resigns Post

Ottawa, Sept. 4 — (CP)—Judge J. C. M. German of Cobourg, Ont., who last December was sentenced to 30 days imprisonment on a charge of driving while drunk, has resigned his judicial post, it was announced by the Justice Department.

The charge against Judge German arose out of an accident in Cobourg a year ago today in which the motor car he was driving struck and injured Mrs. Jeanne Taylor of Cobourg. The 57-year-old jurist was also fined $250 on a careless driving count.

Judge German served as county judge for Northumberland and Durham, of which Cobourg is the county seat. He appealed against his conviction on the drunk driving charge but it was dismissed by the Ontario Court of Appeal and he served his 30-day term in the Cobourg jail.

Fewer Cattle Being Shipped

Toronto, Sept. 4 (CP) — Meat retailers here said today farmers are not shipping cattle, fearing there is not an active-bidding market due to the seven-day-old strike of close to 4,000 workers in six Swift Canadian Company plants.

Representatives of the United Packinghouse Workers of America and of the Swift Company, met again today in efforts to settle the strike in plants in Moncton, N.B., Toronto, St. Boniface, Man., Edmonton, Moose Jaw, Sask. and New Westminster B.C.

One large market butcher concern here said supplies are 20 to 25 per cent down and many of the choice cuts unobtainable.

John Lenglet, spokesman for the union which seeks a new contract which will guarantee a basic hourly wage of 92 cents, said it is indicated the strike will extend into next week.

The union—whose wage boost demands call for a 15 cents an hour increase in Toronto and 20 cents at other plants —also is negotiating new contracts with Canada Packers and Burns and Co.

SOLICITOUS BANDIT

Detroit, Sept 4 — (AP) — A solicitous bandit, who robbed a 17-year old girl clerk of $53 and then escorted her five blocks to a bus stop, was sought by police today.

Miss Barbara Seabert told authorities she was closing up a dry cleaning establishment Tuesday night when the gunman entered.

After robbing her, the bandit then told the girl it was unsafe for her to be out at that hour of night. Inquiring her destination, he walked down the street with the girl until she got to her bus.

DECLINE COMMENT

Seoul, Korea, Sept. 4—(AP)—United States Army officials declined today to comment on a charge by Tass news agency, that a Russian officer had been held in the American zone since June 7. When the case of three Americans held in the Russian zone came up last month, however, authorities said the Americans returned promptly all Soviet soldiers who strayed into the American zone, including at least one deserter.

40,000 Miners Idle in Britain Due to Strikes

London, Sept. 4 (AP) — Press Association said today that Britain's critical coal strikes in the rich South Yorkshire pits have spread to more than 35 mines increasing the number of idle miners to nearly 40,000.

The National Coal Board said it had no official confirmation of these figures, nor any new information concerning the three-week-old walkout, precipitated by a coal board order increasing the miners' "stint" from 21 to 23 feet of coal face.

The coal board had ordered 140 miners in one seam to dig two feet more of coal each day. They balked and when the board called for termination of their contracts they went on strike. Sympathy walkouts in other mines followed. A reported settlement of the strike over the weekend failed when miners who had agreed to return to work walked out again yesterday.

It was reported that 21 pits were entirely idle and that loss of coal amounted to some 40,000 tons a day plus 130,000 tons already lost in the strike which started Aug. 11 at Grimethorpe pit in the heart of the coal fields.

The gravity of the situation impelled Joseph Hall, 60-year-old president of the Yorkshire Miners' Organization, to appeal directly to approximately 2,500 Grimethorpe miners to return to their jobs. Hall is scheduled to leave for the United States tonight with the Miners' Welfare Commission.

TEST MATERIAL STOLEN

New York, Sept. 3 —(AP)—Some 350 eager candidates for jobs as sanitation department truck drivers were lined up for physical examinations yesterday when the test was called off.

An embarrassed civil service examiner explained that 13 dumbbells, weighing 740 pounds and used to test the strength of the prospective garbage can tossers, had been stolen.

TAKE A TIP

owdered spices make a dark-colored chutney, whereas the whole spices leave a lighter relish. If you substitute whole spices for powdered mixtures use a little extra quantity.

2. Soaking cucumbers and onions in strong brine causes them to wrinkle.

3. Cider vinegar has a stronger aroma than the bleached vinegars, but may cause onions and celergy to darken slightly.

4. Do not cook spicy sauces too long. Vinegar and spices help to retard chemical action.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. C. B. asks: Recipe for Pickled Peaches.

Answer:

PICKLED PEACHES

8 lbs. ripe peaches, whole cloves, 1-2 cup water, 2 cups cider vinegar, 2 1-2 cups sugar, 3 tbsps .stick cinnamon, 1 tbsp. root ginger, 2 tbsps. of mixed pickling spice, 1-2 lemon, thinly sliced.

Use large, firm peaches. Scald, skin and cut them in halves; stick two or three whole cloves in each half. Combine the vinegar, water, sugar, spices (tied in a cheesecloth bag) and the lemon slices; boil for five minutes. Simmer the peaches in the syrup, one layer at a time until tender; lift into sterile jars; fill to overflowing with the boiling syrup and seal at once. Yield: approximately 4 pints.

Miss M. T. asks: Recipe for Mint Pears.

Answer:

MINT PEARS

Pare, core and put in slightly salted water, to prevent discoloration. Pack into prepared jars and fill with medium syrup to within 1 1-2 inches of top of jar. For each quart add 1-2 tsp. mint extract and enough pure green fruit coloring to give desired shade. Add flavoring and fruit coloring to syrup before filling jars. Partially seal and process in electric oven for 1 hour at 275 degrees F.

Mrs. J. G. asks: What has made my crabapple jelly very dark?

Answer: It is the result of too slow cooking.

Mrs. T. C. asks: Our currant jelly has sugar crystals in the bottom of jars. Should it be boiled again?

Answer: No, it will keep as it is. Crystals are caused either because sugar was not stirred until dissolved, or jelly was boiled too long.

Going to Build a House?

You can get yourself into an awful mess building a house if you're not careful. Labor costs are up 45 per cent. Materials are up anywhere from 2% to 98%. You can't beat these costs, but you can budget for them. The trouble is that building budgets are generally broken by the person most concerned with keeping within them — the future home owner himself, ably assisted by his wife. In The Standard this week, Staff Writer Zoe Bieler, warns you of some of the building pitfalls to avoid, and how to get around most of the labor and material troubles. It will certainly help you build that house of yours — without spending the rest of your life paying for it. Get The Standard. It's on sale today at all newsdealers for 10 cents.

Automatic Curd Forks Reduce Labor Costs in Cheese Factories

Inability of cheesemakers to obtain the required experienced helpers is forcing makers in the Belleville area to adopt labor saving measures it was revealed by a visit to Cloverdale factory in the Wellington district recently.

Here automatic curd forks have been installed on all five cheese vats, thus enabling the cheesemaker to get along with one helper less. By using special paddles instead of the forks, the machines take the place of the former power agitators which stir the milk during the cooking process.

"Those automatic curd forks are almost human," commented the Cloverdale cheesemaker Mr. Leslie Wyatt who demonstrated the machine for the benefit of this news reporter, "and, too, they have almost paid for themselves this season."

One of the largest factories in the Bay of Quinte district, the Cloverdale factory now has but two helpers besides the cheesemaker, where previously at least three helpers were required.

Purchased in Wisconsin, U.S.A., the automatic curd fork mechanism takes the form of a metal track fixed above each vat. Running on this vat is an electric motor on a special car which travels back and forth the length of the vat. Curd forks or paddles are hung on rotating spindles.

A feature of the mechanism is the provision for reversing the motor car at any given point. The machine can be set to work at either end, in the centre, or for the entire length of the vat.

Cloverdale is not the only factory in the district where the curd forks have been installed. Others are in operation at Mountain View, and also at the U.E.L. factory in the Napanee district, it was stated.

Treaty Pledges 19 Republics To Act in Concert

Rio De Janeiro, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Treaty of Rio De Janeiro, an unprecedented pact pledging republics of the Western Hemisphere to act in concert against any aggression in the hemisphere's security zone, was signed in formal ceremonies by 103 delegates delegates of 19 countries.

The treaty, subject to ratification by the Congresses of the signing republics, was drafted in 18 days of delegates attending a hemisphere defence conference at Quitandinha, in the mountains 45 miles north of here.

President Truman, for the United States, addressed the delegates at their final session yesterday and congratulated them on achieving the treaty, which he called a plain warning to any "possible aggressor" and an "example of good neighborliness and international amity."

Delegates signed for the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Costa Rica, Peru, El Salvador, Panama, Paraguay, Venezuela, Chile, Honduras, Cuba, Bolivia, Colombia, Mexico, Haiti, Uruguay, Argentina, Brazil and the United States. Canada, not a member of the Pan-American Union, has been invited to sign later.

The treaty, based on decisions embodied in the Act of Chapultepec of March, 1945, provides:

That an armed attack against any of the signing powers is considered an attack against all of them;

That collective military defence measures will be taken in the event of any armed attack within the hemisphere's security zone, reaching from pole to pole and from Hawaii to the Falklands;

That joint consultations will be held for defence of an American Republic attacked outside the security zone;

That the republics jointly will issue a cease-fire order in the event of hostilities between two American states.

Two American republics did not sign. Nicaragua was not invited because of dissatisfaction with her current governmental regime and Ecuador's government was overthrown in the midst of the conference.

Mancheno's Govt. In Tattered Ruins After Nine Days

Quito, Ecuador, Sept. 4 (AP)—The nine-day-old regime of Col. Carlos Mancheno lay in tattered ruins today and Mariano Suarez Veintimilla, reputed leader of a counter-revolt which caused Mancheno's downfall, resumed temporary power over Ecuador.

Mancheno resigned last night as counter-revolutionary forces bore down on Quito without opposition. Diplomatic informants said he had taken asylum in the Venezuelan Embassy and intended to leave the country as soon as possible. Other sources said he had simply disappeared.

Mancheno's resignation was followed by an immediate cessation of fire on all front and marked the apparently successful conclusion of a counter-revolt which began last Saturday night.

In Riobamba, Suarez Veintimilla, vice-president in the regime ousted by Mancheno, assumed the reins of power but disclaimed personal ambition and said he would relinquish his authority to whoever was named by a special session of Congress.

(In Cali, Colombia, a broadcast was heard which said exiled President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, ousted by Mancheno in a bloodless, one-shot coup on Aug. 24 was planning to leave Argentina immediately by plane for Guayaquil, Ecuador's big fort city, to resume power. This same broadcast said counter-revolutionary troops from Tulcan and Guayaquil had entered Quito.)

Mancheno, upon assuming control, abolished the Constitution adopted last January and ruled valid the 1906 charter which gave him virtual dictatorial powers. The counter-revolters had demanded the return of the Constitution.

They were commenting on a report from Toronto quoting air traffic control at Malton Airport as saying the plane, piloted by Kell Hagen, was forced down 15 miles west of Trenton a few hours after taking off from Montreal.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

You often get a responding bridge hand that is overflowing with trick values. It makes you drool to reveal all its virtues with some special kind of a bid. What do you do about it?

First, follow the order of choice in T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump. Second, see if it has enough for a jump. Third, see if the jump should be at once or later.

With enough tricks to help make a game, you jump. If not now, later. If the hand also contains two sure tricks, jump at once. Now. With less than two sure, delay the jump until the second round.

You may wonder why enough tricks should not jump at once with less than two sure tricks. The reason is that partner may see tricks enough for a slam when you jump. It may make him slambitious.

Rule tells him not to rely on sure tricks unless your jump is in the first round. If he gets slam-happy from a second round jump, it is without need for tricks in the sure department from you.

Partner opens with one spade when you have this hand:

♠A 8 6 3
♥K 9 7 4
♦None
♣K J 8 6 4

You are chuck full of vitamins A, B, D and E; assist for the spades, biddable club suit, devoid of diamonds, enough tricks to help make a game.

Following T-A-N, takeout first to a biddable suit, your clubs. With a hand that has less than two sure tricks, do not jump on the first round. Your first response is thus two clubs.

Change either king to an ace and you would have an immediate jump to three clubs. Add a queen to either suit that has a king and you would have an immediate jump to three clubs.

Your takeout to a new suit is forcing for one round. Partner will keep it open. What if you have the kind of partner who will not? In that case, you probably punt.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 4 — (AP) — Are you grey-haired, paunchy, middle-aged? Can you act? If so, come to Hollywood.

The movie town is suffering one of the oddest shortages in its history — character actors are getting scarcer and scarcer. The situation is getting critical, or so MGM casting director Billy Grady would have us believe. The competent character people are dying off like flies, and there is no one to replace them.

"Where can they come from?" asked Grady, a fast-talking ex-actor and agent. "Our best character actors have come from vaudeville, stock and repertory companies. Those fields are now dead. There is no adequate training ground for new talent."

The result is that 30 well-trained veterans have a virtual monopoly on character roles in Hollywood, through lack of competition.

"For years," said Grady, "my advice to agents has been to go to New York, find 10 good character men and 10 good character women on the stage and bring them out here. The agents could do a thriving business."

The character market is rising rapidly. Grady said he brought Charles Coburn out from the stage six years ago at a guarantee of $600 a week. The actor is now pulling down from $100,000 to $150,000 a picture, pretty fancy dough for a 70-year-old.

Hollywood has to solve the dearth of character actors or find itself in hot water, the talent man declared. His solution is the fostering of stock companies in every sizable American town, with the aid of Hollywood money and talent.

Expel Caughnawaga Indians From Playing Lacrosse After Riot at Lachine on Monday

Four Cornwall Players and Referee Suffer Head Injuries When Team Mobbed

Montreal, Sept. 4. (CP)— A revival last Monday of Indian massacres of days long ago, which resulted in the attempted "scalping" of four Cornwall, Ont., lacrosse players, has cost the Caughnawaga Indians the right to participate in the Quebec Lacrosse Association playoffs.

The Q.L.A. announced last night following a special meeting that the Indians were expelled from further playoff participation as an aftermath of the riot Monday at Lachine arena where four Cornwall players and a referee suffered head injuries when the Caughnawaga team and about 200 spectators mobbed the Cornwall team. Simultaneously with the Q.L.A. ruling, the Lachine City Council decided that no further rental would be granted to either Indian controlled lacrosse or hockey teams.

The fracas broke loose in the second period of the Caughnawaga-Cornwall contest, second game of a best of seven association semi-final. Cornwall won the first game of the series at home, and were leading 7-2 when the riot occurred.

Somewhere around 200 of the 2,000 spectators on hand stormed onto the floor, smashing down a 30-foot stretch of wire fencing, and ganged up on the visiting team.

The Caughnawaga Indian Reservation, located opposite Lachine on the south bank of the St. Lawrence River, has no indoor sports arena where hockey and lacrosse games may be played. The action by the Lachine City Council will prevent Caughnawaga from participating in future sports events in Lachine.

Dick Brayley, president of the Q.L.A. said the ban applies only to cases where Caughnawaga teams are involved, but that individual players from Caughnawaga could participate in games at the arena if playing with other clubs.

Brayley ordered Indians to pay medical expanses of Referee Danny Daniels, who suffered a broken nose and possible fractured jaw in the melee. The four Cornwall players who were cut about the head when the Indians and spectators rained blows from lacrosse sticks on them, were reported not to be in serious condition.

A new playoff alignment was decided upon. Verdun, previously eliminated in a fourth place single game playoff with Caughnawaga, will now re-enter the playoffs and play Cornwall in a best of three series.

PRINCESS HAS JOB

Tokyo, Sept. 4 — (AP)—Princess Sadako, Empress Dowager, took a job for the first time in her life today, accepting the presidency of the Japan Silk Thread Association, which has been organized to sponsor the development of that industry.

AT THE BELLE — Weird horror is written in the eyes of Robt. Alda and Andrea King for a scene in Warner Bros.' new mystery-thriller "The Beast with Five Fingers," in which they share star billing with Peter Lorre. "Jungle Flight" is the second worthy feature.

AT THE CAPITOL — Bob Hope pulls a Sherlock Holmes in his new comedy, "My Favorite Brunette, which comes tonight to the Capitol Theatre. Naturally, the brunette in the title is none other than Dorothy Lamour, who is co-starred with Hope in the Paramount release. Peter Lorre and Lon Chaney are importantly and menacingly featured in the laugh-film. Elliott Nugent directed. On the same program Jimmy Wakely in his latest western "Six Gun Serenade."

PLAYER-PENSION AND SAVINGS PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED

Three Players of N.H.L. Will Meet Governors of the League

New York, Sept. 4 — (CP) — Headed by Sylvanus Apps of Toronto Maple Leafs, a three-man delegation representing National Hockey League players was to appear today at the semi-annual meeting of the N. H. L.'s Board of Governors to discuss player-pension and savings plan proposals.

Other members of the delegation appointed to represent the players were Sid Abel of Detroit Red Wings and Glen Harmon of Montreal Canadiens.

The move to formulate pension and saving plans for players similar to those adopted last year by the major baseball leagues came after the governors, in their opening session here yesterday, drafted a new constitution binding the six N. H. L. clubs "to play together in perpetuity."

President Clarence Campbell of the N. H. L. in announcing the drafting, said that it represented no really new development but rather a "formulating and smoothing out" of the agreement binding the six clubs.

He said that in 1926 the teams drafted a 15-year-agreement which in 1941, because of the war, was extended on a year-to-year basis. This year, instead of making the agreement for a set period, the clubs had placed no time limit on it.

Provision is made under the new constitution for withdrawal of clubs under certain circumstances, including voluntary resignation following approval of all clubs. Any club expelled from the N. H. L. would be able to join another league, but it would have to "start from scratch" because it would have to dispose of its players and its franchise.

With this constitution as a framework, Campbell said, league by-laws and rules would be "furbished up and brought into conformity" with the new agreement This probably would be done at an N. H. L. meeting in Toronto Oct. 14.

Trenton Flyers Even Series With Bata Shoemen Winning 8 to 4 in Twelve Innings

Winners of This Round Go Into Second Round of O.B.A. Playdowns; Score Four in 12th to Salt Game Away; Third Game Next Wednesday

Everything was hunky-dory up to the first half of the twelfth innings. Trenton Flyers and Batawa Shoemen had battled away with neither getting the break in the regular stanzas. Up to the end of the ninth, the score was four-all; and the squads, all tense waited for the break.

It came in the first half of the twelfth heat when big Bill Dunning, Flyers first baseman, poled out a mighty triple, his second of the game, to pave the way for a four-run Flyers' splurge that game them a 8-4 victory to even the first round OBA Intermediate "A" series and necessitate a third meeting. The deciding game will be played here at the Fair Grounds next Wednesday night. Batawa previously defeated the Flyers 8-5.

The game was a thriller all the way despite the fact that both squads erred grievously at times but in the majority the bobbles were not costly.

It was mainly a fine hurling duel between Al. Wade of the Flyers and Gordy Muffitt of the Shoemen. The squads, outside of the infield miscues, fielded well behind the hurlers with outfielders on both teams pulling down some sensational catches.

Both Went Route

Both flingers went the route Wade extricated himself from some tight holes when his infield faltered. He struck out eight and walked none. Gordy Muffitt, Batawa righthander turned in a sterling effort until the twelfth innings when he weakened and the Flyer bats rapped his offerings for four solid clouts to put the game away. Up to that time he had been touched for ten hits, but his mates backed him up well despite the fact that they committed four errors. Muffitt whiffed 10 Flyers and issued the only two walks of the game.

A near capacity crowd thronged the grandstand at Exhibition Park under the lights last night when the diamond rivals got under way. Both teams were well represented in Spectator Alley, and all witnessed a thrilling ball game that ended well after the clock had struck eleven.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle after the first innings. Flyers went ahead one run in the third, when Bridgeman's single drove in Reinhardt who had smashed out a hit ahead of him.

Forge Into Lead

Batawa spectators roared their collective heads off in the fourth when the Shoemen forged into the lead with a three-run explosion. Marietta, Flyer third baseman bobbled Watson's bid for a hit and Peacock got a lift when the Flyer first baseman and second baseman fooled around with the ball. Then Bridgeman, Flyer shortstop fumbled Burtt's grounder. Solmes went out and Gordy Muffitt lashed out a single that sent two runners over the plate. Watson had scored on one of the errors and that gave Batawa a two run lead.

Flyers evened the count in the sixth. Bridgeman got a life on Cook's bobble and Dunning smashing out a towering triple to deep left centre that scored Bridgeman. Fitzpatrick came to the plate and laid down a bunt for a perfect squeeze play that scored Dunning.

And that was all there was to the ball game until the tenth. At the end of regulation time the teams were all even stephen at three each. They battled away in the tenth and Flyers took the lead on a Batawa error, a putout and singles by Fitzpatrick and Dunning. Batawa came right back again, the count was even at four all when the Shoemen scored the equalizer on an error a walk and Spencer's third clout of the pastime.

At the end of the eleventh the squads were all even. Flyers came to bat in their half of the twelfth and the game exploded under the feet of Gord Muffitt. Reinhardt went out, Haffey drew a walk, and Bridgeman died on an infield out. Dunning marched to the plate and on the second pitch smashed out his second three-bagger of the game scoring Haffey. Fitzpatrick lined out a single to centre scoring Dunning and Marietta did likewise, sending Fitz home. Robertson drove out the fourth hit of the innings which scored Marietta and the ball game was over as far as Batawa was concerned.

Cook, first Batawan up in their half of the twelfth lashed out a single but Al. Wade bore down to retire the next two batters. Burtt drew a life on an error but the usually reliable Solmes flied out to right field to end the game.

Dunning, Flyers first baseman paced their attack with two triples and a single. Reinhardt, coach of the team came through with three timely singles with Fitzpatrick and Robertson contributing two hits each to a winning cause. Gordy Muffitt aided his team's bid for victory with not only a fine pitching effort but three singles as well. Spencer donated three also with Cook getting the remaining pair.

Fielding highlights of the game were furnished by centrefields Ken Peacock, and Burtt of Batawa. Both ran plenty of distance to pull down Flyer flies that were labelled hits.

Edmonton, Sept. 4 — (CP)—It doesn't take much to start an argument — especiall if the topic is sport. Take football for instance — if you were to tell a Hamilton Tigers football fan that the club had no business signing Frankie Filchock you're bound to have a good chin wag.

Speaking of football, Filchock and arguments Bob (Calgary) Herald) Mamini has this to say about the situation.

"The signing of Filchock has started a controversy that promises to produce some of the bitterest committee room battling Canadian football has seen in years — and it has seen a lot."

There's no reason, says Mamini, why the Tigers shouldn't get away with the smartest deal off the gridiron and come up with one of the best football players on the continent. He adds, however, that they'll be lucky if they ever get him into action.

"Signing of United States players ordinarily is quite O. K. and within the rules, but when an outstanding star like Filchock is picked up that's another thing. If other teams can find some reason for which he might be barred, they're bound to hammer away at it until by sheer weight of numbers they succeed."

In Filchock the Tigers, continues Mamini have acquired a player who can carry the mail. And he's of the opinion that the Tigers front office — whether they meant to or not — made a sportsmanlike gesture in giving the man a break "we think he deserved."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 4 — (AP) — Brooklyn is up in arms at the suggestion that a Dodger-Yankee World Series might be played entirely in the Yankee Stadium, which has about twice the seating capacity of Ebbets Field . . . . but Branch Rickey indignantly denies that such a move is contemplated . . . What do those Manhattans think Branch is trying to do — make money? . . . Of course, here are 29 football games (pro, college and high school) booked for the Brooklyn ball yard this season but they're subject to cancellation in the event of a World Series conflict.

Hirsch (Mr. Stymie) Jacobs will go after the big money at the Hialeah race meeting next winter with his fancy-priced French importation, Basileus, while Stymie, the leading money winner, is rested in Virginia as in past years . . . Gus Wilson, veteran fight manager, flew from Los Angeles to Honolulu the other day to handle Lorenzo Safora against Chico Rosa. From here he planned to hop to Manila to second Baby Gonzales against Speedy Cabanella. Then he'll fly to Mexico City for another bout. The fighters, it seems, keep Gus up in the air.

ROYALS CONTINUE TO HOLD LEAD OVER THE GIANTS

Montreal Has the Advantage in That They Have Two More to Play Than Jersey City

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal continues to hold a half game lead over Jersey City Giants as the International League race goes into its final four days.

With only four games to play as compared to six for the leading Royals, the pressure is on the Little Giants who know they must win them all to stay in the running.

Jack Banta assured the Royals of holding their slender margin by striking out 14 Rochester batters last night in posting a 9-3 victory before 13,880 fans. The league's strikeout king allowed only four hits in annexing his 15th win.

Eight runs in the second inning did the trick for Montreal when they mixed three walks and an error with five hits to drive John Mikan from the mound.

Jersey City kept pace by subduing Newark 9-1, a 12th triumph for Jack Kraus who allowed only seven hits. Tom Stallcup and Jack Graham walloped homers, boosting the team total to 130 for a new team record. It was Kraus' fifth win in six starts against the Bears.

Jim Prendergast of Syracuse became the league's first 20-game winner since 1945 when he shut out Baltimore 6-0, in the first of a double-header. Despite two homers by Warren Robinson in the second game, Herman Wehmeier, aided by his own three-run homer, got home with a 7-4 edge for a clean sweep.

Johnny Bero's single followed by Ed Marsarski's triple and Wayne Blackburn's single gave Buffalo two in the ninth for a 6-5 edge over Toronto.

KITCHENER WINS IN TEN INNINGS

(By The Canadian Press)

Three errors in a row gave Kitchener a 10-inning 9-8 decision over London as play to decide the Senior Inter-County Baseball championship opened in Kitchener last night. The second game in the best of seven series will be played at London tonight.

Don Cooper fumbled Jim Huck's grounder in the extra frame; pitcher Tommy White then miscued and Huck scored after second baseman Gord McMackon fumbled Don Bauer's grounder.

Panthers led 6-0 at the end of the fourth but Pat Boehmer lost control in the fifth when he walked four men and allowed four hits. He was replaced by Harvey Willis, who gave way to Schnurr in the sixth when London scored three runs to knot the count.

Kitchener went ahead 8-6 in the seventh on two walks, a double by John Bain and an error by Ken McFadden at third. London tied it again in the ninth on Russ Evon's single, Red Kane's triple and an error by Roy Musselman on a throw to third.

London also used three pitchers, Bill Wagner started, giving up eight hits. Fisher came in in the fifth and gave way to White in the ninth with one on and none out.

In the finals of the Niagara District League Senior playoffs, Niagara Falls Houcks trimmed Welland 4-2 last night. It was the first game of a best-of-seven series.

CAN'T FIELD TEAM

Toronto, Sept. 4 (CP) —Ulster soccer club of the Dominion Football Association last night announced that due to an unusually large number of injuries it will be unable to field a team until after Sept. 20.

During the last few weeks, Ulster have had to use several players against doctor's orders. As a result the injuries have become steadily worse.

RULE MARQUARD FREE OF CHARGE

New York, Sept. 4 (AP)—Broke and homeless, Richard (Rube) Marquard, former New York Giants pitcher, is clear of a disorderly conduct charge after a baseball enthusiast sitting on the Judge's bench recognized the one-time diamond hero.

Marquard who gave his age as 60, was one of 18 men arrested in the Bowery and accused of loitering. He told a reporter it was "the first time I've ever been in court."

"Aren't you the famous 'Rube'?".

Marquard replied that he was, and the Magistrate then said:

"I understand you won 19 straight for the Giants in 1912."

The prisoner nodded and said: "I think that record still stands."

Asked if he had any money, Marquard replied "not a cent, Your Honor."

The Magistrate took a $5 bill from his wallet, handed it to Marquard shook hands with him, wished him luck and then dismissed the charge.

TODAY WE LIVE IN A GREATER CANADA

"On The Map" of the NEW AIR WORLD

CANADA LIES at the cross-roads of the great air routes of the modern world. Through our skies pass the shortest airways from North America to Europe and to Asia. Today, because of stupendous war-time achievements, we have the personnel, the experience and the vastly expanded facilities to take advantage of that favoured position.

Significant is the increase in air traffic within our own borders. Today Canada's civil aviation is flying three times the number of aircraft miles, carrying five times the number of passengers and three times the amount of mail that it did in 1939—advances typical of Canada's tremendous modern development, with new and greater opportunities in every field of Canadian activity.

First airplane flight in the British Empire was made at Baddeck, Cape Breton, February, 1909, when J. A. D. McCurdy flew in his "Silver Dart" for half a mile, rising thirty feet above the ice.

After World War I, in which Canada's fighting airmen established Canada's world-famous flying tradition, aviation's development was rapid and in Canada more air-freight was carried—much of it by the "bush pilots" of the North—than in any other country.

In World War II, with the R.C.A.F. developing and administering the gigantic Commonwealth Air Training Plan, Canada became, in President Roosevelt's words, "the airdrome of Democracy", and emerged from the war the fourth air power in the world.

"OPPORTUNITIES...GREATER NOW"

JOHN WILLIAM BILLES, 25 years ago, used his $3,000 savings as down payment on a Toronto tire business. With his brother and five employees he began retailing automobile accessories. Initiative and industry produced results. Today his Canadian Tire Corp. is a million-dollar organization with a unique mail-order business and over 100 associate dealers throughout Eastern Canada.

MR. BILLES says: "Today I'm convinced more than ever of the soundness of my original decision to start in business for myself in Canada. Opportunities are even greater now. Today, whatever the careers they choose, young Canadians find awaiting them in our own country more worthwhile possibilities of advancement than ever were known before."

BILL McCAHAN HURLS NO-HITTER OVER SENATORS

Athletics' Pitcher Came Within One Out of Hurling Perfect Game

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Credit Bill McCahan, a widely unknown Philadelphia Athletics rookie, with the pitching job of the year — a performance that overshadowed the virtual clinching of the American League pennant by New York Yankees.

While the Yanks twice bowled over Boston, ruining a seven-game Red Sox win streak, McCahan Wednesday tossed a no-hitter against Washington Senators to win 3-0.

Not only did McCahan, a 25-year-old big league freshman, who was with Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League last year throw the third no-hit, no-run game of the season but he also came within one out of a perfect game. A wild throw by first baseman Ferris Fain in the second inning permitted the only Washington runner to reach base as McCahan faced but 28 men. He did not walk a man and struck out two.

The Yankees turned loose all their batting power against the Red Sox and blasted Sox pitching for a total of 34 hits in 11-2 and 9-6 victories.

Bobo Newsom, picked up his 10th victory behind the 18-single assault on Hughson and his gang in the opener.

Required Relief

Cleveland and Chicago divided a twilight-night pair, the Indians rallying to take the finale 6-5, with two in the ninth after bowing to Orval Grove's six-hitter in the 8-3 dusk number.

St. Louis Cardinals tightened up the National League race a trifle when they walloped Chicago 11-1, slicing the idle Brooklyn Dodgers' margin to six games.

Stan Musial continued to set a rugged pace with five hits in six at bats to pace a 15-hit St. Louis attack that included a homer by Enos Slaughter and a grand slam homer by Ron Northey as a pinch hitter in the ninth.

Ewell Blackwell side-armed his way past Pittsburgh for Cincinnati to post victory No. 21 by a 13-6 margin. Blackwell was touched for Ralph Kiner's 41st homer and one by Billy Cox among 10 blows but he struck out 12 Pirates.

Employee-Owned Plant Succeeds

When the former owner of the Parmenter & Bullock rivet-making plant in Gananoque, Ont. decided to sell out, the employees, fearful of their jobs, took steps to buy the business. The 200 workers — teenagers and veteran employees alike, drew on life savings, mortgaged their homes to buy shares in the company. Since employee-ownership became effective last year, production has boosted 14%, and the first dividend in seven years has been declared. You'll want to read the complete picture story of Canada's first 100% employee-owned industry in this week's Standard. On sale today at any newstand. Only 10 cents.

All Students Must Take Test In Swimming

(By The Canadian Press)

Compulsory swimming instruction will be part of the curriculum when the University of Western Ontario resumes classes later this month, and students will be tested within the first week of lectures. Alex Dewar, the University's Professor of physical education, said that part of the physical education course will require both men and women students to swim a minimum of 50 yards free style and 25 yards on their back. The course also includes 10 hours training weekly in soccer, basketball, track and field, boxing, badminton and tumbling.

This sounds like Canada's youngest exhibition swimmer, six-year-old Wendy Thompson of Toronto, accompanied by an aquatic clown and a high diver, swam six lengths of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club pool before an admiring crowd this week. She also specializes in backward and forward diving somersaults.

Guelph's Memorial Arena will not be ready for the opening of the hockey season this year, Alderman Albert Frank said Wednesday. Completion of the rink will see the return of junior A hockey to the city. The team, to be coached by Bobby Bauer, former Boston Bruins star, will play early games on Galt, Hespeler and Waterloo ice until their home rink is ready later.

Two more horses have died at Rockingham Park track at Salem, N.H., bringing the total of deaths to thoroughbred racers this week to three. The track is quarantined with an epidemic of swamp fever.

Al Rosen, voted the most valuable player in the Texas League, has been signed by Cleveland Indians. The third baseman came to Indians for an undisclosed sum under an agreement with Oklahoma City and his new club.

The Aga Khan's Migoli is a 9-4 favorite in pre-race betting to win the St. Leger, one of Britain's classic races for three-year-olds. Sixteen horses have been accepted for the race, to be run at Doncaster Sept. 13.

Cincinnati Reds have recalled 15 players from the minor leagues including Virgil Stallcup, shortstop for Jersey City of the International League. Brune Bitzel, Jersey City manager, says Stallcup is the best shortstop he has seen in 30 years.

Bob Feller's salary this year has exceeded the highest figure ever before paid to a major league ballplayer, Bill Veeck, president of Cleveland Indians and Feller's boss, said today. Veeck said Feller's pay for this season will pass the former high—Babe Ruth's $80,000 stipend — by "a comfortable margin."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

TO YOU . . . AND YOU!

• • •

Most of you fellows come home at night, or in the afternoon from work or school, to a nice hot meal. The wife or mother greets you with a smile, and if you are the head of the house you tuck that steak, or chops, potatoes, etc., away, grab the paper and the pipe, and settle down for an hour or so before taking in a ball game, hockey match or your favorite movie theatre.

• • •

It's a pretty nice thing to look forward to after a hard day at the shop, factory or office. The old home is a pretty comfortable place and when Junior or little Jane clambers about your knees for the evening romp before being tucked away for the night your cup of happiness is filled.

• • •

But what would you think, and how would you feel, if you came home some evening to find your home a shambles; your wife and children in hospital, and everything you owned ruined or destroyed? It would be pretty bad wouldn't it? You would feel pretty blue, not only worried about the health of your loved ones, but how you were going to provide shelter for them in the cold months ahead. And more especially, if you suddenly realized that you had nothing in money or material with which to begin anew.

• • •

It would be a pretty dreary outlook. You probably would be at your wit's end, as to how you were going to manage. You could get along all right perhaps, but what of the wife and the kiddies when they came out of hospital?

• • •

Then one day, when things were pretty dark, friends, neighbors and people you never knew, came to your assistance. They came with gifts of money, clothing and furniture. They extended the sincere hand of sympathy and friendship, and in that hand were gifts that would start you on the road to reconstruction, and a new start in life. You would feel that this old world was a good place after all in spite of the cruel buffets it had handed you. You would figure that perhaps the world may be wrong, but there are some good people left in it.

• • •

You would feel deep down in your heart, grateful appreciation. You probably wouldn't be able to say "thank you" but you would know that these good folk wouldn't expect it. They are getting their thanks out of their own deep-rooted feelings in being able to help a fellow man in distress. That's human nature at its best.

• • •

So put yourself in the place of those tornado-stricken victims of the Coe Hill district. Seven families are homeless and destitute. True, food, clothing and furniture are being sent to them, but the greatest need is money to purchase material so that new homes and farm buildings can spring up out of the ashes of desolation. These people are simple, kindly country folk. The kind that ask you in for a meal without demanding your identity or references. They are the people who wring a living from the soil; big hearted, generous to a fault; home loving, and peaceful.

• • •

Right now their need is urgent. Winter, with all its north country severity, is just around the corner. If these stricken folks are to be properly housed by the time the winter snows, and sub-zero temperatures strike, something must be done immediately.

• • •

An urgent appeal for help has come out of the north country. It is depending on the generosity of its southern cousins to send succor to the stricken. And we feel sure that this will be done. These people are our own flesh and blood, struck down to helplessness through no fault of their own. We must and will help them. And we must do it now.

• • •

This newspaper has started a Tornado Relief Fund, and will accept cash donations of any amount. The publisher has started the fund with a donation of $100. Let's all get behind this humanitarian move and help these northern cousins in their hour of dire extremity. We, all of us, know the generosity of the peoples of the north. Had the situation been reversed, and we, the fortunate, who lived outside the path of the storm demon, been in their position, they would have been the first to come forward with offers of assistance.

• • •

So it's up to us. Let us dig deep in the purse and show these people that we of the south have not forgotten them in their time of need. It's the only thing we can do. Send or bring your cash donations to the offices of this newspaper. They will be gratefully received and sent immediately to the Coe Hill Special Relief Fund of which Reeve Clarke Rollins of Wollaston township is the chairman. You will be given official receipts at the offices here.

• • •

That was a neat if not gaudy game of baseball at Exhibition Park last night when the Trenton Flyers evened the score against the Batawa Shoemen, 8-4, in a twelve-innings struggle. The squads go at it again here next Wednesday night, so if last night's game is a criterion—well don't miss that joust.

• • •

It was one of those games in which sometimes weird plays made for spectator interest inasmuch as both squads were guilty and broke even in that phase of the pastime. There were plenty of errors on the part of the teams with Flyers being, perhaps the little more guilty. In one innings Batawa runners got on first and second on two Flyer errors, yet the side was retired without a hit or run. Both pitchers battled it out the hard way and it was nip-and-tuck until the fateful twelfth when Gordy Muffitt, Bata's sterling right-hander, weakened and allowed four Flyer clouts for as many runs.

• • •

Up to the end of the eleventh innings, we wouldn't bet a plugged nickel on either squad. It was one of those affairs where both teams and the cash customers as well waited for the big break. It came in the twelfth. It was a dilly to win and a heartbreaker to lose. There was a lovely crowd in the grandstand and after last night's exhibition, the third game scheduled for next Wednesday, should draw a bigger gate.

• • •

Tonight sees the Latta squad tangle with Napanee in their Intermediate "B" series at the Fair Grounds. The Gibbardville crew defeated Jack Carson's gang last week and tonight sees them with their backs to the wall. But you can't tell what will happen. It should be another of those ding-dong pastimes and the faithful should not miss it. Game at 8:30 under the glimmers.

CHAPTER 4

Ruth left the table hurriedly. But not until she knew there was no one between her and the door.

It was Miss Brady who knocked on her door at 4 o'clock. There had been one other knock, but it had come without footsteps and without a voice. She'd stood close to the door and whispered, "Who's there?" And no one had answered. But this time was different. She had no excuse. This time the caller announced herself at once.

"Ruth," Miss Brady shouted. "Open up!"

The door was locked. She'd locked it when April went down to dinner at 1 o'clock. Now she turned the key with a muttered apology. "I'm sorry, Miss Brady. I was asleep."

Miss Brady strolled about the room, unobtrusively taking in the red-rimmed eyes, the strained, tight features. Downright ugly, she noted. Homesick. Or maybe just sick. Or maybe Angel's right, the fool girl could be frightened about something.

"Ruth," she said mildly, "we missed you at dinner. You mustn't skip meals, you know. And Miss Small is worried about you. She thinks you need building up."

"I had coffee. April brought me coffee, that was all I wanted."

"Not enough. Now comb your hair and wash your face like a good girl and come on down with me. We're sewing in the lounge and Mrs. Marshall-Gill is serving tea. She's our most important patron, and she likes to know all the new girls."

"I don't think I—"

"You must," Miss Brady said firmly. "You needn't stay long but you really must make an appearance. Unwritten law, Mrs. Marshall-Gill's. Everybody shows up or else."

Everybody, more than 70 people. She could sit in a corner, off to herself, safe for a little while because of more than 70 witnesses. Safe for the rest of her life if she could prove she was mistaken. If she could study that face again, if she could listen to the voice, if she could prove to herself that she was wrong.

"Will you wait for me while I change my dress?" she asked.

Good heavens, Miss Brady marveled silently, vain too. "Go right ahead," she said.

Ruth dressed carefully in the blue suit. But how will I know if I've made a mistake? she wondered. How can I be sure? She knew the answer to that at once. If one pair of eyes followed her with a certain look, if one head turned in her direction then turned away, too quickly, she'd know. Not only know that she wasn't wrong but also that she'd been recognized. Then there would be no time to lose, not even a minute.

"I'm ready now," she said to Miss Brady.

The elevator girl looked surprised when they got in together.

"Jewel," Miss Brady said, "this is Ruth Miller." Jewel nodded.

She knew a little about Jewel. She'd asked April when they'd walked down to breakfast. April had accepted the walk without question. April had said that Jewel's real name was Annie....

They had never told her the other one's name, and they'd kept hers a secret too. They'd said she'd be better off if she didn't know.

At the fifth floor three girls crowded into the small cage. Miss Brady introduced them briskly, but Ruth hardly heard. They had names like Betty and Peggy and Janie. They meant nothing, they looked exactly alike. Sometimes people do look alike, she reminded herself without hope. When the door slid open at the first floor, sound poured out from the lounge and filled the lobby.

Miss Brady swept her forward, like a dead leaf in the wind. She saw lighted lamps, trays of food, flowers, and a fire.

There was a vacant chair in a corner by the fire. Its back was to the wall, and she took it. No one spoke to her. She tried to make herself small and inconspicuous, but that was a wasted effort and she knew it. The bright blue suit betrayed her against the cream walls. She braced herself for whatever the next hour held and deliberately turned her face to the nearest lamp, inviting recognition. After a while, when still no one had come to her side, she began to breathe easier and dared to look at her neighbors.

Mrs. Marshall-Gill dominated the room. She looked like a charge customer, the kind who tapped her foot and called the clerks "my girl."

A girl put a piece of heavy muslin in Ruth's lap and went away without speaking. She held it stupidly, wondering what to do. It was shaped like a small flour sack, and a crude face was penciled on one surface. When she found the needle and colored wool inside, she knew what it was. This was her party mask, and she was to make it herself. I'll never wear it, she thought, but they don't know that.

In a few minutes the girl came back. She said her name was Minnie May Hundy, and she offered to help. Together they made the scrolls of yellow hair, the red buttonhole mouth, the long black lashes that fringed the cut-out eyes.

If Minnie May noticed Ruth's trembling fingers she chose to ignore them.

When the mask was finished, Minnie May yawned and stood up. "Got to go. Got to make a phone call. See you some more." She strolled across the room, bowed demurely to Mrs Marshall-Gill, and ducked through the door.

Two more people came in, Lillian Harris and the girl who had asked for a tray the night before. Then three more, then five. They all looked as if they didn't see her.

No one approached her chair. She sat erect, her fingers locked over the mask. She saw Moke and Poke over by the piano, Kitty Brice in a corner talking to a square, heavy woman in black with keys hanging from her belt. The housekeeper, Miss Plummer's sister. She looked for Miss Plummer but she wasn't there. Taking the board so Kitty could come to the party, that would be it. Miss Plummer knew how to work the board. If the doctor's call came, Miss Plummer would tell her. Miss Plummer was reliable.

Someone held out a cup of tea. It was Miss Small. Ruth took it in both hands but the hot liquid, thick with cream, spilled into her lap.

"What a shame," Miss Small grieved, "and it's a new suit, isn't it? But you mustn't worry, it'll clean." She talked easily, quietly. "Now tell me how you're making out. If there's anything you don't understand, you must ask me. That's what I'm here for."

"I'm all right," Ruth said.

"You don't look it," Miss Small insisted gently. "You know I'm paid a very good salary for the work I do here, and if my girls don't bring me their little problems I'm very unhappy. I tell myself that I've failed somewhere. You understand, don't you?"

Ruth nodded. At the other end of the room Moke and Poke left the piano and walked slowly toward her, stopping at other groups on the way. Hurry, she begged silently, hurry, don't stop again. I'm afraid I'll say something, I'm afraid I'll give myself away.

Miss Small's soft voice went on. "We've had all sorts of girls here, from all sorts of homes and we've managed to make them happy. Not at first, perhaps, but always in the end. Confidence is the thing that does it." Miss Small's voice dropped to a whisper. "I'm like a doctor, Ruth, you can talk to me and I never tell the things I hear, never. I want you to think about that. Think about it tonight." Her hand touched Ruth's lightly "People are looking at us, but we don't mind that, do we? Now I must run off and talk to our patron. But I'll be thinking about you and worrying."

Ruth sat with bent head, staring at the dark stain on the blue, hardly remembering how it had come there, not caring. I didn't give myself away, she said over and over; I didn't tell her anything. She wanted me to talk, but I didn't. It isn't safe to talk, not even one word, not even a lie. ...Moke and Poke came up and sat on the arms of her chair.

"Listen," Moke said, "we dreamed up some funny business. You'll die. You know there's a prize for the girl that guesses the most other girls, a double strand of pink pearls—"

THE DR. CHASE CAMPAIGN FOR NATIONAL HEALTH

What is the Secret of Family Health

One family is always healthy. In the next family there seem to always be someone sick.

Why?

It used to be customary to blame this condition on heredity.

But recent investigations show that far more depends on living and eating habits.

The underlying cause of low vitality is often traceable to a lack of vitamin B1 and essential minerals derived from the food consumed.

As a result whole families may be found to be subject to a low condition of health which leaves them prey to serious and annoying ailments.

More and more intelligent thinking people are learning to depend on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a "pick-me-up" to help them out of a low condition of vitality.

It is usually the mother in the home who is largely responsible for the family health and most mothers know about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and what it can do to help restore richness to the blood and vigor to the nervous system.

In most families, these days, there are excesses of work, worry and anxiety which overtax the nerves and cause headaches, irritability, loss of sleep and indigestion.

But these troubles do not need to get you down if you let Dr. Chase's Nerve Food help you.

Ask for the new economy size bottle of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and set it on the dining table along with the salt and pepper shakers so everyone who needs it may get his after meal supply of vitamin B1 and food minerals.

Brighton Fair, One of Oldest In District, Attracts Record Crowd to View Fine Exhibits

Favored by ideal late summer weather the annual Brighton Fair held Wednesday attracted a near record crowd as farmers from the district and urbanites from neighboring centres turned out for the first fall fair of the current season to be held in the Bay of Quinte District.

The Brighton Agricultural Society is one of the oldest in the district, the association being organized nearly one century ago, or before 1853. Fred Denyes is the current president with A. T. Sirett and Hugh Simpson as vice-presidents and Fred Meyers as secretary treasurer. The fair was described as one of the finest in the history of the association with officials being well pleased at both the turnout and the number and variety of exhibits.

Always a fair at which good horse flesh could be seen, this season exhibition was no exception, there being keen competition in the agricultural and carriage and pony classes. Also there were two classes of harness races and one running race.

Few Cattle Entries

While cattle entries were few in number, some good herds of Holsteins and Jerseys were in evidence. There was a good variety of grain, seeds, vegetables and apples as well as keen competition in the domestic science classes and also in the ladies fancy work section. These exhibits were displayed beneath the grandstand. The exhibit of flowers and blooms was a credit to the fair.

A special tent housed the junior section entries and this was crowded all afternoon by school children and their parents. Children were given the customary holiday from classes to attend the fair.

Fine exampes of wood carving hobby entries and school work shown by the children demonstrated a healthy interest in the fair on the part of the juniors.

Good Midway

The well rounded out midway drew its expected interest as members of the younger generation tried out their luck on the various concessions.

Farm machinery dealers showed the latest in agricultural implements, while the Women's Institute branches catered to the inner man as they did a land office business in feeding a hungry fair crowd with delicious pies and other toothsome products of the kitchen.

Loses $1,000 In Poker Game

Owen Sound, Sept. 4 (CP) — Loss of $1,000 in a poker game by a Sarawak township man has led a police search today for a Sarnia man sought on a warrant charging false pretences.

The Sarawak man said he went to a hotel room with a man who gave his name as E. Blackwell of Sarnia and while playing poker with him and two other men, first won then lost all that he was carrying — $10.

Then the victim persuaded his brother to loan him $1,000. He returned to the game and lost the money.

Blackwell the victim told police, said he knew where he could obtain another loan for the victim and they left the hotel room.

Later Blackwell suggested the Sarawak man return to the hotel room and watch the other two men playing. The room was locked. All efforts to locate Blackwell failed.

PETES, OSHAWA PLAY 7-7 DRAW

Oshawa, Sept. 4 — (CP)—In one of the tightest games of the season thus far in Oshawa, Peterborough DeLavals and Oshawa White Eagles last night played to a 7-7 deadlock in the first game of their senior "B" O. A. S. A. playoffs.

Peterborough started much the better team, but it was the plugging away that kept Oshawa in the battle as they poured their runs over platter in the game to knot the affair up.

Al Woods pitched all the way for White Eagles and although weak at times he came through in the clutch to relieve pressure in great style and save what might easily have been the winning runs of the game.

Akers and Wilson shared the pitching chore for the visiting Liftlock boys and it wasn't till the sixth, when Oshawa started to score that the first Peterborough chucker had to be pulled. DeLavals were out to win the game in the first inning so it seemed for they spurted to a 3-0 lead before the fans had settled in their seats.

Six hits brought three easily gained runs for Peterborough with Crane, Walton and Dalton doing the scoring.

The Petes made it 4-0 in the top of the fourth but Oshawa narrowed down the lead with three runs in the last of the inning. DeLavals were still out to win and strengthened their lead with another tally in the top of the fifth Oshawa scored once in the sixth. The teams then played scoreless ball for two frames, and broke out for the tying runs in the 8th.

Greek Govt. Weathers Crisis But Nears Another

By L. S. CHAKALES

Athens, Sept. 4 (AP) —Premier Constantin Tsaldaris' Populist cabinet weathered one crisis —a threatened civil service strike — today and neared another — a call for a parliamentary vote of confidence, scheduled for tonight.

The right-wing, one-party government controls only 141 of the 354 votes in parliament — 37 less than a majority — and has been reported unsatisfactory to United States diplomats here, said to be desirous of a more broadly representative setup.

Greek officials said that the government had granted pay rises of 25 to 50 per cent to some 72,000 civil servants and that the latter had called off a strike set for today. The workers had demanded higher pay to meet higher living costs.

The government was reported today to have decided to discharge 15,000 civil servants inside six months in an economy move suggested by the American Mission to aid Greece with $300,000,000 in supplies.

A civil service walkout could have stopped mail, telegraph communication and nearly all functions of the government, engaged in a fight with Communist led Guerillas and threatened with collapse of its cabinet.

WANTS DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Sept. 4 —(AP)— Actress Eugenie Leontovich has asked Superior Court to grant her a divorce from film director Gregory Ratoff, charging him with extreme cruelty and alleging he deserted her in 1944 after they had been married 21 years.

Yorkshire Coal Strike Continues On Large Scale

London, Sept. 4 —(AP)— The Yorkshire coal strike — Britain's most serious labor disturbance in three years—continued to spread today, with 46 government operated mines employing more than 50,000 workers closed by the walkout and no sign of a settlement in sight.

The dispute, which may soon cause 2,400 Yorkshire industrial plants employing more than 100,000 workers to shut down for lack of fuel, began three weeks ago among 2,000 miners at the Grimethorpe pit.

The miners refused to comply with an order by the National Coal Board that they dig two feet more of coal each day. When the board, which administers Britain's nationalized mines for the government, called for termination of their contracts, they struck and sympathy walkouts in other mines followed.

Despite pleas by Josepph Hall, president of the Yorkshire area of the National Union of Mine Workers, that they go back to work, the Grimethorpe miners said they would not return to the pits until the coal board gives in.

Effects of the strike have already been felt widely. Industrial gas consumers in Sheffield were directed last night to cut fuel consumption by 50 per cent because of a decrease in the supply from coke ovens.

To date, the walkout has caused the loss of nearly 380,000 tons of coal and the loss is continuing at the rate of 60,000 tons daily.

The last big mine strike occurred in March, 1944, when 720,000 Yorkshire miners stayed out for a month in a wage dispute which they finally won. In 1937, 95,000 miners struck in Yorkshire and were out for 19 days.

STOMACH OUT OF ORDER LONG TIME — FELT TIRED, RUN DOWN

Floated with Gas, Got Dizzy Feelings, "Often Afraid to Eat," Says This Man. Tells How Syntona Overcame Trouble and Made Him Feel "Better Than I Have in Years."

"My stomach was in bad shape for a long time. I was often afraid to eat and my entire system became rundown," said Mr. R. Len Rodgers, well known resident of Highland Road, London, Ontario, in a recent report.

"Indigestion, dyspepsia and a sick feeling in my stomach followed almost every meal. I would bloat with gas so bad it caused heart-fluttering and a full, heavy feeling in my stomach and chest. Sometimes I got lightheaded, dizzy feelings, especially when I first got out of bed in the mornings. I began to feel tired all the time and couldn't seem to get anything to help me.

"I had read a great deal about Syntona helping other people, so a few weeks ago I decided to get some and I want to say that since I've been taking this medicine the troubles with my digestion have cleared up for the first time in several years. I can eat a good meal now without having any gas, or indigestion afterwards. All that full, bloated feeling is gone away, I am now free of dizziness and also I have gained more energy. I don't feel all tired out as I did before."

MR. R. LEN RODGERS

Syntona is bringing splendid relief to many men and women suffering this way, because its special ingredients of roots and herbs are so combined to act on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels all at the same time. Thus, Syntona aids in the elimination of excess acids and impurities from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Eight Families Driven to Street When Block Burns

Six Business Places Gutted In $10,000 Shelburne Fire

Shelburne, Ont., Sept. 5 —(CP)—After being perched precariously on a one-foot ledge 40 feet above the sidewalk, four persons were rescued with a ladder by volunteer firemen when flames swept a block of apartments and stores on the main street of this Dufferin county village early today.

Damage to the block, Shelburne's chief business section, was estimated at $10,000. Cause of the blaze has not yet been determined.

Five-year-old Billy Dinwoody, one of the rescued, was in tears as the firemen took him down the ladder. He was not afraid but he feared he had lost his library book borrowed from the library only the previous day.

Others rescued were Billy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dinwoody and David Henderson, 80. Mr. Dinwoody is principal of the public school here.

Eight families were driven to the street by flames which caused heavy damage to the Berwick Block, chief business building of the community. Besides apartments, the building houses a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, a wholesale camera shop, a law office, beauty shop, real estate office and a creamery branch.

Forced Onto Ledge.

Dinwoody and Henderson were forced on the ledge when heavy black smoke poured through the apartment. Twenty volunteers battled the flames for three hours and were forced to keep an all night vigil as sparks suddenly came to life.

"I was warned of the fire when I heard glass windows cracking and splitting," said Mr. Dinwoody. "The smoke was so thick I couldn't breathe. I woke my wife and the baby and we crawled onto the ledge that goes around the building.

"Billy sat still and did nothing but worry about his library book. I tried to rouse Mr. Henderson in the next apartment but the smoke was so thick I couldn't stay, flames were creeping through the floor and I was a little worried about falling through.

"I hammered on his wall and managed to finally wake him. We sat on the ledge for about 15 minutes shouting and screaming for help. Someone across the street heard us and turned in an alarm. Then help arrived and the ladder was put up.

Smoke Very Bad.

"The smoke was so bad we had to shut the windows behind us to keep from suffocating. Then we had nothing to hang on. Mr. Henderson had to be helped to the ground."

Suffering from an overdose of smoke, Mr. Henderson was confined to bed.

In one of the stores 7,200 eggs were half baked in their crates. They were brown on top and white on the bottom. Fire Chief Earl Banks said smoke was so heavy "a strong light could not penetrate it."

Later Mr. Dinwoody rescued Billy's library book, "Mother West Wind's Story." Explained Billy: "It's all about Peter Rabbit and his friends — I can't read you know but Mummy reads to me."

Despite smoke and water damage, residents were able to return to the apartments today.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto—(CP)—Synopsis: — A weak storm centre, moving eastward over the James Bay region of Ontario this morning, is accompanied by considerable cloudiness and scattered thundershowers. Elsewhere over the province skies are mostly clear. A disturbance near Chicago is causing overcast skies in the Lake Erie region. This cloud layer will spread over the southern sections of the province during the day as the disturbance moves eastward. Showers and thundershowers which accompany the disturbance will be widely scattered during the day but will become quite general in the Niagara and Lake Ontario regions tonight. Clear pleasant weather is expected to prevail over Southern Ontario on Saturday.

Dr. Rudolph Paul Has Disappeared Without Trace

Berlin, Sept. 5 —(AP)— The British-licensed newspaper Telegraf said today that Dr. Rudolf Paul, head of the government in the Russian-occupied German state of Thuringia, has disappeared without trace.

The paper said he had been missing since Monday. Deputy Minister President Werner Eggerath, who is head of the provincial police in Thuringia, ordered a widespread search, but without success, Telegraf said.

Paul's wife, his chief interpreter and two police officers also are missing, the paper said. Paul's automobile was last reported seen on the autobahn near Beelitz, headed for Berlin, while another automobile in which his wife was said to have been riding was found Tuesday night near the Potsdam railway station in the Soviet zone.

"While the first version spread that Paul was the victim of an assassination, there now is no doubt that he fled," Telegraf said.

Paul had appealed to Hermann Goering in 1935 to permit him to become a member of the Nazi party but was refused. When the Russians occupied Thuringia, they made him minister-president.

The Telegraf said Paul had been at odds with many members of the Communist-dominated Socialist Unity Party (S.E.D.), including Eggerath, at the Munich conference for heads of all German provinces three months ago. Paul was spokesman for the five provinces in the Russian zone and led a walkout by Soviet zone delegates.

MILK REPORT IN TWO WEEKS

Toronto, Sept. 5 —(CP)— The report of the royal commission on milk to the Ontario Government will be made public within two weeks, it was learned yesterday. The commission was established under Dalton Wells to enquire into all phases of milk production and distribution following increase in price authorized by the Milk Control Board of Ontario.

Himmler, Perpetrator of Murders, Had Shaky Stomach, Sensitive Nose

By TOM REEDY

Munich, Sept. 5 — (AP)—Heinrich Himmler, perpetrator of the world's ghastliest mass murders, had a shaky stomach and a sensitive nose. He couldn't stand repugnant things.

This picture of the Third Reich's policeman-torturer, a suicide after his capture, is given by Capt. Werner Roepert, radio engineer on Himmler's personal plane.

Roepert has just been released from internment. He held SS rank and uniform only when in flight duty and now is considered only a former member of the Wehrmacht.

"We always had to fly high for Himmler," Roepert recalled. "When we were low, he complained that his stomach was shaky."

Himmler carried an atomizer with him and when he entered the plane he would spray perfume around.

"He couldn't stand the smell of benzine. He had a sensitive nose," Roepert said of the man who created concentration camps and turned them into stinkholes of humanity.

Roepert flew Himmler from Rastenburg to Berlin after the July 20, 1944, putsch. The pilot-engineer still is amazed, he said, that the bomb wrecked the Fuehrer's headquarters and yet only seemed to scratch Hitler.

When Himmler boarded the plane on his vengeance mission, he was silent but his arms were bent with documents. He spread them out on a table and worked incessantly compiling the list of malcontents against the Hitler regime.

As soon as he landed he motored to the Gestapo headquarters, where Witzleben and other high German generals were coralled, their putsch ineffective.

Himmler's scorn was directed not at the attempt to assassinate Hitler but the failure of the plotters. He tortured and hanged them all.

Most of the men around Himmler believe now he knew all about the July 20 putsch a long time in advance and did nothing to stop it because he actually wanted Hitler killed, so he could take over as Fuehrer.

There was a strong animosity between Himmler and the entire S. S. against the Nazi party leaders, Roepert said.

In the struggle for power Himmler was smart enough to bide his time, but unable to hide from everyone that he was against Hitler and Martin Bormann.

Himmler carried his S. S. directives so far that he forbade locked cabinets and drawers around headquarters, Roepert said.

"Every S. S. man was supposed to be above thievery," he said. "The penalty for stealing was two years in a concentration camp."

All of them were not above thievery however, for some received just that sentence.

NEW URANIUM DEPOSITS FOUND SAYS C. D. HOWE

Declares Belgian Congo Still Has Largest Supplies of Urahium In the World

Ottawa, Sept. 5 (CP) — New uranium deposits in Canada's great north-west have been discovered, Reconstruction Minister Howe disclosed yesterday at a press conference on atomic energy developments.

The minister, who said Canada still is shipping uranium to the United States "from time to time," declined to elaborate on his statement of discoveries, either as to where the deposits had been found or to estimate their size. However, he did say that the Belgian Congo still has the largest supplies of uranium in the world, indicating that the new finds are not sufficient to better the Dominion's position as the second largest supplier of the element.

At the conference, it was disclosed that Canada has world's largest heavy water atomic plant. The pile, Mr. Howe said, had been operating since last spring, converting the rare uranium into the even rarer plutonium. The pile was "twice as big" as the low-energy atomic plant which Britain brought into production last month.

Dean C. J. Mackenzie, president of the National Research Council also attended the conference. He detailed government plans to make radio-active isotopes, by-products of plutonium manufacture, available to medical, agricultural and other scientific researchers.

The isotopes, Dr. Mackenzie said, could be used by medical science for study of deases and the very secrets of life itself. Their greatest use might be in the study of cancer.

SEARCH ABANDONED

Halifax, Sept. 5 (CP) — The search for 63-year-old Lawson Hoskins and his nine-year-old grandson, Randle Cole, missing since Tuesday on a sailing trip in Halifax harbor, was abandoned today without a clue to their disappearance being uncovered.

When the 12-foot sailboat in which the two were sailing from a harbor island to the eastern passage shore, a half-mile away, was first reported missing aircraft and speed launches scoured the harbor.

Navy divers searched the harbor bottom and dragging operations were all carried out without success.

1,200 Toronto Landlords Seek To Evict Tenants

Toronto, Sept. 5 — (CP)—Some 1,200 Landlords in the Greater Toronto area have applied for permission to evict tenants under a "grievance hardship" measure announced recently by the Prices Board.

The regulation provides landlords permission to move into their own houses if they can prove their need of the accommodation is greater than the tenants' need.

First of the 1,200 Toronto-area applicants will be heard Monday. Another 1,200 applications from regional districts including Barrie, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, Welland, Oshawa, Peterborough and Lindsay have been filed.

Two commissioners have been appointed to hear the cases in Toronto and two more may be appointed later. It is estimated that six cases can be handled in a day. One commissioner has been appointed in Hamilton.

Both landlord and tenant will attend each hearing and have the right to be represented by counsel. The commissioners' decisions, from which there is no appeal will be given later in writing to both parties.

AGED PROSPECTOR FOUND STARVING IN LONELY BUSH

Wants to Go Back to 15 Staked Claims Where "There's Gold for Sure"

Kirkland Lake, Sept. 5 —(CP)—Rescued from almost certain death by starvation and illness in a lonely bush cabin, William Cameron, 85-year-old prospector, announced today from his hospital bed that he wants to go back to his 15 staked claims where "there's gold for sure."

The veteran gold-hunter who claimed he once made a $200,000 fortune in the Klondike was in a coma when Teck Township police discovered his plight.

Too weak from influenza to drag himself to the ample food stocks in the corner of his shanty about 12 miles from this Northern Ontario gold-mining community, he barely opened his eyes when the officers tried to rouse him. He had collapsed when illness came upon him suddenly. His two dogs, themselves gaunt with hunger but too loyal to loot the larder, crouched by his side.

A friendship of 20 years' standing with Chief Constable Reginald Pinegar of Teck Township probably saved his life. The Chief became worried when his old friend failed to make his monthly trip to Kirkland Lake about the first day of the month and with Constable C. Beswetherick he set out to investigate.

Walked Three Miles.

The officers had driven by automobile for 12 miles over a rough trail and then walked three miles to reach the Cameron shack but it was apparent the aged man would have to be taken out by stretcher.

To make the task easier, the policemen, assisted by Provincial Constable Ross Kingshott, cut a road from the spot where they had left the car to the shore of Cedar Lake. The cabin stood 200 yards from the water at another point on the lake. Then they went for a truck, a rowboat and a stretcher.

Jap Medical Officer Sentenced to Hang

Guam, Sept. 5 — (AP)—Capt. Hiroshi Iwanami, frail Japanese medical officer convicted in the atrocity murders of 10 American airmen on Truk atoll in 1944, was sentenced by a five-man military commission today to be hanged.

Lieut. Shinji Sakagami, convicted of strangling two prisoners after a dynamite blast failed to end their lives, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Eighteen of Iwanami's subordinates, also defendants, were sentenced to prison terms ranging from 10 years to life.

The Japanese were convicted of killing the Americans through experiments with bacterial injections, tourniquets, bayonets and spears.

Leaders Agree Upon Information Of New Cabinet

Athens, Sept. 5 — (AP)—Political leaders were reported reliably today to have agreed upon formation of a broadened cabinet such as United States diplomats have urged for Greece.

Generally dependable informants said last night the agreement, between the Populist (Royalist) and the opposition Liberal parties, provided that:

Constantin Tsaldaris, Populist leader and present premier, would direct an inner cabinet group — the ministries of war, public order and justice — having to do with the fight on Communist-led, anti-government guerrillas.

Sophoulis had demanded the premiership for himself and the ministries of public order, war and justice for other Liberals. Tsaldaris had opposed these demands.

Their reported compromise followed parliament's postponement of a vote of confidence on Tsaldaris' one-party Rightist government, formed a week ago yesterday.

ANOTHER BODY FROM WRECKED TRAIN IDENTIFIED

Officials Say Three, Possibly More, Bodies Still in the Charred Wreckage

Dugald, Man., Sept. 5 — (CP)—A fifth body of the 31 persons officially listed as killed or missing, presumed dead, in the Labor Day-night crash of two Canadian National Railways passenger trains was identified early today as that of Richard Mellor, C.N.R. carman, of Winnipeg.

His body was released for burial. That of his wife, missing since the head-on collision of a campers' special and an east-bound Transcontinental, has yet to be identified.

Search parties at the scene of the wreck, worst in Western Canada's history, also uncovered another body but their find did not alter the figure of 23 wrapped in gunny sacks in a temporary morgue at nearby Transcona.

A re-examination of them had resulted in the discovery that what had been considered two bodies actually was one.

Officials said also that presumably there must be three—possibly more — bodies still in the charred wreckage since the number at the morgue plus those buried or released for burial was three short of the over-all list of 31.

There still was no trace of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Dame, said to be from the Minaki, Ont., district who were unofficially reported missing. Railway spokesmen said they had not been advised by anyone that the Dames had boarded the train and all records had been lost in the fire which swept the wooden coaches of the special.

As funeral services were held yesterday in Transcona for G. R. Lewis, 63, engineer of the special —the trip was to have been his last before a month's vacation—and in Winnipeg for Mrs. Gertrude Simpson, 52, and her daughters, Winnifred, 26, and Betty, 17, the full force of the disaster on some families began to be known.

One Winnipeg family—Mr. and Mrs. Granville Dimon, Donald, 21, Patricia, 13, and Merle, 11—had been wiped out. Donald, a navy veteran, was to have been married shortly to Patricia Hilton of Parry Sound, Ont., who arrived in Winnipeg Tuesday night.

Of the Simpson family, only the husband and father, Albert, and a son remained. The father was injured in the crash but is recovering in hospital. Of a third, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Adams, Shirlee, 18—chosen queen of a Winnipeg suburb this spring—and Ted, 23, only the latter was alive. He had not been aboard the train.

Still another family was Mr. and Mrs. George Steele and their nine-year-old son, Ronnie, all presumed dead.

At the Transcona service, T. D. Conlin said a great responsibility now rested on everyone concerned with the transportation of human lives to take every precaution against a repetition of the terrible tragedy."

TORONTO MAN KILLED IN CRASH AT PETERBOROUGH

Two Oshawa Residents Suffer Injuries When Toronto Car Lurches Across Roadway

Peterborough, Sept. 5 (CP)—Frederick C. Adams, 23, of Toronto was killed today in an automobile collision about six miles west of here.

Occupants of the other car — Hollis Williams, 20, (430 Massen St.). and Kay Irwin, 24 (22 Charles St.), both of Ottawa Ont.— suffered fractured legs and other undetermined injuries.

Police said they believed that Adams, driving alone to Peterborough, fell asleep at the wheel. His car lurched across the highway into the path of the oncoming car driven by Williams, who said he was unable to avoid the crash. Both cars were wrecked.

Hospital authorities later said that Williams suffered a severe compound fracture of the right leg and scalp lacerations while Miss Irwin had a broken right leg, severe injuries to her left leg, a broken arm alond with cuts and bruises.

The first intimation that there had been a crash was when a farmer's wife wakening in the night heard a man calling for help. She said she also thought she heard the collision. Provincial traffic officer McClure was called and he found Adams dead underneath his car and the other two injured. Williams on the ground apparently in pain and Miss Irwin in the back seat of the car.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young also investigated but as yet no inquest has been called. Mr. Adams was reported to be the third member of the family to meet with a sudden death.

ASSURED OF BED NOW

Toronto, Sept. 5 (CP)—Beaten up and left unconscious on a Toronto street over a week ago, Leon Oliver, 31, of suburban Mimico, was released from hospital yesterday but went right back in again when he found his landlady had rented his room to someone else in his absence.

Visiting the Mimico police station to inquire where he might find a room, Oliver collapsed and rolled down the steep steps at the station entrance. After taking him back to hospital in an ambulance, a policeman commented, "He's got a place to sleep, anyway."

TO REPRESENT DEPARTMENT

Toronto, Sept. 5 (CP) —C.P. Hope, K.C., a solicitor in the Ontario Attorney-General's department, will represent the crown at the preliminary hearing of Roscoe Sisco and Roger Gauthier in Cochrane on a charge of murder.

The hearing is scheduled for next Friday. Sisco and Gauthier are charged jointly with the slaying of Velair Vandebelt, 22-year-old Toronto nurse whose body, beaten and strangled with a plastic belt, was found near Sisco's Cochrane-district cottage.

'KR Serum' For Cancer Will be Used Although Tests on Mice Conflict

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

St. Louis, Sept. 5 — (AP) — A New York scientist today said he planned to try the Russian "KR serum" for cancer on three hopeless human cases this fall, after getting some apparent cures in mice in preliminary tests.

But he emphatically stressed that there was not yet the slightest hope to believe that humans would react like the mice.

At the same time, another scientist reported no cures and only moderate effects at best from 'KR' in mice in his experiments over a period of two years.

The apparent recoveries in some mice were reported by Dr. William M. Malisoff, biochemist and research director of the Longevity Research Foundation, New York, to the Fourth International Cancer Research Congress.

"KR" is named for its Russian developers, Nine Kluyeva and Gregori Roskin, who prepared it from organisms that cause a tropical ailment, Chagas disease.

The Russians have cautiously reported about 10 "more or less successful" recoveries from cancer among 60 persons treated with "KR" injections, said Dr. Theodore H. Hauschke, microbiologist of the Institute for Cancer Research, Philadelphia.

It was Dr. Hauschke who reported the generally poor results with "KR" preparations made at Philadelphia.

Dr. Malisoff said he has been making a "KR" solution since last May, and "I intend using this method on three already-selected human cases about the end of October. The cases, of course, will be inoperable and in very advanced stages."

There have been rumors that at least one person has been treated with "KR" in the United States, but all scientists questioned here said they could not confirm the reports.

Even if there should be any degree of success, Dr. Malisoff said, preparation of "KR" is so difficult and the supply so small that "there is no likelihood of our working on other cases for a long time to come."

Paris Faces Work Stoppage in Protest Against Bread Cut

Ramadier May Resign Due To Smallness of Majority

Paris, Sept. 5 —(CP)— Premier Paul Ramadier today chalked up a narrow victory over parliamentary rebels as the capital faced complete work stoppage in protest against the bread ration cut.

By 292 votes to 243 the National Assembly passed a vote of confidence in the teeth of opposition headed by some of his own Socialist followers on the cabinet coal subsidy plan to avoid raising coal prices by 50 per cent. The subsidy amounted to 4,500,000,000 francs ($375,000,000).

The Prime Minister's victory has given him another lease on life but only a short one, it was generally considered in parliamentary circles.

He was reported unofficially to be dissatisfied at the smallness of his majority today and to be contemplating resignation, but it was believed he would be persuaded to stay.

Parliament will reassemble Nov. 13 after its closing session this afternoon.

Many parliamentarians believed the economic and financial situation would make an emergency meeting of the parliament necessary before then.

Although the threat of a government crisis was thus eased, labor still was agitating politically against the soaring cost of living.

Union leaders were far from content with the recent cut in the bread ration, skyrocketing food prices, and official statistics putting living costs 10 times higher than in 1938.

So they called a one-hour halt in Paris bus and subway services this afternoon. Post offices will close two hours early and remain shut until tomorrow morning.

Caretakers of national cemeteries, most of them disabled veterans, also were on strike for higher pay.

Republic Charged With Violations Cease-Fire Order

Batavia, Java, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Netherlands army today accused the Indonesian Republic of more than 800 cease-fire violations up to last midnight, the end of the first month of the United Nations' cease-fire order.

The communique said that in the last ten days the violations had occurred on the average of 34 a day.

The Dutch government withdrew its objections to reporters visiting Republican held territory today and a spokesman for the si-power U. N. consular mission said that when space permitted correspondents would be allowed to accompany it into the Nationalist interior.

Cost-of-Living Bonus Allowed Old-Age Pensioner

Toronto, Sept. 5 —(CP)— The Ontario old-age pensioner is eligible for a cost-of-living bonus of up to $10 a month, and can receive the full $10-a-month pension while possessing in addition to his home — assets ranging up to $7,000, under new regulations now in effect.

The provincial regulations which became effective last week provide that when a pensioner's cost of shelter exceeds $10 a month or when cost of board and lodgings is over $25 a month, the government will pay the excess, up to $10 a month, as a bonus. The bonus is paid "in case of need" as a supplement to the basic pension of $30 a month, according to Public Welfare Minister William A. Goodfellow.

Provision is also made for a further $10 bonus, which must be applied for in writing, "to meet needs of an exceptional nature other than cost of shelter or board and lodgings."

Mr. Goodfellow described as "incorrect" a "widely held belief that an applicant for old-age pension must assign his or her home to the Ontario Old Age Pensions Commission.

"The commission does register a caution against the property, but this is done with the object of protecting the interests of the pensioner primarily."

When a pensioner died, the estate went to the surviving husband or wife. When the survivor died, the estate was reviewed by the commission, "with the discretionary authority to collect or not collect any of the amounts paid in pensions from the estate as the case merits."

Duck Population In West Canada Greatly Improved

Brandon Man., Sept. 5 (CP)—Western Canada's duck situation has greatly improved during the last month, executive members of the Manitoba Federation of Game and Fish Associations were told here last night by Bert Cartwright, chief naturalist of Ducks Unlimited, Canada.

The statement brightened what had previously been a dark picture of the waterfowl situation, with bag limits having been drastically sliced in both Canada and the United States in attempts to cope with these former poor reports.

He said migrations from North and South Dakota may have been responsible for the increased bird life in Western Canada.

TO MAKE QUICK TRIP

The Hague, Sept. 5 (Reuters)—Dr. Hubertus J. Van Mook, Lieutenant Governor-General of The Netherlands East Indies, will fly to the United States tomorrow to discuss the Indonesian situation with United States authorities.

He also will have talks with Dr. Eelco Van Kleffens, Dutch ambassador to the United States.

Dr. Van Mook's visit was expected to be brief and he will return to Batavia by way of Holland.

R.A.F. AIRCREW MEMBERS MAKE PURCHASES IN CITY

On their last stop in Canada before starting back to England, aircrew members in charge of the R.A.F. Lincoln "Dam Buster" squadron which for the last three days has been stopped at Trenton, took advantage of the opportunity of doing some shopping for "hard to get items" for their relatives, wives or fiancees.

Thursday afternoon quite a number of the aircrew of the squadron visited the city and were seen in ladies ready-to-wear stores buying nylons and other items still on the scarce list in England.

En route to Newfoundland, the squadron passed over at an early hour this morning.

POURING OF CONCRETE FLOORING BEGINS

Pouring of concrete floor in the public lavatory on the market square was commenced this morning by public works department employees under the direction of City Engineer Chas. Mott. The floor in the women's section was poured a week or so ago, but inability of the plumbing contractor to obtain the necessary equipment was holding up work in the men's section.

The equipment has now arrived however, and the work will be rushed to completion, according to officials. Plastering of the interior of the building is expected to be started next week by the contractor.

Letters to the Editor

Endorses Starting Of Relief Fund

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer.

I notice that the G. F. J. (Great Family Journal) is receiving subscriptions towards a fund to relieve the distress of those people who suffered so much because of the tornado or twister that did so much damage in the neighborhood of Coe Hill and Gooderham Saturday last.

The Ontario Intelligencer is to be congratulated because of its offering to be a centre of collections for funds to give to this relief. We think this is a most worthy cause. We think the people of South Hastings including our towns and cities and the people of Peterborough and surrounding district plus the outside areas should contribute enough to re-establish these people not only with clothing and food to help them over the winter, but with sufficient funds to rebuild their homes and any farm buildings so much needed if they are to be expected to carry on and make a living.

President of Dominion Command Of Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans Appeals For Better Understanding

Branch No. 201, of the Army Navy and Air Force Veterans was honored on Thursday evening by an official visit to the unit by Albert J. Wickens, K.C., Moose Jaw, Sask., President of the Dominion Command and John C. Baillie, Stratford, President of the Provincial Command, and both left inspiring messages to the large number of veterans present. At the conclusion of the meeting, Ald. J. H. Lazenby, who extended a welcome to the city on behalf of Mayor Follwell, presented to the visiting Dominion President a silver tray and silver cream and coffee set to be taken back to Mrs. Wickens as a reminder of a most interesting visit.

The chief speaker was introduced by William McKenna, president of the local unit, in a most fitting way and Mr. Wickens declared that his visit to Belleville was to meet the boys and see if there was anything he could do to help the local unit in their progress in the community. He outlined the growth of the organization since its establishment in 1840, and told of the grand job that many Provincial commands are doing for the veteran, especially in the matter of housing, which is one of the serious problems of the returned man. "To be an active unit there must be a growing membership which is continually striving to better the condition of the veteran and one that takes an active part in the affairs of this and other countries" said the speaker. "The unit should also strive to foster other units in the neighborhood."

Explains Workings

He explained the workings of the Dominion Command and stated that the funds at one time were not in a satisfactory state but, with the new system of accounting expenses have been kept to a minimum and the funds of the Command are now in an excellent condition. A finance committee of five of which William Ford, Past President of the Provincial Command, is a member is the watchdog of the treasury. No expenses can be incurred without the consent of this board. Representation on the Dominion Command executive was explained by Mr. Wickens. Any province that has 2,000 members is entitled to one member and a member for every 2,000 increase. "By increasing the membership of Provincial commands is the only way you will have proper representation on the Dominion executive," said the speaker.

He praised the procedure of having a Memorial and Decoration Day service claiming it would be futile gesture unless the fight is continued for the betterment of the veteran and their next of kin. He claimed the soldier of 1914-1918 did his job as well as the soldier of 1939-1945 when Germany unconditionally surrendered but it has appeared that these wars to end all wars will not be successful unless nations and peoples live together in more harmony than at the present time. He claimed that the ink was not dry on the treaties of the Second Great War before the structure of another World War was in the making. "Unless someone stops the trend of International Affairs we are bound to have another war" said Mr. Wickens. "If Russia wants Communism that is her business and they don't want to stick their noses in our business. We should get together as nations and if some are doing the things we don't like, then it is our job to get together and talk the thing over and come to some amicable arrangement."

Not Trusted by Russia

"If reports are true" continued the speaker, "Russia does not trust us. They have good cause for this reasoning. In 1917 they quit the Allies because they did not have equipment but they continued to fight among themselves. The Allies sent three expeditionary forces into Russia and we had no business in there. Our problem is to convince the Russians we have no desire to meddle in their affairs. "There is one way to overcome this bitterness and that is for the people of the two countries to mix freely and see conditions as they exist and if we are not prepared to do this we are in for another war. "I think it is up to us as veterans to say whether or not we are going to have another war" said the speaker. "A movement towards the formation of a world veterans' organization, I believe, is the only solution to the problem. This movement has already started, one meeting being held in Winnipeg one year and the next year in Minneapolis. It is the hope of the two big organizations that other countries will join in the movement and then matters of International importance can be discussed over a common table."

Welcomed to City.

The Provincial President, John C. Baillie, expressed his pleasure at being present and hoped for the continued success of the local unit. He announced the meeting of the Provincial Command to be held in this city the latter part of November. Ald. J. H. Lazenby, on behalf of Mayor Follwell, welcomed the distinguished visitors to Belleville and hoped their stay would be enjoyable and profitable. He told the visitors of the rapid expansion of the city through industrial firms locating here and claimed the city was bursting at the seams and more land for expansion was badly needed. He hoped that the organization would keep pace with the city's growth and that the veterans would make a worthy contribution. Harry Rollins, an associate member of the unit, addressed the gathering briefly, claiming he did not think that war was necessary and if another had to be fought he thought the leaders of the different countries should put on a uniform and do the fighting, leaving the younger members at home.

The recent death of Col. J. H. Wood, Dominion President, who signed the charter for the local unit, was fittingly observed when the charter was draped for a period of thirty days' mourning and the members observed a silence of two minutes with Comrade Lazenby repeating part of the famous poem "Where Poppies Grow." At the conclusion of the meeting the distinguished visitors were introduced to the various members and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Geo. C. Bongard, C.N.R. Employee, Goes on Pension

Former C. N. R. employee at the roundhouse in Belleville, George C. Bongard, stationary boiler man with the motor power department at Kingston, officially went on retirement Wednesday when at the Belleville office he was tendered a presentation on behalf of his fellow employees. Mr. Bongard was presented with a purse of money, the presentation being made on behalf of the men by Jake Stapley and with company felicitations being expressed by Albert Jones, locomotive foreman.

Born in Adolphustown, Mr. Bongard joined the Canadian National Railways at Belleville as laborer in 1920. He went to Kingston in 1937 as stationary boiler man at the engine house at that centre. Following his retirement he will live with his son on a farm in South Fredericksburg.

Tasty Strawberry To Make Comeback

London. (CP)—Britons have written poems to their strawberries but now they are luxury fruits instead of regular Summer treats.

Land strawberries once occupied grows acutely-needed cabbages and potatoes and regeneration of strawberry stocks from a disease called Yellow Edge still is incomplete.

In 1924 strawberry acreage was estimated at 30,000 acres. Now it is only about 10,000. However, efforts are being made to increase it and the ministry of agriculture says "the next few years should see a strawberry renaissance that will go down in the history of British crop husbandry."

Retail Merchants Will Co-operate In Aid for Tornado Victims

Realizing that immediate relief action is necessary if the distressed persons are to have shelter before the winter months, members of the Retail Merchants' Division of Chamber of Commerce this morning voted to co-operate 100 per cent with Ontario Intelligencer in obtaining cash subscriptions for the families whose homes were destroyed in last Saturday's tornado which swept the Coe Hill area.

This was the decision of a representative group of merchants who met Friday morning at the Chamber of Commerce with the view of assisting the families who lost their homes and personal possessions in one sudden stroke of ill fortune.

A special committee of William Brown as chairman with John Badgley as secretary and representatives of the Ontario Intelligencer and radio station CJBQ was set up. Plans were made by the merchants to send out circular letters and arrange for special speakers to approach the various service clubs and other organizations in the city.

Chairman of the Retail Merchants' Division, Mr. Harold Seldon, headed the meeting and stressed the need for urgency in securing the subscriptions of cash which will assist the distressed families in rebuilding their homes before winter sets in.

"These stricken families are in reality neighbors of ours in their being residents of Hastings county," he stated. "Their need is great and urgent and everything which can be done must be done."

Soon after the tornado struck the Ontario Intelligencer acted to inaugurate a cash subscription fund for the distressed families, the publisher starting the fund off with a donation of $100. Other donations have followed, but more are needed. Cash donations can be forwarded to the Ontario Intelligencer. Official receipts for donations will be issued.

'Dam Buster' Air Squadron Leaves Trenton For Home

Britain's powerful "Dam Buster" air squadron, comprising 14 huge four engined Lincoln bombers, bade farewell to Trenton Air Station early this morning en route to Gander, Newfoundland, staged a private air show for Belleville residents.

Promptly at eight o'clock the powerful roar of the four-engined bombers was heard as they swung over the city in single file and spaced about 30 seconds apart. Progressively swinging in a tightening arc to the north, the squadron planes swung back to the west and as a farewell gesture roared northeast over the city in tight formation.

The squadron landed in Trenton on Tuesday following a good will tour of the United States and after circling the C.N.E. at Toronto. The squadron is due back at its home station at Bimbrook, Lincolnshire, on September 15.

It was the greatest showing of heavy bombers ever seen over Belleville as the twelve plane squadron, flying in flights of three and with tips apparently touching swung low over the city. The tremendous combined roar of the 48 powerful motors completely filled the morning air as the bombers passed swiftly over the city on their way to Newfoundland and home.

Even during wartime it was seldom that a heavy four motored bomber was seen over the city, although Harvard trainers, Bolingbrokes, Ansons and Cesnas were a common sight.

Drawn up in formation in front of the hangars at Trenton Air Station, the "Dam Buster" Squadron during the past three days has been the object of much attention from passing motorists and district residents. The mammoth bomb bay doors of the planes remained open while they were on the ground showing the huge dummy bombs in place. The squadron is the same that blasted the Mohne dam in Germany late in the war.

Customer Asked to See 'Underground' Pictures

Toronto, Sept. 5 (CP)—"Are there any frogs in New Zealand?"

A short, quietly dressed and dignified matron was very serious when she posed the question to the attendant at the New Zealand exhibit in the Canadian National Exhibition. She explained that she had decided to retire and was determined to spend the balance of her life in a country where there were no frogs.

One married couple in a heated argument appealed to the Australian representative to settle their dispute as to what was the stuffed animal at the display. On the table near the animal was a sign reading "Anzac"—the name by which Australian and New Zealand soldiers were known in the First World War.

The husband insisted that the animal was called an anzac—"the sign says so." His wife was finally emphatic in her argument that the animal was a platypus. She was right, of course.

The most astounded man on the exhibition grounds is the information clerk at the staid art gallery who was asked:

"Is this the place they have the 'underground' pictures? You know, the ones they show on the sly?

Three Men Charged With Breach L.C.A.

Never to leave a service station unattended while changing a bill for a customer who has not paid for his gasoline was the lesson learned by an attendant at Jonesy's Service Station on West Bridge Street early Thursday morning.

Some time after midnight a customer came into the station, ordered $2 worth of gasoline and proferred a $10 in payment. The attendant could not cash the bill and left the station for a nearby lunchroom to get change and when he returned the customer had disappeared — along with additional gasoline and a few boxes of cigarettes. In the absence of the attendant the motorist had taken the additional gasoline and in his hurry had spilled a quantity over the ground.

Fortunately the attendant had noted the licence number of the auto and promptly notified police of the incident. Thursday afternoon the auto was noted parked on the street with result that three young men were apprehended in a local restaurant and taken to the station for questioning.

All three were charged under the Liquor Control Act and were advised to settle financially with the service station.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Hamilton, Sept. 5 —(CP)—Gordon Nelson Filgiano, of Hamilton, was killed instantly early today when he was struck by a Canadian National Railways train on the Ferguson Avenue spur line near the Ferrie St. bridge. Police were called to the scene shortly after 6 a.m. when his body was found lying on the right of way.

Passing citizens noticed the body first, notifying the police and constables Donald MacRae and Sam Nesbitt responded in a cruiser car taking the body to the morgue where his father, G. E. Filgiano, later identified it. The body was badly lacerated and bruised.

BARN DESTROYED

Kitchener, Sept. 5 —(CP)— An estimated $5,000 damage was caused last night by fire which destroyed a barn on the farm of Frank Olinski at nearby Maryhill but threshers and neighbors formed a bucket brigade which saved Olinski's house. A strawblower used for threshing was believed the origin of the blaze.

COLBORNE CHILD DROWNS

Colborne, Sept. 5—(CP)—Paul Boreham, three, was found drowned in a pond last night on a farm near here. More than 100 people joined in the search for the missing infant, interrupting a baseball game and a lawn bowling tourney, after his parents reported him missing after supper.

In Time of Sorrow

The classic beauty of EVERLASTING bronze set attractively on beautiful marble makes a pleasing and impressive tribute to the cherished memory of a dear departed one. A neglected grave is truly a depressing sight. With a bronze marker, no grave looks uncared for. Nature herself cares for bronze when human hands are not available. Many of the most beautiful landscaped cemeteries on this continent are now insisting on flat markers—the modern trend. Why not talk it over with our representative? See how a tablet in bronze can bring dignity and beauty to the resting place of someone you love.

Institute for the Blind Makes Annual Appeal

A rehabilitation job whose scope is daily increasing has been carried on for 29 years by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. When the Institute was incorporated after World War I, there was no organized national assistance to the blind in Canada. Today every one of the 4,512 registered blind persons in Ontario is known to the Institute and the needs of every one are given individual consideration.

The first steps in rehabilitating a blind adult, is home teaching. The Institute trains blind people to teach those who have newly lost their sight, to re-orient themselves to living without sight. The teacher, usually a woman, goes to the home of the sightless man or woman, prepared to teach Braille, typing and handicrafts. She can also help a blind housewife to relearn the business of cooking, running a house and caring for her children.

In many cases the teacher's initial task is two-fold. She must persuade her pupil that he or she is capable of leading an active, useful, interesting life. She must also show the family that the well-intentioned kindness which forces helplessness upon a sightless person is actually a hindrance. The more a blind person can do for himself, the greater his satisfaction and confidence. By her example the home teacher proves that her handicap is surmountable. Blindness can be conquered.

Once the pupil is willing to learn, the teaching of Braille begins. There is no compulsion, no hurry. The pupil works at his own pace. When he is able to read with some ease, he has at his disposal the 25,000 books in the Institute's library. These books represent all fields of literature from the Bible to Sabatini and include some volumes in foreign languages.

A man or woman may lose their sight late in life when they may be unable to work for reasons of health, or there may be no need for them to do so. Then the teaching of handicrafts — knitting, sewing, weaving, chair-caning, and many other types — gives them the chance to learn a constructive hobby to occupy their time and to make a little money by selling their products to friends, or through the Institute. All raw materials are supplied at cost price to home workers. During the teaching period they are supplied free.

No blind person of any age need feel cut off from the sighted world. Their handicap no longer condemns them to a chair in a corner for the rest of their days.

If a blind man is willing to learn, there are few things which the Institute cannot teach him — as long as the public continues to contribute its generous share to the support of this important work.

The Institute through its Hastings County Advisory Committee is appealing for funds from the citizens of Belleville and Hastings County. An opportunity is now being given to express gratitude for good sight, by supporting the Institute in its program of services for the 124 blind people of this city and county.

Air Fatalities

Preliminary figures for the first half of 1947 made public by the Civil Aeronautics Board show that 5.8 passengers were killed on the scheduled domestic airlines for every 100,000,000 passenger-miles flown. These figures compare with a rate of 2.3 deaths per 100,000,000 passenger-miles for the first six months of 1946 and a rate of 1.2 for the full term of last year.

If the C.A.B. figures were based on numbers of fatalities alone, one might believe that a large number was perhaps to be expected because of the greatly increased amount of flying. But the use of the passenger-mile yard-stick makes the annual figures entirely comparative and emphasizes again the disturbing fact that the rate of fatalities has gone sharply up in the first half of this year.

While more must be done by both public and private agencies for the protection of the flying public, we should not allow our thinking about flight accidents to be thrown out of focus either by the figures for the scheduled lines or by the accidents in non-scheduled and military flying, which still receives undue attention because of the spectacular nature of air accidents and are apt to be confused with the performance of the airlines, says the New York Times. Fatalities from accidents of all kinds are running at the rate of about 50,000 in a six months' period. In the first half of this year 165 passengers and crew members lost their lives in scheduled airline accidents, although 2,596,200,000 passenger-miles were flown.

There is always hazard in motion; speed and size increase that hazard. For that reason when airliner accidents do occur we must be steeled to longer casualty lists as a direct result of the use of larger airplanes. Untiring efforts of all concerned, however, must continue to be directed toward a declining rate of accidents.

If We Make Our Own Weather?

A little story from Colorado indicates the complications, domestic and otherwise, that are to be expected if this matter of making our weather to order should become widespread.

One Bill Black, it appears, went up in his airplane and dropped a few pounds of dry ice into a cloud. Showers were the result, and the downpour soaked the clothes drying in the Black's yard. Bill's wife was not pleased.

If dry ice dropped from an airplane can produce rain practically on demand we are going to run into a great many problems, because the shower the farmer needs may catch a Sunday School picnic unawares; and while a natural rainfall is accepted philosophically a man-made downpour is something else.

If the practice grows perhaps we shall need a Rain Commission in each community to fix the time and duration of each shower. That would be no job for an ambitious politician but one requiring iron resolution and a thick hide for the commissioners seeking to adjust the needs of agriculture, the Monday washings, the picnics and the holidays as they invoke the forces of Nature for the blessing of man.

Certainly we can't have the weather made on the single-family basis — that would lead to meteorological anarchy. The chap whose lawn needs a sprinkling had better just turn on his hose.—Ottawa Journal.

For the Record

The steady worsening of relations with Russia only underlines the desirability of an American challenge to the world to disarm, as often urged by the News. The seeming hoplessness of Soviet-American understanding does not argue against this dramatic move for peace, but rather the reverse. The move should be made for the record, if nothing else. National governments should be called on to stand up and be counted, so that all may know which were sincere and which were not, when they pledged two years ago to outlaw war as national policy.—Detroit News.

Canada's Advantage

As to Canada, nothing likely to transpire at Washington will solve our problem of American-Canadian trade. This is something that we shall have to work out for ourselves. In this, we have one advantage of which we should avail ourselves to the full. We are a gold-producing nation, and we should, by every possible means, keep our output up to the maximum. The United States is a stable market for all we can ship her.—Windsor Daily Star.

A Grave Weakness

The war revealed the grave weakness of Canadian industry in this matter of apprenticeship training. The depression had virtually halted the hiring of young men in many of the basic trades. Sometimes union practices discouraged an inflow of youth as eventual replacements when age or circumstances removed the older workers. The crisis of unlimited demand grimly showed up the shortsightedness of these policies.—Ottawa Citizen.

JUST FOLKS

DEATH OF A DOG

He was gentle; he was true.
  He was all a dog could be.
Though he nothing meant to you,
  He meant welcome glad to me.
Comes the word that he has gone.
  Now I'm lonelier than before.
As the days keep coming on,
  I shall miss him at the door.

Just a spaniel, but a friend
  That was never known to fail.
Never day came to an end
  But I saw his wagging tail.
At my chair he used to sit,
  Sharing bread with me and meat.
Now with sorrow I admit
  I shall miss him when I eat.

From the doctor comes the word,
  "Faithful Tony died today!"
And the heart of me is stirred,
  And there's little I can say.
For there never dawned a day
  But a fuss o'er me he'd make,
And this tribute now I pay:
  I shall miss him when I wake.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How is "Louisville" pronounced?

"Is the name of the capital of Kentucky pronounced "LOO-is-vill" or "LOO-ee-vill? is an old trick question. Neither, of course, is correct, Frankfort being the capital of Kentucky. The popularity of the question, however, is evidence of the controversy over the pronunciation of the name of the largest city in the Blue Grass State.

As a general rule the inhabitants of Louisville pronounce the name of their city "LOO-ee-vill," although "LOO-is-vill" is accepted as a legitimate alternative. Oddly enough, the inhabitants of St. Louis, Missouri, generally pronounce the second part of the name of their city "LOO-is-vill," "LOO-ee" being the alternative pronunciation.

With few exceptions the French pronunciation is completely discarded in connection with the towns of the same name in other parts of the United States; such, for instance, as Louisville, Arkansas, and St. Louis, Michigan. Naturally there is no general rule governing the pronunciation of place names of French derivation in the United States. In a number of cases the prevailing pronunciation favors the original French, but in most cases it has been completely anglicized.

The site of Louisville, Kentucky, was known to the early frontiersmen simply as "The Falls," because it was near the falls of the Ohio. Many hunters and surveyors had gone there before 1778 and had recognized the advantages of the site, but it was not until that year that George Rogers Clark established the first permanent settlement there and named it Louisville in honor of King Louis XVI of France, then an ally of the Colonists in their war against Great Britain.

It is an interesting fact that the name of St. Louis, founded by French, has been anglicized in the preferable pronunciation and is generally pronounced "sayant-LOO-is," while the name of Louisville, founded by American, has been gallicized and is preferably pronounced "LOO-ee-vill."

The pronunciation entirely in French is seldom retained in place names in the United States, and even in "Louisville" the last syllable has been anglicized, "veel," not "vill," being the French pronunciation of "ville," town or city.

WHO CARES WHETHER IT IS BUTTER OR MARGARINE?

I advise you to confine your teachings to pills and ills. If you put wool on a porcupine would you have a sheep? No amount of hokum can make butter out of anything but butterfat. How much do the oleomargarine manufacturers pay you? (Sioux City).

Huh? Do they pay for views like mine?

During the war when butter was unobtainable I was glad to have oleomargarine instead — and after using it for a while I acquired a liking for it and later when some butter could be had my boss had a dab of butter on the table for herself and a hunk of oleomargarine for the hired man. That suited me, even when we didn't bother to color the oleomargarine yellow.

During that period, too, I felt constant resentment when we dined out and they served no butter—resentment against the dairy interests for the restrictions and difficulties they have contrived to place upon the sale and use of oleomargarine. I express not merely my personal resentment but, to judge by the views of many readers, the indignation of honest people everywhere about the unfair restrictions and unfair taxes imposed upon the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine.

What do the oleomargarine manufacturers pay me for my teachings? A good swift kick in the pants whenever they see a chance to pay me one. They do not like me very well, the reason why I need not tell, but if you have followed this column regularly you may have noticed an occasional crack about the insignificant amount of vitamin A the oleo people add to their product, heaven knows why. I did almost discover a brand or make of oleomargarine that purported to be nothing but oleomargarine—no vitamins or other junk added, to impress the ignorant customer. But on inquiry I found that the manufacturer was a bit timid about shipping his product more than a few miles from home—for some vague reason—and so I still had to buy the "fortified" stuff or nothing.

To the best of my knowledge oleomargarine, any brand on the market, has the same nutritive value as butter, any brand on the market. In the quantity of either used in the ordinary diet the amount of vitamin A and D in the butter is negligible, I believe. If the quantity of vitamin A many manufacturers add to oleomargarine costs a cent or two for from 9,000 to 15,000 units (the quantity they put in each pound of the product) it is not worth the price, in my opinion.

Not that vitamin A is not essential for good nutrition. Every infant needs at least 1,500 units daily and every adult at least 4,000 units daily. But when we remember that a pint of milk yields 1,000 units, the yolk of an egg 825 units, two tablespoonfulls of carrots 1,000 units, a teaspoonful of butter 100 units, a banana 160 units, and a tomato 150 units, we are or should be less willing to pay good money for the vitamin A the racketeers put in oleomargarine.

The little pinch of yellow coloring matter that comes with oleomargarine, if you care you color the pound yellow, adds a touch of irony to the business. It seems the law, in some states, permits dairy companies to color their products, as yellow as they wish, without let or hinderance, for the yellow dye makes ignorant customers believe the butter is "richer." But oleomargarine manufacturers can't color their product—no, no, that would be fraudulent. Aren't we the blanksty so-and-sos here in Yankeeland?

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Wart Removed

I took a wart off my chin with the corn cullodion you describe in your booklet. It worked fine. I want to tell my son, a missionary in Africa, about it, but I saw where you said it is not for warts on the face.

(Mrs. A. J. W.)

Answer — I do not advise the use of anything of the kind for wart or other blemish on the face—better leave the treatment of facial blemishes to your physician. The familiar corn cullodion—solution of 30 grains of salicylic acid in ½ fluid-ounce of flexible cullodion may work as well for wart or callus as it does for corns on the feet. Paint wart, corn or callus with it once a day for a week or so—the lesion softens and may be wiped away.

Ta, Ta, Sissy

What difference does it make whether one drinks his vegetables, such as a glass of carrot juice, instead of eating them in the ordinary way?

(M.T.K.)

Answer — You get less vitamins, less minerals, less nutrition from the juice than you get from eating the whole vegetable. Whatsamatter—no teeth?

Inspection

Can a doctor tell by just seeing one's body whether one has vitamin deficiency, without knowing the patient's history, eating habits or reaction to tests?

(H.W.)

Answer — In most instances no. But a doctor might diagnose scurvy or ricketts from just seeing the patient's body, and these are vitamin C and vitamin D deficiencies respectively.

Marshall Praises Inter-American Security Pact

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Sept. 5 (AP) — State Secretary Marshall today held forth the new inter-American security pact as the outstanding post-war example of how the countries of the world can join together to promote world peace.

Marshall, who will present the treaty to the United Nations Assembly two weeks hence, and Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Rep.-Mich.) hailed it in a radio broadcast last night as a pattern for the U.N. to follow in its quest for world wide security.

Throughout the talks of both men ran an implied criticism of Russia and the Soviet attitude toward international co-operation.

Marshall declared that the results of the conference at Petropolis, Brazil in which the treaty was drafted and signed "demonstrated I think beyond a doubt, that where nations are sincerely desirous of promoting the peace and well-being of the world it can be done.

"It can be done without frustrating delays and without much of the confusing and disturbing propaganda that has attended our efforts of the past two years.

Marshall, who earlier this year spent eight futile weeks in Moscow trying to negotiate agreements in the future of Germany with Russia, Britain and France, returned Wednesday from the Petropolis meeting where the 19 American republics drew up the new security treaty in three weeks.

Vandenberg, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told his radio listeners he would present the pact to the senate for ratification with "every confidence that it will deserve prompt and enthusiastic approval of its traditionally American ideals."

He called the treaty "sunlight in a dark world" and declared that "it is good for the United Nations."

HELD UP SECOND TIME

Toronto, Sept. 5 (CP) —Held up for the 2nd time in 30 months, 44-year-old Joseph Arrigo last night lost $1,500 to a lone gunman who called him by his first name.

"Come on, Joe, step back," the handkerchief - masked robber ordered. He appeared sudden on the verandah of Arrigo's home on the western outskirts of the city after Arrigo pulled up in his car. "Drop your money on the grass and keep on moving."

In the first robbery, carried out when Arrigo was living in a different part of the city, two armed men took $2,000 from Arrigo, who is a car salesman.

Love Said Cause of Divorce

In the United States, one in three couples take their troubles to the divorce court. In Britain, one million divorces and separations have been granted in 10 years. In Canada, last year, 7,500 divorces were granted — a shocking figure for our small population. Mavis Gallant's feature article in this week's Standard tells how couples seeking a 'perpetual honeymoon' are heading for the divorce courts. Eisenhower Being Boomed As Candidate For Presidency Of United States Says "No"

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Sept. 5—(CP)—An unqualified "no" as emphatic as that given his supporters by Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, in 1884 apparently will be needed to stop the growing volume of demand for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a candidate for the presidency of the United States.

Eisenhower, army chief of staff and president-designate of Columbia University where he plans to take over next year, is a little embarrassed and no doubt flattered by the attention he is getting. But he can only keep repeating that he is not a candidate and will not authorize anyone to propose him.

In 1884 when the Republican party wanted the Civil War hero, Gen. Sherman, he is reputed to have ended all discussion with his telegram: "I will not accept if nominated and will not serve if elected."

Eisenhower cannot do that because the movement in his favor is so nebulous and informal. Even if he would like to send that kind of a message he has no one to send it to.

Eisenhower has no particular reason for not entering politics except his own personal feelings on the subject. Few would agree with his own statement that his exclusively military background has kept him out of touch with the masses.

His second reason, that as army chief of staff he must remain loyal to the "commander-in-chief"—the president — will disappear when he leaves for the Columbia University post.

His third and last stated reason, that his job of Supreme Allied commander in the final drive to victory in Europe was the pinnacle and anything else would be anti-climax, could hardly be considered a valid reason for rejecting a chance to be president.

Eisenhower is only 56 years old. He has proved an able administrator as leader of the greatest fighting force ever assembled and as a diplomat in his dealings with Britain, Russia and other countries.

Washington observers, while never doubting "Ike's" sincerity, nevertheless believe he is the man of the hour and that, if the struggle among the group of old line presidential aspirants in the Republican party gets out of hand, there will be a "draft Eisenhower" movement that he will find it impossible to deny.

In that event, many believe, the Republican party would have an unbeatable candidate.

Holiday Over For Many Britons Due to Govt. Ban on Travel

By TOM WILLIAMS

London, Sept. 5 — (AP)—The British government's ban on pleasure travel outside of the sterling area after Oct. 1 means the holiday is over for many Britons who shun overcrowded vacation resorts at home to take their fun in the Swiss Alps, France, Italy and elsewhere on the continent.

Still stunned by the announcement of the travel restrictions, imposed to save foreign credits, shipping companies, air lines and travel agencies said it was too early to assess the full effects of the order.

"We are hoping for the best," said a spokesman for one of the world's major shipping companies.

"It's going to hurt" admitted a representative of one of the United States Air Lines flying regular trans-Atlantic services. There was no indication if and when the currently overtaxed services, both ship and plane, would be curtailed.

Holiday travel to the continent this year approached an all-time record with most of the travellers going to Switzerland, and others visiting France, Italy, Holland and Belgium.

United Kingdom citizens who planned their foreign travel for September are not affected by the ban, but it means cancellation of heavy bookings for the winter sports in Switzerland, starting in November.

One of the first results will be to lighten the strain on trans-Atlantic services, both by air and sea.

"The British demand for passage to the United States," a spokesman for one travel agency said, "was more than we could cope with."

About 50 per cent of the passengers in the United States Lines passenger liner, America, were estimated to be British citizens. The ship, tied up in New York last month by a now-settled longshoremen's strike averages a round trip about once a month.

Cunard White Star, which carries about 20,000 passengers per month in its Atlantic service, refused to speculate on the effects of the restrictions.

Under the new regulations only four classes of foreign travel will be permitted:

For necessary business purposes, for professional reasons, health cases and for educational reasons.

Research Reveals Northern Pike Infect Whitefish

The Pas, Man., Sept. 5—(CP)—Three years of research at Hemming Lake, some 65 miles north of here, by Dr. Kenneth H. Doan of the Central Fisheries Research Station at Winnipeg, has produced satisfactory progress in the problem of infested whitefish in some northern Canadian lakes, he reported Thursday.

The condition of the fish, infested with small, cyst-like growths, has had an adverse affect upon exports to the great markets of the eastern United States, cutting deeply into the 13,000,000 pounds of whitefish shipped annually.

Origin of the parasitic growth, harmless to humans, has been tracked to jack fish or northern pike. Removal of jack fish from the lakes has led to reduction in the infestation.

Conclusive proof that jack fish are responsible will lead to removal of all jack fish from certain lakes, said Dr. Doan. Mobile rendering factories might be used, touring lakes to process fish into oil and protein concentrates for poultry, dog and livestock food.

Enemy Had Jitters But So Had Duffers

Ottawa, Sept. 5 — (CP)—What appeared to be a group of over-enthusiastic golfers cluttering up busy teletype and commercial wires between Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto and Washington during the war years was, in actuality, a series of secret code messages, army headquarters disclosed recently.

At the time there were violent protests from those in charge of wire traffic, and Dr. Otto Maass, wartime chief of the army's directorate of Chemical Warfare and Smoke had some difficulty in explaining the peculiar actions of his apparently golf-mad staff.

Now Dr. Maass has explained the golf messages as a clever code to cover a Canadian research project which finally developed the first practical and efficient method of producing RDX — the most powerful explosive yet discovered, excluding atoms.

Duffers will no doubt be greatly relieved to learn that some of these phenomenal sub-par scores really weren't what they appeared to be, and now can go quite cheerfully about the task of shooting in the low 120s.

Money Collected Will Further Work Among Blind Persons

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind will make its annual appeal for funds within the next few days. All the money collected will go to further the work of the Institute among the blind persons in Canada.

Here in Hastings County there are 121 blind persons; 36 of them are in Belleville and 17 in Trenton. The remainder are scattered throughout the county. To these people the Canadian National Institute is a real and vital factor in their every day lives.

With the aid of the Institute five sightless persons have secured employment. Three others carry on their own work with the encouragement of the National organization. Seven of the blind persons from Hastings County are living in institutions, but the majority live at home.

All blind persons living at home receive visitation, hometeaching, library service and radio service under the auspices of the Institute. Some receive direct financial assistance. Three radios owned by the Institute are at present on loan to persons in this county.

Blind home teachers visit the blind and instruct them in touch reading, typing, and handicrafts, including leather, plastic, and reed work, knitting, sewing, and weaving. With this knowledge the sightless persons are able to pass away many otherwise lonely and dreary hours.

They are taught to play games, cribbage, chess, and all manner of card games. They are supplied with Braille cards and specially designed cribbage, chess, and checker boards. Their lives are brightened by the work of the Institute.

The real value of the work done by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is evidenced close to home. When the appeal for financial assistance comes let all see their way clear to give what they can to aid those who are unable to see at all.

Churchill's 'Secret' Trips Were Tough War Jobs Says Bisset

London Sept. 5 (CP) —Carrying Winston Churchill on "secret" wartime trips across the Atlantic was one of his most difficult jobs, Sir James Bisset, former commander of the Queen Mary, said today.

On one trip supposed to have been very secret, "half a million" people were waiting at Halifax to greet the wartime Prime Minister, Bisset said in an address to the Rotary Club of London.

On the first voyage the rumor got about that Churchill would be a passenger, so the ship was plastered with notices in Dutch and the counter rumor spread that Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands was being carried.

"Instead of taking Churchill on board at Gourock we put him in a launch and he boarded the ship later being placed in the wheelhouse where he was told to keep quiet until we were clear.

"As we went out, we passed a cruiser and Churchill could not contain himself. He jumped out of the wheelhouse and gave the warship the victory sign."

Sir James said that in three years of carrying troops in the Queen Mary he never saw a submarine or a hostile aircraft, and none of the ship's 70 guns were fired in action.

Once Doctor-Spouse 25 Years a Priest

Vaudreuil, Que., Sept. 5—(CP) — A former Montreal doctor who became a Roman Catholic priest after 24 years in the medical profession and after 19 years of married life has just celebrated, at Constable, N. Y., the 25th anniversary of his ordination.

He is Abbe Charles Emery Campeau, a native of this town at the west end of the island of Montreal, and now priest of St. Francois d'Assise parish at Constable. Abbe Campeau practised medicine in Montreal and during that time married and had a son.

Six years after his wife died, however, he turned from the medical profession to the church and was ordained in Montreal in 1922.

Teen-Agers Warned To Steer Clear Of Long-Skirt Fashion

Toronto, Sept. 5 (CP) —When it comes to dresses, teen-agers are warned to steer clear of the prescribed long-length styles. Fashion experts at teen-town at the Canadian National Exhibition are warning the gals to find the skirt length best for them and stick to it.

All clothes shown for the younger set from shoes to hats and from undergarments to overcoats are designed and manufactured in Canada. The models are typically Canadian girls chosen and trained for the show which is attracting hundred of thousands of clothes-conscious girls.

Youthful style lines for the coming year are narrower and with softer shoulders. They have small, well-defined waists and fuller skirts.

The back-to-school wardrobe should include at least one middy dress with pleated skirt and matching or contrasting blouse. Houndstooth check three--piece suits, skirts, slacks and jackets are worn with demure blouses.

Date dresses are young-looking with restrained peplums. One model has a narrow black skirt with a pink and black stripped satin top, double-breasted buttons and black belt.

Coats are fuller with hoods and padded hips. Skirts are full at the hemline and the shoulders are narrowed.

On Thursday afternoon a meeting of the local association of Girl Guides was held in the Council Chambers, City Hall. This meeting was the aftermath of a meeting held June 26th at which ladies interested in Girl Guiding decided it was necessary to re-establish the local association.

Mrs. G. A. Platt, area commissioner from Kingston, acted as chairman, with Mrs. R. D. Arnott as secretary. The report of the nominations committee was given with the following slate of officers being presented:

Honorary President, Mrs. N. E. Branscombe.

Honorary Vice Presidents, Mrs. L. Riggs, Mrs. H. Ackerman, Mrs. W. N. Ponton, Mrs. A. E. MacColl, Miss E. Corbett, Mrs. McL. Haig.

Secretary, Mrs. R. D. Arnott.

Treasurer, Mrs. M. Houdon.

Badge Secretary, Mrs. A. May

Chairman Camp Committee, Mrs. L. Kells.

Chairman Ways and Means, Mrs. D. LaFrance

Press Secretary, Mrs. D. Stewart.

Chairman Training and Program, Mrs. A. Young.

Chairman Hospitality, Mrs. H. Croll.

Two Commissioners have been appointed for this District, Miss N. Merry, for Belleville West, and Mrs. J. Watson for Belleville East.

It was decided to hold executive meetings the first Tuesday of each month at Y.M.C.A. at eight o'clock.

Mrs. Platt explained that the duties of the local association were to supervise and encourage girl guiding within its district, and to encourage a spirit of friendly interest, co-operation and helpfulness among the various companies and packs in the district. The local association should be financially self-supporting with no control over company funds.

It is hoped that by forming this association, girl guiding will be brought once again before the public eye, that leaders will come forward, and that guiding in Belleville will take an important part in the training of the youth.

W.M.S. Annual School for Leaders Attended by 117 from Conference

The fourteenth Annual School for Leaders of the Women's Missionary Society, Bay of Quinte Conference Branch of the United Church of Canada was held at the Ontario Ladies College, Whitby.

Delegates began arriving Friday, August 29th. 117 delegates from Belleville, Cobourg, Kingston, Lindsay, Oshawa, Peterborough and Renfrew presbyterials had registered. The registrar was Mrs. E. S Denyes, treasurer, Mrs. E. Dixon; Miss Constance Wagar assigned the rooms.

During the dinner hour, the Dean of the school, Mrs. W. L. Smyth of Pembroke, welcomed her W.M.S. family and introduced Dr. C. R. Carscallen, principal, who welcomed the "School and Leaders" delegates to O.L.C. Dr. and Mrs. Carscallen, since the inauguration of the School, have been host and hostess. This year it was regretted that Mrs. Carscallen was unable to be present.

Rev. C. A. Malcolm, Pastor of Whitby United Church was also introduced, as were members of the Dominion Board, Miss Viola Daly of Home Mission Board, and Miss Frances Stevenson of India, also members of the Conference branch.

Each day at the School Rev. C. A. Malcolm brought much food for thought during the Bible Study period.

Tells of Indian Work

The work among the Indians was described by Miss Viola Daly, who also assisted Miss E. Green in the C.G.I.T. department. Other department leaders were Auxiliaries, Miss Ida Mackenzie, Miss Frances Bonwick, Mrs. John Mills, Mrs. J. R. Bick; Literature, Mrs. Brandon. She was assisted by Miss Bonwick. The Literature Department was a popular room at the school.

Miss Frances Stevenson, Toronto, who is on furlough from Central India, was guest speaker, and brought greetings to the school from the women of India, and asking the Dean of the School to come forward she placed around her neck a "Garland of Friendship." Her informative talk was presented in "Living Pictures" (using young girls of the school) and by the spoken word.

Miss Stevenson is eager to return to India, where more missionaries are needed for shepherding the new flock of Christians. Progress is being made, even the Hindu admires, and wants to acquire a Christian spirit and with Hinduism, has been tied up most of the evils of India. She concluded with "Because Jesus taught us the way of Service. Because, of Christianity, India will go forward."

Fortunate indeed was the School in having so many outstanding leaders from Dominion Board. Among those attending were Mrs. H. T. Thompson 2nd vice president; Miss Frances Bonwick of the Literature Department; Mrs. John Mills, Secretary of Baby Bands; Mrs. W. R. Lang, Secretary of Temperance and Christian Citizenship. Each made a valuable contribution to the study department of which she is head, in Toronto.

Miss Ida MacKenzie, Travelling Secretary, led in the Study Book Discussion and was also in charge of the auxiliary "Work Shop" where interested groups sought ways and means of improving the Service of Worship in local auxiliary meetings.

Study Books Discussed

A panel discussion of 1947-48 Study Books under the leadership of Miss Mackenzie, Miss Bonwick and Miss Jessie Murray was presented. Miss Bonwick also gave a "Review" of the latest publications from the Book Room.

Interest Groups were functioning daily under the following leaders. Music, Miss Miriam Richardson; Drama, Miss Constance Wagar; Organized Recreation, Mrs. R. M. Seymour; Handcraft, Miss Anne Nickle.

Mrs. W. R. Lang appealed for church women and all church members to take a more definite stand for Temperance and in Christian Citizenship, especially among the young, giving them our sympathetic understanding and support.

"The Candidate Department and its Needs" was ably presented by Mrs. W. W. Gibson, Candidate secretary. She also made an appeal for more recognition of and friendship with, the foreign student in Canada.

The annual "Vesper Service" on the lawn, arranged by Miss Netta Brownlee was beautiful in its simplicity and reverence. Dramatization Night under the direction of Miss Constance E. Wagar brought many favorable comments.

To quote a remark made by the dean of the school, "There was no reserve or stiffness, among the delegated after Fun Night" when each delegate young and old entered into the spirit of a humorous impromptu program arranged by Mrs. R. M. Seymour.

This year a "Daily Broadcast" was a new feature when "News and Nonsense" went forth over the "School" air with Mrs. H. Rehil and Mrs. E. C. Roberts in charge of radio station C.O.R.N.

Inspiration Derived

The inspiration derived by each and every delegate during the daily morning worship period, when they reverently waited upon God and sought His guidance and leadership for the day. To this quiet period of music and hymn singing, meditation and prayer, under the leadership of Mrs. W. L. Smyth, must be attributed much of the success of the School. The "Theme" for the week was "The Radiant Life." Mrs. Smyth was assisted by Mrs. R. M. Seymour who led in the singing of the hymns, and Mrs. R. Dudley as pianist.

Each day a branch executive meeting was held and on Friday a final general business meeting was held, when reports were given by the following secretaries:— Mrs. E. S. Denyes, Corresponding; Miss C. Wagar, Mission Circles; Miss Edna Green, Affiliated C.G.I.T.; Mrs. S. Bennett Mission Bands; Mrs. W. W. Gibson, Candidate; Mrs. W. F. Young, Press.

Miss May Brown for the Courtesy committee, extended a vote of thanks to Dr. Carscallen, Rev. Malcolm, members of Dominion Board and Missionaries, also all who had contributed to the success of the 1947 "School for Leaders" to which Mrs. Smyth added her appreciation and said "Go back to your auxiliaries as Missionaries and be enthusiastic. The "Radiance" we carry in our faces here, is proof of the success of our meeting together." Blest Be the Tie That Binds and the Benediction closed the meeting.

NAPANEE SQUAD DEFEATS LATTA IN SECOND GAME

Gibbardville Crew Will Continue in Int. "B" O.B.A. Playdowns

In a raggedly-played game that was mercifully relieved by a bit of drama and comedy at odd moments, the Napanee crew eliminated Latta 10-5 in the second straight game of their O.B.A. Intermediate "B" playdowns at the Exhibition Park last evening.

Napanee went after their runs early, getting two in the first inning on three hits. Murphy got a life on an error, and was moved to third on Gerow's single after stealing second. Brennan's single scored Murphy and Jocko's double scored Gerow. At this point Lefty Whitman, Latta starting pitcher, retired to centre field in favor of Lefty Weeks.

In the second Weeks walked the first batter, hit the second one, walked the third, and hit the fourth, scoring one run. A walk to Gerow with the bases loaded scored a second tally.

Then came the first piece of drama. Williams, lead-off man, got a single; Whitman went down swinging; McCreary got on on a fielder's choice that saw Williams rubbed out. An error put Weeks on base and Rogers' double scored McCreary and Weeks. A single by Collins brought in Rogers. Better base coaching by the Latta third base mentor would have given the team a fourth run in that frame. They lost their chance when Williams was waved home, with no forced play, on an easy grounder to the third baseman. He was beaten by twenty feet.

Tied Score.

Two bases on balls and a single by Murphy gave the Gibbardville gang another counter in the fourth. Latta came back in their half of the fourth to tie the score at 5-5 with a single, double and triple. After that Latta was held handcuffed by McTaggart who worked along easily despite the ineptness of his right fielders who seemed to have trouble catching fly balls hit in their direction.

Three hits gave Napanee two more runs in the sixth. One hit, an error, and some loose play gave a singleton in the seventh, and another two runs scored for them in the eighth on a walk, a double, and two long hits to the outfield.

There were two twin killings, one for each team. A ground ball to Chapman ended in a double play with the relay to Empson at first.

The fact that Jocko, Napanee second sacker, was playing out of position in the last of the ninth resulted in an unassisted double play. He was playing right on top of second base with a left-handed batter up. A fly that would have been an easy hit in any game came up and Jocko went well to the left of second to take the ball. He raced back to the bag to trap Rogers who was headed for third.

Nine Straight Strikes

In the third frame an unusual thing took place when Lefty Weeks fired nine straight strikes across the plate to retire the batters in order. Lefty tired in the eighth with none away and another lefthander, Hall, was called into halt the carnage.

The game was long and ragged, lasting for two hours and forty minutes. That did not seem to disuade the hundreds of fans who sat through the ordeal expecting at any time that the bubble would burst and either team take a commanding lead. The vocal portion of the Gibbardville fans, which were numerous, went home happy after several loud and lengthy tirades at the officials, the timer, the broadcaster, and the players.

The Line Up

Napanee: Vick, 1b, sent to rf in the third; Murphy cf; Curry lf; Gerow ss; Brennan c; Jocko 2b; Mack, relieved by Lucas in the third, rf; Van-Vlack 3b; McTaggart p.

Latta: Collins 2b; Chapman ss; Empson 1b; Carson 3b; Williams cf, sent to lf in the first; Whitman p, relieved by Weeks in the first, cf; McCreary relieved by Lawrenson in the eighth, rf; Weeks, relieved by Hall in the eighth, p; Rogers c.

Dulmage Motors Down Bankers 7-2 For Playoff Spot

In the first playoff game for fourth place in the Commercial Softball League the Dulmage Motor team downed the Bankers 7-2 at the Alemite field last evening. Now the Motor men will meet the American Optical nine to decide via the sudden death route, who will take over fourth position and a berth in the playoffs.

A home run by Ray Nolan in the first inning with no one on got the scoring under way for Dulmage's. A base on balls and a single resulted in another Dulmage counter in the second frame. Two doubles and a squeeze bunt counted two more runs in the third. A base on balls, a single and a triple were responsible for two additional tallies in the fifth. The final run scored in the sixth on two hits.

Bankers got their runs one in the fourth and two doubles, and the other in the seventh on a dropped ball and a single.

Both pitchers went the distance with Galpin, winning pitcher for Dulmage Motors striking out three, walking two, and giving up three hits for two runs. Brisbin, losing pitcher for the Bankers, struck out five, walked three, and gave up ten hits for seven runs. Best at the plate for the Motor men was Ray Nolan getting two hits in four trips, one of them a home run in the first inning.

Three Teams Tie For Fourth Place in Loop

The regular schedule for the Commercial Softball League is over, state league officials, and it is found that three teams are deadlocked for fourth place — American Optical, Bankers and Dulmage Motors. This necessitates a sudden death playoff amongst these teams to determine who will advance into the semi-final round for the Wishing Well Trophy.

At a meeting of league officials on Wednesday night the Bankers team drew the Dulmage Motors as opponents in the first round of the sudden death series. American Optical received a bye, and will meet the winners of the "junior" playoffs. The winner of this series will then take over permanent possession and advance into the playdowns.

Quinte Dry Beverages, Bourgeau's Garage, and Sheridan's Billiards occupy the first three slots respectively, and are assured of a berth in the playoffs.

The Bankers team met the Motor men last night at the Alemite field with the Dulmage team coming out on the long end of a 7-2 score. The winner will meet the American Optical nine on Tuesday, September 9th.

The first game of the semi-finals gets underway Thursday, September 11, with the Quinte Dry meeting the Sheridan crew. On Monday, September 15, Bourgeau's Garage will tangle with the fourth place team. Every night thereafter there will be a game. The semi-final series is a best two out of three affair. The final set-to with the top teams will be a three out of five game affair with the winners the holders of the Wishing Well Trophy until next play-off time rolls around.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 5 —(AP)— With the public and theatre owners demanding better pictures, Hollywood studios are seeking new ways to solve the story famine. The trend is now toward finding film plots elsewhere in the United States, rather than in studio writing departments.

M.G.M., which has been selecting annual prize novels, will now make the event a semi-annual affair. Winners will receive upwards to $250,000 and the studio hopes to find interesting new story material, such as "Green Dolphin Street," which was the 1944 winner. In addition, Metro will award $10,000 in a contest for "little dramas in everyday life," plus $25,000 if the prize story story is made into a film.

Meanwhile, the unemployed ranks of Hollywood writers grow bigger day by day.

New Producer.

Joan Leslie is all set to go into production for herself as soon as she finishes "Northwest Passage." She says she has the requirements (money) and will start with either a comedy, "Shut Up, Darling," or a Fannie Hurst story, "Hands of Veronica." Melvyn Douglas joins Myrna Loy and Cary Grant in "Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House," and R.K.O. is hunting for a dream house to be used in the picture. The homes of movie stars will be tested. . . .

Exercise.

Gary Cooper had to carry Ann Sheridan around the "Good Sam" set on one of our hottest afternoons And he with a case of sunburn, too. I asked him if he had exercised to prepare for his chore. "Well," answered Gary, waxing philosophical, "I've found that exercise is no fun, but a lot of fun is good exercise." Hmmm. . . .

Novelty Discs.

Les Brown will supply the music for the Bob Hope show this season . . . The week's best records are on the wacky side, but good: "Them Durn Fool Things" and "Songs of Indians" by Red Ingle; "Our Hour" and "Popcorn Sack" by Spike Jones; "Sugar Blues" by Johnny Mercer and "Minor Riff" and "Down in Chihuahua" by Stan Kenton . . . The Yvonne De Carlo-Howard Duff thing is off, if anybody cares. Duff, radio's Sam Spade, is now squiring thrush Georgia Gibbs.

NEXT AT THE BELLE—Alan Ladd and Gail Russell form an exciting twosome in "Calcutta", Paramount's romantic mystery-thriller that arrives tomorrow at the Belle Theatre. The two are starred with Wm. Bendix and June Duprez.

POINT ANNE WINS O.A.S.A. ROUND IN TWO STRAIGHT

Kingston Legion Team Defeated 6-5 When Defence Collapsed in Ninth

By KEN PRITCHARD

Their defences collapsing in the final frame, Kingston's Canadian Legion team Wednesday night blew a two-run lead and bowed right out of the 1947 softball picture. Point Anne, by winning 6-5, took the first round O. A. S. A. Intermediate A playoff series in two straight games.

The Legionnaires, who had been thoroughly baffled by Don Boyle's pitching in the opener at Point Anne, solved the visiting youngster's hurling tricks in record time last night, and jumped into a first-inning lead. The Kingston men were never behind until that fatal ninth. They collected a total of 15 safe hits, which, however, they could convert into but five runs because alert defensive work by his mates.

Taillon, in good form, limited Point Anne to seven safeties, and the winners had but three earned runs. Two juicy errors in the third frame and two more in the ninth gave the winners three unearned markers, and the ball game.

Umpire F. Bennett of Point Anne was cut about the nose when hit by a foul tip in the second inning. He switched with Base Umpire Swayne for three frames until he could recover from the shaking up he received.

Legion scored twice in the first inning on a bunt single by Belwa, Lawlor's safety to centre, O'Connor's single into right and Ball's long fly-out. Legion added two more markers in the second. Eagley tripled, for the hardest hit of the game. Taillon singled him home, and Savage followed with a safety to centre. Taillon scored on a wild pitch.

Point Anne got into the ball game with two runs in the third on scratch hits by Genereaux and Mallory and errors by Belwa and Gray. The side was finally retired with the bases jammed.

Legion picked up a single marker in the fourth, and the side was retired with the bases loaded. Gray singled to right and Eagley tapped a safety into centre. Taillon walked, Savage singled to left, Gray scoring. Belwa bounced to first and Eagley was out at the plate, one of three Legionnaires to be retired on plays at the pay-off platter. Lawlor then lined the ball into centre where Genereaux made a shoestring catch to save the situation for Point Anne.

Point Anne's seventh - inning run came on a double by Mallory, a wild pitch and Bennett's fly ball to centre field.

In the fatal ninth Maracle's hoist was caught by Ball. Bradshaw, a weak hitter, punched out a hit over second for two bases. Gray dropped Banks' throw on Genereaux' ground ball, Bradshaw scoring. Mallory was walked, Bennett flied out to Belwa, and with but one out to make to win the ball game, Taillon bore down on Sero. The big clean-up man for Point Anne lofted the ball into right, where Savage caught it, then dropped it, the tying and winning runs crossing the plate.

The Legionnaires staged one of their usual ninth-inning rallies with two out. Ball beat out a hit to shortstop and Gray followed with a single to centre, but Eagley bounced out to end the game.

Feature fielding play of the night was Bennett's bare-handed pickup at first base of a hard-hit ground ball from Belwa's bat. The ball was heading for distant right-field pastures when Bennett interrupted its progress.

Savage and Gray each had 3 hits for the losers, and Lawlor, O'Connor and Eagley two each. Mallory and Bennett each had two safeties for the winners.

Lombardi Most Consistent Dodger Pitcher of Moment Especially Against Giants

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Little Vic Lombardi, the fellow who couldn't win a ball game in early season, is the most consistent Dodger pitcher of the moment—especially when the Giants are around.

Over a three-year span, the pint-sized lefthander has lost only once to the New Yorkers in 12 starts.

Lombardi's latest effort, a five-hit 2-0 job on the New York club last night in the Polo Grounds before 49,203 customers has given Dodgers series hopes another boost. As of the moment they are 6 1-2 games in front of the Cards, who were rained out in Chicago.

Boston Braves continued to drive toward second place by outslugging Philadelphia Phillies, 6-5, after spotting them five runs in the first three innings. A sparkling one-handed catch by Harry Walker of Earl Torgeson's long drive with the bases loaded wasn't enough to save the Phils.

Another big inning by Cincinnati helped sink Pittsburgh Pirates a little deeper in the National League cellar via a 7-5 setback. The Reds scored six times in the third inning.

Bill Johnson's error contributed to Washington Senator's 5-4 night game edge over New York Yankees. Johnson bobbled Ed Yost's pop fly in the seventh. Buddy Lewis sacrificed Yost to second. Stan Spence singled to score Yost with the tie-breaking run.

Jeff Heath and Fred Sanford were the whole story in St. Louis Browns' 2-1 edge over Detroit. Heath hit his 25th homer after Johnny Berardino walked in the first inning and Sanford set down the Tigers with five singles to hand Freddie Hutchinson his 10th loss.

Chicago came up with two in the 10th to top Cleveland, 4-2, in another night game after Hank Ruszkowski had tied the score in the last of the ninth with a pinch hit homer for the Tribe. Ed Lopat went all the way for his 14th success.

Boston and Philadelphia were not scheduled in the American League.

Parents Hope Visit From Boy's Ball Hero Will Help to Save His Life

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Sept. 5 (CP) — In the hospital for six children, one of those bright-eyed kids who make baseball men their gods fought for his life today — unaware his own particular hero would soon be along to give what help he could towards winning the battle.

Doctors said little Bobby Moffett, who underwent a delicate brain operation three days ago, couldn't seem to rally from it. He had "all the guts in the world" but it's hard for an 11-year-old kid to fight when he doesn't know what he's fighting.

The one thing he seemed interested in was Ol' Luke Hamlin the likeable pitcher for whom Toronto Maple Leafs "Knothole Gang" saves most of its worshipping, so they readily agreed to break the rule against visitors when Bobby's dad suggested Luke might provide "just that extra boost to make him fight harder."

Hamlin couldn't make it last night — the Leafs were playing a scheduled International League game — but he said he would call in today "and that's for sure."

To understand what the visit can mean, you have to know a little of the background of both Luke and Bobby.

Luke, who has played in almost every league since breaking into organized baseball in 1928, is one of those clean-living guys that kid's parents are happy to see them worship. You have to be clean-living to stick around in baseball until you're 41 and hold your own with some of the best of them.

Fans Show Appreciation

Make no mistake about Luke hoding his own. He's won 14, lost six games with a last-place team. Toronto fans showed their appreciation by turning out 10,000 strong at "Luke Hamlin Night" last month to give him a new automobile and a score of other tributes.

That kindness went to the heart of the big native of Ferris Centre, Mich., who runs a chicken farm at Lansing in the off-season, but there's a bigger reason he wants to help Bobby.

"My wife and me, we been married for a good many years and we haven't any children of our own," he said. "We'd sure like to give this kid a break."

Young Bobby is one of those active kids who's into everything. In fact, it was while swimming that he became ill — a sinus infection that eventually put pressure on brain tissues, his dad said. Doctors decided the only hope was to operate.

His dad, Samuel Moffett, grew worried during the last two days when he and Bobby's mother were the only visitors allowed. Bobby just didn't seem interested. The only time he looked like himslf was when Hamlin was mentioned.

Bobby doesn't know that he'll soon see "his hero," his dad said. He'd never think Ol' Luke would come to visit him.

But before leaving the ball park last night, Hamlin made sure he got a shiny new ball. He'll autograph it for Bobby during the chat Bobby's father hopes "will prove the turning point."

OSHAWA TEAMS WIN TWO FROM PETERBOROUGH

Juniors Take 9-2 Decision and Int. "A" Squad Wins by 10 to 4

Peterborough, Sept. 5 (CP)—Oshawa teams swept an O.A.S.A. playdown doubleheader here last night before nearly 3,000 fans.

Dunn's Tailors took a 9-2 junior A win in the opener over Peterborough Trojans. It was the first game of their series and the return game will be played Friday in the Motor City.

In the night up, Oshawa Legion defeated Knights of Columbus 10-4 to even up their intermediate A series. The deciding game will be played in Peterborough on Saturday night.

Playing errorless ball behind seven-hit flinging by Tutak and B. Maeson, the Oshawa juniors earned their victory handily. They hit in timely fashion, including homers by W. Maeson and Claus, and cashed in on Trojan miscues. B. Maeson was replaced on the Oshawa mound though not in trouble by Tutak in the seventh. Doris took over from Houle on the home mound. Claus led the winners at bat with four for five, none of the Trojans getting more than one safety. Leono shone at short for Oshawa.

Fielding Wobbly

In the intermediate floodlight fixture, it was a case of solid smacking by the visitors, plus good pitching. Their fielding was wobbly at times giving Peterborough three unearned runs, but they were never in danger after the first frame. Legion poled out 17 hits, including a homer by McConkey, triples by Tyson and Brisbois, and doubles by Bidgood and Brisbois. The latter led the hitters with four for five. Burton had a double and single to lead the losers.

McConkey pitched a six-hit game and fanned 12 on the Oshawa slab, walking but one. Eakins started for the Knights, who had won the first game in Oshawa, but was taken out in the sixth and Guilfoyle finished, though he also was hit hard. The fielding of Tyson and Reigle caught the eye on the visiting lineup, while Leether looked good for the homesters.

MONTREAL WINS INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE FLAG

Jersey City Giants Are Two Games Back With Three to Play

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal has practically clinched the International League pennant after a knock-down-and-drag-out fight with Jersey City Giants who are two games back with only three to play.

Bruno Betzel's Little Giants gave the Brooklyn farm hands a run for their money down the stretch but last night's Jersey loss to Baltimore 6-2 while the Royals were sweeping a doubleheader from Rochester 6-3 and 5-1, just about did it.

Montreal has four games to play, the Jerseys, three.

Johnny Wittig, a former Jersey City hurler, stopped his old mates last night with a five-hit job for the lowly Baltimore Orioles. Homers by Eddie Cihocki and Joe Mellendick off Herb Andrews and Junior Thompson did most of the damage.

Ed Heusser hung up his 19th victory for Montreal in the opening 6-3 decision over the Red Wings. Johnny Van Cuyk picked up victory No. 12 with a sixth job in the final.

Cincinnati's prize farmhand, Howie Fox, won his 19th for Syracuse, a fine four-hit shutout of Newark 9-0 with Frank Drews leading the assault on Les Mueller with a homer and double.

Buffalo, playing out the string in fourth place, moved over the .500 mark with a 5-1 verdict over Toronto's Jim Konstanty who suffered his 13th loss. Chet Laabs hammered his 22nd homer in the seventh inning.

VISITOR DIRECTS POLICE

Toronto, Sept. 4 (CP)—A keen-eyed visitor at the Canadian National Exhibition, Ronnie Mathieu, of Toronto, yesterday directed police to a collection of valuable jewelry he spotted lying on a ledge six feet under water at the Lakeside Promenade. A diver retrieved a number of the pieces last night until darkness interrupted the job. Of old-fashioned design, police believe the watches, bracelets and other articles may have been recently stolen from a shop specializing in such jewelry and later discarded by the thief.

They Built A Dream House

Who hasn't sometime or other planned a beautiful dream home — a lovely retreat from the cares of the world? That's what Mr. and Mrs. Blandings did. And what a time they had — to the tune of $56,263. You can sympathize with, and laugh at their remarkable home-building venture in Eric Hodgins' new novel "Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House", currently appearing in The Standard. Here's a very amusing story about people who didn't count the cost of house building. Read "Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House" — in complete novel form in this week's Standard. James C. Hendy Elected President U.S. Hockey Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

James C. Hendy formerly of Vancouver, has been elected president of the United States Hockey League at a meeting of the League's board of governors. He succeeds H. W. Peterson, who is retiring to become general manager of the St. Paul entry in the U.S.H.L. At the same meeting an agreement was renewed granting the N.H.L. an option on one player from each U.S.H.L. club. The renewal is for one year.

Man O' War, the 30-year-old racehorse considered by most trackmen as the greatest of all time, suffered an attack of colic in his stall at Faraway Farm, Lexington, Ky., last night, but was reported to be recovering satisfactorily. The famous thoroughbred was always known to thousands on the continent as "Big Red."

The 18th annual totem pole golf championship at Jasper Park, Alberta, is slowly resolving itself into an international affair, with at least one entrant known in every part of the continent. Bing Crosby, shooting a hot 34, one under par, defeated Norman Wilkinson of Vancouver. There are three Americans and one Canadian left to fight it out today and Saturday for the trophy.

Maxie Schmelling, the hungry Hun, 42-year-old former world heavyweight boxing champ, has signed a contract to meet Werner Vollmer, of Kassel, in Frankfurt Sept. 20. Schmelling hasn't boxed since the war, claims to be in "excellent condition." The former champ was released from an Allied government prison one year ago after serving three months for a petty crime and was declared free of Nazi taint.

Jockey Philip Kirkpatrick, 27, has been suspended for life by the Maryland Racing Commission on charges of using a battery at Cumberland, Md., in August. Officials claim the suspended jockey used an electrical apparatus when Strolling Lee won at odds of $5.60 for $2.

More Australians Drink Own Wines

Melbourne, Sept. 5 — (CP) — In the last few years more and more Australians have come to appreciate wines their own country produces.

Two years before the war, 4,000,000 gallons of wine were exported from Australia and winemakers prospered. When overseas markets were lost during wartime, home consumption increased until in 1944-45, 8,330,000 gallons were withdrawn from bond for the local market while only 1,550,000 gallons went for export.

Until recently a bounty was paid on the export of fortified wines, but this has ceased as winemakers now are in a position to protect themselves by organizing their export trade.

N.H.L. SETS UP PLAYER PENSION AND SAVINGS FUND

Will Guarantee Every Player in Good Standing Monthly Sum for Life

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Sept. 5 (CP) — Professional hockey players, accustomed to telescoping the bulk of their lifetime earnings into a competitive career averaging five or six seasons, embarked today on a new awareness of future security under a compulsory pensions and savings plan efective this year in the National League.

In an action without parallel in its 30-year history, the N.H.L. yesterday placed the seal of approval on a contributory plan which will guarantee every player in good standing a monthly sum for life, starting at 45 or any subsequent five-year period.

Under the plan, announced by President Clarence Campbell after a meeting of the Board of Governors, approximately $60,000 annually will be contributed by the league and total of about $90,000 by the players, comprising $900 deducted yearly from the salary of each individual player.

The league's contribution will consist of two-thirds of the proceeds of an annual all-star game plus 25 cents from every paid admission to all playoff games. The inaugural all-star game first officially sponsored by the league, will be held in Toronto Oct. 13 with Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup champions in 1946-47, opposing a select squad drawn from the other five clubs and including the 1946-47 "first" all-star team.

$900 Deducted

Provision for compulsory deduction of $900 from the players' annual salaries, which average between $5,000 and $10,000 will be written into individual contracts along with group insurance clauses yet to be formulated by an insurance company chosen to administer the schene.

Campbell said the plan was "enthusiastically" endorsed both by the governors and by a three-man delegation representing the players, ending negotiations of less than a year. Members of the delegation were Sylvanus Apps of Toronto, Sid Abel of Detroit Red Wings and Glen Harmon of Montreal Canadiens.

The benefits though substantial "would not necessarily ensure a life of idleness," Campbell acknowledged.

The pension plan provided the outstanding news of a two-day N.H.L. session which ended yesterday with the drafting of the 1947-48 schedule, framed to include seven more weekend games than last year.

The schedule opens Oct. 15, closes March 21 and calls for the same 60 games for each team — a calendar which lured more than 2,500,000 spectators into the six league rinks last year.

Carpio is First South American To Swim Channel

Dover, England, Sept. 5 (AP) —A swarthy, 35-year-old Peruvian bank clerk, Daniel Carpio, became the first South American to swim the English Channel after whipping the treacherous tides in a 14-hour, 46-minute effort.

His time was considerably short of the record of 10 hours, 45 minutes set by Venceslas Spacek of Bohemia in 1926, but high waves and a three-knot current forced him to follow a route 42 miles long to cross the 19 mile wide straits.

Nearing his goal, Caprio revealed later, he almost gave up the attempt until he stripped off his watery goggles and saw the white cliffs of Dover gleaming in the moonlight.

With the goal so near, he speeded the strokes of his powerful crawl until he eased himself onto tiny Shakespeare beach beneath the cliffs shortly after midnight. He had slipped his laolin-greased body into the waters at Cape Griz Nez, France early Thursday.

Edward Temme, Carpio's London trainer and the only man ever to swim the channel in both directions declared the Peruvian is "one of the finest swimmers I've ever seen. The conditions were none too good, but he showed no signs of flagging."

24 Make Crossing

New York, Sept. 5 (AP) —Including Daniel Carpio, Peruvian who today concluded a crossing of the English Channel, 24 swimmers have negotiated the treacherous waters, starting with Matthem Webb of England in 1875.

The first American to make the journey was H.F. Sullivan, who crossed in 27 hours 25 minutes in 1923. Other Americans were Charles Toth in 1923; the famous Gertrude Ederle, in 1926 and Mrs. C. Corson, in the same year.

The only person ever to swim the channel in both directions was E. H. Temme of England, who in 1927 negotiated the usual route from Cape Griz Nez to Dover, and in 1934 swam from South Foreland, England, to Blanc Nez, France.

Of the 24 swimmers, nine were women. The men's record is 10 hours, 45 minutes, set by Venceslas Spacek of Bohemia in 1926. Miss Ederle holds the women's record 14 hours, 31 minutes.

WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

St. Catharines, Sept. 5 — (CP) — St. Catharines eliminated Mimico here last night 14-6, to win the Ontario Lacrosse Association junior championship in three straight games. Harry Wipper, with four goals, was high scorer for the winners. Three other St. Kitts marksmen, Joe McNulty, Bradshaw and Welsh, scored a brace of counters each.

ANNOUNCED AS CANDIDATE

Rushville, Ind., Sept. 4 (AP)—Philip Willkie, 28, son of the late Wendell L. Willkie, was anounced last night as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the unfinished term of representative S. Springer (Rep. Ind.), who died last Thursday.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 5 — (AP)—The other day Ed (Barefoot Boy) Schroeder, who may have been bidding farewell to bigtime tennis in that stirring Davis Cup tussle with Dinny Pails, noted that there aren't many good youngsters coming to replace him and Jake Kramer on the Davis Cup team . . . "When we speak of kids we don't mean the same thing as you do," Ed explained. "I don't mean Tom Brown, who is 26, or Bob Falkenburg, who is 21 . . . I'm thinking of a few years ago when a half dozen of the ranking juniors also were in the first 10 in the California senior ranking.

Scoop Latimer, the Greenville, S. C., sage, reports: "After 37 years of sports writing I found what I've been looking for — a grandfather-grandson battery in baseball. Addison Bostain, 60, is the pitcher and his 17-year-old grandson, Tyler Robinson, Jr., is catcher of the Chapin, S. C., team of the Dutch Fork Semi-pro League. Both pretty good, too, but grand-dad Bostain wants too much to sign a major league contract. He pitches a full nine-inning game twice a week — and wins." . . . Wonder if Scoop can't locate a grandson to complete a sports writing battery with the old grand-dad.

Eddie Blind, formerly of Vancouver, B. C., and recently named starter for the Laurel, Md., races, claims the highlight of his career was teaching Whirlafaw eer was teaching Whirlaway to break out of the gate. How about approaching the payoff window with a ticket on Whirlaway?

CHAPTER 5.

"Simulated," said Poke.

"Phony," agreed Moke, "but pink. Listen. If you embroider a little mole beside your left eye, then I'll know you. You can use the same stuff you used for the hair. What do you say?"

"I don't mind," she said softly. It wouldn't do Moke any good but she couldn't tell her that.

"You don't sound as if you meant it," Moke objected. "Do it now where I can see you. No, lemme. You look like you might be honest." She took Ruth's mask and went to work. "Poke's got one black eyebrow and one brown. Show her. Poke. Cute?"

They rattled on, repeating House gossip, giving priceless information, innocently pointing the way to escape. Sunday night supper was always cold stuff and cocoa, put on the table and no service. Sunday nights Monny and Angel always ate at Marshall-Gill's.

Monny was all right in her way but she had a temper and threw things. Angel was all right, too, if you soft-soaped her and gave presents. She was working on Harris now, and it wouldn't be long. Harris was tough but Angel always got her girl. Angel knew what she wanted. Used to be a boarder herself until Monny promoted her...

It was after 6 when she finally reached her room. She wasn't hungry and she wasn't even tired. Her mind was clear and orderly because she knew what she had to do. She knew she had been right. She knew she had been recognized. She had seen the following eyes.

She would use the fire escape because the lobby wasn't safe. And it would have to be at a certain time, not when people were dressing to go out or undressing to go to bed. She might be seen through the windows.

She went to the closet and collected her clothes. Pack first, while April was still downstairs. Hide the suitcase on the fire escape outside the bathroom window. When April came she'd tell her she was going for a walk.

It's a relief to know the truth, she told herself now I know where I stand, I know what I have to do.

Ruth thought back to the night before, to the afternoon that was just over. She retraced every step. I don't think she knew me at first, she decided. Because of my glasses. I was wearing glasses before. But she knew me this afternoon. Maybe I have a special way of turning my head or using my hands...She looked at her hands and saw they were clenched. Maybe I did that this afternoon. Maybe I did that the other time.

She went back to the other time. She saw an office, richly furnished, saw two hatted men with hard eyes, saw another man, hatless, sitting in a leather chair behind an ornate desk. She saw the other girl, her face twisted with fury. She heard the voice again, low and quiet at first, then screaming: "I'll kill you for this. Some day we'll meet and I'll kill you with my bare hands."

They'd told her not to worry, but she knew they were worried themselves. They'd given her some money and told her to leave town for a little while. They'd said it would all blow over. But she'd heard them whispering among themselves. They were as worried as she was. Five years ago they'd sent her away, but now she was caught.

She sat on the bed because her knees were shaking. April's alarm clock said 7:30. She noticed for the first time that it had no crystal. April read with her fingers.

...I'll take a bath, she said, and then I'll be ready. And April will be back by then. She locked the suitcase and took it with her to the bathroom, first making sure there was on one in the hall. She studied the hall, wondering about emergency exits. Beyond her room, at the far end, were the packrooms, enormous cupboards holding trunks and old furniture. The fire door was at the front end, then the bath, the telephone, and her own room. I won't call him up, she said. They'll keep a record of the number. She could see it, she could see it in a minute and maybe follow me.

At 8 she was ready and the suitcase was on the fire escape. She sat on the bed again and waited for time to pass.

At 8:30 a bell rang shrilly over her head. She began to tremble. He was calling at last. She'd tell him to come for her there. She wouldn't risk the dim halls and the stairs. She'd wait in her room until he was announced.

She didn't know the voice at first. But it wasn't his. It was level and toneless.

"Miss Miller?"

"Yes," she said.

"This is Mrs. Fister the housekeeper. I'd like to see you in my room, please."

She answered calmly. "I have a headache, Mrs. Fister. Won't tomorrow do?"

Mrs. Fister was sorry. "I'm afraid it won't. I wouldn't ask you if I wasn't important, Miss Miller. Room 202."

She heard the receiver click.

Room 202. Second floor She'd have to go. She would walk, stopping on each landing to look up and down ready for flight if she met a figure coming toward her on the dim stairs She'd have to go. It would look suspicious if she didn't. She mustn't do anything that looked odd or suspicious. She must pretend she didn't know.

Mrs. Fister's door was open, and she hesitated o nthe threshold.

"Come in," Mrs. Fister said, "and close the door. I asked you to come here because I'm having a little trouble and I think you're the one who can help me."

She pointed to a rocking chair. The room was filled with rocking chairs, taborets, jardinieres, and a big bed, relics of a home-owning past. "My sister has the room next to this one. and we usually leave the communicating door open. That one." She pointed to a door. It was closed.

"Yes, Mrs. Fister," she said.

Mrs. Fister went on slowly. "April's in there. She's in bed, sick. She's been eating too many sweets."

She wanted to scream. Was this the thing that couldn't wait until tomorrow?

"I've put her to bed, my sister can sleep with me, you see I brought my own bed with me when I came." The level, toneless voice droned on. "April needs attention, not much, but she needs to be watched. I can't do it myself because I've got to go out tonight. On private business. There's nobody to watch her while I'm gone, that's why I called you.

"She won't wake up for a while, perhaps not till I get back. Don't go in there unless she calls, and don't give her anything but water."

When the hall door finally closed on Mrs. Fister Ruth crossed to the communicating door, almost convinced that she would find an empty room. She turned the knob. April was there, lying in the middle of another big bed, covered with an elderdown. Only the top of her head showed, like a doll's wig on the pillow.

She left the door open and went back to the rocking chair. She watched the clock. The hands stood at 9.

Nothing can make me stay, she said over and over; nothing that anyone can do. In two hours it will be 11. From 11 to 12 it won't be safe. But after 12—

At 10:15 she heard the steps. She had the door open before Mrs. Fister reached it.

"There was no trouble?" Mrs. Fister asked.

"Oh, no," she said edging forward.

Mrs. Fister tried to take her arm. "If you'll wait, I'd like to give you—"

"No, thank you. Good night." She never did know what Mrs. Fister wanted to give her.

Back in her own room she locked the door and turned on every light. The ceiling light, the desk lamps, the lamp between the two beds. They would shine from the window down into the courtyard, articulate in the night. They would tell a watcher in another window that she was there. But she wouldn't be; she'd be gone.

"Watch Dog" Fire Warden

North Bay, Ont., Sept. 5—(CP) — From the "watch-dog" comes the bush-fire alert, throwing district headquarters into action. Fire-fighters reach for equipment and take off by plane for remote areas to attack the fire on all sides. Man's mastery of fire is underway.

This is a familiar story to the firefighter in northern Ontario who finds his responsibility increasing as the temperature soars. Through him, threatened communities and valuable timber stands can be saved.

Intense fires, such as those breaking out this month, mean the provincial department of lands and forests can conscript as many men from the district as are required to subdue the blaze. Often whole communities fight for their own preservation.

"Watch Dog" Tower

Example of the fire-fighting method is found in North Bay forestry district, under the supervision of F. E. Sider. Scattered at strategic points throughout the district are 21 steel lookout towers, known as "watch dogs". When fire or smoke is spotted the location is flashed to headquarters by telephone or a two-way shortwave radio set.

Size, location and intensity of the blaze are mapped before men are dispatched by car, truck, canoe, on foot or by plane.

Camps are established as close to the fire as possible. From these camps the blaze is fought during the day from all sides with the majority of men working on the leeward.

Days of fighting may follow until there is no further major outbreak. The men are gradually removed following this "under control" announcement. The fire is declared out when no smoke is evident in the area. Patrols are then able to assist with other outbreaks.

Paging All Witches Law Gives You Break

Broken Hill, South Africa, Sept. 5 — (CP) — At the meeting of the Central Province African Provincial Council here the secretary for native affairs submitted proposals to amend the existing witchcraft ordinance. As the law stands at present any native who says of another that he is a witch or wizard can be punished. Some people thought that because of this Africans were afraid to report cases of witchcraft to the government and, in desperation, they sometimes killed the alleged witch who was affecting them.

The amendment would make it clear that it would be no offence to make an official report containing imputations of witchcraft which then would be investigated, said the secretary.

29 Gallons Oil From Ton Shale

At Rifle, Colo., Sept. 5—(AP) The United States bureau of mines is demonstrating a method of extracting oil from shale, which is mined like coal and was laid down in lake bottoms here 60,000,000 years ago.

Each ton of rock is averaging 29 gallons of oil. It is estimated that the shale holds some 92,000,000,000 barrels of oil.

Newsmen Earn Editor's Praise

There are at least two newspapermen who don't think all editors are tough guys. They are Cameraman Louis Jaques and Feature Writer Kenneth Johnstone of The Standard. Friday noon they were assigned to get a photo story of the C.N. Exhibition. It had to be done in time to catch The Standard's Sunday night deadline. By working day and night, at 7 a.m. Sunday, they turned in their photo story to Assistant Editor Newton—ready for the printer. Their reward was : brusque nod of approval. They rolled into bed with a new-born feeling of brotherly love for all editors. Their exclusive 9 page photo story of the "Ex" appears in The Standard this week, on sale today—ten cents from any newsdealer.

Police Fire Twice On Defiant Mobs In Mysore State

Several Clashes Reported In Bangalore Suburbs

Bangalore, India, Sept. 6 — (Reuters)— Police twice opened fire today on defiant crowds which collected in the Malleswarm suburb of Bangalore, administrative capital of Mysore State, and erected crude blocks to prevent police movements.

Two persons were killed.

Similar incidents were reported from other parts of the city. A round-the-clock curfew was being enforced.

Reports from Mysore city said a 48-hour curfew beginning at noon today was being clamped down there. This action followed incidents yesterday in which police opened fire on crowds attempting to break into the palace of the Maharajah, 28-year-old Sir Sri Jaya Chamarajendra Wadiyar Bahadur, killing one person.

Schools and colleges in Mysore, as well as in Bangalore, were ordered to close until Sept. 14.

Viscount Mountbatten, Governor-General of India, decided to curtail his visit to Simla and return to New Delhi.

The dominion capital reported 50 dead and 200 injured in communal assaults and disturbances.

Lahore and Calcutta were reported quiet, but the Bombay government announced that seven stabbings, one fatal, occurred there. The Moslem League newspaper. Pakistan Times reported 500 Moslems had been killed in clashes with state troops in Kashmir, following demonstrations for union.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, whose condition was said to be still "low" after his fast to end the communal rioting in Calcutta, planned to go tomorrow to the Punjab, where 1,000,000 refugees await transfer to new homes.

Scottish Author Is Found Dead

Glasgow, Sept. 6—(CP)—Alexander MacArthur, 46-year-old author of "No Mean City," which 12 years ago hit best-seller shelves with its sordid story of Glasgow's razor gangs, was found dead Thursday. Today police released evidence of his last days which ended, they said, with self-administered poison, and told the story of a man who died of too many rejection slips.

The tale of MacArthur's final dozen years, in which he dreamed of repeating his fabulous success with his novel of sex and blood and never succeeded, was largely drawn from a diary which he passed on to his brother before his death.

Living in poverty in the dull Glasgow tenements of which he wrote, MacArthur struggled through dreary years on pittances of royalties, trying to support an aged mother and always hoping to regain fame's pinnacle.

One excerpt from the diary: "What a mug I am in the writing world! They are boycotting me. I throw chances away that other people would give their ears for. The old lady suffers for it too."

Again: "I must get a blouse for the old lady and writing paper for myself as well. All I write is good."

An entry for one day shows expenditure of two shillings sixpence (about 50 cents) for food and two shillings, eightpence for paper.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Sept. 6 (CP)—Synopsis: Skies are clear this morning over Southern Ontario, where the weekend promises to be warm and sunny. The weather is unsettled over the northern half of the province, as a storm centre moves eastward across the Hudson Bay. A band of thunderstorms, extending in a southwest direction from the centre, will sweep across the James Bay, White River and Kirkland Lake regions today. Clear skies prevail in the flow of cooler air following this band, and sunny but cool weather is indicated for these regions on Sunday.

Brazilians Told U.S. Will Not Forget Friends

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 6 —(AP) —President Truman faced a round of receptions for American and Brazilians today on the next-to-last day of his week's visit to the capital of Brazil.

In an address yesterday to the Brazilian congress, President Truman departed from his prepared text to tell his audience, "I am here to say that we are not a people who forget our friends when those friends are in need."

Sources in Truman's party advised correspondents against interpreting this as a pledge of economic aid to Brazil. They pointed out that both Truman and State Secretary Marshall had told the Inter-American Defence Conference, ended Tuesday, that Europe's needs were more urgent than Latin America's.

The President drew heavy applause when he said the United States would "support the United Nations with all the resources at our command." He said also that Western Hemisphere powers must co-operate to develop "a strong and concerted force for the good of mankind."

Union Statement Gives Reasons For Breaking Silence

Toronto, Sept. 6 (CP)—A union statement that broke a vow of silence on progress of negotiations toward settlement of the nine-day-old strike in six plants of the Swift Canadian Company has blamed behind-the-scenes coaching of Swift negotiators for inability to reach settlement. Both sides pledged themselves earlier to keep details secret until the talks ended.

H. H. Stedman, Swift Canadian General Superintendent and the company's chief negotiator at the talks, declined comment on the union statement—made at a press conference yesterday—and a further meeting between the company and the United Packinghouse Workers Union (CIO) is scheduled for Monday or Tuesday.

The 3,000 striking workers who demand wage increases to bring the general basic rate to 92 cents an hour have halted Swift operations at plants in Moncton, N.B., Toronto, St. Boniface, Man., Moose Jaw, Sask., Edmonton and New Westminster, B.C. In most cases the increases would be about 15 cents an hour. The company has offered three cents.

"We're not getting to the people who make the policies," F. W. Dowling, National Director of the Union, asserted. "It has become perfectly clear to the union that the people with whom they meet serve only as messengers for the men who sit in other rooms in the hotel dictating policy."

Hitler Never Planned Attack Against Sweden During the War

Stockholm, Sept. 6 — (Reuters) — No attack against Sweden was ever planned by Hitler during the war because the German High Command calculated that possession of Norway and Denmark would prevent the British and French navies from cutting the sea doute from Narvik to the German Baltic ports, thus guaranteeing continued supplies of Swedish ores for Germany.

This was revealed in secret wartime communications from the Swedish Legation in Berlin to the Swedish foreign office, published here today in a white paper entitled "Events leading to the German attack on Denmark and Norway."

The white book reveals that the Swedish minister in Berlin, Arvid Richert, and the military attache, Col. Juhlin-Dannfelt, repeatedly reported to their government that Swedish press attacks on the ore traffic were embarrassing relations with Germany.

WILDCAT STRIKE CAUSING GREAT LOSS IN STEEL

Settlement Attempts Being Made to Get 1,800 Railroaders Back on Job

Pittsburgh, Sept. 6 (AP)—New efforts were made today to settle a wildcat rail strike which Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation said is causing loss of enough steel to make 8,000 automobiles a day.

Settlement attempts were spearheaded by representatives of two railroad brotherhoods dispatched from Cleveland in an effort to get the 1,800 operating employees of the union railroad back on the job. The railroad transports materials to and from big Pittsburgh mills of the steel firm.

The railroaders, who struck yesterday, are members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The strike was called unauthorized by both the National Mediation Board at Washington and A. F. Whitney of Cleveland, president of the B. R. T.

The workers were reported seeking a 50-cent an hour wage boost, four-week vacations for 20-year-men and other contract changes.

While railroad brotherhood representatives conferred with officials of the union railroad for six hours last night, Carnegie-Illinois quickly scaled its basic operations down to the zero point. Mills employing 35,000 were affected.

C. R. Cox, president of the Steel Corporation, said in a statement the walkout is causing loss of about 16,000 tons of finished steel products daily, equivalent to the amount of steel he said is needed for 8,000 automobiles.

He explained the corporation depends on the railroad "for the handling of its raw materials and finished products in the Pittsburgh district." Like Carnegie-Illinois, the Union Railroad is a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation.

"We are gravely concerned over the effect of this loss of steel production upon the country and upon thousands of our customers, all of which need a continued supply of steel in order to serve, in turn, their own customers and the public," said Cox.

A General Motors source in Detroit said ultimate effect of the strike on the automobile industry could be "very severe."

FOOD CHEAP IN SWEDEN

Toronto, Sept. 6 — (CP)—Sweden, the only neutral North-European country in the last war, is one of the few countries of Europe where a normal course of life still is pursued, Karin Lindgren, who is touring Canada for a Swedish chain of magazines and newspapers, said last night in an interview.

Clothing is hard to come by and leather goods are expensive but food is cheaper than in Canada, she said.

SQUADRON REACHES GANDER

GGander, Nfld., Sept. 6 (Reuters)—The R.A.F. squadron of Lincoln Bombers which made a 15,000-mile good-will tour in Canada and the United States has arrived here on its way home.

The squadron—No. 617—which arrived in the United States from Britain on July 28 as guests of the United States Air Force, is due to take off for Britain from here Sept. 9.

'Crossing of Channel Would Be Mistake' Says Halder's Diary

Nuernberg, Sept. 6 (Reuters) —New light on one of Hitler's best kept secrets —why Britain was not invaded—was cast today in published passages of the diary of Gen. Franz Halder, former chief of staff of the German army.

According to Halder's diary Hitler suddenly stopped active preparations for an invasion of Britain on the ground that a "crossing of the channel would be a mistake" and that Germany would find another way of beating Britain. Halder said Hitler thought this was only a matter of time as the war was already won.

Hitler wrote that at a meeting between himself and his war chiefs at Obersalzberg in the late summer of 1940, it was decided not only to destroy Soviet Russia, "Britain's last hope", in the Spring of 1941 (Hitler actually invaded Russia June 22, 1941) but also to occupy Britain.

On Sept. 14, 1904, a meeting was held in the new Reichschancellery at which Hitler stated, according to the diary: "An invasion of England would end the war in the quickest way."

The date of the invasion was fixed for Sept. 27 but bad weather caused it to be postponed until October 8.

Hitler did not shrink back from the plan although it was pointed out that Britain might use American materials. He was reported to believe that the United States would not be able to send appreciable aid before 1945. It was shortly after this that Hitler suddenly ordered the preparations to be stopped.

4,400 JEWISH REFUGEES REACH MOUTH OF ELBE

Disembarkation in Germany Will Begin on Sunday Officials State

On board the Ocean Vigour, Sept. 6 (Reuters)—The three British Jewish refugees from the south of France, anchored off the mouth of the Elbe today. Col. Martin Gregson, commanding the escort troops, left at once for Hamburg to inspect arrangements there for the disembarkation due to begin tomorrow.

Immigrants in the Ocean Vigour busied themselves packing their belongings and polishing their shoes in preparation for their landing. Whether it was to be peaceful or not was impossible to say. The only clue was a spokesman that Hacana, Jewish defence organization, had ordered passive resistance but forbade violence.

The three ships will go upriver one at a time. Immigrants from the Ocean Vigour will be disembarked at 6 a.m. tomorrow, with those from the Empire Rival and Runnymede Park following Monday and Tuesday.

Reporters Barred

Hamburg, Sept. 6 (AP) —British officials have informed reporters who will cover the debarkation of about 4,400 Jewish refugees from three British transports here tomorrow that they will be sealed off in two dockside enclosures and not permitted to board the ships until all the passengers have been taken off.

Vaughan Berry, British regional commissioner for Hamburg, told correspondents yesterday that "if any people on board (the British transports) wanted to make trouble, nothing would encourage them more than the presence of large numbers of the press, particularly cameramen."

The use of flashbulbs by photographers will be forbidden.

O.V.C. Cannot AccommodateOne U.S. Student

Guelph, Sept. 6 (CP) —Flooded with applications from students in the United States, the Ontario Veterinary College here cannot accommodate a single student from across the border, it was learned today. There are more than twice the number of Canadians — men and women—seeking training in the veterinary profession than can be placed at the college.

Although the O.V.C. adopted a policy some years ago of giving preference to students from Canadian provinces, applications continue to flow in from every state in the union.

"We are getting from four to 10 letters daily from Americans but we cannot accept any of them," Dr. Lionel Stevenson, college registrar said today.

The college will have an enrolment of 460 students for the term commencing in October of which 155 will be freshmen.

THREE DEAD AFTER OIL TRUCK AND TWO CARS CRASH

Name of Truck Driver Not Released by Police as Probe Continues

Owen Sound, Sept. 6 —(CP)—Police were expected to complete their investigation today into a three-way collision which took the lives of a district couple and a young high school girl.

It was not known last night, several hours after the accident on a curve of the Blue Water Highway on the western outskirts of the city, whether police would lay charges. Nor had police released the name of the driver of an oil truck involved in the crash with two automobiles.

Killed were Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Morrow and 17-year-old Marion Warmington, all of nearby Allenford, who had been driving home from Owen Sound. Evelyn Wade of Allenford, a cousin of the dead girl, suffered undetermined injuries and was brought to hospital here.

Shaken up were the Morrows' daughter, Doris, and 15-year-old Margaret Warmington, sister of the girl who was killed. The Morrows had been driving the four girls home to Allenford, 12 miles west of here, where they were to spend the weekend. The girls enrolled this week in the Owen Sound Collegiate Institute.

Kenneth McDonald of Springmount, driver of the other automobile, and Robert McClintock of Rockford, his passenger, both escaped injury.

The crash ripped a half-filled 500 gallon gasoline tank off the truck and left it in the centre of the roadway. The tank did not explode but it created a ticklish problem for firemen who pumped out the gasoline after spraying the tank with chemical foam to smother the fumes.

The operation held up nearly 500 cars on the curve. Some of the motorists drove to the spot for curiosity. The others were wedged in a long line of cars.

James Roosevelt Favors Truman For Second Term

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—James Roosevelt says that President Truman has not abandoned the policies of the late President, Franklin D. Roosevelt "particularly in domestic affairs" and that "he deserves renomination in 1948."

Roosevelt, eldest son of the late President, made his statement last night on a "Meet The Press" radio program while answering extemporaneously questions from four newspaper men.

Roosevelt said that because of the complexity of international affairs now it was impossible to say whether Truman was following his father's policies in that field because it was impossible to say what the late president's policies would be now.

Asked whether Henry Wallace would be good in the White House Roosevelt said he "would rather see Truman" there. He declared Wallace was "a great thing for America" because of his frankness and outspokenness.

ALLEGED BANDITS HELD WITH MOST OF $2,000 LOOT

Part of Money Found Under Verandah Of House, Guns Used In Hold-Up Recovered

Toronto, Sept. 6 (CP)—Two 21-year-old alleged bandits are in custody here today, charged with the $2,000 armed robbery of the Etobicoke branch of the Royal Bank of Canada Wednesday, after quick police action brought about their arrest within 48 hours of the crime and recovered all but $200 of the loot.

The pair are: Allan Waites of Mimico, picked up in the Toronto suburb yesterday, and Richard Kimble of Hamilton, taken into custody at his home Thursday by Hamilton police. Both were brought to Toronto last night for fingerprinting and photographing.

Of the money recovered yesterday $800 was found under the verandah of a house in Etobicoke and $1,000 was turned over to the police by a man whose name was not released. The man was quoted as claiming the bandits gave him the money for safe keeping.

The gun used in the holdup and the taxi-driver's cap worn by one of the bandits have also been recovered.

When the two unmasked gunmen entered the bank Wednesday they forced the male teller and a lone woman customer to lie on the floor while they scooped money from the teller's cage. Only quick thinking by manager L. S. Dunsdon, who pretended he could not open the safe, saved the bank from further loss.

Kidnapper Held After Wild Chase

Flint, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP) — Forest Conrad of Detroit, who police said kidnapped an 18-year-old Detroit girl last night and held her captive more than six hours, was captured early today after a wild police chase as he tried to make a getaway in a taxicab.

Officers reported that Alice Materri, the pretty victim, was still with Conrad when he was taken into custody, but apparently had not been harmed.

Conrad, reported to have pulled a gun on Miss Matteri's 29-year-old escort. Edward Onderko, as the couple left the State Fair Grounds at Detroit, about 50 miles southwest of here, last night, was charged with kidnapping, armed robbery and stealing a car.

Onderko, who said he was forced from the car on a lonely road outside Detroit after driving around the city for more than an hour, notified state police, who immediately put out a state-wide alarm.

Cancer Rate Higher Where There Are More Doctors and Telephones

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

St. Louis, Sept. 6 (AP)— The cancer death rate is higher in the northern than the southern United States. It's higher where there are more doctors, but also higher where there are more telephones or sewer pipes.

Southerners may get this break in less cancer because of fewer cities with smoke and fumes, or because of relatively poorer diets. Nobody yet knows.

Some of these challenging new figures on cancer death rates, their strange coincidences, and possible meaning were given in an interview at the fourth international cancer research congress by Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, director of the statistical research division of the American Cancer Society.

Cancer in 1946 killed about 181,000 persons, and by 2,000 A.D., unless some cure is found, will kill 324,000 annually. It is the second greatest killer, second only to heart and circulatory diseases, which also affect older people more. And the proportion of older persons is steadily increasing.

The low death rate States are all in the south. The rate is higher in the northeastern states, the northern middle west, and the far west.

Why is the south lower? For one thing, the south has a lower percentage of older people. Dr. Hammond corrected the figures to eliminate such variables, and drew a new map based on the rates that would occur in each state if they had the same composition of men and women, white or negro, according to age groups, as the United States as a whole has.

The high rate states have more cities, more smoke, more oily exhausts from automobiles, more tar dust from roads, and city dwellers are exposed to these hazards for many years. Animal experiments have shown that such substances as get into city atmospheres may be carcinogenic—chemicals that can cause cancer in animals.

Studies of epidemics, including statistica figures, supplied clues leading to solution of such diseases as malaria, yellow fever, and typhoid fever. Similar studies of cancer might likewise come up with some lead pointing the way toward solving some cancer riddles, Dr. Hammond said.

500 Square Miles Of Farms, Ranches InDakotaDamaged

Greatest Disaster to Hit Area Since Drought of 30's

Pierre, S. D., Sept. 6 (AP) —At least 3,000 head of cattle were destroyed by a prairie fire that raged over more than 500 square miles of farms and ranches, fields and pastures before being brought under control early today.

Officials feared the number of cattle already known to be lost would be only a fraction of the final total. An estimated 5,000 were being fed on the 200 ranches and farms within the stricken area.

Considering possible loss in hay and other feed, pasturage, homes and other buildings, they described the fire as the greatest single disaster to hit the section since the drought of the 30s.

For more than 12 hours without relief a 200-man army of volunteer fire fighters fought the fire with wet sacks, water hauled in by tank trucks, plows to cut protective furrows, and backfires. A crew of about 50 remained on guard today lest the blaze spring up again.

Early reports told of no loss of human life, and of only four homes definitely known to have been burned. Some were saved by plowing around them to turn up a protective strip of earth.

Scores of persons probably owed their lives to members of the motor patrol who raced through the land ahead of the fire, warning settlers to evacuate.

Find Refuge in Towns

Those who fled or were dispossessed found refuge in towns which for a time were themselves threatened by flames.

The fire started at two spots several miles apart about 40 miles east of Pierre. Sparks from a combine were blamed for one blaze, a cigar for the other.

Fanned by a northwest wind, the fire spread northward over a thinly-settled section from 25 to 35 miles along a line 27 miles long.

When the wind shifted to the south, men on the fire lines feared it would sweep back to where it started. But the fact that the flames were returning over an area already partially burned gave them time to build 20 miles of backfire along a highway, and the backfires prevented the flames from jumping the road.

Broken communications lines made gathering of details difficult and it was expected to be several days before the complete loss can be measured. However, it was estimated that there had been at last 80,000 tons of hay in stacks in the section before the fire.

VALUABLE BROOCH STOLEN

Toronto, Sept. 6 — (CP) — A platinum brooch set with five diamonds and valued at $1,000 was among jewelry stolen last night from the home of George W. Rayner. A thief smashed a side door window with a rock to enter the house.

Flow of Money Into Farmers' Pockets Increases

Ottawa, Sept. 6 (CP) — The welcome flow of cold hard cash into the lean pockets of Canada's men of the soil is on the increase and approaching a wartime high.

The Dominion's farmers, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday, received $753,900,000 from the sale of farm products and from supplementary payments during the first six months of this year, a gain of 17 per cent over their cash income of $647,100,000 in the same period of 1946.

This latest total, which compares with $731,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1945, approaches closely the record year of 1944, when farmers earned $766,000,000 within the six-month period.

Cash income from the sale of grains and other field crops is estimated at $215,000,000 for the first half of 1947 more than 40 per cent above the $150,000,000 realized during the same period a year earlier.

Cash income of $464,000,000 from the livestock and livestock products, which accounts for about 60 per cent of the total cash income so far this year, is approximately eight per cent above the cash income from this source during the January-June period of 1946.

Reduced income from the sale of cattle, calves, sheep and lambs is more than offset by cash income increases from the sale of hogs, dairy products, poultry and eggs.

"ISLANDS" OF WEEDS NOTED IN MOIRA RIVER

Several small "islands" of weeds have been noted recently in the lower stretches of the Moira River. The "islands" have broken away from the main beds and drift down river and into the bay.

Peterborough reports a similar state of affairs in Pigeon Lake. A well-known wild life authority up there states that the reason for the islands is because of carp feeding on wild rice. The fish root around the bottom eating the rice stalks and other plant life until large chunks of the beds break away and float down stream.

P.O. Garrett, D.F.C., Greets His Former Pilot When Dam Buster Squadron Visits Trenton

Flight Lieut. Neil Bayley D.F.C., pilot with the R.A.F. "Dam Buster" squadron of Lincoln bombers which Tuesday stopped off at Trenton before returning overseas to Britain, saw at least one familiar face when he climbed down from his plane after landing at Trenton Air Station.

As he stepped down from his big Lincoln bomber Flt. Lt. Bayley was greeted by the familiar face of Frank Garrett, manual training instructor with the Belleville Board of Education, who back in 1943 was his navigator on bombing runs over the continent. A native of Seaforth, Ont., Mr. Garrett only last week came to Belleville as manual training instructor.

"Flt. Lt. Bayley wrote me early in the summer that he would be coming to America as pilot with the "Dam Buster" squadron," related Mr. Garrett this morning to the Ontario Intelligencer. "So when the squadron came in to Trenton on Tuesday I took time off from school to meet my former pilot."

Neither Mr. Garrett nor the English pilot were with the famous dam buster squadron when they were flying together on bombing raids over the continent. Mr. Garrett went overseas early in 1943 and was attached to the 158 Halifax squadron and completed 38 runs to the continent receiving the D.F.C.

Although a Canadian, Mr. Garrett, like many other boys from Canada, was attached to the R.A.F. where he completed his operational tour. Later he instructed for six months returning to Canada in 1945 with the rank of pilot officer. When he greeted Flt. Lieut. Bayley at Trenton on Tuesday it was the first time in over three years he had seen his former pilot.

Following discharge Mr. Garrett took a special course in manual training and this year at Queen Victoria school has a class for all grade 7-8 boys in the public schools.

Road Through Coe Hill to Purdyville Will be Repaired Says Member

The Ontario Department of Highways will spend considerable money on the county road leading from Highway No. 62 through Coe Hill to Purdyville, it has been announced by J. Fred Wilson, M.P.P. for Hastings West.

The road is the only Hastings county road north of Madoc township and Mr. Wilson stated that due to its isolated location, it has been difficult for the county roads and bridges committee to keep it in repair. New culverts will be installed and the grade built up.

The road itself is a continuation of the road which runs from Peterborough to Purdyville, five miles west of Coe Hill. The highways department has kept the Peterborough-Purdyville stretch in good condition and it was felt that the east stretch of the road should also receive some consideration.

After many discussions with the Department of Highways, Mr. Wilson has now succeeded in getting a contract signed and tenders called for the job.

The road, Mr. Wilson pointed out, is a well-travelled one over which a great deal of the northern county traffic runs. He stated it would be a fine thing for Hastings and would pay a big dividend.

Found guilty by Magistrate Wills, he was sentenced to two months in Prince Edward County gaol. He was not linked with the series of robberies performed by the four other men previous to the August robberies which led to investigation which uncovered a network of breakins.

Do Not Wait Send Donations To Fund - - Now

The eyes of several children in the Coe Hill district gaze wistfully at what is left of their former homes. Gone are their belongings; the comfortable rooms; the outdoor playgrounds. Their pets have disappeared taken into the maw of the tornado that struck suddenly, without warning, wreaking havoc on a peaceful countryside.

Adults, their faces drawn with worry, not for themselves, but for their children, turn appealing glances to their friends of the county and surrounding areas.

Deprived of everything they owned, except their land, these victims of the storm, pitiful in their extremity, place their faith and trust in those who were more fortunate. They need—and they need it badly.

Outside assistance is rushing to their aid. Money and clothes are coming in from sympathetic people in all parts of the district. But if ten families are to be housed in comfortable quarters this winter, much money will be needed.

Others Must Assist

The people of Coe Hill and district are doing a splendid job in alleviating the needs of their stricken neighbors. But they cannot do it all. It is humanly impossible. Others must do their share.

The Ontario Intelligencer Tornado Relief Fund has gotten underway and cash donations are coming in. Contributions will be accepted here at any time and official receipts will be given for all amounts.

Time is short. Winter is just around the corner. Quick action is imperative. So send or bring your donation to this newspaper—now.

Tweed

Workman Injured By Runaway Team

Francis Greene, Tweed, is in Belleville General Hospital in a serious condition as result of being dragged a considerable distance Wednesday afternoon by a runaway team.

Greene was assisting Chesley Countryman to deliver ice when the accident happened. The latter was at a customer's house with Greene standing beside the wagon holding the team with the reins wrapped around his wrist. Suddenly the horses bolted across a lawn and the wagon striking a stump with the ice box falling off the wagon.

With Greene still clinging to the reins the horses dashed across the street dragging him about 30 yards along the edge of the sidewalk where he got disentangled from the reins. Examination by doctors revealed he was suffering from concussion, lacerations and possible internal injuries.

The horses continued running for several blocks before they were caught by Jack McNaught near his blacksmith shop.

A FALSE ALARM

Manila, Sept. 6. (AP)— The United States Navy weather station said today that report by an R.A.F. pilot that a huge tidal wave was moving northeastward between Lauzon and Formosa "apparently was a false alarm."

The station said a search of the area by navy weather reconnaisance planes disclosed no sign of an ocean disturbance.

More Canned Salmon Available For Canadians

By R. K. CARNEGIE

Ottawa, Sept. 6 (CP) —More canned salmon will be available for Canadians this year now that the United Kingdom has cancelled its agreement to buy 40 per cent of the British Columbia pack, an official of the fish industry forecast today as preparations went forward for two important meetings in the industry here next week.

S. M. Rosenberg of Vancouver chairman of the British Columbia Salmon Canners Committee, and his associates will meet British food officials to wind up the contract which had been negotiated except for the price, when the British Treasury ordered its cancellation to save dollars.

The Fisheries Prices Support Board established this year will hold its first meeting Sept. 8 when the problem created by the United Kingdom discontinuing purchases of Canadian fresh frozen cod and haddock fillets will be discussed.

Cancellation of the salmon contract will mean that Canadian retail stores will receive larger supplies, but the prices are not expected to drop. Prices in the United States are approximately 25 per cent higher than in Canada an official said, and as the United States tariff is 25 per cent the canners would get the same net returns in either market. Of course, any change in American prices would likely affect prices in Canada.

The industry does not think there will be any difficulty disposing of this year's salmon pack but it will be desirable to serve such traditional markets as Australia, New Zealand and the British West Indies if those countries will grant import permits.

The Prices Support Board, of which Stewart Bates, deputy minister of fisheries, is chairman and W. Stanley Lee of Halifax vice-chairman, has representation of fishermen and processors from both coasts. During the war the United Kingdom took as much as 20,000,000 pounds of fresh frozen fillets from Canada. Last year imports dropped to 8,000,000 and the industry was advised none would be taken this year.

One of the chief efforts of the board will be to increase the domestic market. Canadians are not great fish eaters, but the excellence of the fresh frozen products and the high price of meats may make this a good time to boost fish consumption.

The government is purchasing $8,000,000 worth of fish in the Maritimes, $7,000,000 for post-UNRRA assistance to Europe, and $1,000,000 for the United Nations Organization to supply food for children's institutions in war-ravaged countries.

Gandhi Warns Next Fast Will 'Be Unto Death'

Calcutta Sept. 6 —(AP)— Mohandas K. Gandhi has warned the warring communal factions in India and Pakistan that his next fast will "be unto death."

He ended a 73-hour fast last night, started in protest against an outburst of Moslem-Hindu violence in Calcutta, amid indications that comparative quiet was prevailing in most sections of the two new Dominions, except in the partitioned Punjab.

Gandhi, regarded virtually as a saint by Hindus, broke his fast with a glass of sweet lime juice after a long conference with Chakravarthi Rajagopalachari, governor-general, and P. C. Ghosh, premier of West Bengal; J. A. Kripalani, Congress Party president, and H. S. Suhrawardy, former Moslem premier of Bengal with whom Gandhi is living as a demonstration of Moslem-Hindu amity.

"The Mahatma has broken his fast under strict conditions," Suhrawardy announced after the conference. "He has held important leaders in Calcutta responsible for peace in their areas."

The communal leader responsible for the next "untoward" incident, Gandhi declared, "must be the first to jump into the fire."

Officials said Calcutta had been quiet since Wednesday night. There were scattered outbursts of violence yesterday in Bombay, New Delhi, and Karachi, but the situation was described as for the most part quiet.

In the bloody Punjab, however, tales of almost unbelievable butchery were reported and officials of both India and Pakistan, fearful of worse to come, undertook joint action to restore order in the rich, divided province where virtual anarchy reigns.

The awful stories of bloodshed, butchery and arson which have come from the Punjab have been blamed by officials for the renewed outbursts this week in other regions of India and Pakistan.

Gandhi's plans to go to the Punjab were postponed because of the Calcutta outburst and his fast.

S. Chatterjee, a public relations officer for Gandhi, disclosed that among the messages received during the course of the fast was one from the King, who "expressed prayers of success for Gandhi's mission and inquired for his health."

U.S. Consumer Warned Worse Is Yet to Come

New York, Sept. 6 —(AP)— The United States food bill is already at the year's high, but the American consumer was warned today that the worst is yet to come.

Only "consumer resistance" can halt the advent of $1-a-dozen eggs, $1-a-pound butter and $1-plus meat, authorities said.

Consumers, wondering how they could "resist" eating, were given a few tips by public officials and spokesmen for meat and grocery industries:

Buy the cheaper cuts of meat and learn how to cook them appetizingly; buy eggs graded below "top extras"; return to the wartime leaning on spaghetti and other "substitutes"; buy fresh fruits and vegetables, almost the only food stuffs not advancing in price currently.

The gloomy price picture for fall and winter came from all sides — from restaurant owners, meat industry spokesmen, market commissioners, food chain store officials, packing house executives and retail store spokesmen.

A spokesman for the National Restaurant Association said: "The way meat prices are going up, we'll not be able to serve meat and still hold the line in meal prices."

John Krey, chairman of the American Meat Institute, said in Chicago: "Meat supplies will drop in the year ahead, leaving consumers even more meat-hungry than now."

Eugene Schulz, New York's markets commissioner, said retail prices were ranging from $1 a pound for porterhouse steak to 49 cents for chopped meat and "would go higher."

He predicted boosts in the prices of eggs and butter and retail trade sources said $1 butter and $1 eggs were in the offing. Butter went up two cents a pound on the New York produce exchange yesterday. Eggs were selling at 82 to 92 cents a dozen in New York.

Supporting the predictions of higher prices to come, futures quotations on the grain and produce exchanges hit new highs for fall and winter deliveries in most items.

House of Bishops To Elect Primate

Saskatoon, Sept. 6 —(CP) — The Church of England's House of Bishops which through the general synod and other members of its executive council Monday will elect a primate to succeed the late Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen of Toronto, today began its deliberations.

Eligible for the office, highest within the gift of the church, are all diocesan bishops who are members of the Upper House. The acting primacy now is held by Most. Rev. W. R. Adams, archbishop and senior metropolitan of British Columbia.

The House began discussions in camera after a conference on the problem of work among Canada's Indians — preliminary to the general sessions of the synod which open Tuesday—had elicited the following suggestions:

1. The recruiting of a native ministry to serve the Indian population.

2. Adequate training for workers in the mission fields.

3. The transfer of workers to white parishes after five or 10 years' service in Indian missions.

4. The appointment of a linguist willing to live among the Cree Indians for two or three winters, learn their language and later do some translating.

Delegates termed the lack of funds and personnel as the main difficulty in carrying out an effective ministry among the Indians, and described it as being particularly acute in British Columbia as well as being a problem elsewhere.

Bishop J. Lofthouse of Keewatin said the impression was growing that the Church of England was becoming ineffective in its missionary work among Indians.

Skill, Daring of U-Boat Crew Sank Royal Oak

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (CP) — H.M.S. Royal Oak was sunk in Scapa Flow by a German submarine Oct. 14, 1939. Winston Churchill told the House of Commons it was "a remarkable exploit of professional skill and daring."

Now the "inside story" of the attack has been made public through publication here of an extract from the log of U-47, commanded by Lieut. Prien who was awarded the Knight's Cross.

The operation was planned personally by Admiral Doenitz, then flag officer commanding submarines. A careful survey of Scapa Flow had revealed a weakness in the defence of Holm Sound which was then protected by only three block ships.

Doenitz decided that with careful navigation it would be possible either to pass between the blockships or on either side of them close to the shore.

Actually Prien passed between two blockships on the way into the sound — so close that U-47 touched a mooring cable —and between a blockship and Lamb Holm Island on the way out.

The battleship Royal Oak was sunk with heavy loss of life. The battle cruiser Repulse was hit with one torpedo but remained afloat.

Through Oct. 13 U-47 lay submerged in deep water east of the Orkney Islands. After a meal at 5 p.m. preparations were made for the attack.

U-Boat's Log

"Surfaced at 1915 (7.15 p.m.). After warm supper for entire crew, set course for Holm Sound. Everything goes according to plan until 2307 (11.07p.m.), when it is necessary to submerge on sighting a merchant ship just before Rose Ness...

"At 2331 (11:31p.m.), surfaced again and entered Holm Sound. Following tide. On nearer approach, the sunken blockade in Skerry Sound is clearly visible, so that at first I believe myself to be already at Kirk Sound, and prepare for work. But the navigator, by means of dead reckoning, states that the preparations are premature, while I at the same time realize the mistake, for there is only one sunken ship in the straits. By altering course hard to starboard, the imminent danger is averted. A few minutes later, Kirk Sound is clearly visible.

"It is a very eerie sight. On land everything is dark, high in the sky are the flickering Northern Lights, so that the bay, surrounded by highish mountains, is directly lit up from above. The blockships lie in the sound, ghostly as the wings of a theatre.

"I am now repaid for having learned the chart beforehand, for the penetration proceeds with unbelievable speed. In the meantime I had decided to pass the blockships on the northern side. On a course of 720 (degrees) I pass the two-masted schooner, which is lying on a bearing of 315 (degrees), metres to spare.

"In the next moment the boat is turned by the current to starboard. At the same time I recognize the cable of the northern blockship at an angle of 45 degrees ahead. Port engine stopped, starboard engine slow ahead, and rudder hard to port, the boat slowly touches bottom.

Enter Scapa Flow

"The stern still touches the cable, the boat becomes free, it is pulled round to port, and brought on course again with difficult rapid manoeuvering, but we are in Scapa Flow.

"0027 (12.27 a.m. Oct. 14)— It is disgustingly light. The whole bay is lit up. To the south of Cava there is nothing. I go farther in. To port, I recognize the Hoxa Sound coastguard, to which in the next few minutes the boat must present itself as a target. In that event all would be lost; at present south of Cava no ships are to be seen, although visibility is extremely good. Hence decisions:—

"0055 (12.55a.m.) —South of Cava there is no shipping; so before staking everything on success, all possible precautions must be taken. Therefore, turn to port is made. We proceed north by the coast. Two battleships are lying there at anchor, and further inshore, destroyers. Cruisers not visible, therefore attack on the big fellows. Distance apart, 3,000 metres.

"0116 (1:16 a.m.) —Estimated depth, 7.5 metres. Impact firing. One torpedo fixed on the northern ship, two on southern. After a good 3 1-2 minutes, a torpedo detonates on the northern ship (Repulse); of the other two, nothing is to be seen.

"0121 (1:21 a.m.) — About! Torpedo fired from stern; in the bow two tubes are loaded; three torpedoes from the bow. After three tense minutes comes the detonation on the nearer ship (Royal Oak). There is a loud explosion, roar, and rumbling. Then come columns of water, followed by columns of fire, and splinters fly through the air.

Clear Navigation

"The harbor springs to life. Destroyers are lit up, signalling starts on every side, and on land 200 metres away from me cars roar along the roads. A battleship has been sunk, a second damaged and the other three torpedoes have gone to blazes. All the tubes are empty.

"I decided to withdraw, because: (1) With my periscope I cannot conduct night attacks while submerged. (2) On a bright night I cannot manoeuvre unobserved in a calm sea. (3). I must assume that I was observed by the driver of a car which stopped opposite us, turned around and drove off towards Scapa at top speed. (4) Nor can I go further north, for there, well hidden from my sight, lie the destroyers which were previously dimly distinguishable.

"0128 1:28 a.m.—At high speed both engines, we withdraw. Everything is simple until we reach Skildaenoy Point. Then we have more trouble. It is now low tide, the current is against us. Engines at slow and dead slow, I attempt to get away. I must leave by the south through the narrows, because of the depth of the water.

"Things are again dificult. Course, 058, slow-10 knots. I make no progress. At high I pass the southern blockship with nothing to spare. The helmsman does magnificently. High speed ahead both, finally 3-4 speed and full ahead all out. Free of the blockships— ahead a mole! Hard over and again about, and at 0215 (2:15 a.m.) we are once more outside.

"A pity that only one was destroyed. The torpedo misses I explain as due to faults of course speed, and drift. In tube 4, a misfire. The crew behaved splendidly throughout the operation.

"0215 (2:15 a.m.) —Set S. E. course for base. I still have five torpedoes for possible attacks on merchantmen."

Legislation to provide Mianrai Teo, the state-owned mineral company, with powers to carry out the plan will be introduced in the Dail later this year.

Government mineral experts said a particular search will be made for uranium. One prominent industrialist said that extensive lead and copper deposits could be worked economically at present world prices.

Growth of Weeds On Vacant Lots In City Deplored

The disgraceful condition of vacant lots in the city which in many cases are showing luxuriant growth of summer weeds of all description is causing some very unfavorable comment on the part of residents who take pride in the appearance of their own lawns and other property.

The matter of weeds being permitted to grow unhampered on the vacant lots was brought up in council Tuesday evening by Alderman William Harvey who stated that he had been approached by residents on several occasions with the request that something be done.

"These weeds growing on vacant lots and in some cases adjoining well kept properties are an utter disgrace," commented the Alderman as he suggested that possibly they could be sprayed by a solution of D.D.T. to check their growth.

No comment on the matter was made by the other members of council other than the statement that it had been mentioned before in council this year. Neither was any action taken.

City Engineer Charles Mott today stated that the public works department is endeavoring to keep a check on any weeds growing on city property and since the commencement of the weed growing season four men have been detailed to weed cutting along thoroughfares and on other city property.

Umbrellas Out Under 1882 Law

Capetown, (CP)— During a recent rainy week here pedestrians were surprised when stopped by traffic policemen who asked them to shut their umbrellas.

But the police were only doing so along covered sidewalks and were not prompted by superstition. They were enforcing a law of 1882 which forbids anyone to obstruct free passage along a sidewalk. Originally the law applied also to cumbersome dresses. Women with bustles had to be careful.

Three-Lane Highway an Alternative

There has been some agitation in recent weeks by some Ontario newspapers for the Ontario Government to get busy on No. 2 Highway. It is claimed the thoroughfare is in poor condition, too narrow and has too many dangerous curves. Furthermore American tourists have been plenty critical of the condition of the roadway as judged by the standard that is met with south of the border. It is suggested that the Government should begin a program of reconstruction on all highways in the province, that No. 2 should be the first to receive attention and that it should be a four-lane highway from the Quebec border to Windsor.

There is no question but that we all agree with the above, especially after a session of driving to Toronto when traffic is heavy, as it nearly always is, between Oshawa and entrance of the four-lane portion east of Toronto. It has taken years to complete the new highway to Oshawa and it still is not ready for use. That is what we fear will be our lot if we insist that is the only type we intend to have. Just one delay after another.

Having travelled on some of the three-lane highways in the States we were impressed with the amount of traffic they handle with ease. There is good margin of safety widths on hills with the laneways well marked with broad white lines. They were a delight to travel on and it is no trouble to maintain a brisk average speed in safety and comfort.

If it is going to take our governments years and years to build only a portion of the four-lane highways, would it not be better to compromise on the three-lane roadway using the present highways as a base and levelling out the most troublesome curves. It is our impression this type of highway would serve our purposes for a long time and would not cost anything like the super-highway which we all desire but which appears to be a long way in the future.

We are not optimistic enough to believe the above suggestion will meet with any approval, particularly so, when the four-lane highway project is probably planned for and only needs the money and labor to make it a reality. We are only assuming that, perhaps, the Government has not decided what it will do, and that being the case then an alternative plan might meet with consideration.

Neither are we expressing any opposition to the super-highway such as has been projected for No. 2, but if we had our choice between getting the cheaper type in the near future or waiting until we had whiskers down to our knees for the other — to us there isn't any choice but one and that is the three-lane highway.

Shellac Known to Ancients

That jar of shellac on your workshelf may look like pretty plain material, but it has a family history as picturesque and interesting as the lands from whence it comes —India, Burma and Siam.

Even the name "shellac" reaches back into the dim past. Derived from the ancient Sanskrit word "lac," which means 'one hundred thousand,' it is indicative of the countless tiny insects which produce this strange resin.

These microscopic parasites, called coccus lacca by scientists, settle in droves on the lac trees of the East, and thrust their needle-like probers through the bark of the trees and into the moist sap wood beneath it. While feeding on the tree, the lac bug gives off a resinous secretion, creating a cocoon which eventually forms a hard shell around the branches.

During the lac season, the natives swarm into the woods and knock this hard shell, which is called sticklac, from the branches in much the same manner as ice is shaken from trees after a cold sleet storm. The resin is then gathered, dried in the sun and ground in primitive mills. Sifted and cleaned, the gum is graded and broken into shell-like flakes and shipped to the ports of the New World where it is processed into the shellac of commerce — an indispensable material in industry.

While usually associated with occasional finishing of floors and furniture, actually this type of paint product has many uses. Employed by metal workers and electricians, it is of no less importance to the leather worker and the manufacturer of shoe polishes, playing cards and lead pencils. Engravers and mechanics use it, and it is a basic ingredient of inks, rubber and match heads as well as an important component in sealing wax and phonograph records.

Science has made many attempts to duplicate the creative art of the coccus lacca but, like the silk worm and the honey bee, the tiny lac bug has as yet little to fear from the industrial chemist.

Those Hard, Hard Pews

Can there be any relationship between the decline in church attendance of which so many congregations complain and the fact that pews or seats in many of these buildings are anything but comfortable, in fact a sort of trial to the people who occupy them while services are in progress?

This is particularly true of older churches, of which there are so many in this long-established part of the country. The built-in pews, rarely cushioned in any way, are as hard and unyielding as a granolithic sidewalk. There was, moreover, no attempt on the part of the builders to conform to the shape of the human body. One cannot imagine that any of the worshippers who have occupied them throughout the years have succeeded in snatching any semblance of slumber during long, dreary sermons because any thought of sleep in such surroundings is quite untenable. Maybe that was the reason why the pews were built that way, although it does not explain the corresponding harshness of the kneeling benches.

Our ancestors who made their regular appearances in church must have been built of stern, Puritanical stuff to withstand such punishment Sunday after Sunday in a day when long services and long sermons were the rule. We who are of weaker and softer material, who are accustomed to comforts which they did not enjoy and who like padding to protect our persons might turn up more frequently in church if pews were cushioned, not for the sake of lolling but just to ease our aching bones and muscles.

The group or individual opening a fund for the provision of cushioned seats in church pews and on kneeling-benches will be rendering a great service to suffering humanity and it may also accomplish something of decided moment towards restoring church attendance to its erstwhile popularity. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

It Is Up To Car Drivers At Level Crossings

Decisions in some lower courts of the United States where railways have been held responsible, at least in part, for level crossing fatalities and accidents, have been reversed by the U. S. Supreme Court and there is a deal in what the United States Chief Justice has to say on the subject, given during a recent decision.

"When a man goes upon a railroad," said the chief justice, "he knows that he goes to a place where he will be killed if a train comes upon him before he is clear of the track. He knows he must stop for the train, not the train for him. In such cases, if a driver cannot be sure whether a train is dangerously near he must stop and look. If he relies upon not hearing the train or signal and takes no further precaution, he does so at his own risk."

The fact is that careful drivers will make sure that the tracks are clear in both directions before venturing across. A car is much more easily controlled than is a locomotive and it is the duty of the drivers of all cars, if he values his own life and lives of his passengers to slow down and stop if necessary to make sure the way is clear in both directions before venturing across.— Niagara Falls Review.

Obvious Objective

There is no doubt at all but that the sudden desire of the garment trade to drop skirts was to make every mother's daughter and all the mothers too, buy new wardrobes. By this profiteering stunt the fashion crowd hoped to lift profits while they lowered skirts.—St. Louis Post-Despatch.

JUST FOLKS

GOLFING PARSON'S EXAMPLE.

The golfing parson's speech is mild.
To trouble he seems reconciled.
When from the sand his ball won't budge,
He merely smiles and says: "Oh fudge!"

I've often seem him miss a putt,
But all he muttered was: "Tut-tut!"
When off the green his best shot trickles,
His strongest phrase will be: "Oh pickles!"

The golfing parson lives his creed;
Goes as he tries his flock to lead.
If his approaches hit a tree,
He says no more than: "Gracious me!"

I think I try the best I can
Myself to be so good a man,
But when my golf shots go astray,
It's not "Oh pickles!" that I say.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What was the "window tax?"

Taxing windows was an old practice in Europe and probably still survives to some extent.

In 1696, during the reign of William and Mary, the English government levied a tax on all windows in the Kingdom to raise revenue to make up for the loss arising from the clipping of coins and to pay for the coinage of silver.

The tax was payable by tenants of buildings regardless of who was the owner.

Even jailers and superintendents of poorhouses had to pay the tax on every window in their jails and workhouses.

Many tenants blocked up their windows to avoid the burden of paying the unpopular window tax. Merely closing and not using a window was not enough to escape payment. The law provided, "That no window or light shall be deemed to be stopped up unless such window or light shall be stopped up effectually with stone or brick or plaster upon lath."

This tax on light and sunshine was not repealed until 1851.

An actual tax on windows was never levied in the United States, but a Federal tax levied on real estate in 1798 was called the "window tax" in Pennsylvania because the assessors judged the taxable value of buildings by the number and size of windows.

To avoid paying the window tax and at the same time to preserve the appearance of prosperity, many tenants in Europe painted imitation windows on their buildings.

This practice was brought to America by some of the early German immigrants, and even today in Pennsylvania and Maryland imitation windows painted on barns survive as a decorative reminder of the window tax.

These imitation windows are sometimes referred to erroneously as "witch windows" through confusion with pictures and various devices painted on houses and barns "to frighten away witches."

When summer-time is over,
And Autumn early strays
With amber eyes and tender
O'er field and woodland ways,
With feathered songsters silent,
The pensive Autumn brings
Into the evening quiet
The song the cricket sings.

He brings a flood of memories
Of Summer days and dear,
A sadness thrills his chirping
That but the heart can hear;
He also sings of gladness
Around the quiet hearth,
Of home and friends and loved

And peacefulness and mirth.

Again he sings of harvest
The sheaves all garnered in,
The purple grapes in cluster,
The golden grain in bin;
The sowing and the weeping
The toil and tears are past,
And now the bounteous reaping
And Harvest home at last.

Quebec Peat Bogs Supply U.S. Trade

By J. L. LANGLOIS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

idly-expanding peat output gradually is replacing large pre-war German imports into rich United States markets.

Since government-aided research and development began on a large scale a few years ago, annual revenue from production of the decomposed vegetable matter has reached a figure of about $800,000 a year. Rapidly increasing, it is expected to be a $2,000,000-a-year business within four or five years.

A spokesman for the provincial mines department told The Canadian Press the future of the Quebec peat industry is "unlimited".

Trade delegations to the United States have found ready buyers for all peat Quebec can turn out. Before the Second World War, the United States, which produces relatively little peat of its own, was a heavy buyer from highly-developed industries in Germany and Denmark.

In the public mind peat is thought of principally as a fuel This is only one aspect, and possibly a lesser one, of its present-day usage.

It is widely used for soil improvement, ground bedding in chick hatcheries and for numerous other purposes including insultation and packing.

Gives Hot Flame

As a fuel, its principal advantage is that it gives a hot flame with much less smoke than ordinary combustibles. However, preliminary costs of cutting and drying have worked against its becoming primarily a heating agent. European countries, principally Ireland, however, make wide use of it in this way and provincial authorities are conducting research into possibilities of cheaper production and creation of a local demand for it.

The province's biggest peat bogs have been found near Riviere Du Loup where a bog of more than 7,000 acres is being worked, and at Napierville, south of Montreal, where another bog of close to 8,000 acres exists. Numerous smaller deposits are known and a government survey party currently is probing the St. Charles area, near here.

Most of the industries now are privately owned. The government's part consists chiefly in research work, and investigation survey and drainage of bog areas before private industry steps in.

WHAT PURPORTS TO BE PILES

In the majority of cases of internal piles pain is not complained of, unless some complication has occurred. The patient complains only of a dull aching sensation or feeling of weight. This dull ache may be interpreted as "chronic lumbago". Arthur S. Morley, F.R.C.S., Eng., says in his monograph Haemorrhoids:

"I have had the satisfaction on more than one occasion of relieving cases of 'chronic lumbago' which had resisted treatment at German and French watering-places and drastic treatment at home blisters and electrical treatment applied to the lumbar region, by injection and curing large internal haemorrhoids. The possibility of intractable lumbago being due to rectal troubles ought never to be lost sight of."

Internal piles of long standing, whether there has been much bleeding or not, especially after prolapse (occasional or frequent extrusion of the mass while straining, so that it requires pushing back into the rectum), may account for more or less constant dull ache or pain down the thighs and in the perineum, irritability of the bladder and, in women, symptoms which are often mistaken for "womb trouble". The patient's health deteriorates, and a careworn, apprehensive countenance, anemia and emaciation are common symptoms of long neglected internal piles.

Some authorities believe constipation is a cause of piles and other authorities believe piles is a cause of constipation. There may be some truth on both sides, but the harmful drugs so much abused by people with the constipation or "autointoxication" complex—the laxatives, cathartics and "regulators" these gullible geeks think they must take or else—seem to me the more likely cause, through the irritation and congestion they produce in the pelvic tissues and organs.

Incidentally, the veins involved in piles empty into the portal circulation (region of liver) and, as these veins have no valves such as long veins in arms and legs have, they have to support the weight of a tall column of blood when the body is upright. They are relieved of this weight when the body is recumbent, horizontal, in knee chest position or in any other position where hips are higher than shoulders.

So it is a pretty good habit for one subject to piles to take the weight off from the veins for a brief spell as frequently as he or she can in the day, by assuming recumbent, horizontal or hips-higher-than-shoulders position and breathing naturally (belly breathing) for a few minutes. This is beneficial whether there is an "attack" of piles at the moment or not.

By way of prophylaxis or prevention of piles, or palliation if you already have the trouble, these rules are paramount, namely, soap and water cleanliness, taking a load off from the veins, and avoiding interference with nature's control of the bowel. One other suggestion I believe just as important is this: maintain the tone of the involuntary muscle, both that in the vein walls and that in the intestinal walls, and aside from a reasonable amount of general exercise daily the best remedy I know for the purpose is, if you will forgive me for harping on this theme, an adequate daily ration of the elements and vitamins in which the refined diet of most Americans, young or old, is deficient, namely, calcium, phosphorus, iodine, vitamin D, thiamine (B1) and riboflavin (B2).

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Interference

Would the use of mineral oil as an internal lubricant contribute toward formation of gallstones? Why do mineral companies caution you not to use directly before or after meals? From what minerals is mineral oil made? (E.J.)

Answer—1. No, but certainly it does not contribute toward the prevention of gallstone formation. 2. That is probably a compromise made with the wily Uncle Sam—mineral oil interferes with assimilation of vitamins, minerals and other nutrients essential for health, and it does so whether you take it immediately before or after meals or at any time. 3. "Mineral oil" is petroleum, paraffin. Don't be such a simpleton. Send 25c and stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing for booklet "The Constitpation Habit and Colon Hygiene."

What Makes Willie Run

Would it be harmful to my health if I ran outdoors in winter time in a cotton sweat suit? I would be running all the time I am outside, and would take a warm and then a cold shower immediately upon return. (W. H.)

Answer—Wear or leave off whatever you find comfortable, that's all that matters so far as health is concerned.

Allied Doctors Wary But Watch TB Drug

Berlin, (Reuters) — German doctors are watching with close interest clinical tests of a new drug named Peteosther—consisting of platinum in a solution of Dibrom - Dinitro - Fluorescein - Natrium and the short-lived radio-active element Thorium—in the treatment of tuberculosis.

British and United States medical experts with occupation forces here share their interest—but so far with more scepticism as to its prospects of success.

In any case, all authorities seem to be agreed that several years more research and experiment will be requird before judgment can be passed upon its efficacy. All are likewise agreed on the need for a cautious approach to avoid undue raising of hopes —especially in Germany where the incidence of tuberculosis is high.

An article in a medical journal published in the British zone gave the first reports on the results of Dr. Troch's research.

Dr. Troch says Peteosther is efficacious in attacking tuberculosis bacillus through its waxy protective matter and adds that in the test tube stage of his experiments microscopic examination showed complete destruction of the cacillus so attacked.

The drug was found to act consistently against the types of bacillus affecting human beings, the bovine species, and poultry. Growth of these bacilli was stopped in 24 hours, while in 72 hours all were dead.

Many Benefited .. ..

Intravenous and intramuscular injections into artificially infected rabbits and guinea pigs showed a definite showing up of the spread of the disease a few days later. Infected animals not treated with Peteosther died.

Dr. Troch claims that following these experiments, a large number of clinic patients benefited from the drug. One specific case is a 14-year-old girl whom surgeons believed would have to lose her hand. Not only did Peteosther prevent necessity of amputation but today she is working as a seamstress.

Other instances in which his patients have benefited have been cases of tuberculosis of the shoulder joints, the elbow, wrists and ankles.

Concerning its effect on pulmonary tuberculosis, Dr. Troch is cautious. Although favorable observations have been made, he says, the number of cases so far treated is small.

Summing up the results of research to date, he declares:

"Only when a sufficiently long period has elapsed without a recurrence of the disease can there be a final judgment as to the completeness of the cure."

His article in the medical journal comes at a time when, in the Soviet zone of Germany, Russian medical experts have been reporting on results of conferences with German doctors on research on remedies for tuberculosis.

Radioactivity Still Prevalent On Bikini Atoll

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 6—(AP) — Two scientists from the University of Notre Dame reported Friday that there "is still much radioactivity" at Bikini, scene of the 1946 atomic bomb tests, but that human beings could reside on the atoll without danger for brief periods.

The report was made by Dr. William H. Hammill and Dr. Russell R. Williams, Jr., professors of chemistry at Notre Dame, who returned after serving as special consultants to the United States Navy in atomic research studies at Bikini.

They said human beings could live on the atoll "even possibly for a year without suffering ill effects." They pointed out that water life, such as fish, contain radioactivity, but that a person eating only a few of the fish would not be affected, and that the same condition is true of cocoanuts growing on the atoll.

The professors said underwater television was used for the first time to facilitate study of radioactivity aboard ships sunk by the test explosions.

THE PASSING OF SUMMER

The meadow is green with aftermath,
The harvest fields are bare,
And lo! along the dusty road
The goldenrod glows fair.

And on the lakeside hill-top
The sumach's turning red,
And from a dainty hanging nest
The orioles have fled.

And in the evening twilight
We hear the south wind sigh,
It seems like Summer's quiet voice
Bidding the earth good-bye.

The W.M.S. meeting held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Lee Grills was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ritz, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ritz and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Denike enjoyed a day at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Centenary and Hogle schools opened on Tuesday and teachers and pupils have settled down to the routine work for the coming term. Miss Marion Pound, the former teacher at Centenary, accepted a position on the Peterborough staff and has been replaced by Mrs. Harry Bates of Belleville. Miss Evelyn Callaghan former teacher at the Hogle school, is teaching near Belleville and Miss Palmer of Front Road has been engaged as teacher at the Hogle school. Both teachers are well known in this locality and the best wishes of their friends are extended to them in their work.

This correspondent would like to pay tribute to Mrs. W. H. Kells, a former resident of the community, on the very interesting article published in the columns of the Ontario Intelligencer on "A Day at the Ex."

This article was equally interesting to those of us who attended the exhibition and to those who were unable to attend this colossal gathering of ancient and modern ways of life.

Little Benny's Note Book

This morning at breakfist pop reminded me again I'm suppose to go around and see the dentist so I'll be sure I'm starting school with perfect teeth, and I said, Aw G, pop, there's nuthing a matter with my teeth.

That's pleasant news, but how do you know? pop said, and I said, I can feel it by the way they feel.

Good, then you have nothing to feer, pop said. You can spend an agreeable hour or so browzing through the dentist's intristing old magazines while you're waiting for him to pat you panelessly on the back and congradulate you on having 2 rows of perfect teeth, he said, and I said, But jimminy, pop, his office is libel to be full of people with fierce toothakes, and here I'll be making them wait still longer with nothing a matter with me.

Your sollicitude is very touching, but dont worry, the people with the most paneful teeth are always the most grateful for every delay that separates them from the dentist chair, pop said. So you'll really be doing to poor soles a favor, he said, and I said, Well suppose the dentist aint bizzy at all? I mean suppose he needs werk, so while he's pretending to look for holes in my teeth suppose he actually puts some in there? I said.

I see what you mean, pop said. Well, watch him closely and if he pulls any tricks like that I'll sue him for trespassing and put the money in trust to buy you a full set of falts teeth as soon as you're old enough to enjoy them, he said, and I said, Well, I hope I remember to go.

I hope so too, because otherwise I'll be obliged to teach you the difference between hoping you would and wishing you had, pop said.

Proving the argument was over and I had lost it, so I went around to the dentist's the ferst thing after breakfist to get it off my memory.

Air Force "Belle" Is Sally the Bear

Edmonton (CP) —The "Belle" of the United States army air station here like most "ladies" is fond of rich food, automobiles and having her own way.

She only asks for the "bear" necessities of life and as far as the personnel on the station are concerned she gets just what she wants.

The young lady's name is Sally, she's brunette and brown-eyed, a trifle heavy for her age, but nevertheless she catches the eye of everyone who meets her. Sally, in case you haven't guessed is a three-month-old black bear cub.

She arrived here recently by plane from Dawson Creek, B.C., and unlike most visitors had no trouble finding living accommodation. She has her own rent-free hut at the base and is well taken care of in the way of food and entertainment.

Her regular diet is a mixture of milk and eggs— three times a day—. Like most youngster's Sally is fond of in-between snacks, eats chocolate bars, drinks pop and likes ice cream. For entertainment, she's taken for car rides to parks around the city where she enjoys an afternoon climbing trees.

For recreation around the base Sally climbs her scratching pole, plays with an old football, or slaps the air station mongrel pup whenever he ventures near.

Her future, however, is not very definite. The airmen can't decide whether to send her back to Dawson Creek or present her to the Edmonton Zoo. The latter seems more likely, as the airmen here want her nearby to continue their friendship.

SHIP SCRAPPED

Cornwall, Ont. (CP) — The once proud S.S. Toronto, long a familiar sight on the St. Lawrence River, was sold for scrap at $42.50 a ton for the iron and steel in her hulk. Going into service in the early 1900s, she operated from Toronto to Prescott where she met the Rapids King and later the Rapid Prince which completed the Montreal voyage.

Pioneer of North Makes Last Call

Edmonton, (CP) — After 40 years of service an admired and respected pioneer this Fall will relinquish her place along the Mackenzie River to an energetic youth.

Even though she is ready to retire, the Hudson's Bay Company supply ship Distributor will be missed by settlers from Fort Smith to the Arctic Ocean who have listened to the welcome sound of her paddles and make-port whistle for the last 30 years.

Since 1914, the Distributor has been delivering supplies to isolated regions of the North West Territories. Previous to her service with the Hudson's Bay Company, she worked on the Fraser River in British Columbia during the construction of the railroads. When she lost her job to the railroads, the Distributor was hauled overland to Fort Smith and became the property of two northern traders.

During the last 30 years she has pushed barges totalling a weight of approximately 60,0 tons. She will be replaced by the sleek river boat, Pelic Rapids.

Working Girls Rest and Play At Posh Home

Manasquan, N. J., (AP) —The "Welcome mat" is out at a sumptuous mansion here for the working girl — the girl whose dreams of a restful vacation land usually are confined to advertisements in newspapers and magazines, the only part of the dream she can afford.

"Sunnyside Farm," comprised of 35 acres nestled in rolling countryside in Wall Township, is operated by the Switzer Foundation as a haven for working girls of modest means. Girls who need a rest make up the ever-changing family at the farm.

Founded by 2 immigrant sisters of Swiss descent who struggled through poverty to wealth as dressmakers in New York, the home is a monument to two women who knew the problems of the working girl. The sisters came to this country from Ireland, where their family had settled.

Sarah and Margaret Switzer, after serving their apprenticeship, soon were catering to wealthy New York matrons.

As they reached the peak of their financial success, Margaret died, leaving Sarah grief-stricken. Early in 1910, Sarah decided to invest part of her wealth in a home for "down-and-out" girls who had come to New York looking for fame and fortune.

The $150,000 Margaret and Sarah Switzer Foundation for Girls was opened on Dec. 11, 1911 on Christopher Street, New York. Lodging was 25 cents a night — and the girl who did not have the quarter was welcome anyway.

Post-War Development

As time went on, the lodging was expanded to include the teaching of dressmaking, sewing and other work to unskilled girls.

After the first World War and the changing cycle of economic life, when overwork rather than no work was the order of the day, some girl workers began to become nervous, some chronically ill and weak.

Sarah Switzer, who then had a summer home at Spring Lake, got the idea of a country home for girls, not a lodging house like that in New York, but a rest home. She never saw the foundation erected in the memory of herself and her sister, for she died several years before it was completed in 1923. She left a heavy endowment for the continuation of the work. And so the mansion on the Manasquan Shore replaced the old lodging house in New York.

Girls between 18 and 30 occupy the place — 50 at a time— and enjoy bathing, fishing, crabbing, tennis, boating, croquet and other entertainment. They are not permitted to leave the reservation during the stay.

Summer visits are restricted to two weeks, while in the winter, girls may stay a month or more. Due to increased costs, most vacationists now pay $15 a week, but those who haven't the money may pay nothing.

Any working girl from any part of the country is eligible to visit the foundation providing she has a certificate from a doctor showing she is free from communicable disease and needs a rest. Girls are referred to the Switzer Home through hospitals, social service agencies and medical departments of large corporations.

SHOWERED ON MONTY

Auckland, N.Z., (CP)—In the course of 16 days in New Zealand, Field-Marshal Viscount Montgomery collected such a range of gifts that he was unable to get all in his plane to take home.

Among them were: two tallboys in figured rimu, a writing desk in polished beech, an inland chess table and chessmen and an inlaid lamp stand for his new home in England, a travelling rug and woven New Zealand blankets, two suits of his favorite New Zealand battle dress, leather suitcases and handbags, three carved walking sticks, the fernleaf badge of the New Zealand Division that fought with him in the Eighth Army in gold, a life member's badge of the New Zealand Returned Services' Association and a ceremonial Maori cloak.

London, (CP) — Postmaster-General H. A. Marquand said that the decline in birthrate between the two wars resulted in 100,000 more boys and girls starting work in the fiscal year 1945-46 than in the years before the war.

Tomatoes Pay Dividends

When first introduced into Britain by Sir Walter Raleigh the tomato was prized for its beauty and nurtured carefully in the gardens of the nobles.

What a pleasant discovery it was when this queen of horticultural splendor was found to be edible and healthful as well as beautiful to look at.

This one fruit seemed to blend better with protein foods so it was usually served with the meat course, thus today tomatoes are often classed as vegetables rather than fruits.

People usually prefer fruits while they are fresh but tomatoes retain most of the natural raw flavor when canned.

From a health standpoint tomatoes rate high. Being one of our best Canadian sources of vitamin C, a glass of tomato juice, served as an appetizer or as the beverage with a salad or sandwich lunch, adds not only flavor but also vitamins and minerals.

Taking the average of many assays on tomato juice and tomatoes canned by the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, it is found that a five ounce glass of juice or 2-3 cup (five and a third ounces) of canned tomatoes, would provide approximately 1-3 of the daily requirements of ascorbic acid. So tomatoes pay dividends not only when served raw, but when served canned or as tomato juice.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, recommend home canning of tomatoes, which because of their acidity do not require such long processing times as other non-acid vegetables. Complete directions for canning tomatoes and tomato juice are covered in the bulletin "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables", which may be obtained free of charge from the Dominion Department of Agriculture of Ottawa.

STRIPPED BOUILLON

First Layer

1 cup chopped tomatoes
1-2 small onion, sliced
3 cloves
dash of thyme
1-4 teaspoon celery seed

Pour into large shallow pan which has been greased lightly or rinsed in cold water. Mixture should fill pan to a depth of one inch. Chill until set and add second layer.

Second Layer

Heat bouillon to boiling point. Add gelatine which has been soaked in cold water. Stir until thoroughly dissolved. Cool and pour over first layer. Chill until set.

To serve, cut in cubes or ribbons and garnish with cream which has been whipped and seasoned to taste with prepared horseradish and salt. Yield: six servings.

CUCUMBER CREOLE

2 large cucumbers (approx. 8-9 inches long)
1-4 cup mild-flavored fat
3 cups chopped fresh tomatoes or 2 cups canned tomatoes
2 green peppers (cut in thin strips)
salt and pepper to taste.

Wash and pare cucumbers. Cut in quarters lengthwise and remove seeds. Cut in fingers about 1/2"x3". Melt fat in pan and saute cucumber until browned. Remove to serving dish and keep warm.

Add tomatoes and green pepper to pan, cover and cook slowly 15 min. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Pour over hot cucumbers and serve. Yield: six servings.

Local Teen-Agers Featured in Issue Of Home Journal

The September issue of the Canadian Home Journal is of particular interest to residents of the city as two local teen-agers are featured in its pages.

The magazine, with its accent on youth, youth, and more youth, is crammed from cover to cover with things that the teen-agers like, wear, and do. Persons from all parts of the Dominion are included in the list of younger celebrities that dot the pages of the latest edition.

In high style, and representing the feminine pulchritude of the school crowd is Lois Martyn, last year's fashion councillor for the C. D. S. store in Belleville. She is seen wearing a leopard-patterned raincoat, and waving to a passerby from the steps of the Belleville Collegiate. Lois is one of several girls featured on a two page spread of fashion pictures.

Stanley Hagerman is the other local representative in the Journal. He is featured under the title "Hall of Talent" along with several other talented students from across the country. A thumbnail sketch of Stan's musical career is given, and the passage concludes with the words that his "music soon will bow to his present ambition to be a doctor."

AIKEN'S W.M.S.

Ladies of Aiken's W.M.S. met for their September meeting at the home of Mrs. Lee Grills with an attendance of eighteen members and one visitor, Mrs. Valice of Bermuda. The meeting opened with quiet music played by Mrs. Grills and the President, Mrs. E. Hubble, led in the worship service with the theme, "The Bible for my Life; Thy Word is a Lamp unto my feet and a Light unto my path. The Lord gave The Word and great was the company of those that published it.

The Dominion Board appeals to all W.M.S. members that they devote much time during the coming year to an earnest study of the Bible.

Two members, Mrs. S. Westover and Mrs. M. Jeffery offered prayers of thanksgiving for the English Bible and what it has meant to the people of Canada and an appeal that members dedicate more of their time to a personal study of the Bible.

The offering was received by a Mission Band member, Gordon Hamilton, and dedicated by the President.

As W.M.S. members have to prepare their own worship services for the coming months, Rev. Neelands gave a fifteen minute talk on ways and means of preparation for these services.

Mrs. S. Spafford had charge of the Study "The Bible for all the World."

Great was the company of those who labored to record the Word of God. Equally great have been the men and women who have preserved and translated the Bible from its first appearance to our present day.

Mrs. F. Moon told the story of the life of Wycliffe and Mrs. D. McPherson that of St. Jerome, two pioneer heroes of Study.

Mrs. Spafford told the story of the life of Tyndale with a quotation of his as a motto, which he gave to the priest of his day, 'If God spare my life, ere many years I will cause a boy that driveth the plow to know more of the Scriptures than thou doest.

A period of informal discussion followed on questions of the Study being answered by true or false statements. Hymns used were in keeping with the program.

Rev. Mr. Neelands closed this helpful meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Grills and her assistants served dainty refreshments.

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

The regular monthly meeting of the Mountain View Branch of the W.I. for September was held at the home of Mr. Alfred Poste, on Wednesday 3rd., with 18 members present. HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Akoolap Oxhead has just figured out another excuse for refusing to learn good bridge rules. "Those who follow good rules," he growls, "avoid me as a partner." Draw him a picture of it.

A player needs but little here below as an acceptable partner. The few good rules are easy to learn. With them and the brains of a grouse, almost any human with a smile can get by.

Follow the order of choice in T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump. If you takeout to a new suit, it forces for one round. With tricks enough for a game, jump and it forces until game is reached.

North opened with a spade with this hand:

♠Q J 10 2
♥A
♦A J 8 4
♣A [illegible] 3 2

South responded with a bid of two clubs. This response shows at least three tricks and a biddable club suit. What is the next bid by north? Follow T-A-N and see.

Here is powerful trump support for clubs. Should this support be shown now? Not if the hand also contains an unshown biddable suit or a rebiddable previously shown suit. A takeout comes first.

Rule says to takeout before assisting. So, takeout first to the biddable diamond suit. This does not decide the trump suit. So, 11 tricks must be seen before a jump is used. Bid two diamonds.

Is there fear that partner may not learn of the wonderful club support in this hand? Not unless he has made up his mind to ignore rule. A takeout to a new suit is forcing for one round.

Is it possible that you may not get a chance to give each other all your information? Indeed it is. But by then one of your pair will have had all the advices he needs to make the final decision.

Is it possible to withhold some information from partner without ill effect upon the final decision? Indeed it is. If you can guess when. Rules do not guess. It is better thus.

AT THE BELLE — That Ladd with the gun has a daring, adventurous time of it in his new Paramount mystery thriller, "Calcutta," due today at the Belle Theatre. Alan is co-starred in the film with Gail Russell and William Bendix. June Duprez is featured.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 6 —(AP)— Bob Hope says he's ready for television, "but is it ready for me?"

The comic was only jesting, but he was serious about the advent of the new entertainment medium.

"The other night," he related, "I was eating at a restaurant in Pasadena. I just happened to look in the bar and I saw everybody gazing at the ceiling with pleased looks on their faces. I thought it was a radio, but it turned out to be a television set.

"All those people were sitting there, drinking themselves silly and watching the wrestling matches. Brother, it made me realize television is the coming thing."

Robert said he had thought a little bit about the day he will have to make the transition from radio, but not very much.

"I don't think I'll have to worry. The radio comedians who will stay ahead in television are the ones who have had stage experience. They won't have to make much of a change." As for when that time will arrive, "who knows?" He added that the movies will never have to worry about television's cutting in on the same territory.

It was on the set of "A Double Life," and Ronald Colman was mellowing about his career. After all, he is pushing the quarter-century mark as a film star, having first thrilled audiences with Lillian Gish in "The White Sister," circa 1922.

"Well," said the impeccable Ronnie, "luck always plays an important part in any successful career, and I believe it is more important in the acting profession than most others. The other factor is the story.

"I have always read and re-read a script before agreeing to do a picture. In doing this, my first concern has been about the story as a whole, then my own part. If I liked both, then I would do the picture. No star can weather a series of bad films."

RADIO SPARKS "DOWN OR UP" HEMLINE FEUD

By E. M. CHANTLER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Let's return to feuds for there are two currently raging on Canadian air-waves which tickle this corner's nonsense centre.

The first one began when Miss Marilyn Sheedie, an office worker with a brisk way of speaking her mind, told Toronto's CJBC "What's Your Beef" program that she loathed long skirts — and what this country needs is a League for the Prevention of Long Skirts for Women.

Well, sir, if you think her interview went unheeded we'll wear crinoline-plus-bustle down Yonge Street any old day.

Four days after Miss Sheedie's blast, roving microphone reporter Don Sims and program producer Drew Grossan were flicking through 750 letters — and all but one favored shorter hemlines.

True, it hardly sounds like a serious feud. The L.P.L.S.W. now is launched, but the loyal-opposition-for-hiding-dimpled-knees has yet to be heard from. And in Toronto that might be a possibility. We'll keep our eyes peeled (pass the binoculars, please).

Second feud spot spans a continent and has as its main characters Doug Haskins, star of Vancouver's "On The Teen Beat," and Carl MacCaull, emcee of "Jive Hive," beamed from Halifax. One follows the other on Saturday afternoons.

Both carried on Dominion-wide CBC networks; the wacky wax hours have their junior-high audience in stitches.

Thousands of them scream in glee when the two platter men hurl brickbats at each other across five time zones. It's all darn clean fun and not at all corny. And it's good to hear kids chortle.

Recently we came across an item which adds to general knowledge of radio history in wartime.

The Czechs, an industrious and inventive people, early in the war found a remedy for German confiscation of all short-wave sets.

Some Prague radio genius, experimenting with a coil of wire, produced a simple 'adapter' which could bring in short-wave on medium-wave sets. The "adapter" was so simple even peasants began making them. It created one of the biggest radio audiences in the occupied countries.

The gadget, christened by resistance groups, today is known as the "Churchillka."

Suave-voiced Lister — noted author and playwright — uses "Mainly About Music" as a vehicle to offer serious and blunt music criticism. As a critic he is bold, as a commentator he pulls no punches but avoids highbrow.

He is the equivalent of musical commentators in Canadian, British and United States weekly journals — his program perhaps the first venture of its kind in broadcasting on this continent.

But caustic, witty Lister should rename it — "Nothing Sacred!"

In Manhattan

New York, Sept. 6 —(CP)— Their eyes on the curtain of His Majesty's Theatre, where their production of "Duet for Two Hands" is to have its North American premiere Wednesday, Sept. 24, Reginald Denham's players this week entered into heavy rehearsals.

Principals Francis L. Sullivan and Joyce Redman arrived from London Monday. Denham's directing, with Helene Pons in charge of costumes and Charles Elson doing the scenery—a castle on an Orkney Island, off the Scottish coast.

All who saw J. Arthur Rank's film version of Dickens' "Great Expectations" will recognize in Sullivan, who plays the male lead, the character actor who scored such a triumph as Pip's lawyer-friend, Mr. Jaggers.

Less well known in the country at large, though highly thought of in Manhattan, is Medd Redman, in New York last season with London's Old Vic Company (Sir Laurence Olivier).

"Duet" is to have a four-day run in Montreal, followed by a week at Boston's Wilbur Theatre. Its Broadway run begins Oct. 8.

Going Strong.

Director Felix Brentano, who produced Smetanas "The Bartered Bride" for the Toronto Conservatory of Music's opera school last April, now is working on a production of "The Chocolate Soldier."

Brentano is collaborating with choreographer George Balanchine in production, which will include 24 singers and 12 dancers. Actor Billy Gilbert is to play the lead. The company's road tour begins Sept. 19 at Reading, Pa.

And Successfully.

Composer - writer - producers Richard Rogers and Oscar Hammerstein rapidly are carving out a sizeable chunk of the musical entertainment business for themselves. Having written and produced two smash hits — "Oklahoma!" and "Carousel" — themselves, covering all angles, they have acquired all stage rights to Jerome Kern's "Show Boat," with plans completed to send it on tour in October.

Saves 7 From Death But He Can't Swim

Halifax, (CP)—Rescuing seven persons from drowning in one season is something of a record for Gerald Doyle, caretaker of the Jubilee Boat Club, especially because he can't swim.

Doyle expressed a bit of fatalism after his seventh rescue this Summer.

"One of these days," he said, "I'm going to fall into the water, and with me swimming like a stone it won't be long before someone else is doing the rescue work around here."

60 PUCK CHASERS LEAVING NORTH FOR OTHER TEAMS

Will Go to Leagues on Both Sides of the Atlantic to Leave North Short

Timmins, Sept. 6 (CP) —Folks up here in the Porcupine area say they're living in the "cradle of hockey," and the fact that a district with not more than 40,000 inhabitants is sending upwards of 60 puck chasers to leagues on both sides of the Atlantic would seem to lend weight to the claim.

With players going to Scotland the United States and the Pacific coast, this area is taking a beating the depletion of its hockey talent, due mainly to the long-posed activity of roaming pro club scouts and their local minions.

Puckchasers who have already left for Scotland include Nebby Thrasher, Leo Roger Donovan from Timmins; Jack Gacan and Don Deacon from South Porcupine and Joe Mitchell and Howard Williams from Dome Extension.

Among the Bufalo Bison party heading for the American Hockey League next week will be; Mose Lallo, Chick Cecchini, Ralph Orlando, Sammy Casanato and Albert Plouffe, all from Timmins, and John Kovach from Schumacher.

More prominently known and awaiting transportation to the following destinations are: Bas Bastien, Bep Guidolin, Pete Babando, Dutch Delmonte, Boston Bruins; Joe Levandowski, New York Rangers; Allan Stanley, Providence; Joe Innarelli, Nellie Boyce, Detroit.

Pacific coast players are George DeFelice, Roy McKay, George and Boyd Prentice, and Bill Kirkall for San Francisco. Pat Patrucci of Hollinger Seniors moves to Spokane.

Detroit Red Wings will have a look at Cecil Romaine, a juvenile goalkeeper at their Waterloo camp. Vic Meimi and Bill Walker of the Porcupine Combine Junior A team will have a try with Montreal Canadiens. Chich Guards goes to Hap Emms' Barrie Juniors.

Roy Mason of Guelph has kept the local mailmen busy delivering enticing offers to many of the Junior prospects around the camp.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Joe DiMaggio, Yankees: Started two-run Yankee spurt in ninth inning with single scoring Tommy Henrich to nreax Mickey Haefner's shutout. That was his only hit in four trips, later scoring on Bill Johnson's fly after George McQuinn's single.

Ted Williams, Red Sox: Hit his 28th homer in the ninth inning, his only hit, as batting average dropped to .336.

Lou Boudreau, Indians: Doubled and singled, scoring twice in Tribe's 6-1 romp over Chicago.

Johnny Mize, Giants: Hit his 45th homer with Buddy Kerr on base in the ninth inning, also walked and scored a run in the third ining and flied out three times.

(Stan Musial, Cardinals, did not play).

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By EDGAR SIMON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Sept. 6 — (CP)—You never can tell when it pays a ball player to take a glance at some of the finer print in the rule book.

Johnny Evers once won a pennant for his National League club and Fred Merkle won lasting ignominy because Johnny knew and Fred forgot that a base runner has to touch the bag he's heading for even after the winning run scores in the last of the ninth.

An alert catcher in an Owen Sound softball game couldn't salvage a losing ball game, but his knowledge of the rules started one of the weirdest triple plays of the season.

As Bill (Owen Sound Sun-Times) Dane tells it, it was the first inning of a game between North American Chair and the Harris Club in the senior league finals. The Chairmen had men on first and second with none out. The batter fanned and the catcher dropped the ball.

Both runners thought the batter had a chance to make first base, and they promptly headed for the next station. But catcher Carrie Lamson knew that with less than two out and first base occupied, a third strike automatically retires the batter, even if the ball winds up in the upper bleachers.

Lamson trapped a runner going back to second. The other man tried to get back to first. He never made it.

Of course the Chairmen won the game anyway, 12-9, by knocking the Harris pitcher's ears off, which takes the edge off Dane's moral. But he can always hark back to Evers.

Plenty of Seasoning

If Kitchener-Waterloo's new entry doesn't do well in the Ontario Hockey League's senior division this winter it won't be for lack of adequate training.

Dan (Kitchener Record) Odette says the club will start training with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League and Indianapolis Capitals of the American loop in early September—a full two months before the start of league play.

Response Wild Life to Solunar Times

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, author and creator of Solunar Tables)

Response to the urgings of a Solunar Period manifests itself variously among the living creatures on this earth. This variation, while it does impose upon us many difficulties in making accurate observations, serves also as a blessing in disguise as it eliminates the necessity of setting down a hard-and-fast schedule of activity periods. Perhaps, in view of the fact that the Solunar Tables are calculated in minutes, this paragraph could do with some explanation.

It must be remembered that many unrelated and uncontrollable factors affect the intensity of the Solunar Periods. Temperatures often will neutralize them completely. A drop in barometric readings will upset the schedule. Unfavorable water conditions will ruin the fishing, regardless of Solunar Periods.

But more often than not, the adverse qualities of the weather and so on affect the Solunar schedule only partially, so that the response to Solunar Periods is merely delayed and the degree of activity lessened somewhat.

On perfect days, activity on the part of wildlife is apt to begin well in advance of the scheduled period and to continue, unabated, until well beyond its normal closing time. By the same token, on days when conditions in general are not particularly favorable, response to Solunar Periods is apt to be delayed somewhat in evidencing itself and usually it lasts for a much shorter time. Thus, the times that are shown in the weekly Solunar Tables can best be regarded as averages. Most of the time, these same averages will come surprisingly close to the true schedule but now and then there is a decided variance.

And here's another thing—all living creatures react to the promptings of Solunar influence according to their particular order of development. The invertebrates—insects and Crustacia—seem to be first on the list. These respond early. The same is true of plants and flowers. Then come the larger insects and smaller fish, followed closely by the larger predatory fish and the birds. In this same class are the lessers animals, such as mice and chipmunks.

Next come the larger animals and, finally, human beings. Reptiles, being somewhat lethargic, are apt to show slow response to Solunar Periods about two hours earlier than do human beings.

It is an interesting experience, in case you have never tried it, to sit beside a quiet pool of a stream or on the shore of a lake, and watch a Solunar Period "come in". For this it is best to choose a windless day. Then any slight movement of the fish will stand out plainly on the mirror surface of the water.

• • •

One of the characteristics of the behavior of wildlife is the tendency toward profund inactivity during the hour or so immediately preceding the arrival of a Solunar Period. Along about the close of the extended "rest period", the outdoors is usually at its quietest. Take your position beside a river or a lake so that the sun is behind you, its rays coming over your shoulder. Then you can see down through the clear water, almost as though the water were not there. First watch the shallows. Apparently, this area is empty of all visible life. Then seemingly from no place, come schools of minnows to move about in the clear water near shore. The larvae of aquatic insects—the nymphs—put in their appearance, emerging from their hiding places and crawling about in plain view. Then, gradually, the glassy surface of the deeper water is broken by the dimples and rings of feeding fish.

Contrasted to the comparative quiet of an hour before, the air is now filled with birdsong and the trees are alive with birds, fluttering and flying about from place to place. A colony of swallows or martins skims about over the surface of the water and high aloft the predatory birds soar and volplane while their binocular vision scans the earth below. Beaver and muskrats come from their houses and take up the business of the day. In short, all nature comes to life.

For a while you are content to sit and enjoy the scene. At last, however—believe it or not—you will find yourself becoming restless. It is a difficult and, of necessity, a self-imposed task to sit quietly for two hours or more while a Solunar Period runs its entire course. While you may not think so, you are just as susceptible to the effects of a Solunar Period as is any fish, animal or bird under the scope of your observation.

Then, gradually but unmistakably, the degree of activity lessens. A glance at the shallows show you that the smaller creatures once more have taken cover. Activity in the deeper water lowers its pace. The birds grow less and less noisy. All nature seems to go back to sleep. As for you—the restless feeling has gone and once more you are content to sit quietly on the bank and take your ease.

There is no better way to acquaint yourself with the workings of the Solunar Theory than to sit beside a lake or a stream and to watch the age-old miracle of a Solunar Period "coming in" and, some two hours later, "going out" again. In case you happen to be one of those who don't take much stock in the whole idea of Solunar activity periods, give it a fair trial. Believe me, you will find yourself repaid many fold in days of better sport afield.

Oshawa to Meet Point Anne In Next Round

Oshawa, Ont., Sept. 6 —(CP)— Oshawa last night defeated Peterborough 20-2 in the O.A.S.A. Inter. "A" zone final. It was the third and deciding game of the series and as the score indicated, proved a parade of Peterborough errors.

The C.G.E. team made 14 errors and along with that their pitchers, Gordon and Parnell, gave up 15 hits, three of them homers, to virtually hand the game to Oshawa.

Wilf Lewis went all the way on the mound for Oshawa yielding three hits.

Peterborough started the scoring, by tallying their first run in the initial inning. A single by Quigley and a three-base error on the catch allowed him to come all the way home.

Oshawa weren't long in getting the lead, scoring two runs in the last of the first on Bob Dionne's homer with a man on base.

A smart double play by Oshawa ended any threat C.G.E. might have made in the second frame, and then Oshawa got the first of their big rallies, steaming in five runs in the last of the inning. Four came in on Brown's homer with the bases loaded. The other run scored on an error and groundout.

Legion added five more in the last of the third to make it 12-1 when Peterborough committed four errors and allowed two hits to account for all the damage.

Two innings of scoreless ball were played then as both teams seemed to tire a bit from running, one from chasing balls, the other from running around the bases.

Oshawa then broke out again with a six-run rally in the latter half of the sixth inning. Two doubles and three singles shoved the runners over the platter while three Peterborough errors didn't help their cause any. Legion tallied singletons in the seventh and eighth and then C.G.E. got their second run in their half of the eighth and that after the first of the scoreless ninth made the final score 20-2 for Oshawa.

Dunn's Tailors Of Oshawa Win From Petes 9-2

Oshawa, Sept. 6 —(CP)— Oshawa Dunn's Tailors defeated "Dit" Clappers' Trojans of Peterborough 9-2 here last night to sweep their O.A.S.A. Junior "A" first round playoff series in two straight games, on successive nights.

Paced by Bunny Mason who pitched nifty five-hit ball and allowed only two runs while striking out nine batters, the Oshawa team played sparkling defensive ball, with Jimmie Loreno shining at shortstop and Stark starring equally well at second.

Not only did Mason do his share with a splendid pitching chore but he clouted two home runs in the game, spraining his ankle slightly on the first trip around the bases and using a runner after that.

Peterborough got their first run in the 4th inning when Minnies was safe on an error, advanced on a passed ball and an infield out and scored when Doris beat out an infield hit.

In the sixth frame, Thompson drew a walk, only free ticket by Mason in the game and he scored on a hit by Minnies and an outfield drive by Cooper.

The homesters opened with a three-run rally, hitting the Peterborough hurler hard at the start, Stark and Loreno both getting triples and W. Mason a double.

April Star Wins $40,000 Stake At Westbury, N.Y.

(By The Canadian Press)

The miracle horse of the United States harness world, April Star, owned by R. L. Craign of Urbana, O.; won the $40,000 Roosevelt two-mile pace before 17,304 fans at Roosevelt Raceway, Westbury, N.Y., last night in 4:20, creating a world's record for pacers over a half mile track. He came from fifth place in a terrific drive. By winning, April Star accounted for the two major stakes of the year. At Hollywood Park this Spring he won the $50,000 Golden West pace, setting a world's record for pacers at 1 1-4 miles at 2.32.

Vancouver Burrards last night battled to an 18-7 inter-city Lacrosse League win over New Westminster Adanacs to lead the best-of-seven final two games to one. The series victor will represent British Columbia in the Dominion's Mann Cup finals. The winning goal was scored by Harry Buchanan. Leatherbarrow, Bill Anderson and Johnny Cavallin, each with three, sparked the winners.

Two Montreal boxers, Hubert Gagnier, Canadian featherweight champion, and Gus (Pell) Mell will oppose two Toronto fighters at Maple Leaf Gardens, Sept. 16, Maurice Foreman, Montreal fight manager, announced last night. Gagnier will oppose Pete Zaduk in a non-title overweight bout while Mell tangles with Katsumi Marioka.

Twenty policemen rushed to the rescue of judges at Quebec's Exhibition grounds racetrack yesterday when hundreds of angry spectators stormed their stand in protest against a decision in the second heat of the Amble Derby when judges gave the nod to Texas Hanover over Highland Fresco. The melee delayed racing an hour.

Crooner Bing Crosby and G. K. Verley of Vancouver finished up leaders in the semi-finals of the 18th Annual Totem Pole golf tournament at Jasper Park, Alta, Friday and will meet today in a 36-hole final for the championship. Bing made it the hard way by defeating the defending champ. Carl Haymond of Tacoma, Wash, in a contest that was not decided until the 17th.

A party of 77 young Canadian hockey players left Toronto by train last night for Montreal from where they will sail today for Scotland and posts in clubs of the Scottish Ice Hockey Association. The lads, and a previous party of 19 players, are all graduates of a hockey school opened in Canada by Claude Kewely, representative of the S.I.H.A.

A United States team of 15 golfers yesterday defeated a Canadian team at Toronto by 26 points to 19 to win the International Seniors' team golf championship and the Duke of Devonshire Cup. The match was played under the Nassau system of scoring points.

Rain soaked the courts at Forest Hills, N.Y., postponing till today first-round singles matches in the singles championships of the United States.

Australian Norman Von Nida, and two British entrants, Welshman Dai Rees and Reggie Whitcombe of England, were all tied for the lead in the Penfold Golf tournament at Stoke Poges with 270 yesterday—the lowest scoring in a British meet this season.

17-GAME HOME STAND OPENS FOR ST. LOUIS CARDS

Faced With Back-Breaking Task of Overcoming Seven-Game Dodger Lead

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

St. Louis settles down for a 17-game home stand today, faced with the back-breaking task of overcoming a seven-game Brooklyn lead in the National League. Unless the Cardinals better their Sportsman's Park record by several points and the Dodgers flop way below their season road mark, the defending champions' cause is hopeless.

Seven games behind Brooklyn with 24 to play, they wind up the home stay with Chicago before visiting Pittsburgh and Chicago in the final days of the season.

Continued Dodger play at their .541 road pace would clinch the flag in the west unless St. Louis boiled over to win virtually every game. As matters stand today, after Brooklyn's 7-6 nod over New York Giants yesterday afternoon, the Cardinals must figure in a clean sweep of next week's important series with the Brooks or call it quits.

Despite a three-run first inning at the expense of Rookie Larry Jansen, whose 10-game win streak was broken, the Dodgers had to come from behind to down the Giants. In the ninth, Bruce Edwards' double drove home two runs that barely sufficed when Johnny Mize unlimbered home run No. 45 with Buddy Kerr on base in the ninth.

Boston Braves took another bite out of Philadelphia Phillies, moving to within 2 1-2 games of second place behind the six-hit pitching of Lefty Warren Spahn who recorded his 17th win over Dutch Leonard 2-1. The Phils dropped into a last-place tie with the idle Pittsburgh Pirates.

Yankees Beaten

The four Western National League Clubs were not scheduled.

Washington Senators' pitching continued to bother the American League-leading New York Yankees who, with a 12-game lead, now need only any combination of 11 victories or Boston defeats to apply the clincher.

Mickey Haefner shut out the series-bound Yankees until the ninth and survived a two-run rally to earn a 3-2 victory, his ninth.

Philadelphia Athleics and Boston Red Sox did some feuding and fighting in Shibe Park before the Philadeipjhia Club picked up a 9-7 decision. Ted Williams, after walking away from the plate thinking he had struck out, hammered his 28th homer in the ninth and Dom Dimaggio rapped Phil Marchildon of Penetanguishene, Ont., for his sixth in the first inning but the A's made their eight hits count.

Ken Keltner's three-run homer off Joe Haynes enabled Al Gettel to win No. 1 0for Cleveland by a 6-1 margin over Chicago.

Detroit and St. Louis were not scheduled.

ATTENDANCE RECORD BROKEN

Toronto, Sept. 6 — (CP) —This year's Canadian National Exhibition, which ends today, already has set an all-time record for the two-week run. Yesterday's attendance of 141,000 boosted attendance to date to 2,128,000. Previous record for the entire two weeks was 2,039,000 in 1928.

70 PROSPECTS WILL BE OUT FOR MUSTANGS

Johnny Metras, Coach of Western University, Expects Another Championship

London, Ont., Sept. 6 (CP) — Seven of last year's regulars were graduated last year but Johnny Metras, head football coach at the University of Western Ontario, says he expects to have 70 prospects for the Mustangs intercollegiate football team when the whistle blows Monday for the first drill.

Mustangs have been champions of the Senior Intercollegiate Football Union for two straight years. Metras, who takes nothing for granted, will only say concerning this year's hopes that he "expects to have a contender."

Ready to answer the opening call are such potential backfield players as Bob and Don McFarlane, Jack Parry, George Curtis, Dick Farley, Bob Phibbs and Bob Krol. One gap to be filled will be centre, Doug Cook's old spot.

Despite the probable surplus, Metras said today he wants every Western lad with football ambitions to take out a suit. Colts, Western's intermediate team and last year's intermediate champion, will be completely rebuilt and at least 30 new men are expected to be chosen from this year's new material.

Starting Monday the Mustangs will hold drills twice daily until the university opens. Then they plan daily workouts.

Herb Ballantyne, quarterback of last season's championship Mustangs and a former captain, will handle the Colts this year. The senior club's captain will be George Curtis, former Hamilton star who has served with distinction the Mustang backfield.

Western will open the season here Sept. 27 with an exhibition game against Guelph's Ontario Agricultural College. Mustangs play the first intercollegiate game against University of Toronto in Toronto Oct. 11.

Slugger Hay of Campbellford Earns Split Decision Over Glen Dafoe in Legion Show

Bout Went Limit With Two Judges Leaning Toward the Northern Boy; Excellent Card Given Fans

"Slugger" Roy Hay of Campbellford reached into his boxing bag of tricks last night in the main bout of the Canadian Legion boxing show at the Exhibition Park and emerged with a popular decision win over Golden Gloves welter champion Glen Dafoe, Trenton.

The decision met with the approval of the fans, but Judge George Wallbridge stated after the fight that he definitely voted for Dafoe while the other two judges Ray and Bill Crawford made their marks in favor of the Campbellford fighter.

From the press corner it looked like Dafoe. The golden gloves winner of the Hiram Walker Trophy, carried the fight to his opponent for the main part of the bout and it was not until the late fourth and fifth rounds that Hay discovered that his uppercut was slowing up the golden gloves winner. Dafoe had a clear edge in the first three rounds with his roundhouse swinging attack. He landed several telling blows and with both boys favoring the two-fisted style, the main bout was the attraction of the evening.

A Real Good Card

The card was one of the best seen here in some time and lived up to the reputation for clean boxing that the Canadian Legion is building up here. There was not a dull moment with the exception of the bout between Gordon Fulton and Monk Baker, of the Regal Boxing Club, wherever that is. This was another of those beak-busting fiascos, with both boys throwing panty-waist punches and earning the justifiable derision of the crowd. The bout was declared no contest by Referee George Polmanter, who should have declared that decision in the first round.

Otherwise the show was good. In every bout the lads made a good showing. There was plenty of sustained action in all the go's with the customer critics voicing their approval after each fight.

In the first round of the main bout Slugger Hay tore into Dafoe with a smart two-handed attack. But Dafoe countered with his characteristic swinging open handed type of fighting and threw the challenger back on the ropes. It was an open fray with both boys not sparing the punches. Dafoe's crouching style with his overhead swings at the jaw and body earned him, at least, that is what this writer thought, the first three rounds.

Hay occasionally swung a vicious right uppercut that caught Dafoe flush on the jaw and slowed him up. Had Hay followed this advantage he might have knocked the gloves owner kicking.

Clapper Defeated

Johnny White, a tall blonde boxing bomber from Kingston defeated popular Carl Clapper in a rousing four-round semi-final bout. Clapper was outweighed out-reached and out hit by the clever Kingstonian. He fought with all he had but it was not enough and he went down to defeat that was far from disgrace. Clapper has plenty of ability and the intestinal fortitude that goes to make a good fighter. He will do.

Ray Lucas, another Golden Gloves winner, matched against Allan Mills, the boy he defeated in the tournament emerged with a draw after 3 rounds of strenuous fighting. It was a good bout and the decision was well received by the crowd.

Garn Goldfinch, Kingston, hung too many punches on the out-thrust jaw of Freddie Little of this village and won his bout going away. Goldfinch proved a capable boxer with plenty of power in his punches. He scored the only knockdown of the evening when Little took a five count in the second round.

One of the highlights of the show was the bout between Howard Dean and Bruce Polmanter, both of this city. The little fellows (they both weighed eighty pounds) stood toe to toe and slugged it out while the crowd voiced its approval. Dean wore a beautiful "shiner", a lovely black eye which he acquired while playing football. The two youngsters went at each other like a couple of wildcats and the resulting draw was popular.

Pinweights Popular

Another pair of pinweights were Herbie Gallivan, son of the well-known Pat Gallivan, Kingston, and Billy Mondeville, Belleville, put on an excellent show. The little chaps, weighing 90 pounds each flung all caution to the winds and forgetful of their seconds' advice stood on the line and pummelled each other with abandon. It was a fine opener for the card. The remaining bouts were good.

Canadian Legion officials announced that another card would be staged at the Park next Friday evening with some top-notch battlers of the province taking park.

Officials for the card were: — Judges, George Wallbridge, Ray Crawford, Bill Crawford; Announcer, Maurice Callaghan; Timer, Johnny Lloyd; Referees: Jerry Downes for the first five bouts, George Polmanter for the remaining three.

During the intermission period the lucky tickets for the Legion draw were selected by dainty little Miss Phyllis McCabe. Winners were: ticket No. 445, H. G. Turner, 68 Grier Street; Cliff Phillips, Pinnacle Street, ticket No. 452 and W. Marsh, Brighton, who held ticket No. 332.

The results:

TRENTON FLYERS DEFEAT NAPANEE IN CITY SERIES

Gibbardville Nine Eliminated From Playoffs When Flyers Win Deciding Game 6-5

Well it is R. C. A. F. and Bata in the City playdowns. The airmen cinched a playoff berth by virtue of their 6-5 victory over Napanee in Gibbard Park last evening.

The Flyers struck for their runs early, getting two in the first frame on singles by Holdershaw and Bridgeman and a double by Dunning. Napanee came back in their end of the inning and scored a lone counter on doubles by Vick and Gerow. Holdershaw pulled down a high throw from across the diamond for the second out that was a picture play, and it got a hand from the Napanee crowd.

In the fourth frame a base on balls, two singles and a double netted the Gibbardville crew three runs. Lead-off man Curry drew a pass and stole second. Brennan hit a solid single to left field and Curry scored. Hayes connected for a double and Brennan romped in. That was all for Titus, starting pitcher for the airforce, and Al Wade came in to relieve him.

Van Vlack singled to score Hayes and was cut down for the third out when he tried to steal second.

The Flyers, two runs down, rallied in the fifth for two more tallies. Bridgeman got on via an error and was promptly scored by Dunning's mighty triple to right field. Fitzpatrick came through with a single and Dunning scored to tie the game.

Napanee Goes to Front

With two away in the fifth, Murphy, Napanee centre fielder, got on base on a disputed play. The throw from across the field made Holdershaw stretch from the base. The play was close and the umpire thought that the runner was safe. Curry came to the plate and hit a long one into left field, that was a good single. A bad bounce got away from the left fielder and Curry took another base as Murphy scored to put the Napanee crew in front again.

The Flyers came back in their half of the sixth with another two runs that proved to be the clinchers. Robertson led off and was hit by the pitcher. He went out on a fielder's choice that saw Hovis get on first. Wade hit a single that advanced Hovis and both runners were moved up a base on a beautiful squeeze bunt by Haffey. Holdershaw's timely single scored both runners and the game was on ice.

One Double Play

The only double play of the game came in the second when Van Vlack hit a long fly to Marietta. Marietta whipped a perfect throw to second base that got Hayes who scrambled back a little too slowly.

In the seventh inning with Napanee trailing by one run and with 2 men on base and two out, Curry came to bat. He hit a high fly ball that was coming down near third base. Dunning moved over to take the ball as Hooper raced for the bag. Just as Dunning was about to field the fly Hooper crashed into and the ball went on its own way. The umpire promptly called Hooper out for interference to retire the side to the great dislike of the fans. It is the first time in quite a while that this old dodge has been used locally with no pretence whatever of concealing the move.

Hooper Goes Distance

Hooper, losing pitcher for the Napanee squad, went the distance, striking out three, walking two, and giving up eight hits for six runs. Titus, starting pitcher for the airforce went three and one third innings, striking out one, walking one, and giving up five hits for four runs, Wade, winning pitcher, relieved Titus in the fourth with a man out and for the remainder of the pastime limited the locals to four hits for one run, striking out three and walking none.

The Line Up

Airforce: Haffey cf; Holdershaw 1b; Bridgeman ss; Dunning 3b; Fitzpatrick 2b; Marietta rf; Robertson lf; Hovis c; Titus, relived by Wade in the fourth, p.

WORKERS SWARM IN

Simcoe, Sept. 6 — (CP)—More than 1,000 tobacco workers from the Southern United States have swarmed into this area to hely with the flue-cured tobacco harvest. But it was announced yesterday that more hands are needed, especially experienced tyers and curers.

TRAFFIC SETS RECORD

Fort Erie, Sept. 6 — (CP) — Traffic over the Peace Bridge between Buffalo and Fort Erie last month set a record.

Some 486,000 cars crossed, compared with the previous all-time high of 471,000 in July, 1930.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Is-My-Face-Red Department;—That Kingston sports reporter who quipped, right merrily, that the Point Anne Leafs, apart from Mallory and Boyle, would be "easy pickings" for the new defunct, deflated Locos Intermediate "A" champions of the Limestone City mushball loop. And in case the gentleman hasn't been around Kingston softball circles for any length of time, we might add that the 1947 edition of their city league champions was one of the weakest to strut its stuff in playdown circles for many a moon. And that is not detracting one iota from the Leafs ability.

So you want to catch the elusive bass? Well, if you have the yen, tackle, and the time, all you have to do is go down around Norway Maracle's beach south of Shannonville, park your carcass on the shore and toss out the line. Our operator from thataway informs us he caught a half-dozen beauties, the other night in exactly thirty minutes and the finny fellas weighed between 1 1-2 and 3 1-2 pounds each. So don't say you weren't warned. The bass are on the prod, and ready for the rod. You don't need a boat. Just a bransack to bring 'em home.

Oshawa and Peterborough Intermediate "A" squads are all tieed up on their first-round playdowns according to the Peterborough scrivener. Meanwhile the saucy Point Anne Leafs, conquerors of the once proud Kingston Locos are poised and waiting —and rarin' to go. The greatest feather in their mushball chapeau would be the elimination of either Oshawa or Peterborough, perennial enemies, now that the Limestone laddies have been relegated to the things that used to be.

Right now even as you read this, the cream of district golfers are winging their way over the Bay of Quinte Country Club course in quest of the championship of the Bay of Quinte Annual Amateur Tournament. According to reports received this morning the play is keen and close. A dinner will mark the end of the tournament at which prizes will be presented.

Jim Pareleau, Trenton Air Station gift to the weight-lifting phase of sport, repeated his victory of last year at the Canadian Weight - Lifting Championships held in Montreal recently, and for another year will wear the crown of the light-heavyweight division. The championships were held in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasia. Pareleau astounded the judges with his feats with the bars and established a new Canadian record in the "press". His mark was 235. Jim trains faithfully at Tommy Pedder's Studio here and is working out every day to fit himself for the World's championships scheduled for Philadelphia on Sept. 26 and 27.

Tommy Pedder is taking a keen interest in Pareleau and works out with him, besides giving him the benefit of his wide knowledge and experience gained when he wore the togs of a world's champion. The Pedder studio is well equipped not only for the weight-lifting fraternity but for all those who like to keep in physical condition. If you are bothered with abdominal inflation, soft muscles etc, drop around to Tommy's place and you'll be surprised at what he can do for you.

Organization of a Services Darts Association was completed last week and it looks as though the good old English "pub" game is going through growing pains. The game has proved very popular here especially in the messes of reserve army units, and veteran organizations club rooms. President of the new league is Sergeant Art Hobbs of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment while the secretary, (without pay) is yours truly.

• • •

At a primary get-together the other night, five organizations expressed their intention of entering one or more teams. These include the Canadian Legion; Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada; The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment; The 9th Regiment (AT) RCA, or the Argylls as they are familiarly known and the Trenton RCAF Station.

• • •

A special meeting is called for Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Church Street Armouries, home of the Hasty Pees and all organizations are requested to be present. The executive will be comprised of a member from each organization, and these are asked to be present. A schedule will be drawn up and other important business pertaining to the operation of the Association formulated.

The strong Napanee nine ousted Jack Carson's Latta crew from the Intermediate "B" playdowns the other night in two straight games. Napanee city league top flighters, have shown plenty of power during the season and appear to be good now that the chips are down. They should go a long way down that championship trail. The Gibbardville gang has a fine pitching staff with McTaggart and Hooper. Both are clever flingers capable of going the route against any squad of their calibre. The team has plenty of hitting power and we predict hat if they don't win the title hey will be up there in the front runners when the baubles are being handed out.

• • •

Oshawa's Intermediate "A" mushballers easily disposed of their Peterborough rivals the third game of their two-of-three series last night, dunking the Liftlock lads under the lopsided score of 20-2. Oshawa will meet the impatient Point Ane Leafs in the second round and what a series that should be. No dates set as yet.

The Ox Point Wings safari to Trenton tonight where they take on the Wooler crew in the second game of their third round Intermdiate "C" playdowns. Sedore's crew blanked the Stacey led gang 5-0 in their first meeting, scoring all runs in the first two innings. The game gets under way at the Trenton baseball park at 5.30 this evening.

• • •

Canadian Legion Sports Association earned another feather for their boxing camp with their first outdoor show at the Fair grounds entertaining card was offered for a good crowd. The beak-busting game goes well outside under the lights and the lads had no trouble picking out the oppostions schnozzles when the going got a bit heavy.

• • •

Glen Dafoe lost a decision to Slugger Roy Hay in the main bout after a brisk five-round set-to. The decision was a popular one with the fans, but in our opinion the boys should have had a draw at the least. Dafoe took the first three rounds comfortably, in our opinion, before Hay got to him with a right uppercut.

• • •

For consistent flurries of action, slugging it out in approved style, the pinweights caught our eye. Howard Dean sporting a lovely shiner and Bruce Polmanter slashed their way through three fast rounds with both ninety-pounders giving no quarter, or asking for any. The bout between Herbie Galleva and Billie Mondeville was also a crowd pleaser, with plenty of sustained action. Both bouts ended in draws.

• • •

Trenton Flyers, red hot from their win over the Batawa Shoemen the other night, and not only tacked a 6-5 defeat on Joe Killoran's crew but came home with the Belleville Baseball League semifinals series. Flyers meet Batawa for the loop title.

• • •

Coach Reinhardt switched his infield last night. He put Dunning, former first baseman over at the hot corner, and sent Holdershaw to first base. Bridgeman and Fitzjatrick played their old spots at short and second. The move appeared to work, but the boys had a battle on their hands before the home town gang said "uncle." It was a nip-and-tuck battle with both sides going into the lead before the game was over. Napanee held a 4-2 lead in the fifth but Flyers raced back into the picture with a pair to even matters. The next innings they scored two more with Napanee getting one and that was that. Dunning's powerful war club again played a major part in the Flyers win, the slim gent bashing a triple and a double.

DREAM FOILED THIEVES

Pittsburgh, Sept. 6 — (AP)— Fred Fournier, owner of a group of gasoline stations, said a dream saved him $1,700.

He dreamed his bulk gas plant in Rankin was robbed. Alarmed, he checked up, but found nothing missing. Just to be safe, however, he removed $1,700 in cash.

The next night the plant was entered — but the thieves didn't get a cent.

Quebec Fights Losing Battle for Wild Life

By ISAAK HUNTER
(Montreal Gazette)

Wild life in Quebec is fighting a losing battle all along the line. Even white-tailed deer which can hold their own almost anywhere when given reasonable protection are taking a beating. The tragedies of the heath-hen and the passenger-pigeon are being re-enacted in one of the most beautiful and naturally advantageous regions God created for wild life on this earth.

Our big game animals are the Caribou moose, deer and black bear. We still have an open season on caribou, but it is confined to Gaspe where these animals inhabit the inaccessible interior. We have no idea how many of them are there and we seldom hear of them being shot in the open season.

The complete elimination of the caribou as an animal to be hunted legally in this province awaits only a little more improvement in the highway transportation system to the Gaspe interior.

The calling of Quebec moose some September soon will be the swan song of that species insofar as hunting is concerned, for a long time — perhaps forever. Illegal slaughter of this great animal in recent years has been appalling. Lumber jobbers feed their shantymen with moose meet instead of beef; both Indian and white trappers kill moose for themselves and their dogs; bears and wolves take their toll of calves and weak individuals; 90 per cent of moose killed by hunters for years past have been called out at night during the mating season and illegally shot down at short range in the glare of jacklights, guides demand and receive fantastic sums to guarantee a moose, or perhaps a moose for every licence. This means a lot of moose are shot by the guides.

What is happening to the moose is also happening to the deer. About the best deer hunting in the province is along the borders of New Brunswick, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont where wild life receives better protection. Venison is a big factor in the menus of some lumber camps in the deer belt; jacklights are freely used and $25 or $30 will get you a deer in many localities from guides or farmers.

The ruffed grouse which we commonly call the partridge has been beaten down and down in recent years by the influence of the mysterious cycle which comes to effect them periodically. In Quebec they are becoming more and more scarce, but if you know how to whisper to in many of the clubs (particularly those with a political flavor), restaurants and hotels in our urban centres, you may have partridge brought to your table as pigeon, guinea fowl or what have you.

Ducks and geese, particularly the former are up against what is probably the gravest crisis in their history. But we had our spring shooting up and down the river as usual last April and May. And live decoys and night shooting before, during and after the season in the fall have been quite common.

How can such things be? Well, politics is involved, although you could probably count the real obstructionists on the fingers of your two hands. When an attempt is made to enforce the law against one of their constituents they cry:

"What the hell are you trying to do, make sure that I can never be elected in this constituency againg?"

A few of our legislators are aware of the dangers and also of the measures which must be taken to avert them. The majority are jealous of government spending on any project which does not particularly interest them, and the department of game and fisheries is strangled through lack of funds.

The biological division is woefully undermanned and under-financed and hardly a start has been made in the matter of statistics.

Our hatcheries are few in number and inadequate in capacity.

Spawning beds have been netted dynamited and limed in open territories, with canning outfits and smoke houses set up right beside lakes or streams. Up to a few years ago one heard of a couple of "sportsmen" taking 200 or 300 trout at one sitting. That sort of think couldn't last. It hasn't lasted, and the hell of it is that so many people are blind to the fact that practically all our wild life faces what probably is its most severe crisis of all time.

The Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations was formed last November in the hope of focussing public interest upon wild life conservation. It is the most serious attempt ever made to rally the public of this province to combat the extermination of bird, animal and piscatorial life that has been going on for decades on an ever-increasing scale, and which has now reached a crescendo.

In its first year the organization has had tough sledding. Its activities have been hampered by a lack of funds with which to carry on the essential work of propaganda.

The Federation, however, has turned its back upon anything in the way of government subsidy and is plugging doggedly ahead. Upon its development to effective strength depends in large measure the fate of Quebec wild life, for apparently the politicians will not act without a convincing show of strength.

TRUSTY LEFT TOO SOON

Ionia, Mich., Sept. 6 — (AP)— A 19-year-old trusty, serving a one to four year larceny term at the Michigan State Reformatory here, walked away Thursday just as prison officials were trying to open the door for him by means of parole.

Jacob Hoffman's absence was discovered by a guard seeking to inform him that preliminary steps had been taken to make him eligible for parole in November.

The Death of a Doll

By Hilda Lawrence

CHAPTER 6.

She put on her hat and coat and went to the bathroom, groping to the window in the dark. There she stopped. The window was open as she had left it, but it might as well have been barred. Rain fell steadily, striking the narrow, iron platform, rebounding from the glistening skeleton steps. She couldn't believe it, and put out her hand to touch the dripping rails. Her hand slipped as if she had touched grease. I'd break my neck, she said.

She retrieved her wet suitcase and went back to her room. Although her door was less than three yards away, she ran. By this time she was frantic, and she walked the floor until she was calm enough to plan again. The fire escape had been a bad idea in the first place. Dangerous. The main entrance was still hopeless; at 10:30 the lobby and the lounge would be occupied.

I'll go in the morning, she thought, as early as 6. I'll put the blue in my suitcase, and if anybody says anything I'll say I'm taking it to the cleaner's. They all saw me spill the tea. Then I'll go to Blackhan's for one day only, so if anybody checks on me I'll be there, and it'll look natural. As if I meant to come back here tomorrow night.

At 11 o'clock she was thirsty, so thirsty that thinking about the cold water in the bathroom was almost unbearable. Shining nickel taps, beaded with cold moisture. Was it safe to go out in the hall at 11? She wet her dry lips and figured her chances in the hall. She was in a blind alley, a dead end. Packrooms to the right, fire door to the left. Beyond the fire door, the stairs and elevator. If someone came down the hall on the other side of the door, would she hear the steps in time? Then, as she visualized the hall and saw the door, the bath, and the packrooms, she saw something else. The telephone. Black, shining, beautiful. The telephone!

There were millions of people at the other end of the telephone. The whole world was at the other end. Paris, London, New York, San Francisco, Chicago.

She gasped. Chicago! She threw a triumphant look about her. Chicago!

Miss Plummer's voice was sleepy, but she didn't sound surprised.

"Miss Plummer," she whispered, "Miss Plummer, this is Ruth Miller. I've got to make a very important call. It's long distance, Miss Plummer, but do I have to pay for it right away?"

Miss Plummer said the call could be charged, and there was a new interest in her voice. "Go right ahead, dear," she said.

"It's to a Mr. Norman Crawford, person to person, please. In Chicago. I don't know the number or the address, but he's very prominent in Chicago and I know you can find him. A Mr. Norman Crawford in Chicago, the one who used to know a Ruth Miller."

She leaned against the wall, one hand still on the door. Mr. Crawford would know what to do. He was the one who'd given her the money and told her to go away. He'd remember. He'd realize how bad it was.

She heard Mirs Plummer speak to the operator and then Miss Plummer said, "We're trying, dear, but it may take a little while." She pressed the receiver close to her ear and listened to the distant voices. Far away someone spoke a number. She let go of the door while she wrote the number on the telephone pad. It would be a good thing to have, she might need it again. She slipped the paper into her pocket and listened eagerly. Voices came and went, a voice that was New York, a voice that was Chicago. Behind them was a sound of humming. She called it singing, she called it a singing wire. It was like music.

That's interference on the line, she thought. It's got to stop or I won't be able to hear. I've got to hear. "Miss Plummer?" she said. "There's something on the line." Then she remembered how clear Miss Plummer's voice had been, even while the grinding sound went on.

That meant the sound was outside the telephone.

She fought paralysis and turned her head. The heavy fire door was opening slowly, inching open as she watched. Then it stopped.

She flung herself into her room and locked the door.

Moke and Poke sauntered to the section manager's desk and checked in. Ruth was behind her counter, dusting stock and making requisitions.

"Good morning, Mrs. Blackman," Moke said. "I see you spent the night in the store."

"Oh I felt like getting up early," Ruth said.

The day moved as slowly as the night. She scanned the faces of the shopping crowds and they were all strange. That was good. But at 4 o'clock she began to worry. Suppose Moke and Poke waited for her at the employes' door? What excuse could she give for not walking home? Suppose someone else was waiting too?

She closed her aching eyes. I'll try the doctor again, she decided. I'll put my pride in my pocket. I'll ask Mr. Benz for an early pass and tell him about seeing the doctor.

Mr. Benz was sympathetic. He told her he was glad she was doing something about her eyes. "You run right along," he said.

Down in the locker room she collected her coat, hat, and good umbrella. Better leave the work shoes and old umbrella. It would look more natural if Moke and Poke came to find her. She got her suitcase from the parcel room, checked out with the doorman, and climbed the stairs to the street.

There was only one pedestrian on the street a woman under a large umbrella, walking toward her. She started out, struggling with the suitcase and fighting the wind and rain. The woman ran into her and stopped to apologize.

"I'm so sorry—why, Ruth!"

It was Miss Brady.

"What are you doing out so early?" Miss Brady asked.

"I'm going to the doctor's, about my eyes. It's very important, so they let me off." She tried to move on.

"I'll go with you," Miss Brady said. "Silly to go alone when you can have company. Where is the doctor? Near here?"

"Yes, Miss Brady, he's quite near. I can go alone, I don't mind."

"I mind." Miss Brady looked at the suitcase. "What's that for?"

"I took my suit to the cleaner's," she said evenly. "My blue. I upset my tea, everybody saw me do it." A cab cruised by and she raised her hand. It wouldn't cost much for a block or two, she needn't go all the way. "Taxi, please! I'll see you later, Miss Brady." She opened the door and pushed her suitcase in. "Over to Sixth," she said.

Miss Brady got in with her.

"I think we'll skip the doctor," Miss Brady said. "This doesn't strike me as the right time for it. You didn't have an appointment, did you?"

She didn't answer. Be careful, she told herself; let her think anything she wants to. Don't give his address, you could be traced through that.

"No appointment," Miss Brady agreed. "So if he doesn't know you planned to come, you won't be missed." She gave the Hope House number to the driver, and leaned back. "That was quick thinking, that one about the doctor. Spur of the moment, or did you use it in the store to get away?"

"I don't know what you mean, Miss Brady."

"Well, we won't bother with that now." She locked Ruth's arm in hers.

The bell in the ceiling rang for dinner. This time she would eat. She used the stairs again, walking slowly, rearranging the hours ahead, dividing the night into minutes.

Miss Small said the dining room would close early because of the party. She could be out of there by 6:30, she figured. Talk to April, if April was around. Her wool dress under the costume...The shapeless costume that was going to save her life.

It was her only ally. Dozens of girls, all alike, all with identical faces; white sacks to cover telltale hair, thick white gloves to hide familiar hands. Rag dolls crowding and pushing, disguising their own voices, imitating each other. Out the front door, down the street, money pinned in her dress pocket.

She was the first girl in the dining room, and for some minutes she was alone. When her food came she ate quickly. The room was filling rapidly when she left. She walked upstairs and found April having milk toast on a tray.

"Mrs. Fister brought it up herself," April said. "She thinks I'm well enough to come back here. I was awfully sick but she says I can go to the party if I sleep first. So I'm going to sleep." She put the tray on the floor and got under the covers. "Wake me up when it's time to dress, will you, Ruthie?"

At 7:30 she woke April. April was noisy with excitement, clowning like a little monkey; she tried on Ruth's mask and her own. "Now I look like everybody else," she boasted.

They rode down together in the crowded elevator, with four other dolls who posed and postured silently and threatened to fall.

OUTPOST CARETAKER "CRUSOE" 15 YEARS

Victoria, (CP)—T. M. Tapp, who 15 years ago took the post of caretaker of an abandoned pulp and paper mill at Swanson Bay, Tula Island, midway between here and Prince Rupert, has not left the lonely island outpost since.

Capt. E. M. Sheppard, skipper of the steamship Catala, said Tapp, a former high school teacher, spends a good deal of his time on the trapline. Cougars, bears and wolves are plentiful on the island. On his last trip Tapp's wife and six children were brought out to civilization so that the children could attend school.

Bancroft

North Hastings High School Being Constructed in Bancroft

Bancroft, Sept. 5 — (Special)— For many years the secondary school unit in North Hastings was the Bancroft Continuation School. This school rendered a very valuable service during its time but conditions were changing so rapidly and to such an extent that it became necessary to make further provisions for secondary education. From 1941, the population of the Bancroft Public School increased to almost 300 pupils. These pupils were housed in seven rooms, which meant considerable overcrowding. This condition was bound to result in a certain degree of inefficiency in the Public School itself.

At the same time, the two rooms in the Public School which were devoted to secondary education were being seriously overcrowded, even to the point where several students had to be turned away, merely on the grounds that they resided outside the corporation boundaries. It was at this time that the Bancroft Public School Board decided to take some action whereby this overcrowding might be overcome and more efficient facilities might be provided. It was then proposed that a new high school be built in Bancroft to accommodate high school pupils only and to provide complete Senior Matriculation courses.

Established as District

Bancroft, by County Council by-law, was established as an Urban High School District and high school board was duly appointed for the purpose of carrying out this new program. In February 1945 a delegation from the High School Board, accompanied by Inspector H. H. Loucks, visited the Department of Education in Toronto for the purpose of securing Departmental approval to this project. During this meeting at the Department, it was pointed out that, although Bancroft might have a new high school, no provision would yet be available to all those students from the rural districts, who might desire to proceed to high school. It was then suggested that an attempt be made to create a large rural high school area to include eight rural municipalities and the urban municipality of Bancroft.

Reeves Assembled

Shortly after the delegation returned from Toronto, the reeves of the northern municipalities were assembled in Bancroft and received a detailed outline of the proposed plan so that they could make clear to their respective councils its full importance. Following this meeting, Inspector Loucks met each individual council, with the result that all the municipalities unanimously passed by-laws requesting the Council of the County of Hastings to dissolve the former Bancroft high school district and to include them in a larger North Hastings High School District, in which each municipality would have a high school trustee. As it now stands, the North Hastings High School District consists of the municipalities of Bangor-Wicklow-McClure, Carlow, Dungannon, Faraday, Limerick, Mayo, Monteagle-Herschel, Wollaston and the urban municipality of Bancroft.

Take Office in 1947

The new high school district Board took office on January 1st, 1947 and continued to carry on negotiations with the architects, Abra, Balharries & Shore, with a view to provide accommodation for all prospective students within the boundaries of the district. The final result was that the Department of Education gave approval to the construction of a 360 pupil high school to be centrally located within the district and, as Bancroft is the geographic centre, it was decided that this large school unit be built here. The new school will offer to the young people of North Hastings a complete Senior Matriculation course, a four-year course in Agriculture, Home Economics, Shop Work, Music, Commercial Course and complete facilities for Physical Education and audio-visual education. The school will also be equipped with a cafeteria large enough to accommodate 100 students. A full-sized regulation gymnasium-auditorium will be provided, capable of seating over 500 persons. There will be modern toilet facilities, including hot and cold showers in the gymnasium. A complete system of ventilated lockers will be available.

Modern Design

The entire building is of modern design and fire-proof construction being constructed of concrete, brick and steel. The building contract was finally signed in the spring of 1947 with the Sullivan Construction Company of Arnprior, who began immediately and who are hoping to have the building completed by January 1st, 1948. To make this modern educational unit accessible, a very broad system of transportation has been adopted. Unfortunately, there are a few students who live beyond easy reach of the school buses and to overcome this difficulty, the high school board have made special provisions for such cases. In September, 1946, the school opened with an enrollment of over 180 and in September the opening enrollment was approximately 210. The members of the board, the staff and the high school itself, and Inspector Loucks are most appreciative of the co-operation and interest exhibited by the students and parents of the high school district.

It is most gratifying to know that students and parents alike are putting forth some considerable effort to take advantage of the increased educational facilities now at hand within their district. At this particular time it is quite likely that there are several students who have passed the entrance during this past summer who have not yet enrolled in high school, due to the fact that they cannot reach the bus lines.

They would be well advised to contact either their local high school trustee or Inspector Loucks who will assist them in making arrangements whereby they can proceed to attend school. The new school is to be staffed by nine teachers under the principalship of Mr. W. R. Robinson.

Mr. Laird English is spending a few days in Toronto attending the Exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Elliott have returned to their home at Niagara Falls N.Y., after holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Elliott.

The condition of Mrs. Walter Harrison who suffered a stroke a week ago remains unimproved.

LEGISLATURE OPENS OCT. 22

Toronto, Sept. 5 —(CP)— The Ontario Legislature will probably meet Wednesday, Oct. 22, to resume its adjourned session which was not completed last spring. This was announced today by Hon. D. R. Michener, provincial secretary, who said that previously it had been expected the adjourned session would open Oct. 9. But the fixing of the Thanksgiving Day holiday and some other arrangements made it necessary to postpone the date.

What Savings Plan Are You Using?

A small sum of money, readilyavailable, will meet a minor financial emergency .. but savings of this sort, because of their availability, never grow large enough to meet a major financial crisis. Nor do they offer a guarantee that, in case of death, your dependents will be left the amount of money you intended to save. .. Life insurance savings are available in emergency but are protected from "spend-thrift" impulses. Insurance guarantees financial security for your dependents and is the soundest, surest way of saving for your own later years.

WASHINGTON ANTI-NEGRO BAN FOUGHT

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington (CP) —In this national capital of a great and proud democracy where all men are born equal, the lone legitimate theatre may disappear because of its ban against Negro patrons.

The National Theatre, historic playhouse which for years has been the only place in Washington where stage shows appear regularly refuses to admit Negroes.

Liberal-minded members of the Actors' Equity are seeking contractual provisions which will forbid all members appearing at the National after next June 1 unless the ban is lifted.

The theatre management declares it will not lift the ban unless forced to do so by a general city law applicable to all similar activities. If unable to get plays as a result of the Equity action the management says the National will be turned into a motion picture theatre.

City and suburban population of Washington is about 1,500,000 and about a quarter of the city population is Negro.

In this federal district there can be no actual racial discrimination by law but there is plenty in practice. It has caused comparatively little trouble because the Negroes generally avoid going where they are not wanted.

They live in communities, have their own movies, barber shops, night clubs, stores, hotels and restaurants. They patronize the larger stores and the moving picture theatres without trouble but are not welcome in, and seldom attempt to enter, the larger hotels and restaurants.

Love The Stage

But the Negro desire for stage entertainment is lively as that of the whites and possibly more so, and it has long been a sore point that they cannot get into the National.

For long periods shows at the National have been picketed by Negroes carrying placards protesting the policy of the theatre. A number of prominent stage stars have protested against this bias and announced their reluctance to appear at the National but have been able to do nothing further because of their contracts.

Now their organization is trying to force the issue and the situation is a little embarrassing to official Washington that the stage fraternity has to intercede to gain fair treatment of American citizens in the national the evidence of anti-Negro feeling is evident. Busses running into the capital from Virginia, just across the Potomac, have signs relegating Negroes to certain seats.

In both Maryland and Virginia (which together encircle the district) these evidences exist in the shape of signs and segregated public toilets and washrooms.

This is only a tiny segment of the nation-wide tragedy of racial discrimination involving 13,000,000 of the nation's population but it is an important one to the theatre lovers of Washington and may result in the establishment of a new theatre operated by liberal-minded people who will open their doors to all races.

All around the federal district capital.

AMERICAN RABBI, TWO OTHERS HELD IN PARIS

100 RIOTERS IN DELHI SHOT BY MILITARY, REPORT

Toll of Moslems Hindus, and Sikhs Seen Increasing

Looters Continue to Sack Homes and Shops in Capital

New Delhi, Sept. 8 —(CP)— The rattle of police gunfire echoed through the streets of this riot-scarred capital today as the death toll among continuously clashing bands of Sikhs, Hindus and Moslems continued to mount far above yesterday's total of 21.

One police official said he had a report that the military killed more than 100 rioters in old Delhi when, under government order to crush the riots, they opened fire with Tommy guns, automatic rifles and Sten guns.

A pall of smoke hung over sections of the new city where roving mobs had fired buildings, while in other areas the military had its hands full running down rioters and knife-wielding looters who continued to sack homes and shops.

Reporters touring the twin cities could find no central authority for checking the death toll. One military officer explained "our job right now is to keep people alive, not worry about counting the dead."

Scattered firing has been going on incessantly since early morning and on several occasions the sound of grenades was identified.

One reporter touring the old city saw six slashed bodies lying at a main intersection of the business section, while crowds of people sat apathetically on sidewalks, making no attempt to remove the dead.

Meanwhile dreaded cholera struck in the partitioned Punjab where thousands of fleeing refugees are treking across the hot, dry plains to escape the religious war which has brought death to an estimated 200,000 in the last three weeks.

Disease Hit Masses

In a dispatch from Lahore, Reuters News Agency said the disease hit a mass exodus of refugees already weakened by exposure, undernourishment and exhaustion. Barbed wire enclosures under police guard were hurriedly set up at the border town of Kasur, 40 miles southeast of Lahore, as a preventative measure for Moslem refugees arriving from the east Punjab who will be quarantined until inoculated.

Barriers also have been erected along the road from Lahore to Kasur and authorities in all districts where the refugees passed were warned.

Word of the outbreak came while the west Punjab government (Pakistan) considered plans for the greatest trek in centuries — a mass evacuation of all Moslems willing to leave the East Punjab (India) with their cattle and goods, in a single great caravan under a guard of Moslem troops.

Might Include 500,000

The caravan would start from the Ludhiana district, 30 miles south of Jullunder, gathering tributary columns as it moved westward. By the time it reached the Pakistan borders in about a fortnight, it might include 500,000 Moslems, a West Punjab spokesman said last night.

The tragedy of the Punjab has left countless dead unburied, thousands of acres of the 105,000 square-mile wheat-producing northwestern India province unharvested, and a general collapse of industry and trade in the districts where the scorched earth policy of retaliating Hindus, Sikhs and Moslems have run rampant.

Steps Prove Futile

Steps to end the slaughter, which has resulted in 2,000,000 Indian displaced persons, have been futile. The Pakistan and Indian government have sent armed forces to quell the violence; some of the troops have been swept into the frenzy of religious terrorism.

The Indian cabinet-committee met twice Sunday in New Delhi to consider strict new measures to stop the Punjab strike. It was reported that on-the-spot execution of Indians caught killing, looting or burning was considered.

Between 40 and 50 shops were looted as communal strife spread for the first time into modern New Delhi's business section only a mile from the residence of Viscount Mountbatten, Governor-General of India.

An official communique said nine persons were killed by police gunfire during the Hindu-Sikh looting raid on Connaught Circus —the business section—while 12 others were slain in stray stabbings and assault. About 300 looter were arrested.

Doon Campbell, Reuters Correspondent, during a tour of the troubled Delhi area, wrote of seeing a human body being consumed on a bonfire; Horse-drawn carriages ablaze in the middle of the main road; a 16-year-old Moslem lying in a police station with a smashed skull beside three other corpses.

Helicopters Tested For Fire Rangers By Forests Dept.

Toronto, Sept. 8 —(CP)— Helicopters are being tested by the Provincial Department of Lands and Forests as a means of transportation for fire rangers, foresters and their equipment, the department said today.

Commenting on a Port Arthur report that a helicopter left that city Friday on an experimental survey of Thunder Bay forests, a department spokesman said: "It's just another form of transportation that we are trying. It will take some time to determine just how effective it is compared to other modes of transportation such as airplanes and canoes, but it will be thoroughly tested in every form of forestry work."

REJECT PLAN TO END YORKSHIRE STRIKE

London, Sept. 8 — (CP) — A new government plan to end the Yorkshire coal strike of nearly 70,000 miners, a severe blow to Britain's economic recovery hopes was rejected yesterday by 500 miners at the Grimethorpe pit where the walkout started a month ago. They refused a request they go back to work and cut two extra feet of coal daily, as ordered by the National Coal Board, while a committee investigated their complaints that the extra "stint was unnecessary."

Spread of Strike in U.K. Mines Reverses Back-to-Work Move

Barnsley, England, Sept. 8 (AP) —The strike in Britain's nationalized coal mines spread from southern to western Yorkshire today, reversing a partial back-to-work movement which had given rise to hopes for a settlement.

Two thousand miners at Prince of Wales colliery, Pontefract, began a sympathy walkout at the start of the afternoon shift. The colliery, the first in west Yorkshire to be affected, has a weekly production target of 11,000 tons.

A total of 43,000 mine workers were idle today. At least 25 south Yorkshire mines were shut down and 18 others were working with reduced manpower, although men from 18 pits had joined the back-to-work movement after meeting with government and union officials yesterday.

At Grimethorpe colliery, origin of the strike, 2,500 miners began their fifth week of strike today. At the peak of the walkout last week a total of 60,000 men participated in the stoppage

Rejecting appeals from Agriculture Minister Tom Williams and union leaders, the Grimethrope strikers voted yesterday to continue the walkout which began as a protest to recommendations of a joint union-coal board committee calling on them to mine an additional two feet of coal face each shift.

Threatens Industrial Paralysis

Unofficial estimates said that at least 35,000 miners still were on strike and that the resulting shortage threatened unemployment for at least 50,000 workers in the Yorkshire steel, woolen, brick and allied industries.

Supplies of gas, manufactured from coal, already have been cut to seven hours a day in one Yorkshire area. The cuts affect 100,000 people.

Already the strike has cost 250,000 tons of coal, including 76,000 from the Grimethorpe pit alone. Another 1,000,000 tons was lost through the Yorkshire miners' holiday periods.

The Press Association reported several Sheffield steel firms reducing output because of diminishing coal stocks. In the heavy woolen textile mills, iron and metal foundries, engineering works and brick kilns in the west riding area officials reported less than five days supply of coal on hand.

U.N. PALESTINE COMMITTEE ASKS HELP FOR JEWS

Claims Aid if Given To Distressed Jews In Europe Would Ease Holy Land Problem

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

Lake Success, Sept. 8 —(AP)— The United Nations Palestine Committee declared unanimously today that immediate help for 250,000 distressed European Jews would ease considerably the problem of the Holy Land.

The committee called on the U. N. Assembly to do something for the Jews in the European assembly centres as a "vital prerequisite to the settlement of the difficult conditions in Palestine."

The full report of the Palestine committee was made public a week after the summary and recommendations were released in Geneva and Lake Success.

A committee majority of seven countries including Canada recommended partition of Palestine into Jewish and Arab states tied up in an economic union, creation of the autonomous city of Jerusalem under U. N. trusteeship, and admission of 150,000 Jewish immigrants into Palestine in a two-year transitional period.

A committee minority of three states came out for a joint Arab-Jewish state under a federal government and immigration of Jews up to the country's absorptive capacity. The 11th member, Australia, did not support either plan.

The committee formally recommended that the assembly "undertake immediately the initiation and execution of an international arrangement whereby the problem of the distressed European Jews, of whom approximately 250,000 are in assembly centres, will be dealt with as a matter of extreme urgency for the alleviation of their plight and of the Palestine problem.

"It cannot be doubted that any action which would ease the plight of the distressed Jews in Europe would thereby lessen the pressure of the Palestinian immigration problem and consequently create a better climate in which to carry out a final solution of the question of Palestine."

CAPTURED BY MOTOR BOAT

Lindsay, Ont., Sept. 8 — (CP)— Alleged to have stolen $200 from a cottage at nearby Sturgeon Lake, Thomas Beardwood, 21, and his brother, Stanley 35, both of Toronto, were arrested yesterday after a chase by three motorboats.

Police allege Thomas Beardwood swam from the shore near the cottage to a rowboat in which another man whom they claim was Stanley Beardwood was waiting. Cottagers and a policeman in motorboats captured them after a mile-long chase.

Prime Minister Warns Canadians to Avoid 'New, Untried Political Groups'

Waterloo, Sept. 8 —(CP)— Visiting the scenes of his birthplace for the first time in about a decade, Prime Minister Mackenzie King today stressed the importance of the individual in world affairs and warned Canadians to avoid any "new and untried" political system.

The Prime Minister's address was prepared for delivery over a CBC national network and to the annual field day of the Waterloo County Federation of Agriculture. During a two-day visit which began today, Mr. King attended various civic functions in the constituency he first represented in parliament, and planned tomorrow to visit his birthplace at "Woodside."

"It is not of what governments can do that I wish to speak," he said. "It is of what you and I can do. I want you to see what the influences are that really count as we seek to help save the world from another war, and to make peace an enduring possession of mankind.

". . . Wars do not originate because men and women want to kill and be killed. Wars come about because some evil thought, some false idea, some suspicion or hate, cast into the mind of a people is allowed to spread its influence in ever-widening circles.

Individual Can Do Much.

"When the impression thus created is deep enough, and the range of its influence has become wide enough, acts of hatred and violence burst forth which, sooner or later, usher in war. One has only to look at the lives of some of the dictators of our own day to see how enmities and hatreds early engendered have helped to breed the most terrible of wars."

To counteract this, the individual could do much.

"A good thought, a true idea, cast into the pool of world opinion is as certain as an evil thought or a false idea to have its influence from centre to circumference. At the least, it will neutralize the power of some evil influence; if strong enough, it will overpower the evil influence and continue to spread.

"A kindly approach, an attitude of friendship and good-will cultivated by men and women in the relationships of everyday life, will soon make themselves felt among nations as well as among individuals.

In 73rd Year.

The Prime Minister, who said he found it hard to realize he was in his 73rd year and felt "young in heart," said Canada had largely solved the problems of how peoples of different races might live together in harmony.

He warned Canadians to "beware of change just for the sake of change." It was generally conceded that there was no happier or more prosperous nation than Canada.

"Why then indeed should we seek any 'ism,' new or old? Is not our way . . . of life, based as it is on freedom, on initiative, on opportunity, on tolerance, on co-operation and on good-will, deserving of a further trial before we risk our happiness and prosperity by taking on something that is new and untried?"

ROUGHER PHASE IN U.S. RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA SEEN

Foremost Development Will be Question of Temporary Aid Fund for Europe

(By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)— Diplomatic officials predicted today that American relations with Russia are likely to enter a new and rougher phase at the United Nations General Assembly session opening in New York next week.

A whole series of dramatic diplomatic developments heightening Russo-American differences and bearing vitally upon related problems of the European economic crisis are in prospect before and after State Secretary Marshall leads the American delegation to the assembly meeting.

Foremost among these will be the Truman administration's decision on whether to call a special session of Congress to consider a temporary aid fund for Europe. This would be an advance against the billions which the administration hopes Congress will provide early next year for the long-term Marshall recovery program.

While it has not been emphasized in recent state department pronouncements on the subject, one of the main considerations in official thinking on the European situation is this: If the United States does not take some measures to help hard-pressed European countries exist until the Marshall plan can become effective, Russia will take advantage of the resulting political and social upheavals to push Communism aggresively in western Europe.

Thus the intense rivalry between the two great powers is one of the chief elements figuring in the locked-door conferences now under way. And it may become more starkly apparent in other events not directly related to the question of a special session.

To Boost Ruhr Coal Production

Within the next three days, diplomatic officials predict, the United States and Britain will formally announce a plan to boost coal production in Germany's Ruhr mines as a means of promoting both European recovery and German economic revival.

In the broader political picture, the coal agreement will simply provide one more example of the

WEEK OF DESTINY FACED BY ATTLEE, CRIPPS HAS PLAN

Two of Series of Talks Will be of Extreme Interest to Canada

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 8. (CP)—Prime Minister Attlee, facing what the British Press called "Britain's Week of Destiny," returned to Downing Street today to resume the reins of government and approve final details of a revolutionary export-boosting plan proposed by Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade.

During the potentially history-making next five days, London for many officials will be a multi-ringed circus of national and internatoinal discussion aimed at breaking the dollar difficulties.

The line-up:

Monday: Attlee, back from a holiday in Wales, takes over from Herbert Morrison, who has been Acting Prime Minister, and discusses the latest crisis developments with Senior Cabine tmembers.

Finance Minister Douglas Abbott of Canada, and Treasury Secretary Snyder of the United States will arrive in Southampton aboard the Liner Queen Elizabeth to attend the annual meeting of the International Bank and Monetary Fund here.

WEEK OF DESTINY—Page 4

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Sept. 8 — (CP)—Synopsis: Except for patches of cloudiness along the lower lakes, skies are clear throughout Ontario this morning as fresh cooler air covers all but the Lake Erie region. This cooler, less humid air, is still pushing slowly southward and is expected to spread over all districts by afternoon. A storm centered over North Dakota is causing widespread thunderstorm activity over the prairie provinces. This disturbance will move north eastward, and will bring gale winds to Lake Superior and scattered thundershowers to the Western White River region this evening. Strengthening winds and increased cloudiness will prevail over all regions on Tuesday.

BRITISH BODILY DRAG RESISTING JEWS FROM SHIPS

Loaded on Trains And Taken to Poppendorf Displaced Persons Camp at Luebeck

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Hamburg, Sept. 8 (AP) —British soldiers swinging truncheons bodily dragged Jewish refugees of the Exodus 1947 from a British transport today and loaded them on trains which carried them to the Poppendorf displaced persons camp near Luebeck.

The first train reached Poppendorf late, after being stopped en route, a British officials said, because the refugees had torn iron bars from the Windows apparently as use as weapons. Armored cars were standing by at Poppendorf but the refugees refused to leave the train.

Some of the 1,400 refugees aboard the Ocean Vigour, the first of three British transports to discharge its passengers, left the ship peaceably, but others were dumped forcibly on the Hamburg dock.

All were loaded immediately on trains for Poppendorf and as the first train departed many called through the barred windows: "We will take up the trek again to Palestine — we will not stay in the camps."

Two other transports are waiting to disembark the remainder of the 4,400 refugees, who have been on board ship 59 days since leaving France in a futile attempt to enter Palestine.

The disembarkation began peaceably at dawn, with the first refugees streaming down the gangplank in orderly fashion. In mid-morning, however, resistance started and soldiers began cracking heads with clubs. Struggling Jews were carried off and dumped on the dock where other soldiers carried them to the trains.

Four are Injured In Street Fracas

Simcoe, Sept. 8 —(CP)— Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kindy of Simcoe suffered broken noses and two others were injured when involved in a street fracas with four Indians here Saturday night. Alex Lloy required 16 stitches for head cuts and Floyd Walsh was treated for a bruised forehead and torn ear.

Those injured said they were sitting on a verandah when two of the Indians approached on the street using foul language. One of the men on the verandah shouted "Please pipe down, there are women here," and the fracas followed. One of the Indians was alleged to have caused most of the injuries using a flashlight as a tomahawk.

Suspected of Being Stern Sympathizers Waging Nerve War

Leaflet "Bombs" Readied To Be Dropped Over Britain

By REMBERT JAMES

Paris, Sept. 8 (AP) —Security Police turned over to the public prosecutor today their dossiers involving an American, Rabbi and two other persons in what detectives said was a plot to drop 10,000 Jewish propaganda leaflet "bombs" from an airplane in London.

The rabbi — Baruch Korff, 33, co-chairman of the American political action committee for Palestine — was seized at pistol point Saturday night as he walked toward a private plane at the Toussus Le Noble airport near Versailles. Investigators said the plane was to be used to drop the leaflets over London.

Also arrested at the airport were Reginald ilbert, 24, a former United States army flier, and Judith Rosenberger, 23, a red-haired Hungarian-born secretary. The three, scheduled to appear before an examining magistrate Thursday, are held at present without charges.

The security police released one of ten other persons they seized for questioning yesterday in a round-up of persons suspected of membership in the Stern gang, an underground Jewish group active in Palestine.

Find List of Members

Police said in the room of one of the group they found materials that could have been used to manufacture explosives, and also a list of Paris members of the Stern gang.

Among those questioned, officers said was a former city official of Tel Aviv, who came to Paris recently, and a youth who had been under police surveillance for several months. During that period, police said, the youth held frequent and loud meetings with companions, planning ways of ending British control in Palestine.

(Reuters News Agency, which last night credited to an interior minstery spokesman a report that home-made bombs containing explosives had been prepared, said today a "mystery arrest" had been made. The Reuters report said strict silence was being observed in connection with the arrest because the police thought he might have made the bombs.)

The Herald Tribune quoted French police as saying a "fantastic Stern Gang plot to bomb London" had been foiled.

Airborne Troops Show Great Tact In Landing Operation of Refugees

By BOYD FRANCE

Hamburg, Sept. 8 (Reuters)— British troops of the 6th Airborne division handled the landing operation of the Jewish refugees from the transport Ocean Vigour today with great tact and when trouble broke out when a number refused to disembark, used sheer force of numbers to overcome the opposition.

When roughly 650 immigrants in the forward holds refused to disembark, an extra company of troops boarded the ship and with an excort company filed into hold No. 2, where several persons about half of them women, were massed in a stubborn group against the forward bulkhead.

All the troops grabbed the first people who came to hand and hustled them up to the deck.

Here and there violent scuffles broke out between soldiers and the more determined men, but immigrant opposition was quickly overcome.

After the first dozen or so immigrants had been cuffed, shoved or carried to the ladder, others gave up and filed out as quickly as the confusion in the dimly lighted hold would permit.

I went in the hold with an assault party and remained below throughout the five-minute battle.

As far as I could see clubs were not used at any time and most of the immigrants who resisted were merely seized and

Anglo-French Alliance Treaty Is Ratified

London, Sept. 8. (Reuters) — The Anglo-French Treaty of Alliance, signed by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Foreign Minister Bidault last March 4 at Dunkerque was ratified today at the Foreign Office here.

Bevin performed the ceremony for Britain and Rene Massigli, French ambassador in London, for France.

The treaty, for 50 years duration, has as its main aim an Alliance against any revival of German aggression. It also provides for development of economic ties in the interests of both countries. It comes into force immediately.

After the ceremony, Bevin gave what some observers regarded as a further hint of the customs union study plans which he outlined briefly last week at Southport, when he said that he hoped for an extension of "our mutual overseas trade and scientific development" in the near future.

Massigli referred to the opening of the Berlin conversations tomorrow on Ruhr coal export capacity and said that at these conversations both Britain and France would be able to measure the value of the treaty they had just signed .

Grapes Will Be Excellent Crop

Toronto, Sept. 8 (CP)—Grapes will be a good crop in Ontario this year, the seasonal fruit and vegetable report of the Ontario Agriculture Department says.

The western Ontario grape harvest is expected to be 35,370 tons — 10 per cent more than last year and almost equal to the 1942 bumper crop.

Eastern Ontario's grapes, tonnage of which is not specified, will be 50 per cent greater than last year for blue varieties, 2 more for white and 20 more for red.

Concerning other fruit the report says:

Western Ontario peaches are 19 per cent below 1946 plums in the province down 25 per cent. There will be 15 per cent more apples in Western Ontario 56 per cent more in Eastern Ontario. Pears are up three per cent in Western Ontario, 76 per cent in eastern counties of Ontario.

JUDGE, SOLDIER KILLED

Manila, Sept. 8 — (AP) — A judge and a soldier were killed last night by 12 gunmen who invaded the judge's residence at Malabon, six miles north of Manila. Police early today arrested a suspect hiding in a nearby fishpond and said he told them robbery was the motive but that his companions were members of the Hukbalahap guerrilla organization, against which the judge had given some recent decisions.

TWO JUVENILES APPREHENDED AFTER HOME IS RANSACKED

Returning to her apartment in the Belleville Armouries just prior to the supper hour Sunday evening, Mrs. George Lancaster, wife of the Armouries caretaker, was dumfounded to see the premises in shambles and two young juveniles about to make off with a suitcase full of clothing, jewelry and other small articles.

Mrs. Lancaster promptly collared the two young boys, six and eight years old respectively, and escorted them across the street to the police station. Parents of the two young lads were later warned.

Mrs. Lancaster reported the entire apartment had been ransacked by the two lads who were just about to leave with the suitcase when she returned home. The door of the apartment had not been locked, she stated.

SIX PAIR SHOES TAKEN FROM FACTORY

Four pairs of men's shoes and two pairs of women's sandals were reported missing from the premises of Quinte Footwear, Pinnacle Street, over the weekend. Police reported that a glass cutter had been used to cut a pane of glass from a window, the window then being opened to effect an entrance. As the manager of the business is away from the city it was not known if anything more than the six pairs of shoes were missing.

HOLE IS BURNED IN STORE AWNING

Resulting presumably from a cigarette butt which had been tossed by a passing pedestrian, a hole about the size of a football was burned in an awning in front of the J. Diamond Store on Front Street on Sunday afternoon. Firemen were called and quickly extinguished the blaze.

WELDING OF PIPE IN MEMORIAL ARENA NOW COMPLETED

The last weld for the piping of the new ice plant in the Memorial Arena was made last Friday by Mr. Harry Williams, contractor. It was weld number 2,140.

The pipes were then tested with water and it was discovered that there were only ten leaks and eleven split pipes. This phenominally low number of defects is eloquent testimony to the efficiency of the contractor.

The leaks were quickly repaired and the split pipe replaced. The placing of the pipe and the fastening of the said pipe to the sleepers will take up the remainder of this week.

It is expected that there will be ice in the Arena one week from today, or September 15, as planned, when the Philadelphia Rockets of the professional American Hockey League will commence training.

Suggested Former Military Buildings be Brought to City To Alleviate Housing Shortage

City and District Industrialists Hear Discussion to Bring Displaced Persons to This Area to Help Solve Labor Problem

Out of the two-hour discussion held this morning by directors of the merchants and manufacturers divisions of the Chamber of Commerce chamber officials and industrial guests, on the two major problems facing industry today, labor and housing, came two suggestions for partial solution.

Held in the Chamber of Commerce offices, the meeting heard the suggestion, one that will be followed by his company, by Mr. Anthony Cekota, official of the Batawa Shoe Company, that 200 displaced persons from Europe will be brought here to assist in alleviating the labor situation at the company's plants.

Regarding housing, it was suggested that the Chamber of Commerce secretary, manager, John Badgley, contact the proper authorities with a view to establishing the possibility of bringing former military barracks and buildings here as a temporary housing relief measure, or to acquire the buildings at nearby air stations and transport labor employees to and fro.

Outlines Plan

Mr. Cekota outlining the plan to bring displaced persons here, stated that his object in passing the plan on to city industry was in part to assist them in their labor shortage problems and secondly to prevent "poaching on the part of these industries if the Batawa people were the only ones to avail themselves of the plan.

"Batawa planned" he said, "to utilize 100 of these persons, with the other 100 distributed among the company's outside plants. The housing situation will be met at Batawa by boarding on farms and in Frankford. He suggested the acquisition of military barracks and buildings.

Quoting a letter from a government official, Mr. Cekota pointed out the procedure to be followed if displaced persons were needed by an industrial firm. Industries would be required to furnish housing and pay prevailing wages. Transportation from Halifax would be borne by the industry if the person remained over twelve months, otherwise it would be deducted from wages in reasonable amounts.

Urged to Follow Plan

The government recommended that a representative of the industry interested, be sent to Europe to help in the selection of the

Mr. Cekota suggested that all Belleville industries with expansion plans follow this plan. "As there are no new people here," he said, "there will be no end to the present tension, bickering, decline in interest and decrease in production. When new industries come here the matter will be worse if nothing is done. "In my opinion," he said, "this is the opportunity to cope with the matter."

Batawa preferred single people, if the plan goes through, he went on. "They will be more suitable tha: a family at the present, for the will not know the language and it will take three years for the: to become acclimatized. As for housing them, military buildings could be dismantled, brought here, reassembled and provide shelter for a year or two until regular housing construction became normal.

Must Have Houses

Harold Seldon, chairman of the Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce who presided agreed that there was no point in bringing these people here until housing was available.

Alderman Harold Armstrong stated that Mayor Frank Follwell had contacted Mountain View and other air stations with regard to these buildings and was told there was "nothing doing". He did not know of any such buildings being knocked down except at high cost, but he urged that building at No. 6 Repair Depot, Trenton, "paid for by the people" be utilized as dwellings.

Chamber of Commerce president G. A. Freeman, after some discussion moved that the secretary contact the proper authorities regarding the acquisition of buildings at Trenton, Mountain View, Picton, Deseronto, 8 R. D. and Ajax.

Mr. Cekota's suggestion that the greater part of the housing problem if single displaced persons were brought here, would be solved through private boarding houses, met with varying replies from the meeting. He suggested that a campaign of appeal to the citizenry to take in these people would be of some use, but Ken Soden, Northern Electric Company, here and Gilbert Scott, American Optical Co. manager, countered with the statements that their firms had tried similar moves, but even rooms here were at a premium. Chairman Seldon, added that several people in the city with large homes would not open them to local people, let alone 400 displaced Europeans.

"This scheme worked well in Frankford when we came there years ago," Mr. Cekota insisted urging, that if necessary to start an advertising and municipal campaign to make people realize the necessity of such action." If this problem is not solved and there are not ten men for ten jobs we shall always have trouble in industry, labor and unions," he said.

Transportation

Mr. Soden suggested that if the Deseronto buildings were made available, transportation could be arranged for employees to go to work. Other suggestions regarding temporary housing for labor included the former drill hall at the OSD and the horse barns at the Fair Grounds. It was pointed out that attempts had been made previously to secure these buildings, without success.

Chairman Seldon asked Mayor Follwell if it were true that township residents would not oppose expropriation of certain properties for housing purposes, but Belleville citizens would veto the suggestion.

"I have no report to make on that question," the Mayor replied. "The City Council has said that it would oppose expropriation if city residents did not approve. However," he added, "we have a plan underway whereby we can secure 80 acres of free land to build on, this will give us 400 houses."

"There is a strong possibility," the Mayor went on, "that other land will be available in a short time. At present, there is no place in the city where Wartime Housing can locate. Until we get the land we cannot do anything for Wartime Housing or any other plan."

Purchase of the former golf course in the eastern limits would be completed in the near future, the mayor said. "We are trying to get a railroad line in there to benefit the Stewart Warner Alemite Co. primarily. The northern end of this property has been laid out for dwellings."

"Until such time as the Municipal Board gives us permission to take in certain areas, we are having a difficult time in knowing what to do with the land."

Proposed Deal

"We hope to make a deal with the County Council with regard to securing the County Home for a convalescent Hospital. The lands thus acquired would be the right type for housing development. The only land I see on the western end of the city is 130 acres behind the Northern Electric Company's property. Owners of this land have signified their willingness to "belong" to the city," the mayor stated.

Mr. Arthur Young, Stewart-Warner Alemite, suggested that new Quonset Huts could be secured in varying sizes. 4,000 square feet would cost $10,000 including all insulation.

Alderman Armstrong told the meeting that new regulations had come into force whereby insurance companies could take over whole subdivisions, improve them and service them. Mayor Follwell added that a representative of a private insurance company was sending a man here while another company planned to erect 100 workers' homes here in the spring.

Govt. May Come to Aid

A city committee in Ottawa recently on the housing problem was told that Belleville per capita had the greatest industrial expansion of any city in Canada, Alderman Armstrong told the meeting. Mr. Cekota predicted that in view of this, the Federal government would come to Belleville's assistance in the matter of furtherance of the government's plans to decentralize industry.

Suggestion of Mr. Young, that workmen's apartment buildings be erected in which five acres would do the same as thirty, as far as land is concerned, brought up the question of a Chamber of Commerce resolution some time ago that a Housing Commission be set up in the City Council with the same view in mind, only that it could build anywhere either in the city or elsewhere.

This precipitated a long discussion and a resolution by Mr. Freeman to get a report on the Commission's activities was later withdrawn.

Chairman Seldon interrupting the discussion stated that the idea of the meeting was to get some groundwork laid. "The public is damning the Chamber of Commerce, the Mayor and the City Council. There are lots of rumors but nobody appears to know what is going on. If this question of a Housing Commission is to be answered by a vote of the people, now is the time to get started. Elections are only three months away.

Chaos Might Result

Several managers of industry here predicted that if something was not done to alleviate the shortage of labor and housing problems, chaos would ultimately result. Gilbert Scott refuted alleged statements that he was against the importation of new labor and new industries because of affecting wage scales. He was ready to do anything to help, he said, and next year, his company would absorb 200 more hands over the next twelve-month period.

Meantime managers stated that production would suffer greatly. Those with head offices elsewhere did not like the possibility of reporting that decrease on the production lines was due to a labor and housing shortage in Belleville.

Present at the meeting were besides Mr. Cekota and Mr. MacKenzie, Batawa; G. A. Freeman, Stephen Adamson; E. Reg. Hinchey Deacon Brothers Ltd., Gilbert Scott, American Optical, Canada Ltd., Arthur Young, Stewart-Warner-Alemite Corporation Mark Vanner, Belleville-Sargent; Ken Soden, Northern Electric Company; Jack Trudeau; Alderman Harold Armstrong; Harold Seldon, chairman Merchants' Division, Chamber of Commerce; L. E. McLean, Corbin Lock Company; and Bert Houston, Houston Lumber Company.

Traffic Officer Injured in Crash

Losing control of his automobile as he was in pursuit of a hit-and-run car on Cannifton Road, Traffic Officer William Gagne of the local O.P.P. detachment office was injured early Sunday morning as his car was in collision with another auto on a turn just outside the city limits.

Constable Gagne had been investigating a hit-and-run accident near the old Lazier Dam on the Cannifton Road and proceeding toward Belleville apparently lost control of his car as he rounded a curve, with result that he collided with a north-bound vehicle driven by Charles Cleveland of Holloway. Constable Gagne suffered lacerations to his head, while Harry Phillips, Holloway, passenger in the Cleveland car, suffered a dislocated ankle.

A short time previous to the above accident Roy Watts, Corbyville, reported that he had been forced off the road by another car, the driver of which did not stop following the accident. Mrs. Watts, passenger in her husband's car, was injured and taken to the hospital.

Don Black Defeats Tommy Carruthers For Club Golf Title in 55-Hole Thriller

In a nip-and-tuck links battle featured by spectacular golf all through, Don Black, nosed out last year's champion, Tommy Carruthers for the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club title on Sunday.

And it took fifty-five holes of golf before the issue was finally settled.

Under a brilliant September sunshine, with the greens in perfect condition the Quinte stars had everything in their favor. The championship was a close-fought affair, with both taking and relinquishing the lead throughout the gruelling contest.

The championship was a thirty-six hole affair and at the end of that grind the boys were all even. Deciding to play another eighteen, they resumed the battle and the third eighteen was a replica of the other two with both stars playing a heads-up game and battling for every stroke.

Came the fifty-fifth hole and again the score was all tied up.

And in a dramatic finish, with Black and Carruthers beginning to show signs of the long struggle, Black defeated last year's titlist by one lone stroke.

It was one of the closest links duels seen on the Bay of Quinte fairways and greens, with both players going out in an effort to annex a victory and the title.

Money Urgently Needed For Relief Tornado Victims

Money is still urgently needed for the relief of the tornado victims in the northern part of the county. These people made homeless by one of nature's most terrifying exhibitions of power are in need of all the material aid that can be summoned for their support.

The spectre of a grim winter is almost upon these residents of our northern frontier. The icy cold of a northern winter is something to be dreaded. Anything which you can do to aid in the reconstruction and rehabilitation of devastated homes, farms will be greatly appreciated. Coming to the assistance of those less fortunate than ourselves has always been a Canadian trait. Let us turn our generosity to a cause that will help our own people — neighbors and friends — to realize the re-establishment of their homes.

All cash contributions to the Tornado Victims' Fund may be brought, or sent, to the office of the Ontario Intelligencer. Receipts will be given for money received.

Fine Peaches Grown on Tree At County Home

First class peaches can be grown in the Bay of Quinte area as well as in the Niagara district, it was revealed this week by Elmer Sandercock, superintendent of Hastings County Old People's Home, who reports a peach tree loaded with at least five bushels of peaches, on the county home property.

Grown from a peach stone seed which was dropped by chance eight or nine years ago at the south foundation of the Old People's Home building, the tree has now reached a height even with the second storey window and is well loaded with peaches which in a week or so will be ripe.

Quality of the peaches is exceptionally good with not a blemish appearing on any of the fruit. Apparently there is an absence in the immediate district of worms which attack peaches as the tree has never been sprayed.

Are the ones who loved him best.

Come to my heavenly garden.
And see in perfect bloom
The flower you loved so dearly
And thought that I plucked too soon.
Then you will know My reason,
Though you will know it, not today,
Why in his promising manhood
I took your brother away.
—Fondly remembered by sister Evelyn and brother-in-law, Eddie.

ASHMAN — In loving memory of our cousin, Thomas E. Ashman, who was drowned at Kingston, September 8th., 1946.

Who said: "Let them come unto Me."

TORONTO STOCKS

western powers' determination to handle economic questions in their own zones despite the Russian opposition which so far has blocked any agreement on welding Germany into a political and economic unit.

In fact there are evidences all along the line of a general decision to shove Russian opposition aside and go ahead with efforts to solve international problems without regard to the Kremlin's views.

A new incident which fits into this pattern occurred yesterday when Moscow disclosed Russia's rejection of an American proposal for a four-power conference to try to reach an understanding on Korea—something which American and Russian occupation authorities have been unable to do. The Russians said they preferred to continue the negotiations in Korea, a course American officials consider completely hopeless.

Birds, Ammunition Reported Fair, Hunters Plentiful

(By The Canadian Press)

With the opening shots already fired in scattered sections of Canada, the danger season for wild ducks, geese, snipe and low-flying aircraft gets under way in most provinces this month with supplies of both birds and ammunition reported fair. But indications are there'll be no scarcity of hunting.

Only Ontario, Southern Manitoba and Northern Saskatchewan reported an acute scarcity of ducks although restrictions were generally tightened to counteract the serious decline in the North American duck population, reported to have shrunk from 80,000,000 to 54,000,000 in a single year.

The length of the season and individual bag limits were cut sharply in most provinces with seasons averaging four to six weeks and a daily bag of seven birds set in almost all provinces.

Reports from Ontario indicated a general scarcity of birds with Black Duck (Whistlers) predominating. Ammunition was also short although shotgun shells were plentiful.

The 44-day season opens Sept. 27 in northern areas and Oct. 4 in the south. Officials expected licences issued to equal or exceed the 1946 figure of 150,000 with residents paying $1 and non-residents $15.

In Quebec, where the season was cut from 60 to 45 days this year, the season catch limit is 100 birds.

Anglicans Meet In General Synod To Elect Primate

By DOUGLAS GREEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Saskatoon, Sept. 8 — (CP) — The attention of Anglicans in Canada and abroad centred today upon a young church—only 35 years old — yet the scene of an ancient ceremony of the communion.

In the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, founded in 1912, the General Synod of the Church of England, acting through an electoral college consisting of the Bishops of the Upper House and other members of the executive council, will elect a primate to succeed the late Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen of Toronto.

The newly-chosen primate will be the seventh head of the Canadian Church. The first was Most Rev. Robert Machray, who was consecrated Archbishop of Rupert's Land and Primate of all Canada Sept. 19, 1893.

To elect the Primate, the General Synod has been convened in Western Canada for the first time. The newly-appointed dignitary will be installed in office at an evening service marked by the impressive ritual of the church.

Business sessions scheduled for today include meetings of the committee on radio broadcasting and reunion. Much of Tuesday's business meetings will be devoted to conferences of the executive council with the Missionary Society's Board of Management and the General Board of Religious Education.

THREE CHILDREN KILLED

Newton, Kas., Sept. 8—(AP)— A bazooka rocket exploded last night, killing three children and injuring five others, all members of the same family. Police said the father, Arnold Schmidt, said he had brought several dud rockets and shells home as souvenirs from Fort Riley, Kas., where he had been working.

and to the layman it is a jungle of sections, clauses, reservations, provisions and proposals. Since 1946 it has been studied, revised and altered at 700 meetings.

Those who created the charter will take it to their home governments and then to Havana on Nov. 21, when, at the world trade conference they will ask others of the United Nations to endorse it. If this is done, the charter principles may be applied to international trade in 1948.

That would mean:

1. Trading nations would accept the over-all principle of non-discrimination in trade—an equal chance for all with goods to buy or sell in the world market. But even among the 17 founders, the principle would not be applied universally or at once. Successive examinations have left intact escape clauses the nations think they need for self-preservation. The hope is that such reservations will be eliminated as understanding and appreciation of I. T. O. increase.

Become Brother's Keeper

2. Nations to a degree would become their brother's keeper. Developed countries like the United ran into trouble on the balance of payments, like the United Kingdom at present, other I. T. O. nations in their own interest would give whatever help the organization thought necessary.

Not as Strong as Liked

The charter is not as strong as Canada and some of her allies would like immediately.

The United Kingdom, beset with immediate economic worries, refuses to take the risks of losing existing advantages without early recompense. Others follow her example.

Geneva discussions although she is a member of the preparatory committee.

If the charter is approved this year, tariff walls will not automatically disappear although the nations will be pledged to facilitate lowering them.

International Ideal

The charter represents an international ideal. Tariff changes involve dollars and cents in the pockets of farmers, tradesmen, householders. The I. T. O. approves the method under which tariff reductions are to be negotiated by experts from different countries who agree to changes only after they have considered the effects a belled cow in a herd of cattle. If you had 1,000 head of cattle and one carried a bell and you could hear the bell ringing you could say you had a belled cow — but you couldn't see it.

"It's the same way with an isotope. You take some substance, say common table salt, that has been bombarded by radiation from an atomic pile and check it with a detector that reacts to on all sections of their people although they keep the charter principles in mind. This is stiff, down-to-earth dickering in the traditional manner.

The charter does not expect a nation to expose its people to ruin through sudden alterations in trading practices to meet its requirements. But the principle of non-discrimination provides that nations shall keep each other informed of their practices and reasons for unusual actions.

AIRBORNE TROOPS

bundled out.

Soldiers were forced to use fists in at least two skirmishes that I saw in order to subdue two immigrants who struck out wildly at them.

(Associated Press correspondent Richard Kasischke said the troops used clubs to force the resisting groups to go down the gangplank and on to the train which was to take them to displaced persons camps.

(Two correspondents permitted to go aboard the ship during the entire operation — Ed Morrow of the New York Times and Denis Martin of the London Daily Herald — said the first military police aboard this morning entered the forward hold and lined up the refugees there for funneling through files of soldiers to the upper decks.

"In this process," said Martin, "there was some hitting with rubber truncheons, but nothing very severe."

(It was when operations began in the second hold that the resistance began. Many refused to budge and some girls spat at the soldiers. The troops first tried simple pushing, Martin said, but then resorted to truncheons.)

Children, women and old people who did not actively resist the soldiers were helped through the struggling crowd as gently as possible under the circumstances. In less than a quarter of an hour the hold was cleared.

Detachments of soldiers in the holds and lining the gangway were not armed, although soldiers with Tommy guns and tear gas bombs were standing by the bridge in readiness for any outbreak of real trouble.

Even these troops, however, concealed their arms behind the bridge railing, so as not to inflame the refugees.

Standing on deck and looking down into the hold five minutes before the disembarkation began I could see the immigrants squatting silently in an unbroken mass on the floor of the hold, sullenly glaring at the troops.

At least two vicious fistfights broke out later during which the troops hammered two men rathar hard but I did not see any truncheons used in this hold. A grey-haired woman of about 70 flung herself fiercely on a soldier just below the bunk on which I was crouching. Striking ineffectively at the soldier's face she shrieked "Nazi, take that for my husband."

The grinning soldier said "come along, grandma, out of this," and picked her up in his arms and carried her, still clawing and beating at his face to the stairway.

My general conclusion after watching the battle was that the immigrants would not have started the fight had they not been led on by leaders and I can say that the conduct of the British troops was as humane as possible, considering the job they had to do.

Body of F. Green, Trenton, Found In Clump of Bushes

Missing from his home since July 9th, the body of 60-year-old Fred Green, Trenton, was found Sunday evening about one quarter mile north of No. 2 highway, a short distance east of Trenton. The body was found by Lloyd Work and Fred Fry, both of Trenton, as they walked through a clump of bushes only a short distance from where Green had been living.

Mr. Green had been the object of an extensive search at the time of his disappearance as he had been reported ill for some time previous. Following discovery of badly decomposed body by the two Trenton men, Provincial Constables Sam Ervine and Charles Siple investigated.

"Miss Canada" Wins Third Place At Atlantic City

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Atlantic City, Sept. 8 — (CP)— Saturday's five finalists in the "Miss America" beauty pageant and two — including "Miss Canada" — who won special awards through exceptional talent today put floodlights, scintillating music and clamorous crowds from their minds and underwent what students know as "oral examinations."

In collective and individual sessions with Dr. Guy E. Snavely, head of the pageant's scholarship committee, Miss America—raven-haired Barbara Jo Walker of Memphis, Tenn., and her four runners-up, discussed their academic plans. Miss Walker's are to complete her arts course this year, majoring in languages.

"Miss Canada," Toronto's honey-blonde Margaret Marshall, 18-year-old third-place winner but top scorer in the key bathing suit event, told of her plans to prepare for a dramatic and singing career.

The scholarship committee was believed to have borne in mind her one year's high school academic standing and to be working out plans for her to resume and complete her secondary education before utilizing her awards to study in a major United States centre.

Sgt. Harry Allen, president of the Hamilton Police Amateur Athletic Association, sponsors of Margaret's appearance here, said she would leave for home Tuesday.

Plans call for her to fly to Hamilton for an official welcome after which she will motor home to Toronto.

A crowd estimated at more than 20,000 took "Miss Canada" to their hearts Saturday when once again, as victorious bathing beauty, she was sent along the runway several times for appraisal by the judges as one of 15 semi-finalists and then one of five finalists.

The consensus was that it was her personal beauty and natural poise rather than her showing in the talent event, in which she sang, which boosted her rating.

Margaret has a year in which to act on her scholarship opportunity. If at the end of that time she is either unwilling or unable to exploit it, she will receive one-half of the $1,000 and one-third of the United States $2,500, forfeiting the rest.

C.N.E. Sets Record Attendance At 2,366,500

Toronto, Sept. 8 — (CP) — The big show is over and the grounds of the Canadian National Exhibition are deserted today except for workmen dismantling booths and attending to all the other tasks of putting Canada's biggest show to bed for another year.

The first post-war exhibition ended literally in a blaze of glory Saturday night — in a spectacular fireworks display which held the rapt attention of thousands of people who lingered on the grounds until the last minute — after rolling up a total attendance of 2,366,500, or 300,000 greater than the previous record of 2,039,000 set in 1928.

Already Toronto residents can be heard saying, "Now the exhibition is closed, summer is really over" — for in this region the 'ex' has long been regarded as a sort of bridge between the seasons. Toronto has missed it every summer since 1941.

This year it burst with new-found glamor and glitter upon a city drowsy after the worst heat wave within memory and filled it with a throb of activity and excitement from end to end. Hotels and tourist camps filled up and private homes which tacked up hastily-lettered "tourist" signs caught the overflow. Special street cars and buses went into service. Stores saw business pick up.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. R. Harback and wedding music was played by Miss Grace Pitman, of Stirling. As the guests were assembling she played "Sweet Memories" and "Because" during the signing of the register.

During the previous week Mrs. Ward Archer also entertained for Miss Gladys Elmhirst at a kitchen shower.—Campbellford Herald.

$1,500,000 Tomato Crop Being Harvested In Quinte District

Delayed by an exceptionally late spring which held up planting operations, an industry which in the normal year would return farmers in the Bay of Quinte district in the neighborhood of a million-and-a-half dollars is this week getting underway.

Tomato canning factories in the three counties of Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland are now starting to run tomatoes, two weeks later than in the normal season.

With acreage in the three counties estimated this year at approximately 11,000 acres, the crop of tomatoes will not total more than 60 per cent in the opinion of veteran canning factory operators. Offsetting this, however, will be an increased price which will return the farmer approximately 80 cents per bushel for No. 1 tomatoes. Last year the price paid farmers was about 60 cents per bushel. The normal yield of tomatoes in Prince Edward alone where 7,000 acres are plated is in the neighborhood of a million-and-a-half burhels.

P. E. County High in Rank

Prince Edward county is considered the thud tomato producing county in Ontario, being outranked only by Essex and Kent counties. In Hastings and Northumberland however, tomatoes rank secondary to dairying and grain.

Blight conditions spread mainly by wet and muggy weather is causing extensive damage to the tomato crop in certain areas with certain farmers in the Bay of Quinte area being seriously hit. In some instances in Prince Edward farmers this year have lost their complete crop from blight condition. This shows up as a black spot on the tomatoes making them culls. The plants are also affected.

It is considered possible that the late blight fungus affecting tomatoes in the Prince Edward district may have been wind borne across Lake Ontario as blight condition is known to be prevalent in New York State.

Compulsory Grading.

One of the features of the canning industry this year is the compulsory grading of all tomatoes accepted by factories. Previously tomatoes have been paid for at so much the bushel but this year they are graded by government grader. There are three grades, No. 1 and No. 2. Culls are a complete loss to the farmer. Price for No. 1 tomatoes is $27.10 per ton or 81 cents per bushel, while No. 2's return $17.10 per ton or 51 cents per bushel. Last year farmers were paid 60 cents per bushel.

"It is merely a move on the part of the government to educate the farmer into growing first quality produce," pointed out Charles Kent of Consecon who is acting as tomato grader at the Belleville plant of the Canadian Packers. He stated that generally speaking farmers are taking "fairly well" to grading and are learning that it does not pay to market poor quality fruit.

Approves Growing.

Thomas Walker, R. R. 7 Belleville, young Prince Edward county tomato grower, also approved of tomato grading.

"It just means that a farmer raising good quality produce gets paid for his extra effort," he said. "Hired pickers may be a little careless in picking, but if a farmer picks his own he can make sure that only good quality fruit is marketed."

Mr. Walker's five acre field of tomatoes is one which apparently has escaped the ill effects of late blight and he expects to pick in the neighborhood of 2,000 bushels.

Some farmers in the area go extensively into tomato growing, it being not uncommon for large growers in Prince Edward county to have as high as 30 acres. The average acreage, however, is five to seven acres. In Hastings farmers rarely grow more than three acres, but one Sidney township farmer, Horace Knight, 4th concession, this year has 20 acres.

Hire Picking Done

Large growers have to hire their picking done and pay ten to twelve cents per bushel. Quite a number of pickers have been sent out from the Belleville Employment office this year at ten cents per bushel but the demand thus far has not been great.

Canning factories in the district represent a large labor outlet each fall with large factories employing up to 100 women alone for peeling tomatoes. A good peeler can earn $4 to $5 per day with most factories in the district giving a bonus if the worker stays for the season.

A fine example of mass production on a large scale the modern canning factory can turn out thousands of cans of tomatoes each hour and early in the season can operate only for a few hours at a time. In the height of the season, however, factories operate day and night.

How Tomatoes Canned

When a farmer brings his load of tomatoes to the factory the government grader takes one bushel off his load or one bushel in every 50 in a large load. The test bushel is graded and the farmer paid on a percentage basis according to the one bushel test. Tomatoes are then dumped from their crates into scalders and are thoroughly washed and cleaned before peeling. The tomatoes are then automatically passed along an inspection table and if tomatoes are being canned they are peeled. At the present time the Belleville factory is running tomato juice and catsup.

With tomatoes peeled and cut or run through a juicer cans are automatically filled in a filling and capping machine at a rate of 240 per minute, then they are cooked at boiling point for 25 minutes. They are then cooled and labelled and are ready for packing into cardboard cases containing 24 cans each.

Canning Big Business

The factory at Belleville this year will can tomatoes from 600 acres which were contracted with the farmers early in the spring. Late in the autumn cheques from the canning factory will go out to the farmers for their produce.

Yes tomato canning is "big business" in the Bay of Quinte district and in the normal year well over two millions of bushels would be grown. Crop expectancy is down this year and may be further cut by an early frost but despite this tomatoes should this year return Bay of Quinte district over a million dollars.

KNITS THOUGH BLIND

Kingston, Sept. 8 — (CP) — Since last fall Alida Hymers of nearby Odessa has knit 25 pears of socks, five pairs of mittens and a scarf — despite the fact she has been blind for nine years. During the weekend she celebrated her 80th birthday.

Seventy-Five Guests Attend Party to Mark Mrs. Bassett's Birthday

A happy surprise birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bassett, of Madoc, on Saturday evening, August 30th. About seventy-five guests consisting of the immediate family, grandchildren and relatives arrived to help Mrs. Bassett celebrate another milestone in her voyage of life.

Mr. Ken Broadworth of Stirling, acted as Master of Ceremonies. After calling the group to order he led them in a spirited sing-song. A musical program consisting of vocal solos, duets and instrumental numbers was enjoyed by all.

Mr. Fred Devolin was then called upon to make the presentation. In his speech he stated that Mrs. Bassett was the last remaining aunt of the preceding Wm. Broadworth family. He recalled the musical ability, friendliness, and love of fun and laughter of that family. Characteristic of Aunt Beatrice herself was the warmth of welcome one always received; her generosity and her sincere regard for the happiness and welfare of those near and dear to her. He felt that it was her joie de viore and youthful outlook on life that kept her so young. The gift, a mix-master was then presented by her granddaughter, Gail Rodgers of Belleville.

Though taken completely by surprise Mrs. Bassett made a very appropriate reply. She thanked those present for their kindness and thoughtfulness in honoring her in this way. The hope that, God willing, these dear friends be spared to so celebrate many more birthdays was expressed.

Mrs. Bassett cut the birthday cake and refreshments were served. The evening ended with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds".

Consecon

Consecon — Mrs. Cy. Spencer and Mrs. Annie Lamb spent the weekend at the latter's home in Rednersville.

Mrs. Bert Davidson, of Belleville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Arthur Stinson.

Those on the sick list are: Mrs. Ella Young, Mrs. Geo. LaRue, Mr. A. Burr, Mr. A. McConkey and Mr. Everett McDonald at home, and Burgess Weeks (V.S.) in Belleville hospital.

Mr. Karl Woof is now operating the barber shop and pool room which he recently purchased from Mr. Edgar Simonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Woof recently returned from California and have taken up residence in part of their new home, which they purchased from Wm. Rattray, formerly known as the Hermon Goodmurphy home.

Mr. and Mrs Edgar Matthews and Dawn returned from a recent trip to U.S.A.

Mr. and Mrs. George Miller and children, also Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bonter of Albury, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Miller.

western powers' determination to handle economic questions in their own zones despite the Russian opposition which so far has blocked any agreement on welding Germany into a political and economic unit.

In fact there are evidences all along the line of a general decision to shove Russian opposition aside and go ahead with efforts to solve international problems without regard to the Kremlin's views.

A new incident which fits into this pattern occurred yesterday when Moscow disclosed Russia's rejection of an American proposal for a four-power conference to try to reach an understanding on Korea—something which American and Russian occupation authorities have been unable to do. The Russians said they preferred to continue the negotiations in Korea, a course American officials consider completely hopeless.

Birds, Ammunition Reported Fair, Hunters Plentiful

(By The Canadian Press)

With the opening shots already fired in scattered sections of Canada, the danger season for wild ducks, geese, snipe and low-flying aircraft gets under way in most provinces this month with supplies of both birds and ammunition reported fair. But indications are there'll be no scarcity of hunting.

Only Ontario, Southern Manitoba and Northern Saskatchewan reported an acute scarcity of ducks although restrictions were generally tightened to counteract the serious decline in the North American duck population, reported to have shrunk from 80,000,000 to 54,000,000 in a single year.

The length of the season and individual bag limits were cut sharply in most provinces with seasons averaging four to six weeks and a daily bag of seven birds set in almost all provinces.

Reports from Ontario indicated a general scarcity of birds with Black Duck (Whistlers) predominating. Ammunition was also short although shotgun shells were plentiful.

The 44-day season opens Sept. 27 in northern areas and Oct. 4 in the south. Officials expected licences issued to equal or exceed the 1946 figure of 150,000 with residents paying $1 and non-residents $15.

In Quebec, where the season was cut from 60 to 45 days this year, the season catch limit is 100 birds.

Anglicans Meet In General Synod To Elect Primate

By DOUGLAS GREEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Saskatoon, Sept. 8 — (CP) — The attention of Anglicans in Canada and abroad centred today upon a young church—only 35 years old — yet the scene of an ancient ceremony of the communion.

In the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, founded in 1912, the General Synod of the Church of England, acting through an electoral college consisting of the Bishops of the Upper House and other members of the executive council, will elect a primate to succeed the late Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen of Toronto.

The newly-chosen primate will be the seventh head of the Canadian Church. The first was Most Rev. Robert Machray, who was consecrated Archbishop of Rupert's Land and Primate of all Canada Sept. 19, 1893.

To elect the Primate, the General Synod has been convened in Western Canada for the first time. The newly-appointed dignitary will be installed in office at an evening service marked by the impressive ritual of the church.

Business sessions scheduled for today include meetings of the committee on radio broadcasting and reunion. Much of Tuesday's business meetings will be devoted to conferences of the executive council with the Missionary Society's Board of Management and the General Board of Religious Education.

Newton, Kas., Sept. 8—(AP)— A bazooka rocket exploded last night, killing three children and injuring five others, all members of the same family. Those who created the charter ill take it to their home govnments and then to Havana on ov. 21, when, at the world trade onference they will ask others of e United Nations to endorse it. this is done, the charter prinples may be applied to interpaonal trade in 1948.

That would mean:

1. Trading nations would acept the over-all principle of nondiscrimination in trade—an equal hance for all with goods to buy r sell in the world market. But ven among the 17 founders, the rinciple would not be applied niversally or at once. Successive xaminations have left intact esape clauses the nations think hey need for self-preservation. he hope is that such reservations ill be eliminated as understandng and appreciation of I. T. O. ncrease.

2. Nations to a degree would beome their brother's keeper. Developed countries like the United

Not as Strong as Liked

The charter is not as strong as Canada and some of her allies would like immediately.

The United Kingdom, beset with immediate economic worries, refuses to take the risks of losing existing advantages without early recompense. Others follow her example.

Geneva discussions although she is a member of the preparatory committee.

If the charter is approved this year, tariff walls will not automatically disappear although the nations will be pledged to facilitate lowering them.

International Ideal

The charter represents an international ideal. Tariff changes involve dollars and cents in the pockets of farmers, tradesmen, householders. The I. T. O. approves the method under which tariff reductions are to be negotiated by experts from different countries who agree to changes only after they have considered the effects

The charter does not expect a nation to expose its people to ruin through sudden alterations in trading practices to meet its requirements. But the principle of non-discrimination provides that nations shall keep each other informed of their practices and reasons for unusual actions.

AIRBORNE TROOPS

Soldiers were forced to use fists in at least two skirmishes that I saw in order to subdue two immigrants who struck out wildly at them.

(Associated Press correspondent Richard Kasischke said the troops used clubs to force the resisting groups to go down the gangplank and on to the train which was to take them to displaced persons camps.

(Two correspondents permitted to go aboard the ship during the entire operation — Ed Morrow of the New York Times and Denis Martin of the London Daily Herald — said the first military police aboard this morning entered the forward hold and lined up the refugees there for funneling through files of soldiers to the upper decks.

"In this process," said Martin, "there was some hitting with rubber truncheons, but nothing very severe."

(It was when operations began in the second hold that the resistance began. Many refused to budge and some girls spat at the soldiers. The troops first tried simple pushing, Martin said, but then resorted to truncheons.)

Children, women and old people who did not actively resist the soldiers were helped through the struggling crowd as gently as possible under the circumstances. In less than a quarter of an hour the hold was cleared.

Detachments of soldiers in the holds and lining the gangway were not armed, although soldiers with Tommy guns and tear gas bombs were standing by the bridge in readiness for any outbreak of real trouble.

Even these troops, however, concealed their arms behind the bridge railing, so as not to inflame the refugees.

Standing on deck and looking down into the hold five minutes before the disembarkation began I could see the immigrants squatting silently in an unbroken mass on the floor of the hold, sullenly glaring at the troops.

At least two vicious fistfights broke out later during which the troops hammered two men rather hard but I did not see any truncheons used in this hold. A grey-haired woman of about 70 flung herself fiercely on a soldier just below the bunk on which I was crouching. Striking ineffectively at the soldier's face she shrieked "Nazi, take that for my husband."

The grinning soldier said "come along, grandma, out of this," and picked her up in his arms and carried her, still clawing and beating at his face to the stairway.

My general conclusion after watching the battle was that the immigrants would not have started the fight had they not been led on by leaders and I can say that the conduct of the British troops was as humane as possible, considering the job they had to do.

Body of F. Green, Trenton, Found In Clump of Bushes

Missing from his home since July 9th, the body of 60-year-old Fred Green, Trenton, was found Sunday evening about one quarter mile north of No. 2 highway, a short distance east of Trenton. The body was found by Lloyd Work and Fred Fry, both of Trenton, as they walked through a clump of bushes only a short distance from where Green had been living.

Mr. Green had been the object of an extensive search at the time of his disappearance as he had been reported ill for some time previous. Following discovery of badly decomposed body by the two Trenton men, Provincial Constables Sam Ervine and Charles Siple investigated.

"Miss Canada" Wins Third Place At Atlantic City

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Atlantic City, Sept. 8 — (CP)— Saturday's five finalists in the "Miss America" beauty pageant and two — including "Miss Canada" — who won special awards through exceptional talent today put floodlights, scintillating music and clamorous crowds from their minds and underwent what students know as "oral examinations."

In collective and individual sessions with Dr. Guy E. Snavely, head of the pageant's scholarship committee, Miss America—raven-haired Barbara Jo Walker of Memphis, Tenn., and her four runners-up, discussed their academic plans. Miss Walker's are to complete her arts course this year, majoring in languages.

"Miss Canada," Toronto's honey-blonde Margaret Marshall, 18-year-old third-place winner but top scorer in the key bathing suit event, told of her plans to prepare for a dramatic and singing career.

The scholarship committee was believed to have borne in mind her one year's high school academic standing and to be working out plans for her to resume and complete her secondary education before utilizing her awards to study in a major United States centre.

Sgt. Harry Allen, president of the Hamilton Police Amateur Athletic Association, sponsors of Margaret's appearance here, said she would leave for home Tuesday.

Plans call for her to fly to Hamilton for an official welcome after which she will motor home to Toronto.

A crowd estimated at more than 20,000 took "Miss Canada" to their hearts Saturday when once again, as victorious bathing beauty, she was sent along the runway several times for appraisal by the judges as one of 15 semi-finalists and then one of five finalists.

The consensus was that it was her personal beauty and natural poise rather than her showing in the talent event, in which she sang, which boosted her rating.

Margaret has a year in which to act on her scholarship opportunity. If at the end of that time she is either unwilling or unable to exploit it, she will receive one-half of the $1,000 and one-third of the United States $2,500, forfeiting the rest.

C.N.E. Sets Record Attendance At 2,366,500

Toronto, Sept. 8 — (CP) — The big show is over and the grounds of the Canadian National Exhibition are deserted today except for workmen dismantling booths and attending to all the other tasks of putting Canada's biggest show to bed for another year.

The first post-war exhibition ended literally in a blaze of glory Saturday night — in a spectacular fireworks display which held the rapt attention of thousands of people who lingered on the grounds until the last minute — after rolling up a total attendance of 2,366,500, or 300,000 greater than the previous record of 2,039,000 set in 1928.

Already Toronto residents can be heard saying, "Now the exhibition is closed, summer is really over" — for in this region the 'ex' has long been regarded as a sort of bridge between the seasons. Toronto has missed it every summer since 1941.

This year it burst with new-found glamor and glitter upon a city drowsy after the worst heat wave within memory and filled it with a throb of activity and excitement from end to end. Hotels and tourist camps filled up and private homes which tacked up hastily-lettered "tourist" signs caught the overflow. Special street cars and buses went into service. Stores saw business pick up.

Save Bread for Hungry Europe

Europe's troubles of recent years never seem to come singly. First it was the war and the period of unsettlement which followed. Then last winter was the coldest in a hundred years which, with one of the worst coal shortages that had ever been experienced, made life for these people about as uncomfortable as could be imagined. Now there is the prospect of further shortages of food.

Last Spring the floods in Europe were the most devastating in decades. Even in Eire, a rich agricultural country where the people ate comparatively well during the war, the floods were so bad that hunger and famine were anticipated. We also recall the huge losses in Britain due to the same causes.

Now it is drought according to the latest reports and it is the worst in many years. Grain and potatoes are being burned out on a tremendous scale, according to a report in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The Danes call it an "immense disaster." Half the expected potato crop in Austria is reported destroyed. The Czechs are looking with foreboding to a 25 to 35 per cent reduction in grain and potato crops.

In the United States, the drought is also causing such havoc that corn prices there have reached the highest in history. The French people live on bread, and their bread ration is being reduced because of world shortages largely caused by crop failures due to weather conditions. It is obvious normal health.

Neebrong died in 1939, presumably from pneumonia, and was buried at Coodingnow station.

During his search Constable Monck found the plant which Neebrong believed had cured him, and from interviews with people who knew Neebrong well, he was able to ascertain the method of extracting the drug from the plant.

The constable's report says the plant is commonly known as maroon. To make the medicine the bark is scraped from the bush, broken into short lengths, and boiled in a billycan of rain water for one hour. The liquid is then poured off and bottled. — Australian News Letter.

Life in Britain

Those who keep hens in Britain are most likely to keep only 49; if 50 are kept egg production must be reported to the government and the eggs whisked away to the market. So reports The Wall Street Journal in a general survey of the dire living conditions in the Old Land. Chickens are not rationed, and a recent visitor to London had chicken for lunch on three successive days, some tough, some rather high and mostly badly cooked.

Imagine a night out, unless there is a very fat purse, under conditions as prevailing. A bill for four at a not too fancy London night spot, which included the usual three course austerity meal, totalled $70. The actual meal perforce was a dollar a person or five shillings, the government ceiling but cover charges, etc., brought it up to $16 or $4 each. Two bottles of rather new champagne cost $20 apiece and four small ponies of brandy cost a trifle over $2 apiece. The rest was tips. Notable that on the wine list some of the "still" French wines of good vintages were listed at from $30 to $50 a bottle.

WEEK OF DESTINY

Tuesday: Attlee will preside at a full meeting of the Cabinet to hear the Cripps' plan—"a positive half" of the emergency program to balance Britain's deficit of £600,000,000 ($2,400,000,000) and complementing the ration cuts announced a fortnight ago which reduced the import gap by £228,000,000.

The House of Lords will sit for the first time since Aug. 13, with an outside chance that important government announcements will be made.

Thursday: The International Bank and Monetary Fund talks open. With the majority of the world's trading countries feeling the dollar pinch, the decisions reached in these talks in the words of the authoritiative financial times may "find an echo in the months ahead in the daily lives of almost every individual from the American Industrialist to the Chinese peasant, from the Negro worker in the South African gold mine to the common worker in the Lancashire mill."

Friday: Some 2,000 representatives of labor and management will hear the Cripps plan, up to now as closely guarded as a top war secret. The Press Association's diplomatic correspondent speculated that "repercussions on some sections of industry and on the stock exchange may be startling."

Feelings apparently were mixed, since some came ashore without resistance, before resistance by others erupted into physical violence. The first sign of trouble was seen when soldiers appeared on the gangplank dragging struggling Jews to the dock.

It was hinted that the Cripps plan will seek to stimulate foreign trade by reorganization and administrative control, with private enterprise called on to take a major share of the burden.

Exacting targets will be set for key industries. However, coal mining is unlikely to reach even its existing figure of 200,000,000 tons for 1947.

Commonwealth Customs Union

Behind the scenes two of the series of talks are expected to be f extreme importance to Canda. Dominion representatives ere for the monetary meeting are kely to be sounded out for rection to the Commonwealth Cusoms Union proposal advanced by oreign Secretary Bevin to the . U. C. at Southport last week. Abbott, Agriculture Minister ardiner of Canada who arrived n London Saturday night from ermany, Chancellor of the Exhequer Dalton and Food Minisr Strachey, probably will conr on British financing of Canaan food purchases.

One topic will be the price for adian wheat in the crop year 48-49 which the existing An-Canadian four-year contract quires must be decided before c. next. While no final decision expected immediately, Canada obably will ask for more than a bushel compared with the ice of $1.55 set for the first two ars, which often has been as uch as $1 a bushel less than the arket level.

anada's Own Problems

Canada's own financial difficulties caused by her trade defit with the United States will be new factor in the discussions ere.

Meantime, still darkening Briain's immediate prospects of recovery was the Grimethorpe coal trike. A refusal Sunday by the niners to resume work sent the ispute into its fifth week with n estimated 360,000 tons of coal lready lost, 50,000 miners idle, 50 Sheffield steel furnaces closed, 3,000 consumers affected in Yorkshore, and 500,000 industrial and textile workers facing the possibility of unemployment.

Undoubtedly there will be further strenuous government efforts to halt the paralyzing strike.

Typical miner comment was:—"We're tired of meetings and tired of repeating we'll never work the new stint . . . and we'll never be starved back into the pits. We stayed out for 32 weeks in 1926 and we can do the same again."

Opponents of the Attlee government in weekend political speeches were inclined to place the blame for the coal strike on Fuel Minister Shinwell and the Coal Board.

ASEPTIC TECHNIQUE

Student in U. S. Army air corps technical school had teeth filled by two different dental officers. Neither used antiseptic or cement in the cavity before filling. The student asks whether this is good work.

It is excellent work, so far as the surgical principle of asepsis is concerned. That is what the student is concerned about, I suppose.

The ideal the surgeon strives for today is to keep infection, sepsis, disease germs out of the wound and off from instruments, hands and the immediate environment of the operation. This is far better and far more difficult and it demands far better training than the old time antiseptic technique in which the surgeon purported to use all necessary precaution if he applied some antiseptic to a wound, instruments and environment of the operation before, during or after the operation.

Unfortunately for the uninformed portion of the public some surgeons, physicians, dentists, specialists, nurses still practise in the altiseptic era and have never found it necessary to learn or apply aseptic technique. Their patients are satisfied with the old odors.

A number of operators who filled successive tricks of duty at a telephone transmitter took the "precaution" (probably advised by some antediluvian doctor) of wiping off the mouthpiece with a questionable rag moistened with a proprietary "antiseptic" liquid which has the potency of a solution of a spoonful of boric acid in a glass of water but an impressive odor besides, before beginning work. I do hope the employees didn't pay for the smell. If the company paid through the nose for it, that is only fair, for following the advice of the nineteenth century doctor in the matter.

A nurse in a metropolitan hospital attending a puerperal patient upon whom episiotomy, an operation to control or prevent external laceration in childbirth, had been done, was changing the dressing, accidentally dropped a sterile pad on the floor, picked it up and was going to apply it to the wound — but the patient in this instance happened to know better. Suppose the nurse had committed the unpardonable breach of aseptic technique and the wound had become infected—would the victim have had a fair claim against the hospital for damages? Morally, yes; actually or legally, I don't know. The hospital should be bound to employ only properly trained nures. That particular nurse was unfit to attend any patient.

A nose and throat specialist doing intranasal surgery dropped a cotton applicator on the patient's lap, picked it up and continued to use it. The patient was greatly disturbed and never returned to the office of the nose and throat specialist, but the specialist was lucky because the patient brought no action against him for malpractice.

Aseptic means keeping germs out. Antiseptic means trying to prevent growt hor multiplication of germs after they have invaded the field.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

So You Have Indigestion?

I had a six weeks attack of gall-bladder inflammation. 3 doctors agreed about it but none gave me any relief. I sent for your booklet, tried out the "non-surgical drainage" and it surely worked. I am feeling fine now and I want to thank you.

(L. R.)

Answer — The booklet, So You Have Indigestion? is available to any one who asks for it in writing (not with a clipping) and incloses ten cents and stamped self addressed envelope. It is just as likely, Ma'am that you'd be feeling fine now if you had never heard of non-surgical drainage. . . .

That would mean:

1. Trading nations would accept the over-all principle of nondiscrimination in trade—an equal chance for all with goods to buy or sell in the world market. But even among the 17 founders, the principle would not be applied universally or at once. Successive examinations have left intact escape clauses the nations think they need for self-preservation. Breed Deadly Snakes to Save Human Lives

Durban, South Africa, (CP)—A snake farm at Doonside on the Natal south coast, established by D. C. Fitz-Simons, director of the Suburban Snake Park, has begun production since the first batch of "livestock" has been appreciably increased.

It has been established to insure increased supplies of snake venom, to provide facilities for study of the snake in its natural surroundings, and to extend research into the curative properties of snake venom. Attempts are also to be made to hatch snake eggs by incubation. If they succeed, an unyielding supply of reptiles for "milking" purposes will be available.

Venom is sent to the Rietfontein Laboratories in Johannesburg for conversion into all types of sera and vaccines. Not all venom collected however, is put to this purpose. In various forms it is employed to a certain extent in the treatment of blackwater fever, haemophilia, and other conditions of excessive bleeding, and in the treatment of epilepsy.

Covering approximately an acre of cleared bush, the farm is surrounded by a 5-foot fence capped by a shield to prevent the snakes from escaping into the outside undergrowth. The eight compartments inside the wall include three "milking" pens, a laboratory, a breeding pen, a hatchery, and a sick-bay.

The remaining compartments will be occupied by cobras, ringhals and other species of venomous snakes. Ponds, which contain frogs, and an ample supply of mice and rats, specially bred on the farm, will yield the "inmates" plenty of food.

BRITISH BODILY

"Most of them were men, but at least three girls were carried off the Ocean Vigour in this fashion, to the accompaniment of wailing and weeping from women and children on the decks and on the docks.

The refugees coming ashore this morning — most of them are of Polish origin — all appeared healthy and seemed to have survived their long sea voyage from Sete, France, to Haifa, Palestine, to Port De Bouc, France, to Gibraltar, to Hamburg, in good physical condition.

A member of the ship party told reporters that there was "much weeping" aboard at having to come ashore in Germany. He said the Jews felt it was a great "humiliation and misery." At the former Nazi concentration camp at Belsen yesterday, Jewish displaced persons hanged Foreign Secretary Bevin in effigy and then beat the dummy with sticks.

One was beaten on the head with a club. Another was struck by a soldier's fist. Within a space of 15 minutes, watchers saw more than 12 struggling, screaming Jews carried off the ship and hauled, still kicking, to the train.

One British soldier came off the ship holding his hands to his face, apparently wounded. At that point the entire dock force of helmeted British troops was sent aboard.

At Poppendorf, British troops ran out fire hoses and connected them to fire hydrants as the train approached.

Cries of "this is as bad as Hitler and the Gestapo," and "just like Auschwitz" came from the train windows.

Some claimed that even though many of the refugees appeared to have left the Ocean Vigour without protest British troops applied pressure below decks. A British spokesman said no physical persuasion was applied at the beginning, when the first refugees left the ship quietly.

The second British transport, the Empire Rival, was standing by and may be unloaded today, while the third, the Runneymede Park, was reported on her way into the pier area. She will be the last to disembark her passengers and British sources said she was carrying the "toughest" lot of refugees and the group from whom the most resistane was expected.

Korff, who was known at his hotel as a man who had as many as 50 visitors a day, told reporters two weeks ago that he was planning a parachute invasion of Palestine from France by Jewish refugees. He added that he would jump into Palestine himself if Britain refused him a visa.

The interior minister quoted the leaflets as saying:

"To the people of England.

"To the people whose government proclaimed 'peace in our time.' This is a warning.

"Your government has dipped His Majesty's crown in Jewish blood and polished it with Arab oil . . .

"Your government has violated every article of the Retz Israel (Palestine) mandate, flouted international law and invaded our country.

"Oswiecim, Dachau and Treblinka made way for the 'Exodus' to the Hitler-Bevin alliance—the murder of the survivors whom Hitler's wrath could not reach.

"We are resolute that it shall not come to pass again. We will carry the war to the very heart of the empire. We will strike with all the bitterness and fury of our servitude and our bondage. We are prepared to fight a war of liberation now to avoid a war of enslavement tomorrow.

"People of England! Press your government to quit Eretz Israel now! Demand that your sons and your daughters return home or you may not see them again.

Fighters of freedom for Israel."

15 Fatalities During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press))

With two automobile accidents claiming three lives each, weekend fatalities in Eastern Canada numbered 15, a Canadian Press survey shows.

Killed in an automobile-train collision near Eganville in Eastern Ontario were Albert Kelly, 30, and his 14-months-old daughter Frances, of Renfrew, Ont., and Kelly's brother, Glen, of Matachewan, Ont. Mrs. Albert Kelly was injured.

When a car plunged into a 20-foot ditch and exploded at Lacolle, Que., 3 men were killed. They were Dallas W. Bosell of Syracuse, N.Y., his brother, Cecil, of Plattsburg, N.Y., and Walter L. Graves of Plattsburg.

Other separate traffic accidents took the lives of Edward Carroll, 77, of Ottawa, and Mrs. Alice Kirton, 63, of Montreal.

Mrs. John Peach, 58, of Montreal, and George Bloomer, 50, of Oshawa, Ont., were drowned. The body of Mrs. Beulah Nicholaus, 47, of Buffalo, N.Y., who fell overboard from a yacht on Labor Day was washed ashore at Fort Erie, Ont. A fall into Lake Simcoe when a canoe capsized was held responsible for a fatal heart attack suffered by Mrs. Emily Jones, 55, of Weston, Ont.

Frank Howes, 60-year-old plasterer, of Port Severn, Ont., died 10 minutes after falling 10 feet from a scaffold at Barrie, Ont. A train killed Isidore Sanche, 73, of St. Therese, Que., as he crossed railway tracks. Warren Robertson, 19, of Pembroke, Ont., suffered fatal injuries when thrown from a tractor.

Discussions on Possibility Of Newfoundland Joining Canada May be Lengthy

Ottawa, Sept. 6 (CP) —Officials participating in the discussions on the possibility of Newfoundland joining Canada as a 10th province still do not know when the talks are likely to end.

A series of meetings were held last week by a sub-committee established to draft terms under which union might be workable and more meetings likely will be held this week.

Joseph R. Smallwood, secretary of the seven-man Newfoundland delegation, said "satisfactory progress" was being made but the utmost caution was being shown because of the immensity of the problem being tackled.

An extensive program for improvement of the nation parks will be presented to Resources Minister Glenn when he returns to Ottawa later this month to resume his ministerial duties which were interrupted by illness early this summer. He is reported to have fully regained his health.

For years departmental officials have been urging greater expenditures on the parks and on the roadways leading to them but the war and other much needed expenditures since have kept the appropriations for the parks decidedly limited.

However, now that the number of persons visiting the parks this summer has broken all records and the demand for more extensive accommodation has become more urgent it is expected the treasury board will be more generous in its park grants this year.

Numbers of returned men were granted concessions to build tourist accommodations in the parks this year but they were hampered by scarcity of building supplies and the accommodation did not begin to meet the needs. Tourists however never had to sleep in the open. They could always rent tents and beds and blankets after the cabins were filled.

One of the features of this year's tourist business in the parks was the number of Americans who came provided with trailers.

Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, is arranging a conference in Ottawa this month when the lessons learned in this year's tourist business will be studied by government officials including the needs of the national parks.

Eager Poles Clear Ruins Of Capital

By JOHN LLOYD

Warsaw, Poland, Sept. 6—(AP) — Whatever may be in store for them politically, the Poles are digging into their war heritage of grim stark ruins with an obvious will to rebuild and struggle for a future.

On the surface at least, Warsaw bustles with life. Dents are being driven into the appalling mass of wreckage, the restaurants supply abundant and excellent food, there are many small private shops selling on a free market and people make merry in spite of the awful surroundings.

The ruins loom in grotesque attitudes as far as the eye can see. To really understand, one must visit and look for himself. They are awe-inspiring testimonials of human brutality.

But — two years later — one-storey concrete buildings fringe many of the areas of desolation, housing shops that display everything from furs to electrical gadgets and from art work to hams, roast chickens and liquors. Modest brick buildings are cropping out in the residential sections. Street-cars and buses have glass windows again, traffic cops wear neat white coats and a good proportion of the pedestrians are well dressed.

On one side of the area of greatest destruction run the avenues General Sikorskiego and Jerozolimskie. They form a wide thoroughfare and the side still standing — a relative term since the line of buildings is punctuated liberally with ruins — looks out over a vast zone of complete desolation. On the other side of the street stood one of the world's finest railway stations. It and its surroundings are now rubble.

Spared by Germans

On the Avenue Jerozolimskie, facing the ruins, stands the hotel that was spared by the Germans because they were using it and which now shelters diplomatic personnel, newspaper men and a few visitors. Its accommodations are dingy and inadequate.

Despite Serious Shortages Progress is Being Made In Canadian Road-Improvement

St. Andrews, N. B., Sept. 8 — (CP) — Despite serious shortages and sharply-increased costs of labor, materials and machinery, progress is being made in Canadian roads-improvement projects, W. S. Queensbury Rules Contained in Draft For Trade Charter

Geneva, Sept. 6 (CP) — Queensbury rules for international trade, where no-quarter competition has been the custom, are contained in the international trade organization draft charter prepared by 17 countries who represent 63 per cent of world trade.

The charter, prepared by the I.T.O. preparatory committee, is starred with cross-references and footnotes and to the layman it is a jungle of sections, clauses, reservations, provisions and proposals. Since 1946 it has been studied, revised and altered at 700 meetings.

Those who created the charter will take it to their home governments and then to Havana on Nov. 21, when, at the world trade conference they will ask others of the United Nations to endorse it. If this is done, the charter principles may be applied to international trade in 1948.

That would mean:

1. Trading nations would accept the over-all principle of non-discrimination in trade—an equal chance for all with goods to buy or sell in the world market. But even among the 17 founders, the principle would not be applied universally or at once. Successive examinations have left intact escape clauses the nations think they need for self-preservation. The hope is that such reservations will be eliminated as understanding and appreciation of I. T. O. increase.

Become Brother's Keeper

2. Nations to a degree would become their brother's keeper. Developed countries like the United Kingdom would encourage the expansion of industry and agriculture in under-developed lands like China through advice and other help. Definiations still have to come. Canada, for instance, cannot be sure whether she would be considered developed or undeveloped in the various branches of industry and agriculture.

3. The nations would accept I. T. O. authority. A country which imposed discriminations against fellow members without consultation would lose its privileges. Being blackballed by I. T. O. would be tantamount to economic ruin.

4. Through I. T. O., the nations would work together to prevent depressions. Unemployment in one country might reduce markets for others and start a worldwide descent into poverty. When a nation ran into trouble on the balance of payments, like the United Kingdom at present, other I. T. O. nations in their own interest would give whatever help the organization thought necessary.

Not as Strong as Liked

The charter is not as strong as Canada and some of her allies would like immediately.

The United Kingdom, beset with immediate economic worries, refuses to take the risks of losing existing advantages without early recompense. Others follow her example.

Geneva discussions although she is a member of the preparatory committee.

If the charter is approved this year, tariff walls will not automatically disappear although the nations will be pledged to facilitate lowering them.

International Ideal

The charter represents an international ideal. Tariff changes involve dollars and cents in the pockets of farmers, tradesmen, householders. The I. T. O. approves the method under which tariff reductions are to be negotiated by experts from different countries who agree to changes only after they have considered the effects on all sections of their people although they keep the charter principles in mind. This is stiff, down-to-earth dickering in the traditional manner.

The charter does not expect a nation to expose its people to ruin through sudden alterations in trading practices to meet its requirements. But the principle of non-discrimination provides that nations shall keep each other informed of their practices and reasons for unusual actions.

Isotope Causes Consternation Among Ottawa Press Corps

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Sept. 6 —(CP)— The learned gentlemen of the Capital press corps got excited this week about something neither they nor anybody else has ever seen—an isotope.

This tiny bit of atomic nothingness — well, nearly nothing — came into their lives at a press conference called by Reconstruction Minister Howe to explain the government's plans to sell radioactive isotopes, by-product of Canada's atomic energy pile, to research workers and foreign countries.

Trouble was that Dean C. J. MacKenzie, president of the National Research Council and one of Canada's foremost scientists, explained to the conference that isotopes are something you can't see, though you know in theory they are there.

That produced a lot of questions because how can you sell something you can't see?

"Where can I buy a isotope?" asked a reporter.

"You can't buy an individual isotope," said the Dean gravely.

"Well, if I bought a couple what would I get?"

"You'd get a lump of lead," suggested Mr. Howe.

"Oh, they're made of lead," chorused the press corps, jotting down this piece of intelligence on notepads.

"No, no," said Mr. Howe. "That's just the lead container to prevent you from being burned by radioactive rays."

Dean MacKenzie decided to clarify the situation, and pencils leaped to pads again.

"They're made from numerous materials," he explained. "Take hydrogen as an illustration: An isotope of hydrogen is a radioactive atom of that element, with a different atomic weight than a non-isotope atom of the same element. Hydrogen comprises one proton; heavy hydrogen one proton and . . ."

Most of the pencils faltered at this point.

Dean MacKenzie tried another tack.

"Well, let's take cows. It's like a belled cow in a herd of cattle. If you had 1,000 head of cattle and one carried a bell and you could hear the bell ringing you could say you had a belled cow — but you couldn't see it.

"It's the same way with an isotope. You take some substance, say common table salt, that has been bombarded by radiation from an atomic pile and check it with a detector that reacts to radio-active rays. It reacts; so you know you have isotopes — but you can't see them."

This explanation satisfied the newspaper men and all returned to their desks to write articles about isotopes, electrons, protons, neutrons, and proton-electronic combinations.

And, in case anyone is interested and subject to correction by the Dean, it now may be stated that the diameter of a hydrogen atom, roughly the same size as a hydrogen isotope, is nearly 1/200,000,000 of an inch.

Shippers Scramble For U.K. Cargoes

Montreal, Sept. 6 (CP) —Ship owners scrambled today for grain cargoes in an effort to fill holds standing empty for lack of export goods through Britain's sharp reduction in purchases in this country.

But shipping men reported grain none too plentiful and freighters are delayed several day awaiting enough cargo.

"The situation is serious and will be even worse in a month or so" said one official. "Not only Montreal but all other Canadian ports are affected."

Reduction in exports was felt by companies operating ships to the continent and other overseas destinations, as well as to Britain.

It was said practically all grain moving to Montreal arrives by rail, and ships that never before carried a bushel of grain are loading it now — if they can get it.

Despite the tonnage drop, Montreal was said to be still ahead of last year's ocean-shipping. To date 490 ships have used port facilities since navigation opened here last April, against 449 ships in the corresponding 1946 period. Total tonnage stands at 1,739,345 against 1,713,482 for the same period last year.

Shipping men are hopeful that a heavy movement of grain will start reaching Montreal elevators around the end of the month.

At the same time passenger companies are feeling some concern. They report that since persons leaving England can take little money with them, many are postponing their trips. Also, it is believed the immigration movement may be adversely affected.

Among ships' crews arriving at Montreal, stewards and other attendants wear the longest faces. Under British regulations a passenger can spend no more than five pounds aboard ship.

"The passengers are getting pretty canny with their money," "But you can't blame them. A mite like five pounds won't go far on a ship these days."

Retiring Can be Fatal

Most of us look forward to the day when we can quit working and retire to enjoy our old age. It sounds wonderful. But according to the experts, retirement is more often a shortcut to death. So many people are unequipped to play or use their leisure time after years of dependence on working, that many go to pieces when removed from their jobs. They get bored.

They begin to feel "left out of things". What then is the answer to a happier old age? In The Standard this week, June McFeely writes a mighty interesting article on this question of retirement. It may not change your mind, but it will at least give you something to think about and perhaps profit by. Read it in The Standard this week. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. R. Harback and wedding music was played by Miss Grace Pitman, of Stirling. As the guests were assembling she played "Sweet Memories" and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was lovely in a floor length gown of blush pink satin with a short train, sweetheart neckline and long fitted sleeves. Her veil was of fine net with silk embroidery. She wore a double strand of pearls, the gift of the groom and carried a white Bible with red roses caught by white streamers.

Miss Helen Carruthers, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and was becomingly attired in a floor length dress of old rose satin and carried cream roses. Little Barbara Woodbeck, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and wore a long dress of heavenly blue nylon and carried a nosegay of roses and sweetpeas.

Mr. Clinton Woodbeck, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception for twenty guests was held at Chez Henri, the bride's mother receiving her guests in a brown silk crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Carruthers wore navy blue crepe, ivory accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

NICOLSON—ELMHIRST

Christ Church, at Campbellford, was the setting of a lovely wedding on Saturday, August 30th., at three p.m., when Gladys Eleanor Elmhirst, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Elmhirst, Campbellford, became the bride of Donald Jack Nicholson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Nicholson, of Frankford. The church was beautifully decorated with gladioli, hydrangea, zinnias and fern. Rev. W. J. Lennox officiated, and Mrs. Ward Archer, A.T.C.M., cousin of the bride, presided at the organ. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Allan Watson sang, "Love's Coronation".

Immediately before the ceremony a violin solo, "At Dawning", was rendered by Mr. Bruce Elmhirst, brother of the bride. The choir then preceded the bridal party up the aisle, singing the hymn "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was very charming in a robe of pure white satin, fashioned with net yoke, fitted bodice, and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. It was lace trimmed and had full length circular train. Her long scalloped net veil was caught in a coronet of imported orange blossoms. She carried a muff of Bettertime roses and baby breath.

Bride-to-be Showered

Miss Gladys Elmhirst was guest of honor at a very happy gathering of the members of the Campbellford Ladies' Choir at "Benovista" the Summer home of Mr. and Mrs. James O' Benor.

In a few well chosen words Gladys thanked the ladies for their kindness and best wishes and invited the members of the choir to visit her in her new home at Frankford.

During the previous week Mrs. Ward Archer also entertained for Miss Gladys Elmhirst at a kitchen shower.—Campbellford Herald.

$1,500,000 Tomato Crop Being Harvested In Quinte District

Delayed by an exceptionally late spring which held up planting operations, an industry which in the normal year would return farmers in the Bay of Quinte district in the neighborhood of a million-and-a-half dollars is this week getting underway.

Tomato canning factories in the three counties of Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland are now starting to run tomatoes, two weeks later than in the normal season.

With acreage in the three counties estimated this year at approximately 11,000 acres, the crop of tomatoes will not total more than 60 per cent in the opinion of veteran canning factory operators. Offsetting this, however, will be an increased price which will return the farmer approximately 80 cents per bushel for No. 1 tomatoes. Last year the price paid farmers was about 60 cents per bushel. The normal yield of tomatoes in Prince Edward alone where 7,000 acres are plated is in the neighborhood of a million-and-a-half burhels.

P. E. County High in Rank

Prince Edward county is considered the thud tomato producing county in Ontario, being outranked only by Essex and Kent counties. In Hastings and Northumberland however, tomatoes rank secondary to dairying and grain.

Blight conditions spread mainly by wet and muggy weather is causing extensive damage to the tomato crop in certain areas with certain farmers in the Bay of Quinte area being seriously hit. In some instances in Prince Edward farmers this year have lost their complete crop from blight condition. This shows up as a black spot on the tomatoes making them culls. The plants are also affected.

It is considered possible that the late blight fungus affecting tomatoes in the Prince Edward district may have been wind borne across Lake Ontario as blight condition is known to be prevalent in New York State.

Compulsory Grading.

One of the features of the canning industry this year is the compulsory grading of all tomatoes accepted by factories. Previously tomatoes have been paid for at so much the bushel but this year they are graded by government grader. There are three grades, No. 1 and No. 2. Culls are a complete loss to the farmer. Price for No. 1 tomatoes is $27.10 per ton or 81 cents per bushel, while No. 2's return $17.10 per ton or 51 cents per bushel. Last year farmers were paid 60 cents per bushel.

"It is merely a move on the part of the government to educate the farmer into growing first quality produce," pointed out Charles Kent of Consecon who is acting as tomato grader at the Belleville plant of the Canadian Packers. He stated that generally speaking farmers are taking "fairly well" to grading and are learning that it does not pay to market poor quality fruit.

Approves Growing.

Thomas Walker, R. R. 7 Belleville, young Prince Edward county tomato grower, also approved of tomato grading.

"It just means that a farmer raising good quality produce gets paid for his extra effort," he said. "Hired pickers may be a little careless in picking, but if a farmer picks his own he can make sure that only good quality fruit is marketed."

Mr. Walker's five acre field of tomatoes is one which apparently has escaped the ill effects of late blight and he expects to pick in the neighborhood of 2,000 bushels.

Some farmers in the area go extensively into tomato growing, it being not uncommon for large growers in Prince Edward county to have as high as 30 acres. The average acreage, however, is five to seven acres. In Hastings farmers rarely grow more than three acres, but one Sidney township farmer, Horace Knight, 4th concession, this year has 20 acres.

Hire Picking Done

Large growers have to hire their picking done and pay ten to twelve cents per bushel. Quite a number of pickers have been sent out from the Belleville Employment office this year at ten cents per bushel but the demand thus far has not been great.

Canning factories in the district represent a large labor outlet each fall with large factories employing up to 100 women alone for peeling tomatoes. A good peeler can earn $4 to $5 per day with most factories in the district giving a bonus if the worker stays for the season.

A fine example of mass production on a large scale the modern canning factory can turn out thousands of cans of tomatoes each hour and early in the season can operate only for a few hours at a time. In the height of the season, however, factories operate day and night.

How Tomatoes Canned

When a farmer brings his load of tomatoes to the factory the government grader takes one bushel off his load or one bushel in every 50 in a large load. The test bushel is graded and the farmer paid on a percentage basis according to the one bushel test. Tomatoes are then dumped from their crates into scalders and are thoroughly washed and cleaned before peeling. The tomatoes are then automatically passed along an inspection table and if tomatoes are being canned they are peeled. At the present time the Belleville factory is running tomato juice and catsup.

With tomatoes peeled and cut or run through a juicer cans are automatically filled in a filling and capping machine at a rate of 240 per minute, then they are cooked at boiling point for 25 minutes. They are then cooled and labelled and are ready for packing into cardboard cases containing 24 cans each.

Canning Big Business

The factory at Belleville this year will can tomatoes from 600 acres which were contracted with the farmers early in the spring. Late in the autumn cheques from the canning factory will go out to the farmers for their produce.

Yes tomato canning is "big business" in the Bay of Quinte district and in the normal year well over two millions of bushels would be grown. Crop expectancy is down this year and may be further cut by an early frost but despite this tomatoes should this year return Bay of Quinte district over a million dollars.

KNITS THOUGH BLIND

Kingston, Sept. 8 — (CP) — Since last fall Alida Hymers of nearby Odessa has knit 25 pears of socks, five pairs of mittens and a scarf — despite the fact she has been blind for nine years. During the weekend she celebrated her 80th birthday.

Seventy-Five Guests Attend Party to Mark Mrs. Bassett's Birthday

A happy surprise birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bassett, of Madoc, on Saturday evening, August 30th. About seventy-five guests consisting of the immediate family, grandchildren and relatives arrived to help Mrs. Bassett celebrate another milestone in her voyage of life.

Mr. Ken Broadworth of Stirling, acted as Master of Ceremonies. After calling the group to order he led them in a spirited sing-song. A musical program consisting of vocal solos, duets and instrumental numbers was enjoyed by all.

Mr. Fred Deyolin was then called upon to make the presentation. In his speech he stated that Mrs. Bassett was the last remaining aunt of the preceding Wm. Broadworth family. He recalled the musical ability, friendliness, and love of fun and laughter of that family. Characteristic of Aunt Beatrice herself was the warmth of welcome one always received; her generosity and her sincere regard for the happiness and welfare of those near and dear to her. He felt that it was her joie de viore and youthful outlook on life that kept her so young. The gift, a mix-master was then presented by her granddaughter, Gail Rodgers of Belleville.

Though taken completely by surprise Mrs. Bassett made a very appropriate reply. She thanked those present for their kindness and thoughtfulness in honoring her in this way. The hope that, God willing, these dear friends be spared to so celebrate many more birthdays was expressed.

Mrs. Bassett cut the birthday cake and refreshments were served. The evening ended with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds".

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The ways of an expert are slicker. And seemingly very much quicker. But intricate stuff is a little too rough on a guy with a very weak ticker.

South still has this hand:

♠A 8 6 3
♥K 9 7 4
♦None
♣K J 8 6 4

When north opened with a spade, south made a response of two clubs. When north then bid two diamonds, what is the next bid by south? Hearts? Rebid clubs? Assist spades?

Not hearts. The heart suit is not biddable. To be biddable, a suit of only four cards needs two faces. Nor rebid in clubs. To be rebiddable a five card suit needs three honors.

Thus, it boils down to an assist in spades. The hand sure does have adequate support for the digger suit. So, the only further act to decide is how much of an assist to make.

The north opener promised at least five tricks. This south hand counts six tricks. With 11 tricks known to be in the pair, enough is discovered for a game. The signal for this is a jump.

How much of a jump assist should be made? No more than is needed to signal game values. Therefore, over the north bid of two diamonds, the south bid here is three spades.

You may ask why south avoided jumping immediately in his first response. The answer to this is that an immediate one-jump promises two sure tricks with enough tricks for game.

You may ask why south fails to jump right here to a bid of four spades. Is this trip necessary? The jump to three spades orders the bidding to be kept open. Time enough to reach game.

The bidding to here follows the routine applicable to all hands. Some may use fancier methods. Or plainer. But none steadier.

Cutting too many corners produces too many mourners.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

LEAST FLYCATCHER

Huddled together at the foot of a old apple tree, we watched a family of small birds going back and forth between the top rail of a tumbled-down snake fence and a low branch of the giant elm tree some yards away. The performance was repeated over and over. Mr. and Mrs. Least Flycatcher were giving their children a lesson in snapping up their dinner as they flew.

Mother would make a dash after some flying insect, almost touching the tops of the grasses; snatch it with a click of her slender little bill; then alight with quivering wings and tail, gurgling instructions to her attentive offspring. Next a tiny fluffy ball, light underneath and olive brown on the top side, would try to copy the little stunt.

When came time for father's demonstration everything was done just the same except the ending. Once back on the perch, sitting up very straight in true flycatcher style, he insisted on telling us his nickname as often as he could get in the word "Chebec" before it was again his turn to give an exhibition of how to catch food on the wing. He never sat really still, because he evidently could not talk without jerks of his head and tail, reminding us of people who wave their arms when speaking.

Both parents were less than 5 1-2 inches long: the size of large Warblers; with bright little eyes, a near-crest on the tops of their dark heads, and a perky appearance. Some wing feathers seemed to be scalloped around with dull white, and their light wing-bars showed distinctly. We could see the forked ends of their tails hanging down the far side of the branch. But even with field glasses we were not quite close enough to make out the hairs that stuck out over the bases of their bills, which were hooked at the tip. These we knew were characteristics of the flycatchers.

For weeks we had been aware of the site of the family's residence, but were unable to watch their progress. The nest was far above eye level: at least twenty feet above the ground, in a crotch of the huge elm. Mr. Least Flycatcher drew our attention to it by his continual calling and happy little "flight song" as he would rise into the air. What a pity the neglected nest was inaccessible! We wanted it as a souvenir.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was looking at the headlines on his way to the sporting page, and ma said, William, isn't there a proverbial expression to the effect that adversity makes naybors of us all?

Well, I believe some lofty sole once remarked that mizzery loves company, pop said, and ma said, Anyway, it's certainly true that people who are exposed to life's misfortunes feel a common bond that they would never experience if they mearly shared the blessings of fortune, and I came across a personal example of it this afternoon. Did you ever her me mention Prisilla Eckwein? she said.

Not till this moment, I believe, pop said, and ma said, Well, Prisilla and I were girls together. We were invited to join the same sororities, and we knew the same boys, so naturelly we had our little jellissies and big rivalries, and when we got older and drifted apart, I'm sure neither one of us shed any large tears of sorrow at the parting of the ways. In fact when we accidently met at the Zipper Tea Room today, our ferst greeting was quite formal, and when I saw her eyeing me up and down it made me very glad that I had my becoming new hat on, though naturelly Prisilla didn't mention it, any more than I mentioned her well cut tailored outfit, ma said.

Where does the common adversity come in, pop said. Did the tea room catch on fire? he said, and ma said, Certainly not, although the air in there couldn't of been any hotter. In fact, that was the very hardship we had in common. I mean the excessive heet and the trials and tribulations of trying to keep comfortable with the temperature and the humidity both beeting their own werst records. Well, William it all ended in a mutual glow of cordiality, with both of us telling each other how young we looked and how well dressed we were. So it just goes to show, doesn't it, William? ma said.

No doubt, no doubt, pop said.

Saying it in back of the sporting page.

Ottawa Rough Riders Hand Argos 23-6 Drubbing as U.S. ImportsShowHowGamePlayed

Winnipeg Blue Bombers Caught a Tartar in Regina but Win 6-5

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The imports exploded on Canadian gridirons in football's inaugural weekend in a manner that portended some upsetting changes in the old order.

Most startling of the upsets was the 23-6 drubbing that Ottawa Rough Riders, studded with their full complement of five United States imports, hung on the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts—a defeat which Argo Coach Tedder Morris said "My boys sure deserved".

But there were other reversals from last season's form in the give games, played in anything but football weather Saturday as temperatures ranged from 70 upward in the shade and a lot more than that on the sun-baked gridirons.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who have had things pretty much their own way in the Western Canada League these past two years, found they'd caught a tartar in Saskatchewan Roughriders, last season's doormats. Led by Stan Stasica of University of Illinois game, the Roughriders bowed 6-5, only after threatening several times to snatch victory.

Calgary Stampeders, the other club in the three-team Western Canada loop, drew an opening-day bye.

Wildcats Run to Form

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Hamilton Wildcats ran to form with a 27-13 victory over Windsor Rockets. The other two games were close. Ottawa Trojans, who didn't win a game all last season, held Toronto Indians to a 6-6 draw while Toronto Balmy Beach, League Champions, edged Sarnia Imperials 5-3.

The Indians, by virtue of their early start when they whipped Windsor 17-6, in Toronto Labor Day, headed the O.R.F.U. standing with three points followed by Hamilton and Beaches with two apiece.

Even for Toronto, it seemed to be a quiet Sunday as fans digested their Argos' humiliation.

The home-brew champions came apart at the seams at Ottawa after holding a 6-5 lead but Coach Morris asserted it wasn't a case of their spirt collapsing when a quick forward put Rough Riders ahead.

"My boys never had any spirit for that game," he said. "The way some of them have been loafing all week I could feel it coming. You gotta work in practice to win football games. That's how you win—by working in practice.

"They'll work this week, or else."

Led in Second Quarter

Playing before a capacity crowd of 12,000 Argos took their lead in the second quarter when Joe Krol scored on a pass from Royal Copeland, then converted the touchdown, after Tony (Golden Boy) Golab plunged for an unconverted Ottawa major.

The Riders sprang to life in the final quarter, U.S. import Jack Fellows sparking the offensive with a touchdown pass to Nels Greene, an Ottawa rookie. Howie (Touchdown) Turner, another of Ottawa's U.S. Aces, intercepted an Argo Pass and ran 65 yards for the second major and veteran Tony McCarthy polished it off with another on a forward from Franke Dunlap. Bert Dressler converted all three.

Victory put Rough Riders at the top of the Interprovincial Union standing as Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tigers don't see action until next Saturday.

Fumbles played a major role in the other games.

At Toronto, the Indians and the Trojans handed the ball back and forth like a relay baton in playing their deadlock. The Trojans took a 6-0 lead in the second-quarter when Joe Farley, one of their five U.S. imports, recovered a block kick behind the goal-line but Bob Paffrath, stocky American halfback, gave Indians a major on a forward in the last four minutes. Gary Smith, Indians, 18-year-old Negro halfback, booted the game-tying convert.

Import Playoff Man

Still another U.S. Ace, Steve Vrabec who played with the Great Lakes naval station was the payoff man for Balmy Beach at Sarnia, driving through to block a kick and then recovering the ball himself for a second-quarter major. The Imperials ended the scoring with a third-quarter placement by Hank Galloway.

The Wildcats, who fizzled in the O.R.F.U. playoffs last season after a brilliant season, spotted Windsor a 3-0 lead on Leo Bucheski's placement at Hamilton. Then they opened up with touchdowns by U.S. Ace Tony Labarbera, Jones, Jim Stewart and Ben Dyack along with a placement by Bill Murmylyk and Joe Moretto's single.

The Rockets, who made several costly fumbles, fought back with touchdowns by Bob McMillan and Joe Lesinsk but couldn't match Hamilton's scoring pace.

At Regina, the Roughriders swept to a touchdown in the opening moments on a Stasica-to-Glasser forward but failure to convert cost them at least a tie. The Blue Bombers got the major back on Don Hiney's 20-yard pass to Joe Turner and Hiney kicked the extra point.

Three times, Saskatchewan marched to the Winnipeg goal-line in last-quarter drives, only to lose the chances on fumbles.

Canada Will Not Likely Send Team To Olympics

Zurich, Switzerland, Sept. 8—(CP)—Canada, traditionally the world's producer of hockey talent appears destined for a strictly spectator role when the Olympic hockey championships are held at St. Moriz next February.

Such a blackout seemed inevitable following the declaration yesterday by George Dudley of Midland, Ont., Secretary of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, that the C.A.H.A. would not send a team unless the organization's definition of an amateur were accepted by the International Olympic Committee.

Dudley cast the sole dissenting ballot as the International Ice Hockey Federation, meeting here in extraordinary sessions to settle the question of hockey at the St. Moritz games, passed by a 13-to-1 vote a resolution asking acceptance of the Olympic amateur rules. Britain and the United States were among the countries voting for the resolution.

Dudley, in a vigorous speech earlier calling for an "end to hypocrisy in sports," had said the Dominion was prepared to stand or fall on its definition of an amateur as a player who does not sign a professional contract.

After voting against the resolution seeking acceptance of Olympic amateur rules, tabled Saturday by Albert Mayer of the Swiss Federation, Dudley proposed a motion that "only a team delegated by the C.A.H.A. as a member of the I.I.H.F. will take part in the 1948 Olympics." Passage of this motion, opposed only by Belgium, apparently blocked any other sports organization in Canada from sending a hockey team to the Olympics.

Will Not Send Team

In his attack Saturday on hypocrisy in sport, Dudley said:

"This clinging to an idea of amateurism is what we call in Canada going back to the Victorian era. Where money is being made, those who help make it are entitled to their share and it's time realities are faced."

He reiterated that statement Sunday and added he was "satisfied" that the C.A.H.A. will not send a team.

"Probably 90 per cent of the players registered in the C.A.S.A. could qualify for the Olympics but we are not going to screen players and ask them if they could qualify. We made our standing regarding the Olympics at the Toronto meeting Aug. 15-19 and I cannot see how this will be changed."

(At the August meeting the C.A.H.A. said it was prepared to nominate a team for the Olympics provided that "such club's qualification in respect to amateurism be accepted without question.")

Mayer told The Canadian Press in an interview Sunday that if the C.A.H.A. rescinds its decision not to send a team, and the I.I.H.F. approved such reversal, the Olympic organizing committee would not question it.

OSHAWA MEETS POINT ANNE IN INT 'A' SERIES

Legionnaires Defeat K. of C. in Peterborough in Third Game 6-3

Peterborough, Ont., Sept. 8 — (CP) — Oshawa Legionnaires eliminated the Peterborough Knights of Columbus 6-3 in a deciding Ontario Amateur Softball Association intermediate "A" game here Saturday night, paced by the 3-hit pitching of Romaniski and McConkey and some timely hitting on the offensive.

In an afternoon game, Peterborough blanked Oshawa Legion 8-0 to tie their interbranch series at a game apiece. Greenlaw pitched a no-hit game for Peterborough.

In the night game, Knights took a 1-0 lead in the third, but Oshawa broke through for three in the sixth and added two more in the next inning. The Knights scored their other two runs in the 8th.

Two twirlers saw action for Legion, and between them they allowed but three scattered hits. Romaniski took himself out of the game in the sixth after allowing a walk and a hit. It was the second hit he allowed to that point. The first was in the fourth.

He fanned six but was in trouble several times in the close contest due to the four walks he allowed, and teammates' miscues.

McConkey finished strongly, giving but one hit and two walks. He fanned two.

Guilfoyle went the distance for K. of C., but was touched for 11 hits, several of which were scratchy ones. He walked two and struck out four.

McConkey led the winners at bat with a double and single in two official times at bat, while Reigle hammered out a double and two singles in five, and Yorkavich two singles in four. Seneco also had a double. Garvey got a double, as Burton and Spencer hit singles for the losers.

Defensive features included an O'Heron to Tompkins double play.

NEW RECORD CLAIMED

London, Sept. 8 (Reuters)—The crew of a new four-engined Canadian transport aircraft, the Canadian four, claimed last night to have broken the existing speed record for commercial-type aircraft the Montreal to London route. The new plane, the crew said, flew the 3,281-mile Trans-Atlantic course, in 10-hours, 30 minutes, late Thursday for an average speed of 312.4 miles an hour.

American Track And Field Team Blasts Records

Montreal, Sept. 8 —(CP)— A crack American track and field team blasted three Canadian records here Saturday at the second annual Canadian National Railways Recreation Association meet.

In a preview of competition that may be renewed next year at the Olympic games in London, the United States athletes set new Dominion marks in the pole-vault, high jump and discus throw, while beating an Eastern Canada team 111 to 39 in the combined results.

However, the biggest thrill of the day came to the 3,000 fans when a University of Western Ontario quartet smashed the mile relay record, beating out four ace American runners.

Bill Larochelle, Jack Parry and brothers Don and Bob MacFarlane clipped 2.1 seconds off the Canadian mark with a dazzling 3:17.1 minutes run to beat the New York quartet of Bill Hulse, Roscoe Brown, Jim McKenna and Harold McDonnell by six feet.

Bob (Bo) Morcom of New Hampshire State University leaped 14 feet one inch in the pole vault to better the former mark of 13 feet 3 5-8 inches set in 1928 by Vic Picard of Hamilton.

Bill Vessie of New York jumped six feet six inches to raise the high jump mark 1, 7-8 inches. Jack Portland of Collingwood, Ont., a former National Hockey League defenceman, set the old mark in 1943.

Sam Felton, representing the Mid-Atlantic branch of the United States Amateur Athletic Union captured the discus throw, heaving the saucer a record 156 feet 4 1-2 inches. Greg Kabat of Winnipeg held the old record of 147 feet 3 3 -4 inches.

In other event, Bob MacFarlane won the 440 in 48.3 seconds and veteran Wally Brown of Toronto set a provincial open record of 46 feet 7 1-8 inches in the hop, step and jump. Brown was captain of the Canadian team.

N.B.A. PRESIDENT HITS N.Y. STATE'S HOLD ON BOXING

Abe J. Greene Claims Stranglehold Broken and Sport Restored to Fans

Montreal, Sept. 8 (CP) —Abe J. Greene opened the annual convention of the National Boxing Association today by asserting that during the six years of his tenure as president of the United States organization, the N.B.A. had broken New York's "stranglehold" over boxing and the sport has been "restored once again to all the fans."

The New York State commission is not a member of the N.B.A. it recognizes champions separately from the organization headed by Greene.

Greene, a Paterson, N.J., newspaper editor, said in his report to the delegates from 52 boxing commissions, including Cuba and Hawaii, that when he first took office in 1941 "New York's tight monopoly on name boxers was the principal cause of alarm among boxing commissioners around the county."

Since then there had been title defences in every classification—except heavyweight Joe Louis' division — all in N.B.A. territory. The heavyweight situation was "unique in itself in that the titleholder is so vastly superior to the field as to remain virtually unchallenged."

Outlines Proposals

Greene outlined nine proposals which he said should be taken up at the convention as methods of improving boxing:

Proper defence of championships within the six months universally prescribed.

An end to hand-picking of title opponents by either promoters or champions.

A halt to title pretenders occupying the spotlight and then hibernating until they get a title chance.

Improved physical conditions of the ring and its appurtenances, such as paddings, mats, posts, ropes in various clubs.

More thorough and improved medical examinations for insurance against avoidable ring accidents.

Closer vigilance in matchmaking to prevent obvious and palpable mismatches.

Establishment of a uniform boxer's record card which will be interstate and will block false claims of padded records by incompetents.

The N.B.A. should consider means of strengthening home office records so that files may be built up of every boxer in the United States and would be available to every club in the country.

Consideration of a national indigent boxer's fund which would be firmly founded, based on contributions of all boxers and managers. This would take from boxing the "opprobrium and oft-earned criticism of failure to provide for men of the ring who have come upon injury or disability. Eventually there would be established a national home for boxers. Other public activities take care of their own—why not boxing?"

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 8. (AP)—Virtually every minor baseball league that has ended its season (and most of them are through now except for playoffs) was able to report a financially successful year. . . With ten new leagues operating, they were a cinch to beat last year's minor league total of more than 30,000,000 paid admissions. . . But some of the older, wiser guys down in the bushes are shaking their heads over the situation. . . .Some clubs lost money because of the weather, because they couldn't win enough games or because they spent too much money.

Most of the following opinions must be quoted anonymously, but they come from guys who know their way around in baseball.

A Class B club owner: "There are too many ways of violating the salary limits and these violations will continue just as long as baseball is played". . .

A Class D League president: "We used to operate in Class D for about $12,000. Now it takes a minimum of $25,000. Working agreements run only $2,000 and $2,500 at most. . . In one town where a major league club is outright owner, the Club is down and the fans say 'to heck with 'em'—and I understand they have lost more than $20,000 there this season. . .The whole thing seems out of balance, and come another season the wreckage of small leagues will dot the landscape unless there is a return to sanity."

Another Class D operator: "Our League enjoyed its best financial season but two clubs had rough financial sailing. Next year they plan to use more rookies and reduce expenses."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

It won't be the fault of the master-minds who control the destinies of golf at the Bay of Quinte Country Club here, if that phase of sports does not find itself commensurate with the resurgence of interest and participation that is characterizing other forms of athletics in this district.

• • •

For the royal and ancient game is slowly coming into its own in these parts, and no small credit is due those in charge of the links at the popular Trent Road Club. From President Clare Morgan games captain Ken Reid and professional Charlie Pidutti down the boys and gals are concentrating on a sports effort that is deserving of success. And that is slowly but surely coming their way.

• • •

Indicative of this was the fine tournament held on the links on Saturday. The function the second of its kind, and called the Bay of Quinte Annual Amateur Tournament, was an unqualified success, blessed with fine weather and some outstanding links performances.

• • •

Popularity of the B. of Q. sports functions is seen in the entry of sixty-six simon-pure linksmen from all parts of the district, besides representatives from Detroit and Cleveland. The greens were in excellent condition and drew well-deserved laudatory comment from the visiting golfers.

• • •

Two of the players had the gallery watching their shooting with marked interest. One was E. F. Mooers, Cataraqui Golf and Country Club eventual winner of the handsome City of Belleville Trophy, and incidentally the first golfer to cop the bauble. Mooers went out in a forty, but played sensational golf on the second nine with a score of 33, three below par to card a neat 83.

• • •

Another golfer to equal this feat, although he didn't achieve it in tournament play, was B. Anderson of Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Anderson played the course for two or three days and on one of his forays around the links carded a 33 score. Other performances were consistent. Tommy Carruthers, B of Q ace was apparently off form for the popular Tommy was carded in the eighties. Ken Reid, probably had too many other matters on his mind, for which he can be justifiably excused and also finished somewhere in the eighties.

• • •

However, the event goes down on the archives of the club as a top-flight affair with visiting golfers loud in their praise of the course, the greens the hospitality and club facilities.

• • •

Featuring the affair were the two new trophies, the City of Belleville for the individual low gross and the J.J. Morch for the team low gross. Both are beautiful baubles, and fine incentives for all those who love the game. Mayor Follwell, representing the city and Mr. Morch formally presented the trophies, both of which went to the Cataraqui Golf and Country club for the next year.

• • •

And while on the subject The Seagram Gold Cup, the emblem of top Canadian golfing honors which has spent most of its life in the United States, sets out this month on the longest journey in its history—a sea voyage to South Africa.

• • •

Bobby Locke, South African shot master, won the Canadian Open Golf Championship at Toronto Scarboro Course in July and thereby gained possession of the Seagram Cup for one year —the first time in the eleven-year history of the trophy that it has not had to be shipped to a United States club following the tournament.

• • •

The Gold Cup will make the journey to South Africa aboard the freight Grafton Park, now loading at Montreal. It is expected to reach South Africa in October, about the same time as Locke himself returns to his native club after burning up the best courses of Canada and the United States.

• • •

What a whale of a difference artificial ice makes. Last year the Belleville ANAFs, hockey football for the OHA and Kingston, is being mentioned as forming part of an Intermediate "A" grouping comprising teams from Kingston, Oshawa, Peterborough, Whitby and Bowmanville. This info appeared in Mike Rodden's column in the Kingston sheet a few days ago. Here tis:

Manager "Dingo" Haynes has announced that the incoming Kingston Hockey Club will hold an organization meeting in the Queen's University gymnasium starting at eight o'clock this evening. It is planned to enter the OHA intermediate A series comprising teams from Peterborough, Belleville, Oshawa, Whitby and Bowmanville.

• • •

The Point Anne Wings bowed out of the Intermediate "A" softball playdowns on Saturday night at the Alemite Field when the powerful Wooler team, trounced them by a 13-4 score in a game that saw Wings do everything wrong. The game was the third of the third round series with Wooler losing the first game 5-0, winning the second, 8-0 and easily copping the series in the third.

• • •

Messrs. Stacy, elongated pitcher and McColl, who also tips the clouds when he reaches for a high fly, led their team to a well-deserved victory. The squad played airtight ball behind Flinger Stacey, pounded two Ox Point hurlers for plenty of clouts and walked home with the series and the glory. Point Ann committed several costly errors and were by no means the team that set back the strong invaders in their first meeting.

• • •

However the Wings, although defeated were not disgraced. They brought a lot of credit to their home town sponsors, the Canada Cement Company, through the fine efforts of J. H. Legate, and to themselves and their home town. They disposed of the Picton Army in the first series; the strong Parham squad in the second, and went down to a better team in the third. They have nothing to be ashamed of and can carry their heads high in softball circles.

• • •

However the Point's Leafs are still in the hunt, having disposed of Kingston Locos in two straight games and now will meet the strong Oshawa Intermediate "A" team, conquerors of Peterborough. This will be a two-of-three series with the dates yet to be set. At least we have received no information to that effect.

• • •

And there'll be a baseball thriller at the Exhibition Grounds Wednesday floodlighting when the Batawa Shoemen and the Trenton Flyers meet in their third game of the first round Intermediate "A" OBA playdowns. Each team has a win to their credit and Flyers' extra-inning victory last week was a chiller. Game starts at 8:30 It is a must for baseball fans.

Vics tallied again in the eighth inning when Ray Yandon hit a hard, low drive into left field for a three-bagger. Ronnie Hill brought him in on a single and then was tagged on second base. Lay, showing good control, struck out eight and gave no bases on balls. Gordie Wilson pitched the first two innings for Vics and was relieved by George Brouse who made four strikeouts.

CATARAQUI GOLF CLUB, KINGSTON, SWEEPS HONORS

E. F. Mooers Wins City of Belleville Trophy First Time in Competition

The Cataraqui Golf and Country Club, Kingston, swept major honors at the Second Annual Bay of Quinte Amateur Golf Tournament held at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club links on Saturday.

E. F. Mooers, of the Cataraqui Club shooting a sensational back 33, four under par, after going out in forty, won the new City of Belleville Trophy for the low gross of 73.

In second place with a score of 77 was B. Anderson, of Cleveland, Ohio who also shot more or less spectacular golf to annex the second slot. Anderson came through with a neat 33 the other day while he was readying for the tournament.

Cataraqui members also won the J. J. Morch Trophy given to the four-man team with the low gross score. Headed by Mooers, the team included Lieut. Col. Manuel; J. McGeachie; and Dr. J. Milliken. The team received individual gifts of three new golf balls, presented by the Bay of Quinte professional, Charlie Pidutti.

In addition to the major prizes, the Kingston golfers took first place in the Class "A" low net won by Lt. Col. Manuel; low gross in the Class "B" won by Dr. J. Milliken, and first and second low net in the Class "C" won respectively by J. McGeachie, and Major E. N. Hodson, with scores of 72 each.

Seventeen players started the tough Class "A" grind; with handicaps of from 1 to 9; twenty-four entered the Class "B" with its handicap of 10 to 19, with twenty-five starting in the Class "C" with handicaps of from 20 up.

Favored linksmen of the Bay of Quinte Club more or less fell by the wayside. Murray McIntosh topped the club entries to annex second low gross in Class "A" with a 72. B. Graham won second low gross honors in Class "B" with a score of 86 while Bill Oliver, and Vic Nolan of the Belleville Golf won 1st and second respectively in the Class "B" low net with scores of 71 and 72.

Louis Welcomed By All Classes Of Fans at Toronto

(By The Canadian Press)

Joe Louis' reception in Toronto during his recent visit to the Canadian National Exhibition with his softball team would indicate that the Brown Bomber's popularity is not on the wane, as was inferred recently by former champ Jack Dempsey in Windsor. The Manassa Mauler, in Windsor to referee a wrestling match, said Louis was "an old man and should retire at once, adding that the longer Joe sticks around the more unfavorable will be his publicity. It doesn't hold for this part of Canada, however. Every time Louis appeared on the diamond with his team, crowds flocked to the champion to give him a tremendous ovation. When he played golf at Scarboro a large and enthusiastic gallery followed. Children of all ages sought autographs and Joe was photographed more than a model.

The earliest starting time for an amateur hockey team's practice this year is believed to be that of the Kitchener-Waterloo senior club. Coach "Flash" Hollett will lead more than 35 candidates for the team into training at Waterloo Memorial Arena next Wednesday.

Dr. Earl (Tuffy) Fitzgibbon, who led Guelph Collegiate's senior football team to victory in the Western Ontario scholastic series in 1945, will coach the team again this year. Dr. Fitzgibbon gave up the job after the team won the championship.

Moneta, a Timmins fastball team which won the first game in a playoff series with Kirkland Lake, has been suspended for the remainder of the season for refusing to comply with certain clauses" in the constitution of the Northern Fastball Association. D. G. Goff of Timmins, secretary of the Porcupine League, also has been suspended.

Len Wilson of St. Boniface, Man., Saturday won the 50-mile Fort Garry-to-Starbuck-and-return bicycle race, which was billed as the Canadian championship at the distance. His time was 2:15:30.

OSHAWA TAKES 1ST ROUND GAME FROM THE PETES

B'Nai Brith Junior Squad Wins 9-2 Being Too Powerful at Bat for Opposition

Oshawa, Sept. 7. (CP)—Oshawa's B'Nai Brith took the first game of their O.B.A. Junior first round playoff game from Peterborough Travellers, 9-2 here Saturday afternoon.

The Oshawa team was just too powerful at bat for the travellers. They committed nine errors in gaining the win.

"Bunny" Legree did a nice pitching chore for the B'Nai Brith. The lanky righthander was never in difficulty and only in the first of the ninth did his slider fail to work.

Red Sullivan, the Lift-Lock city hurler, was working his curve a little too much and later in the game some of the Oshawa team started to tee off on the pitch. As it was he allowed 11 hits for nine runs.

Legree struck out eight during the game and after the first frame in which Peterborough scored the first of their runs, he worked along without a run scored against him till the ninth. The travellers got their first run on an error. Curry singled to right and then when the rightfielder bobbled the ball he continued on to third. He scored on a wild toss by the catcher who was returning the ball to the mound.

Oshawa got that one back in the last of the first when Patte basted one through shortstop and then stole second. Hanna walked and then "Beefy" bathe loaded the bases when he got to first on an error of the shortstop. Wales grounded out and scored the first run, but the next man up did the same and ended the frame.

B'Nai Brith got singles in the last of the third and fourth and then capitalized on Peterborough errors to score two in the last of the fifth. Petes were still plugging along, but Legree still had them under his thumb.

The last of the sixth saw a double play halt an Oshawa rally and in the last of the seventh a pitch-out at the plate on an attempted steal ended the frame.

In the last of the eighth Oshawa sewed up the game with a four-run splurge with the help of three errors by Peterborough. In the first of the ninth the score was 9-1 and with two out Legree relaxed a little and allowed two hits. A double by Corkery put him in scoring position for Taylor's single. The next man grounded out to first and ended the game.

BELLEVILLE BOAT IN SECOND PLACE

Toronto, Sept. 8 — (CP) — Bob Southam of Hamilton, won the second division of the 225 class in the motor boat race events at the Canadian National Exhibition Saturday with his speedy Little Mercury. Southam scored firsts in both heats for an 800-point total.

Maple Leaf, owned and driven by Edwin Pine of Belleville, was second in both heats for a total of 600 points.

Only other race of the afternoon was a challenge event between Harold Archer of Port Perry, Ont., and Mike Stephen of Grand Island, N. Y., in the class D runabout type. Archer, the challenger lost both heats of the event.

JERSEY GIANTS COP INT. PENNANT ON FINAL DAY

Toronto Leafs Put Montreal Out by Winning First Game of Twin Bill

(By The Associated Press)

International League fans are willing to attest to the old adage that truth is stranger than fiction, especially after witnessing a seemingly badly beaten Jersey City Club climax a great uphill battle yesterday by copping the league flag on the final day of the season.

Trailing Montreal at one stage of the race by better than 13 games and still behind by two with only three games remaining, the Little Giants won all three including the finisher yesterday, to zoom past the bewildered Royals and win the flag by half a game.

The Royals after dropping two straight to lose their two-game margin, still led by one decimal point before yesterday's game. They still were in the driver's seat as they could not lose the flag if they won both games from Toronto, the league's doormats, no matter how Jersey fared.

Jersey City, a farm club of New York Giants, won their game from Baltimore 6-3. Montreal enjoyed a 5-3 lead going into the ninth of the first game with the Toronto team. There were two on and two out when Len Kensecke strode to the plate and socked a three-run homer to ruin the Royals, 6-5. The Brooklyn farm club won the second game, but it was meaningless.

It was the first Jersey City pennant win since 1939 and the third in its history.

The third-place Syracuse Chiefs swept a double-header from Newark, 2-1 and 3-0, to wind up the season with a string of seven straight.

The defeat dropped the Bears into a seventh-place tie with Baltimore, only one game out of last place, held by Toronto.

Buffalo Bisons outslugged Rochester Red Wings 8-6 as Earl Rapp and Anse Moore belted home runs for the winners.

London Majors Defeat Kitchener In 16 Innings

(By The Canadian Press)

In a 16-inning marathon at Kitchener Saturday, London whipped the Tigers 8-5 to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven final of the Senior Inter-County baseball playoffs.

Majors counted three runs in the 16th on three errors and a hit. Two fumbles by Frank Udvari, subbing for Eldy Weber on first, gave London their break.

Kitchener's Bob Schnurr pitched the entire route, holding the hard-slugging majors to 10 hits.

Three London pitchers gave up 14 hits. John Gillies started but was relieved by Louis Fisher in the sixth when Kitchener took a 5-4 lead. Fisher, who toiled 9 1-2 innings scattering five hits and holding Kitchener scoreless, received credit for the victory. Panthers tagged Tom White for two hits in the last inning but failed to score.

At Welland, Niagara Falls Houcks beat Welland Stokes 1-0 to advance two games to one in the Niagara Senior Baseball League finals.

Johnny Worral shaded Danny Patakfalvie, youthful Welland southpaw, in a first-class pitching duel, setting Stokes down with one hit. Boyd Siemon's three-bagger to rightfield in the eighth scored Woody Wodynski for the winning marker.

The best-of-seven series will continue at Niagara Falls on Monday and Tuesday.

St. Louis Cards Lost Wonderful Opportunity to Cut into Lead Of Dodgers by Losing Contest

Three Weeks Left to Play and Brooklyn Leads by 5½ Games

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

In the eastern United States the six-word query on every baseball bug's lips is: "Can the Dodgers hold their lead?" In the west it is: "Can the Cards catch the Bums?"

After Sunday's games the Dodgers led by 5 1-2 games with three weeks of the National League season left.

The Dodgers have 18 games to play, 14 of them on the road. The Cards have 21, 14 at home. Any combination of 15 Dodger victories or St. Louis defeats would clinch the flag for Brooklyn.

The Cardinals had a wonderful opportunity yesterday to dig into Brooklyn's bulge, but blew it when they lost the second game of a doubleheader to Cincinnati Reds. They had routed Ewell Blackwell and the Reds in the opener 12-2 while the Dodgers were beaten by New York Giants 7-6.

Shoved Back on Heels

But a southpaw slanter named Ken Raffensberger shoved them back on their heels with a nifty eight-hitter in the second game, winning 4-2 for the Reds. Both St. Louis runs resulted from homers, one by Erv Dusak, the other by Whitey Kurowski.

The Cards might have been dealt a lethal blow when second baseman Red Schoendienst suffered a dislocated shoulder while sliding into second in the big inning. He was expected to be out for a week.

The Giants' big weapon, the home run, came to their assistance in their conquest of the Dodgers. Johnny Mize clouted his 46th, while Marshall his 35th and Buddy Kerr his sixth to account for six Giant runs. The Dodgers also took advantage of the yawning Polo Ground fences, Dixie Walker, Cookie Lavagetto and pinch hitter Gene Hermanski belting homers to account for five of the six Dodger runs.

Yanks Increase Lead

The Yankees increased their huge lead by defeating Washington Senators 7-1 while the Athletics took the measure of the Red Sox twice in Philadelphia 7-4 and 4-3.

Ted Williams' 29th home run was no help to the Red Sox as Rookie hurlers Joe Coleman and Bill (No-Hit) McCahan stilled Boston bats.

Hal Newhouser dropped his 16th game as St. Louis Browns, behind four-hit pitching by Jack Kramer, shut out the third-place Tigers in Detroit 3-0.

The fourth-place Cleveland Indians edged Chicago White Sox 3-2. Hank Edwards' 12th home run in the eighth inning off old Red Ruffing broke a 2-2 tie.

Little Billy Donnelly allowed three singles, walked none and faced only 29 batters in pitching Philadelphia Phils to a 2-0 triumph over Boston Braves. A 2-run homer by Howie Schultz in the fourth off Red Barrett provided the only runs of the game. John Miller, making his second pitching start for Chicago, batted the Cubs to a 4-2 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates by slamming a home run in the second inning with the bases full.

WALKED 20 MILES

Kirkland Lake, Ont., Sept. 8 — (CP) — A district woman told police last night she had walked 20 miles from her isolated bush cabin to get food for her six children. She said her husband left three weeks ago with $1 in his pocket to hitch-hike to Western Canada to seek work in the harvest fields.

She had not heard whether her husband had found a job as he could not write.

Five of the children are of school age but they could not attend the school half a mile from their home because they lacked proper clothing. Two of them had no shoes.

Friends here donated a supply of groceries tonight.

Chemistry?
...WHAT IS ITS RATING?"

. . . well might the accountant ask this question, for a very few outside of the laboratory itself realize the scope and benefits of this enterprising business.

Chemistry enters into the making or treatment of practically everything we use or wear. It purifies the water we drink, fertilizes our fields, destroys pests. It brightens our lives in the form of paint; comes to us as nylon, "Cellophane", explosives, ammunition and in a growing stream of colourful plastic products.

Yes, chemistry has a high rating in the fields of utility and beauty . . . with the C-I-L oval as symbol of an organization devoted to serving Canadians through chemistry.

The Death of a Doll

By Hilda Lawrence

CHAPTER 7.

The lobby was already filled. Someone had started the phonograph in the lounge and the dancing had begun. Miss Brady and Miss Small were wearing gray sharkskin suits, exactly alike. Miss Brady stood halfway up the stairs and watched the milling figures with a smile. Miss Small moved from doll to doll, making wrong guesses and leaving a trail of laughter when she moved on. Miss Plummer, railed in at desk and switchboard, looked harassed and pleased in wrinkled chartreuse satin. Mrs. Marshall-Gill, in purple velvet with matching orchids, sat in a chair by the lounge door and bowed right and left, happily unaware of snubs. Dolls everywhere, leaning against each other, flopping, falling.

Dolls like herself, cut from the same pattern, identical. Someone brushed by and whispered, "Get a load of Fister guarding the punch." Moke or Poke. They know me, she thought in a panic, but then she remembered Moke's provident mole. Outside the dining-room door Mrs. Fister loomed over the table that held the punch.

She moved in that direction. She called it a clever move because it was misleading.

As she drew near the punch bowl, someone in a white kitchen apron ran out of the dining room, a woman with a bright smear of blood on her bib. Her hand flew to her mouth in terror. The crowd fell back and surged forward again, leaving her alone on the outskirts. She saw Miss Small speak to Mrs. Fister and then go over to the desk. Mrs. Fister led the woman away, shrugging her massive shoulders. Someone said, "The chef cut his hand, that's all."

Apparently it wasn't serious. The maids, who were helping Mrs. Fister, went on as if nothing had happened. One of them carried a cup of punch to Mrs. Marshall-Gill. Miss Small went upstairs. Miss Brady said something to Mrs. Marshall-Gill and she too disappeared, in the direction of the kitchen.

She was desperate now. This was her chance, she'd never have a better one, but Mrs. Marshall-Gill was too near the entrance. She forced herself to circle the lobby again. Miss Plummer was at the switchboard, looking distracted, trying to get a number, and making futule little dabs at passing dolls while she pleaded, "Please, operator, try again; oh, somebody help me, one of you girls, please—"

Another circle around the lobby and she saw Mrs. Marshall-Gill leave her chair and cross to the elevator. There was almost a clear path to the front door, not clear enough to make her conspicuous but exactly right. She gave the crowd a last survey and planned the final move. She would walk along the office railing and examine the mailboxes; then a short, diagonal cut to the lounge door; then another short cut to the street door. Slowly, easily, not more than five minutes at the most.

She was between the dining room and the office when she started. Once she thought someone pressed too closely from behind, but when she turned there was no one near. Only a doll in rubber sneakers who was looking the other way. A long line of dolls, noisily cracking the whip, came screaming down the centre of the floor, and the doll in sneakers dragged her out of the way. She was flung against the office railing.

An arm in chartreuse satin reached out and clutched her shoulder. "You," Miss Plummer said, "You're not doing anything, are you? I've got to have help and everybody's so selfish. Chef cut himself and they want first aid and how am I to get it when everybody runs away! Slip up to Mrs. Fister's room like a good girl and get me the iodine and bandages, bedroom closet, top shelf, all marked. If the door's locked, you go right on up to Miss Brady's; there's an extra supply there. In the bathroom, and her door's bound to be open. Never locked. Hurry, that's a good girl."

"Miss Brady's room?" she repeated dully. "I don't know where it is."

Miss Plummer gave her a sharp look. "Don't know where Miss Brady's—oh, I see. Well, naturally you woudn't know. Eighth floor, room 806. Mrs. Fister is 202. Please, dear, there's no time to lose."

Mrs. Fister's door was locked. She tried Miss Plummer's door. Locked too. She turned in despair and ran for the stairs. No elevator now, even to save time; no elevator now at any price. Get there and get back before Miss Plummer complained about Ruth Miller's being slow, before Miss Plummer said Ruth Miller had gone upstairs. She'd give herself away to Miss Plummer.

She climbed, breathless, trembling, holding on to the railing, looking ahead as she always did, forgetting to look back. Behind her another doll climbed, slowly, without effort, sometimes looking down over her sholulder but never looking up.

The second doll wore sneakers.

Miss Brady's door was unlocked. Ruth went through the living room and bedroom to the bath beyond. The iodine and bandages were in the medicine chest. She collected them hurriedly and started back. She was hot and her face was wet, and she pushed up the cotton mask. Twin lamps burned on Miss Brady's dressing table, shedding their light on gold and ivory, tortoise and enamel powder box. Her light on gold and ivory, tortoise and an enamel powder box. Her free hand went to her throat in a gesture that repulsed and acknowledged what she saw. She knew the box, she knew it had a bronze base, she knew the color and shape of the importer's mark on the under side, she knew the tune it would play if she raised the lid. Proof, proof, if she ever needed it. Sudden triumph shook her from head to foot and all caution fled. She raised the lid, and the room was filled with tinkling sound. "Believe me if all those endearing young charms that I gaze on so fondly today." She repeated the words under her breath.

The music drifted out into the living room; it was entrance music for the second doll. The second doll moved slowly, lazily, silently across the floor to the bedroom door and leaned against it. For a while the only sound was the music. Then came a low chuckle.

Ruth turned. The iodine and bandage dropped from her stiff, gloved fingers. She backed to the wall with arms outstretched, her stiff, gloved hands beseeching.

"Nobody knows," she pleaded, "nobody ever will know, ever, ever. I was going away, I want to go, let me go." Her mask slipped to the floor.

She could hear the musical box, but she could see nothing because a thick white hand covered her face. It wasn't her own hand. Something struck the side of her head.

ANTS DISRUPT COURT

Crown Point, Ind., Sept. 8 — (AP) — Judge William J. Murray says he has ants on his bench and they're biting his bailiffs.

What's more, he complained to the Lake county council last night:

"Ants by the hundreds are disrupting the sessions of the criminal court.

"Spectators jiggle in their chairs, shuffle their feet and slap their legs when the ants bite them. A woman witness who brought some fudge with her found herself overrun by these snapping pests."

The council voted $3,000 to exterminate the ants.

Movie Folk No Sissies West Finds

By ENID NEMY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Calgary, (CP) — Hollywood may provide its stars with a measure of luxury and fame but privacy and rest drop by the wayside once the glittering portals open.

Members of the Eagle-Lion cast and crew now making "Northwest Stampede" at a ranch near here admit that this location job is unusual because of the travelling involved each day. Otherwise, it is merely routine.

By 6.30 they are on their special train having breakfast and speeding towards High River. An hour later they board a bus to the Stampede ranch, 35 miles distant—a trip that takes a little more than an hour. Once there they have no time to admire the scenic grandeur of the rocky foothills.

A scene that takes one minute in a movie may require a day to shoot. As Joan Leslie, star of the film put it: "This is no business for anyone without patience".

At one o'clock there's a break for lunch. Then back to work until six when buses are again boarded to High River and dinner served on the return trip to Calgary.

It's Never Dull

The work may be physically exhausting but it's never dull. At breakfast, Chill Wills may entertain the car with imitations of a carnival medicine man. After lunch perhaps Jack Oakie will relate tales of early movies. And between scenes you might see Frank Barnes put Flame, the "wonder dog", through his paces or witness Art Arthurs, former Toronto newspaper man whip off the script for the afternoon shooting.

There is a feeling of comradeship and a sprinkling of humor in their casual conversation. "Do I look like a cowboy?" Jack Oakie will ask. "No! Well you can't make a horse out of a mule." Frank Barnes' favorite trick is getting Flame to open his mouth and then close it on command. "It's more than I can get my wife to do."

Kermit Maynard, a stunt man who was trampled while protecting stunt girl Polly Burson during a stampede of horses, will tell you "I'll get that horse if I have to go through the whole lot of them."

The 1,400-acre ranch which provides the background for most of the technicolor, is the oldest in Western Canada. Formerly owned by Guy Weadwick, the originator of the Calgary Stampede, it now is run by J. E. Caldwell and R. Machin. They have come to the conclusion that although ranching might be a rigorous life "those movie people aren't exactly sissies."

ELEVEN HEIFERS FLOWN TO PUERTO RICO

Ontario Girl Learns to Speak French

Last year, 18-year old Katherine Crocker, of Peterborough, Ont. couldn't speak French. Lucie Bouchard of St. Felix d'Otis, Quebec, couldn't speak English. Today, they can converse in each others language reasonably well, as can some 200 other Ontario and Quebec girls. It is all the result of an experiment — an exchange of homes between students of both provinces. The idea was first sponsored by "Visites Provinciales" in 1936 to promote better relations between French and English-speaking Canada. Just how well it is succeeding is shown in The Standard's rotogravure section this week. Six pages of pictures show how much these youngsters enjoyed themselves on their bilingual holiday. See this photo story in The Standard this week. The Standard is on sale now at all newsdealers' for 10¢.

Would Prevent Press Combines

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London. (CP)—Four big newspaper chains own more than one-third of the daily newspapers in Britain "and we have no reason to suppose that they have come to an end of their operations," the National Union of Journalists said in its submission to the Royal Commission on the Press.

Speaking for 9,500 newspaper men —"from 80 to 90 per cent of the newspaper men of the country"—the N.U.J.'s 23-page statement recommended 'a law to prevent the formation of monopolies' as one point in a 10-point plan for press control.

It said the number of dailies in England, Scotland and Wales has dropped from 144 to 116 in 20 years.

"It is not suggested that every one of the 28 daily papers that died. . . was killed by the operations of the newspaper groups but many of them were, and . . . a much large number survived by exchanging their independence for the shelter of one or other of the combines."

This is the set-up of the four main newspaper chains as described by the N.U.J.:

Associated Newspapers Limited —owning 11 dailies, including the Daily Mail and Evening News in London; one Sunday paper, the London Sunday Dispatch; and seven weeklies.

Kemsley Newspapers Limited —owning 14 dailies including the London Daily Graphic; six Sunday papers including the Sunday Chronicle, Sunday Graphic and Sunday Times in London and the Sunday Empire News in Manchester; and four weeklies.

Westminster Press Group—publishing 15 dailies, all outside London, one Sunday paper in Birmingham; and 29 weeklies.

Provincial Newspapers Limited —publishing four dailies outside London and 11 weeklies.

The 'same movement towards concentration" is seen, said the N.U.J., in southwest England where Western Morning News Company Limited during the last 25 years has acquired four dailies and 10 weeklies in Devonshire and Cornwall. "There is reason to believe that the firm is extending its interests into Comerset," the union's submission said.

Among "smaller groupings" listed by the N.U.J., are The Amalgamated Press under chairmanship of Lord Camrose who until recently controlled the London Daily Telegraph: Odhams Press Limited printing the London Daily Herald and the Sunday People; the London Express Newspapers Limited, associated with the name of Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook and owning four dailies including the Daily Express, Evening Standard and Sunday Express in London.

Nova Scotia Bishop Becomes Primate — George Frederick Kingston, Bishop of Nova Scotia (above), was elected Anglican Primate of All Canada at the General Synod meeting in Saskatoon yesterday. He succeeds the late Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen of Toronto as head of the Church of England in Canada.

Three Charged With Having Narcotics

Toronto, Sept. 9 —(CP)— In a drive to smash drug traffic in the city, after firing a shot, police today arrested three men charged jointly with having narcotics in their possession. Fifty capsules of heroine were confiscated as well as a new model automobile.

Arrested were Max Beaver, Charles Pearson and Thomas Lafferty, all of Toronto. When searched, Beaver had $11,400 in his possession, police said.

After following an automobile allegedly driven by Beaver into a lane, police said they saw Beaver step out and remove the drugs from a cache. When they approached, Beaver charged the police and one officer drew his gun and fired. Beaver offered no further resistance.

Claxton Arrives In New Zealand

Auckland, N. Z., Sept. 9—(CP) — Defence Minister Brooke Claxton of Canada, arriving by plane from Australia today became the first Canadian cabinet minister to visit New Zealand in many years.

He left immediately by car for Wellington, where he will confer with the cabinet and New Zealand's service chiefs.

He returns to Australia Friday, preparatory to leaving from there for Canada Sept. 19.

Claxton, visiting New Zealand at the government's request, said he was "extremely satisfied" with the recent Canberra Commonwealth talks on the Japanese peace treaty.

He said he hoped the ties between New Zealand and Canada would be strengthened by more exchanges of visits and increases in trade.

Living Conditions Pleasant in Prague Under Red Dominated Government

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Prague, Sept. 9 (AP)—Communism and capitalism rub shoulders in Prague in a practical fraternization never predicted by the theoretical mind of Karl Marx.

In this city of 1,000,000 Czechs, where Communists are in a plurality, there is no soap-box campaign for class war and a proletarian dictatorship.

Prague's standard of living is among the highest in Europe. Its citizens, despite varied political opinions, are undisturbed by Paris model quickie strikes or the ideollogical riots of Italy.

If there is a middle way for east and west to follow, Czechoslovakia modestly suggests itself as an example.

More girls wear silk stockings in St. Wenceslas Square than on the Champs Elysees. Bookshops feature new American volumes, and Harry Butcher's "My Three Years With Eisenhower" is as popular as Konsantin Simonov's works about the Red Army. Movie theatres play to capacity audiences with a budget of 80 Hollywood films a year.

A steak costs less than $1 at the best restaurant in town. The black market is dispersed if not destroyed. White-collar workers have so much leisure that they crowd the cabarets from 5 to 7 p.m. for "tea dances."

Czechoslovakia is 31 per cent Communist, according to the 1946 national election, and 61 per cent of her total labor force now is employed in state-owned industries. Yet her two-year plan, aimed at raising productivity 10 per cent above the highest prewar level, was drafted by a Social Democrat.

There is no taboo against honest living profits. Retail trade is mostly in private hands.

The west may look with suspicion on popular fronts. Czechoslovakia is ruled by a national front of all Czech and Slovak political parties with a prime minister from the largest party, Communist Klement Gottwald.

Regardless of whether it may diverge from formal democratic concepts, the Czechoslokak coalition has smothered a host of old internal squabbles and permitted the country to concentrate on reconstruction.

A foreigner finds that a Czechoslovak visa is one of the easiest in the world to obtain. Tourists with "hard money" are welcomed with open arms.

Talk abroad of an "iron curtain and "Kremlin stooges" at first was bitterly resented here. It now has become something of a popular joke. Visitors are asked whether they have yet bumped into the curtain.

Hatred of the Germans still is at white heat, although more than 2,000,000 have been expelled to the occupied Reich. The Clavik re-population of the Sudetenland is nearly completed, but Czechoslovakia dreads that Germany, for generations to come, will not accept this as a final solution.

For fundamental protection against the Germans, reliance is placed on Soviet Russia. The German issue appears to overshadow every other question on the international horizon.

To date, there has been an absence of Soviet interference in the internal affairs of Czechoslovakia. The citizenry is encouraged to believe that the country can continue to evolve without direct dictation from Moscow.

DELHI RIOTING CONTINUES FOR 3RD BLOODY DAY

27 Bodies of Victims Seen on One Street; Shops Reopen Under Military Guard

New Delhi, Sept. 9 (AP) — India's capital awoke to the renewed crackle of gun fire today as the orgy of communal rioting which has paralyzed the twin cities of old and New Delhi entered its third bloody day.

During the night there was little sound of violence, but with daybreak the sound of firing resumed. Most of it appeared to be coming from the outskirts of New Delhi although an occasional shot could still be heard in the Connaught Circus area where looters clashed with authorities Sunday.

Mingled with the gunfire came an intermittent wave of shouting from thousands of throats. The screaming of slogans by Hindus, Moslems and Sikhs has been one of the favorite ways of conducting a war of nerves during the recent communal disturbances.

In Connaught Circus some food shops reopened under military guard and quickly had long lines of patrons whose supplies have run dangerously low. Housewives carrying shopping bags walked past the body of a riot victim which lay covered with a cloth.

Correspondents driving through the twin cities counted 27 bodies of persons killed by rioters and police or military gunfire. In street among eight dead bodies a wounded man lay writhing in pain.

Past this scene of carnage filed thousands of Moslems being evacuated from the section. The tattered multitude carried their few belongings on their heads while some carried children on their backs. A drizzling rain fell on the shuffling group.

Riot Follows Same Pattern

Elsewhere, throughout India the rioting was reported to have the same complexion, with Sikhs and Hindus matched against Moslems in a grim effort to drive them out of the country — just as in Pakistan Moslems were said to be doing the same things to the Sikhs and Hindus.

On a hillside overlooking a Sikh-Hindu colony dotted with neat looking cream-colored dwellings, were huddled several hundred Moslem refugees from Pahar Ganu. The group insisted they were the subjects of a planned program of extermination and that the police and military had not been acting in a neutral manner.

Systematic Effort

Chairman D. M. Malik of the local Moslem League Committee said he asked Pakistan Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan at Karachi yesterday to appeal for United Nations supervision of an exchange of populations and property because there was a systematic effort being exercised to exterminate the New Delhi minority.

One military officer summed up the situation tersely:

"In this emergency, our job is to keep the people alive, not to worry about counting the dead."

This officer made the statement yesterday as police used light cannon, rapid fire weapons and hand grenades to quell Hindu-Moslem conflicts which police said had killed at least 300 persons in two days.

Correspondents saw fires in every section of the city.

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch reported that Mohandas K. Gandhi was on his way to New Delhi, and it was hoped that his presence might help quell the rioting. Gandhi ended a fast four days ago to bring peace to Calcutta.)

17 KILLED IN COLLISION

Dio De Janeiro, Sept. 9—(AP) — At least 17 persons were killed and 70 others injured in the collision of a ferryboat and a launch in Guanabara Bay Sunday night.

The accident occurred a few hours after the U. S. battleship Missouri left the bay with President Truman and his family.

W. Europe Recovering More Quickly Than Russia and Satellites

By SIGRID ARNE

Washington, Sept. 9. (AP) — Western Europe is making a quicker post-war comeback than Russia and her seven satellites, although both areas are far short of their normal peacetime trade pattern.

The east-west comparison highlights a report drafted by top government researchers working on the Marshall plan for European recovery.

Russia chose, both for herself and her satellites, to boycott the mutual-help program outlined by State Secretary Marshall. At the time United States economist said the choice probably was made at the cost of lower living standards in the Russian sphere.

Trade figures contained in the report made available today appear to bear out that prediction.

They show that 1946 exports from the 12 countries of western Europe covered in the survey attained 49.3 per cent of the 1938 rate considered normal. The eight eastern countries, including Russia, show a recovery to only 39.6 per cent.

Russia herself, however, enjoys a much healthier foreign trade than any of her satellites. Soviet exports are listed at 74.1 per cent of 1938 and imports at 96.8 per cent. Total exports for Finland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Poland are put at 32.2 per cent and imports at 34 per cent.

These figures, although they reveal that Western Europe is able to export more than eastern Europe, also show that Western Europe is piling up international debts faster, since it is buying more.

Portugal, according to the report, is making money faster than any other country in Europe. It is buying at 121 per cent of the 1938 rate, but selling at 173 per cent. Spain is the only other western European nation selling more than it is buying, at percentages of 81.7 and 53.5 respectively. Both countries were neutral during the war.

In the Russian orbit both Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia are selling more than they are buying.

Russia, herself, is piling up some debts at her 96.8 per cent buying rate and 74.1 selling figure.

On that score Britain is playing it closer to the west, importing at a rate of 61.8 per cent of 1938 but selling at 84.8 per cent.

The western European nations on which this report is based omit four which have taken part in the Paris talks on the Marshall Plan— Iceland, Eire, Luxembourg, and Turkey — but do include Spain, which was not invited to Paris.

EXPLOSIVES FOUND IN JERUSALEM SHANTYTOWN

British Army Uniforms Also Unearthed in Raid Near Jewish Business District

Jerusalem, Sept. 9 — (AP) — Police swooped down on a shantytown area a block from the centre of Jerusalem's Jewish business district early today and unearthed a cache of explosive ammunition and British Army uniforms.

They reported that 11 large anti-personnel bombs and two large boxes of winterweight uniforms were included in the supply, partly buried beneath the floor of an old tin shanty. With the munitions cache, they said, was a large quantity of leaflets of the Stern gang, extremist Jewish underground group.

Private sources said informants in Hagana, moderate underground group, had tipped police to the location of the munitions dump, one of the largest yet found in the Jerusalem area.

In a wood-working shop nearby, searchers found several partly-finished wooden cases similar to those used for road mines or booby traps.

Royal Hampshire infantrymen, under the personal supervision of the Jerusalem garrison commander, Brig. N. G. Bedford-Roberts, quickly cordoned off the whole area and prepared to make an inch-by-inch hunt for additional arms.

The police criminal investigation division began grilling some 200 Jews, mostly orthodox worshippers in long cloaks and curled sideburns, who live in ramshackle houses nearby.

Mrs. Daisy Duncan Wins French Car

Toronto, Sept. 9 — (CP) — A Posh $7,000 Delage convertible— the type in which French gay blades speed along Champs Elysses in Paris — is too expensive a model for a cleaning woman to drive to work. Having so decided, Mrs. Daisy Duncan, who won the sleek grey car in a Canadian National Exhibition draw, will sell it to the highest bidder.

To impress the professors at the University of Toronto, where she works in the library, Mrs. Duncan would like to drive her Delage to work, but she doesn't think she could meet the gas and upkeep bills, so she'll buy a cheaper vehicle with the sale proceeds.

Mrs. Duncan will place the six-cylinder French car on display as soon as she gets it out of the exhibition tent where it was displayed next to Hitler's armor-plated sedan.

CANADA-WIDE PACKERS STRIKE IS THREATENED

Contract Talks Between Union and Canada Packers Break Down

Toronto, Sept. 9 —(CP)— A nation-wide tie-up of the Canadian meat packing industry has been predicted by the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.) following the breakdown yesterday of contract talks between the union and Canada Packers Limited and Burns and Company.

The union, demanding wage increases averaging 17 1-2 cents an hour for approximately 10,000 employees of the two firms, already has 3,500 members on strike at six plants of Swift Canadian Company. If the wage demands were granted, union members at plants of all three major meat packing companies would receive basic pay of 92 cents an hour.

Canada Packers has plants in Charlottetown, Montreal, Hull, Que., Toronto, Peterborough, Ont., Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver. Burns and Company plants are in Kitchener, Ont., Winnipeg, Regina, Prince Albert, Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver.

Canada Packers and Burns and Company said in a joint statement last night that the living standard of workers in the meat packing industry had been improved by not less than 20 per cent since 1939. They said present conditions did not justify the additional cost the wage increase demanded by the union would bring.

The company also said a proposal had been made to the union that the issues be submitted to conciliation under independent auspices before a strike was called. The union had rejected this proposal.

BISHOP OF N.S. ELECTED PRIMATE OF ALL CANADA

Most Rev. G. F. Kingston Installed Following Four-Hour Session Of Electoral College

Saskatoon, Sept. 9 (CP)—A tall, wide-shouldered "man's man but full-fledged missionary of Christ," Most Rev. George F. Kingston, Archbishop of Nova Scotia, today was the seventh primate of the Church of England in Canada.

The 58-year-old native of Prescott, Ont.—at 58 and despite a shock of white hair he is considered young for the Canadian church's highest office—succeeds Archbishop Derwin T. Owen of Toronto who died last April at the age of 70 after 12 years as primate.

Until yesterday he was still Bishop of Nova Scotia, a graduate of Trinity College, the University of Toronto and old King's University at Windsor, N.S., a brilliant scholar who had served two years as Bishop of Algoma before going to the First Colonial See in the Empire. In church circles he was regarded as one who might be chosen primate.

The events which raised him to be then spiritual ruler of Canada's Anglicans—third native-born Canadian to be elevated — and to archbishop with precedence over all other archbishops and bishops of the Church in Canada, came within a few hours.

After a four-hour session of the 100-person electoral college whose balloting was held in camera, the senior metropolitan, Most Rev. W. R. Adams, Archbishop of Kootenay, announced that Bishop Kingston had been chosen primate.

Installation Service

Then followed the installation service in the Cathedral of St. John the Evangelist. The austere brick interior of the 35-year-old church, overlooking the South Saskatchewan River, was brightened by the brilliant scarlet hoods of the Archbishops and Bishops and the surplus-capped massed choirs, representing Saskatoon's other Anglican churches, which participated in the service.

A congregation which packed the church to the doors heard Archbishop Kingston ask for its prayers in carrying out the duties of his new office and pay moving tribute to Archbishop Owen which was echoed by Very Rev. C. E. Riley, Dean of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, who delivered the sermon at the service.

Archbishop Kingston, attended by priests, approached the Metropolitans standing at the steps of the chancel and Archbishop Adams and Most Rev. L. R. Sherman, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, inducted him into office and presented him with the Primatal cross.

The certificate of election was read by R. V. Harris of Halifax, chairman of the Electoral College and he then was declared installed.

In a brief address the new Primate said he accepted the office humbly, moved by the thought of following in the steps of one so great as Archbishop Owen.

"I hope I will carry the torch high and steadily when the world so needs the light and glory of God . . . I accept this responsibility in the name of the Church of God."

Today, its principal duty discharged, the Synod which elected him turned to business sessions.

WOMAN BLEEDS TO DEATH FROM CUT IN BIG TOE

Rye, N. Y., Sept. 9 — (AP) — Mrs. Ralph Procter, 45, bled to death Monday from a cut in her big toe, sustained when a glass dropped on her foot and severed a blood vessel, police said.

The accident was discovered when her husband saw pools of blood in the kitchen and near the bed when he got up this morning.

Police said that Mrs. Procter probably had gone to the kitchen during the night to get a glass of water and that due to a drowsy condition did not notice the cut.

FIREMEN AFFECTED BY FUMES

Toronto, Sept. 9 — (CP)—Eight firemen were affected by fumes from burning paint today while battling a laboratory fire at the Trelco Paint Company on Alcina Avenue in Northwestern Toronto.

The firemen required inhalator treatment. Damage was estimated by firemen at $2,500 in the blaze, said caused by spontaneous combustion.

Firehoses Turned On to Break Up Sitdown Strike

300 Club-Armed Soldiers Take Part in the Operations

Hamburg, Sept. 9 — (CP)—Disembarkation of all the Jewish refugees from the Runnymede Park, third and last of the British transports to dock at Hamburg with the Exodus 1947 immigrants, was completed at 2:35 p.m. local time today after steel-helmeted British paratroopers had used high-pressure water hoses and removed the ringleader.

Fighting had broken out aboard the vessel.

The troops turned firehoses on the defiantly shouting and singing refugees of the Runnymede Park to break up a sitdown strike. Later soldiers dragged two Jewish men with bloodied heads down the gangplank. Other Jews followed, some fighting.

About 300 soldiers, armed with clubs took part in the operation after most of the 1,412 passengers rejected two separate ultimatums to leave peaceably.

One of the two men dragged down the gangplank with blood spurting from head wounds was reported to have been a veteran Zionist leader who had urged the refugees to "fight to the death."

When he was dragged from the ship, the number of Jews deciding to leave peaceably increased noticeably. Most of them were drenched from the streams of water played into the holds.

Some Treated Gently

Those who came quietly were treated gently by the troops along the gangplank. These refugees included women with babes in arms. All carried meagre belongings. One British soldier came down the gangplank with a Jewish baby in one arm and a wooden truncheon hanging from the other.

But every so often soldiers struggled down with kicking, squirming men, quickly hustled away by military police.

Five British soldiers carried one kicking, screaming young Jew down the gangplank, and all six fell in a heap. Just behind them were six more soldiers carrying another young, struggling Jew. Behind them was a woman dragged by British soldiers and shouting imprecations. Just beyond, a British soldier held a five-year-old girl in his arms.

In none of these cases were the soldiers seen to strike any of the Jews on the gangplank.

Among the first off were five aged women, who came feebly from the ship with the gentle assistance of British soldiers. One of the women was helped by a medical-officer with a red cross armband.

Earlier, shouting Jewish immigrants removed companionway ladders in an effort to prevent forcible evacuation from the transport.

One British official termed the situation a "desperate sitdown."

Vaughan Berry, British regional commissioner for Hamburg, sent word from the Runnymede Park that the 1,412 Jews aboard were staying in the holds at the urging of a veteran Zionist, who called upon them to "fight to the death."

All the 1,428 Jews on board the second transport, Empire Rival, were disembarked peacefully a few hours earlier.

Disembarkation from the Runnymede Park stopped after about 10 Jews had left the ship and the Jews still on board were told in a broadcast that they would be given another 30 minutes, after which troops would be called.

Several hundred Hamburg Jews carrying placards attempted to force their way through cordons around the disembarkation area at Drakenhafen dock but troops would not allow them to set foot on the landing pier.

EXCURSION BOAT EXPLODES

Pittsburgh, Sept. 9 — (AP) — The Island Queen, a large excursion boat containing several decks, burst into flames today following an explosion which knocked plate glass windows out of stores along Water Street, bordering the Moningahela River.

The extent of casualties and how many persons were aboard the big boat at the time was not immediately known. The vessel was docked along a city parking space near the Smithfield Street bridge and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad station.

Melvyn Stanley, Associated Press, traffic bureau chief at Pittsburgh, who arrived at the scene a few minutes after the blast, said:

"The Island Queen is one solid mass of red flames from the water to the top of the boat. The heat

Fire apparatus from downtown stations rushed to the site. Water was played on the flames from fireboats.

The blast occurred before several hundred excursionists were to board the ship for an afternoon ride past the Pittsburgh "Point" and down the Ohio River to suburban Sewickley.

Smokestacks and upper decks started caving in as the flames devoured the wooden structure.

Nickolas Sorg, a Western Union messenger three blocks from the blast, said:

"It picked me up and threw me down on the street."

For Fourth Day in Row Food Prices In U.S. Continue Upward Trend

Chicago, Sept. 9 (AP)—The shrinking food dollar was being dragged through the wringer in the United States again today by a general advance in staple commodity prices.

Except for a reduction of five cents a pound retail for margarine in New York, the general trend was upward.

For the fourth consecutive day, The Associated Press index of 35 wholesale commodities reached an all-time high yesterday at 192.26, compared with the 1926 base year of 100.

Included in the continued advances were meat, coffee, butter, tallow, eggs and corn. The whole dairy outlook was far from a pretty picture as described by Russell Fifer, executive secretary of the American Butter Institute.

The dairy industry, Fifer said, is going into the winter with an exceptionally low supply of butter and cream in storage and with two per cent less milk cows than a year ago. Since the peak milk production in 1944, the number of milk cows had dropped seven per cent while consumer population since the start of the war had increased 10,000,000 many of them now "in heavy milk-drinking ages."

Butter climbed another cent a pound on the New York and Chicago Mercantile Exchanges to peaks for the year. Eggs advanced to 60 cents a dozen wholesale here, and porterhouse steak hit $1 a pound at New York retail outlets.

Probably foreshadowing further retail pork price increases, hogs hit an all-time high of $31.25 a hundredweight at the Denver stockyards and a record $31 at the South San Francisco stockyards. Traders at Omaha, Sioux City, Iowa, and East St. Louis, Ill., snapped up the offerings there at $30 a hundredweight.

Although grains in futures trading at Chicago were mostly lower, one cash corn transaction brought a record high of $2.57 3-4 a bushel.

Two large chain grocery concerns boosted coffee two cents a pound retail in New York. Tallow, used by soap manufacturers, was up a cent a pound.

Girl Cyclist Suffers Injuries to Spine

Thrown to the pavement Monday evening when her bicycle was in collision with a motor car at the intersection of Front Street and the Upper Bridge, Joy Mumby, age 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Mumby, Moira Street, West, is in Belleville Hospital suffering from a crushed vertebra.

Driver of the auto with which the Mumby girl's bicycle was in collision, Mr. John Craighead, 38 Catharine Street, told the police that he had been driving north on Front Street and just at the Upper Bridge intersection had passed to the left of the girl on the bicycle, intending to proceed up Station Street. Just as he passed the girl, however, she is believed to have swung to the left intending to cross the Upper Bridge when the front wheel of her bicycle caught the Craighead car.

The girl was thrown to the pavement and was picked up by a passerby. An X-ray examination at the hospital revealed a crushed vertebra.

Strange Eggs Incubate Into Unwelcome Hatch

Mr. William Long, Marmora, was hoeing his garden a month ago when he came across seven or eight eggs buried in the soil. They were grey, about the size of bluejay eggs.

He brought two of them in to his wife who placed them in a jam sealer and set the sealer on a windowsill in the sun. Mrs. Long and her husband were curious to know what the eggs contained and each day they watched to see if there was any change in the mysterious eggs.

Well, about three weeks after placing the sealer on the windowsill a small crack was noticed in one of the eggs. Closer inspection revealed that a tiny snake was making its way to open air. The next morning the second egg gave up another little snake about six inches long.

Now the snakes are one week old and as yet they have eaten nothing. Mrs. Long is not interested in raising snakes and would like to see them removed as quickly as possible. She expects that they will die shortly from lack of nourishment.

Anyone interested in seeing the small wrigglers can do so by calling at the Long home, Marmora.

Salvation Army Campaign Opens Next Week

Many thousands of men and women never go to church, and are never reached by organized religion. Many people, through misfortune, poverty or disgrace, feel out of step with the other people in their community, and outside all ordinary concern for their welfare.

To these, and to scores of others without a church, The Salvation Army goes, bringing the only religious teaching they know. With this spiritual help goes material aid, and a very real concern for their well-being.

The Salvation Army ranks high in the hearts of people today just because of this concern for their spiritual and physical welfare.

Next week, The Salvation Army in our community is making an appeal for financial help, in order to carry on its useful work for all mankind. Citizens should give generously, to show their appreciation of its many services to humanity.

POLICE COURT

Youths Plead Guilty to Break-in And Theft Charge

The law caught up quickly with two local youths, Jack Sharpe, South Front Street, and Victer Card, Bridge Street East, when a few hours after a break-in was reported at the Quinte Footwear on Pinnacle Street, the two 16-year-old youths were charged with the offence.

Appearing in magistrate's court this morning before Magistrate T. Y. Wills, the youths pleaded guilty to breaking and entry with theft and were remanded for one week for sentence.

Early Monday morning the 2 youths had been seen by Constable Minaker as they rode their bicycles at the southern end of Front Street. On seeing the officer the boys separated and disappeared in different directions but the officer saw what appeared to be shoes hanging to the handlebars of the bicycles. Later in the morning the break-in at Quinte Footwear was reported.

Working the description which Constable Minaker was able to provide from his fleeting glimpse of the two boys, Inspector Hayes and Sgt. Ellis later apprehended the above two youths and formally charged them with the offence. Giving summary evidence in court Inspector Hayes stated that entry had been gained to the building through a window with six or seven pairs of shoes being taken and an attempt made to break open a small cash box. The shoes were recovered.

Card was remanded in custody for one week to permit police to obtain his record, while Sharpe was allowed his freedom to report back to court next week.

Given Month's Term

In a second breaking and entry case heard in court Francis Donahue was sentenced to one month in jail, after pleading guilty to entering Docter's Hotel and taking a number of packets of cigarettes. Inspector Hayes stated the accused had merely walked in through an unlatched door and had taken the cigarettes.

Lack of Goodwill And Trust Reason Says Rabbi Babb

Rabbi Abraham Babb, head of the Jewish community in Belleville, was the guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club held in the Quinte Hotel yesterday.

Rabbi Babb opened his remarks by quoting from a speech made by Will Mannier, former international president of the Rotary Club at a convention in Paris: "If we understand other people, if we know their habits, their psychology and their customs, if we can lead ourselves to look through their eyes then we will have goodwill."

He went on to state that the present upheaval in international relations, as shown by the failure of the UNO and the Conferences of Washington, London, Paris, and Moscow can be traced directly to a lack of goodwill and trust among the nations of the world. This lack of goodwill on the part of men toward their fellowman is the direct cause of labor disputes, and general world chaos. The strain on human relations is as great today as it was during the war.

Great Opportunity

"Does the apparent ineffectiveness of the press, radio, and the pulpit to stop this insecurity and distrust, indicate that men are so bad that they are unable to solve their own problems?" he asked. There is a greater opportunity for harmonious co-operation today than ever before.

Sincere goodwill and a sympathetic understanding of problems of others are necessary to dispel this universal suspicion and mistrust. If the world is steeped in suspicion and misunderstanding it is because it is in the home, and in the community.

Most Serious Aspect

"The inability of men to recognize the nature of the problem confronting them is the most serious aspect of that problem. The ability to think objectively renders harmful propaganda ineffective and paves the way for goodwill and amity. Understanding which comes from the heart permits a sympathetic viewpoint which is the basis of goodwill toward others," he continued.

"The development of such terrible instruments for destruction as the atom bomb, renders the development of goodwill most important. Eight years ago the world was plunged into a terrible war that was supposed to lead the peoples of the world back to God and the path of justice. It was to end all bloodshed, cruelty, and injustice, where nations would be content to live and let live. Nations were to cast aside all aggressive nationalistic tendencies, and embark on an era of co-operation and peace.

"Instead, the ideals of the Atlantic Charter and the Four Freedoms have been discarded for the national rivalries and jealousies that plagued us formerly. Nations have lost their souls and like people who have lost their souls they can not live."

Rabbi Babb went on to say that the solution to the individual and national ills that are prevalent today lies in a sympathetic and understanding attitude on the part of all peoples.

The speaker concluded his remarks by stating that the Rotary Club by the very nature of its work, and the ideals as expressed by Mr. Mannier is a force for good in the community, the country, and in a broader sense the world.

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. J. Grant Sparling, and club thanks was expressed by Rotarian Bill Morrison and passed on to the speaker by president Alex Nathan.

The visitors and guests were introduced by Stewart Riley, Jack Marshall reported on the condition of the unfortunate victims of the tornado at Coe Hill and stressed the need to aid them Jack Deacon urged support for Community Service Drive now under way in the city.

President Nathan, sobbing eloquently, bemoaned the fact that pressman George Carver was absent. Jack Deacon led the singsong.

Do Not Delay Sending Donations To Relief Fund

Time, it has been said heals wounds of all kinds. Be that as it may, the scars of tornado disaster which have seared the bodies, and properties of victims of the recent storm which devastated the Coe Hill district will long remain in the memories of those who experienced it and suffered by it.

Donations to the Belleville Merchants -Ontario Intelligencer Tornado Relief Fund are coming in. Residents of the city are responding well to this humanitarian appeal—but there are many more who can do so.

Much money is needed. You can't build homes, and other buildings on financial peanuts. And it is needed immediately if these orphans of the storm are to be housed before Winter strikes.

If you haven't done your share, for humanity's sake do it now. Every little helps. Don't be afraid to send or bring a dollar bill. It will be accepted as gratefully as a fifty-dollar donation. But above all, do it right away.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Chase, Consecon, Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary of Wedding

He's just a small bit of a fellow, but he bubbles over with the joy of living, a delight in reminiscing of a life well and truly spent, an important milestone of which was his golden wedding anniversary which he and his wife celebrated Sunday, Sept. 7th.

He is Mr. Harry J. Chase of Consecon, Ont., farmer, lighthouse keeper, coal merchant and now, as he puts it "on the shelf."

All of Mr. Chase's seventy-five years have been spent in Prince Edward County in and about Ameliasburg township. He married Gurtha May Parliament, daughter of the late Peter and Mrs. Parliament, who also resided in Ameliasburg township on the south side of Consecon Lake.

It was in their log house that Mr. and Mrs. Chase took their marriage vows fifty years ago last Sunday, with the Rev. S. Duprau, minister of the Consecon Methodist Circuit, officiating.

Born in Ameliasburg

Mr. Chase was born in Ameliasburg, a son of the late Jewett and Mrs. Chase. He went to the little red schoolhouse in his early days, but farming he says, did not appeal to him so he took a course at the Kingston Business College. Then he got married and went back to the farm—for a year.

Offered the position of keeper of the Weller's Bay Lighthouse he accepted it and remained there for fourteen years.

"Then the dang government changed, and I went back to my father-in-law's farm," where he and Mrs. Chase spent the next ten years.

Still the soil did not appeal to him so he acquired a coal business in the village of Consecon. This, he operated for the next ten years, and then he retired.

With a decided yen for travelling, Mr. Chase secured a trailer and in the course of his wanderings, visited Florida several times, Northern Ontario, Southern Ontario and parts of Quebec.

Has No Family

Asked about his family, he replied with a twinkle in his clear eyes, "not a chick nor child, but we've had five of the best dogs you ever saw. One of 'em made three trips to Florida with us."

Mr. Chase has one brother, Ross Chase who resides on the old Chase homestead near Ameliasburg, and two sisters, Mrs. Ada Snider, widow of Clarence Snider who lives in Ameliasburg, and who is a neighbor of the other sister, Mrs. Fred Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase were guests of a golden wedding anniversary dinner at the Taylor home on Sunday at which all members of the immediate family were present.

Beautiful floral gifts were presented to the guests of honor during the function.

Prime Minister Recalls Happy Boyhood Days

Kitchener, Sept. 9 —(CP)— Prime Minister Mackenzie King, already stirred to reminiscences of slingshot days and apple orchard escapades, today began the second day of his visit to scenes of his boyhood.

It was expected he would spend the day quietly in the Kitchener-Waterloo area, his birthplace and the constituency he represented in his earliest days in parliament.

The 72-year-old Prime Minister who during a speech yesterday said he had been born "within slingshot range" of the present city hall, mingled with friends of his youth as thousands of townspeople pressed round to heap felicitations upon him following a civic reception.

He filled his speech with recollections of a happy boyhood spent in this thriving Ontario community. He wistfully recalled the pies a certain Mrs. Young used to feed him on visits to her home next door, and added that her dog had burrowed a hole under the fence through which he crawled into her yard to get at an apple tree.

Mr. King was in a mood of exuberant good humor. Shown a portrait of himself painted in 1925 by Stanley Moyer, another Kitchener old boy, he quipped: "I didn't look any better then than I do now."

Later in a more serious vein, in a speech broadcast over a CBC national network, Mr. King told members of the Waterloo Federation of Agriculture that "the state is taking the necessary steps to secure a national minimum standard of living and human wellbeing for all.

Mr. King was scheduled to be guest of honor at a private dinner tendered last night by the North Waterloo Liberal Association at Conestoga, Ont., and later attend an informal civic reception at Kitchener auditorium.

Springbrook L.O.L Holds Annual Church Parade

Marmora—The annual church parade of Springbrook L.O.L. 442 was held on Sunday, St. Mark's Bonarlaw being visited for the afternoon service.

Rev. J. M. Brownlie officiated assisted by Past County Master W. J. Cottrell. An impressive sermon on the words of St. Paul, when halted on the road to Damascus, "Lord what wilt thou have me to do" was listened to by a good congregation present. Following the service, the annual decoration service of No. 1 District Centre Hastings Orange Association took place in Mt. Nebo cemetery. District Master Gordon Webb was in charge of the ceremonies assisted by Wor. Bro. William Neal. An address on St. Paul's charge to Timothy "Fight the good fight of faith Lay hold on eternal life," was delivered by Past County Master W. J. Cottrell who spoke of the share present day Christians have in the spiritual warfare. Graves of deceased members were decorated following the reading of their names and brethren buried in distant ceremonies were remembered as the list of them too was read.

RESIGNED TO DEATH

Tokyo, Sept. 9 —(AP)—Kyodo news agency said today that former Premier Hideki Tojo, accused war criminal, evidently is resigned to death and already has acquired his posthumous name, in conformance with Japanese custom. The name selected, it said, was "Eishoin Shakuji Komyoro Koji," meaning, roughly, "Crimes committed in lifetime can be atoned by death."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 9 —(CP)— A mild opening price recession was accelerated about noon on the stock exchange today and levels fell back appreciably for the golds and base metals while industrials moved slowly on a slight downward trend. Feature junior golds traded well on an extending loss range.

The exchange's noon index listed industrials down .22 to 165.70, golds 1.49 to 112.11, base metals 1.26 to 81.06 and western oils .14 to 25.40. Volume for the first three hours was 1,362,000 shares.

Only Eldona traded more than 100,000 shares in the third hour for a loss of 4 at $1.70 while Beaulie was down 9, Discovery 2, Dulama 2 1-2, Duvay 3, with others down up to 14 cents. Base metals saw Osisko down 6 at $1.36, Quemont 1-8, Sherritt active and down 10, Steep Rock 3, Noranda $1.50 at $43, MacDonald 20, Labrador 10.

Industrial changes were fractional with the majority off. Acadian Athletic eased back $1 but Bell Telephone added $1. Brazilian, British American Oil, Canada Steamships, Fanny Farmer and the papers generally were down fractions.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Sept. 9 —(AP)— Selling dried up in today's market with assorted leaders shifting to the recovery side but exceptions were plentiful.

A bidding flurry developed at the end of the first hour although it failed to follow through. Plus signs, however, were a trifle in the majority near the fourth hour.

Some short covering and quick-turn buying were attributed to the idea that the recent decline called for a technical revival. Reports of moderate foreign liquidation, with more to come because of the growing dollar shortage abroad, served to chill enthusiasm.

Canadian Pacific was propped by pleasing dividends but other stocks concerned ignored disbursements. Ahead at intervals were Bethlehem, Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, and Great Northern Railway. Occasional stumblers included U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Union Carbide, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Santa Fe and Standard Oil (N.J.)

Canadian issues today were steady generally. Dome Mines increased 1-4. Distillers Seagrams eased 1-8.

On the curb, Giant Yellow was unchanged.

Most grains were at new highs with July wheat jumping the daily limit of 10 cents a bushel. Bonds were narrow.

International Harvester softened when a brokerage syndicate announced that a secondary offering of 120,000 shares of this stock had been terminated.

Test of Driving Safely

How safe one's motoring is is a matter of paramount importance to every individual. It needs no one to point this out as everyone knows that the Department of Highways and the press and radio and various organizations are doing their best to make the situation clear to all who use the roads and highways.

Many, young and older, are very keen to be expert in driving and to know in what respect they can improve their driving. At the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto very many took the opportunity to learn their rating as shown by tests.

It is a healthy sign to see this eagerness to be safe drivers. It shows that the fact has become realized that motor accidents must be cut down and that the ideal of safe highways and roads is practical. With an alert driving public and with each user of the highways taking every precaution to prevent accidents and determined to do nothing that may lead to a collision or other form of accident, the movement for safe and sane driving must gather momentum with the great proportion of drivers and pedestrians determined to do their driving and their walking alongside or across highways safe for others and themselves.

Britain and Palestine Problem

In connection with the report of the United Nations' special committee on Palestine, with its majority recommendation of partition and minority advocacy of federalism, it may be recalled as a matter of purely historical interest, that the three alternative types of independence for Palestine, partition, federalism, a unified Palestine State, have each been put forward in one form or another (federalism in the form of provincial automy) by successive United Kingdom Governments, only to be laid aside in the face of intense opposition from the Arabs or Jews or both — laid aside because it was realized that none of these solutions could be effectively introduced except by the use of force, to which the United Kingdom Government as the Mandatory were not empowered, much less inclined, to resort, says United Kingdom Information Office.

Partition was recommended by the Royal Commission appointed, with Lord Peel as chairman in August 1936, which submitted its report in June 1937.

The Peel Commission proposed roughly that North and West Palestine should form an independent Jewish state and that South and East Palestine should be united to Transjordan. Jerusalem, Bethlehem and Nazareth, as holy places, would remain under British Mandate.

The United Kingdom Government in February 1938 sent a technical commission to Palestine under the chairmanship of Sir John Woodhead.

On the basis of the Woodhead report, the United Kingdom Government decided that partition was impracticable and that the partition plan had met with uncompromising hostility on the part of the Palestine Arabs.

In the White Paper of 1939 the United Kingdom Government turned to the solution of a unified independent Palestine State, to be established within ten years. It was the Government's intention to seek the approval of the League Council for this policy, when the war intervened. Meanwhile this policy had been condemned by all Zionist opinion.

Since the end of the war the United Kingdom Government has made three more attempts to find a solution.

The first was by obtaining the agreement of the U.S.A. to the appointment of the Anglo-American committee of enquiry which reported in April 1946.

The committee rejected partition and recommended a continuance of the mandate pending execution of a trusteeship.

Next, the United Kingdom Government put forward at the end of July, 1946, the so-called "Morrison plan" for provincial autonomy, with a central government, administered by the British High Commissioner, exercising exclusive authority in defence, foreign relations and customs. The plan, which would be embodied in a trusteeship agreement, would leave the way open towards either an independent federal state or partition.

This sub-federal solution was rejected by the Arabs and the Jews.

Thirdly and lastly, the United Kingdom Government submitted to the Anglo-Arab Conference of February 1947 a variant of the foregoing plan, providing for a five-year British trusteeship over Palestine, at the end of which Palestine would become a unified, independent state.

The rejection of this by the Arabs and Jews decided the United Kingdom Government to refer the problem to the United Nations.

The United Nations, in approaching the problem, enjoy advantages denied the United Kingdom Government. The United Kingdom Government strove alone for twenty-five years, with their hands tied by the irreconcilable conditions prescribed in the Mandate, but the United Nations have at their disposal the resources of over fifty countries, and they are only bound by the terms of the United Nations Charter, says U. K. Information Office.

Britain's Pottery Industry

When the "Enterprise Scotland" exhibition opened in Edinburgh visitors saw many classes of goods formerly unknown to the Scottish industry. These are the products of a number of light industries which have been introduced to the North during recent years as a means of providing more employment for the South of Scotland's "Development Area" and at the same time of expanding Britain's manufacturing potential. One of the new light industries showing at Edinburgh whose exhibits are of particular interest is pottery. They have been made specifically to meet the requirements of overseas markets, for each overseas market has its own very individual taste and those tastes are being studied and are catered for by the fine craftsmen of United Kingdom potteries today just as they were in past centuries. Production for overseas is today almost the sole occupation of Britain's pottery industry. Every decorated tea set or dinner set that is made goes to fulfill an export order. Only plain utility ware is sent to the home market. The enormous demand that has sprung up for United Kingdom chinaware since the end of the war has helped the industry to make a valuable contribution to the national export drive. In the six months ended last June Britain exported close to $5,000,000 worth of these goods compared with just over $800,000 worth in six months of 1938.

Fighting Diphtheria

Approximately 400 local authorities in England and Wales, are organizing campaigns in support of the Ministry of Health's drive to get children immunized against diphtheria before their first birthday. Their slogan is: "Diphtheria Costs Lives — Immunization Costs Nothing." Since 1941, when a national campaign against diphtheria was launched by the Ministry of Health, remarkable progress has been made. Last year the numbers of cases (18,284) and deaths (472) were again the lowest ever recorded. Pre-war figures averaged about 58,000 cases and 2,800 deaths per year. The low record for deaths last year means that for every six children who died from diphtheria before the war, only one died in 1946. The number of cases has fallen by 40,000. Last year nearly half-a-million children under five years of age were immunized by local authorities, bringing the total number of children immunized since the campaign began to more than 6,600,000. The aim this year is to immunize 590,000 babies before their first birthday.

TO THE GREETERS

This I make an open letter to the managers I know
Of hotels I often visit as about the land I go.
Though I'm just a paper fellow, there is welcome in my grip
And I think I am entitled to a Greeter membership.
Though behind a desk I've never called arriving guests by name,
I have run a summer cottage and I'm sure it's much the same.

I've made countless reservations—rooms with bath and some without.
I've been bell boy, I've been porter and I've raced the place about,
Serving towels, soap and linen. Every guest has had a bed.
I've provided entertainment and the best of food I've fed.
I've found bathing suits in corners and I've hung them up to dry.
As a greeter and fareweller I can surely qualify.

The help has been a problem in such troubled times as these,
But room service I have given, since my purpose is to please.
I provide the morning paper and umbrellas when it rains,
And with patience oft I listen when a guest of mine complains.
I've had no hotel experience on which to base my claim,
But I've run a summer cottage and it must be much the same.

The last fishing competition in connection with the Forest and Stream Club was held yesterday. It was a perfect day for fishing as the results show. Anglers in eight boats competed. W. H. Grass prize was won by Joseph Templeton and Dr. Purvis and they also won the Sulman prize for the three heaviest bass caught during the season weight 7 pounds and 15 ounces. The eight boats brought in 65 bass most of which were taken near Nigger Island. Bass fishing will be at its best during the next two weeks. FIREHOSES TURNED

When the ultimatum for the Jews expired, steel-helmeted British paratroops went aboard the Runnymede Park equipped with gas masks and tear-gas containers, while high-pressure water hoses were connected.

Conferences Held.

Military conferences were being held on board the ship and a Reuters News Agency correspondent said "the conditions in the holds are now very bad."

Earlier a Jewish man and woman were dragged, kicking and screaming, down the gangplank of the Runnymede Park. British officials had said the Runnymede Park carried the toughest of all the 4,229 exodus refugees.

The British military government doctors in charge of the medical phase of the evacuation said the woman was sick and wanted to leave the ship.

"But her husband refused to come, and made quite a fuss about it when she went," the doctor said. "Therefore they had to be forcibly hustled off."

Demonstrate on Docks.

About 400 Jews demonstrated for half an hour outside the gates of the dock. They carried banners saying: "Exodus is a mark of shame for the British," and gave Bronx cheers.

Earlier Hamburg police had reported intercepting a truckload of Jewish displaced persons from Hohne Camp near Belsen. Eye witnesses said they had seen 15 truckloads of the D.P.s cross the Elbe River into Hamburg.

The Runneymede Park docked about 10 a.m. after the last of the passengers of the Empire Rival had moved out in 2 trains for Poppendorf Displaced Persons Camp near Luebeck.

A press relations officer had announced only a short time before that the passengers of the Runneymede, Park appeared "unwilling at present" to disembark peacefully, as the 1,481 passengers of the Empire Rival had done.

British authorities used force yesterday to remove the first contingent of the Exodus 1947 refugees from the Ocean Vigour.

The press officer's announcement concerning the 1,412 refugees aboard the Runneymede Park was made while loud speakers broadcast invitation in various languages for the passengers to come ashore quietly.

He said that "in the event it is necessary to employ an degree of compulsion" it might take two days to unload the Runneymede Park, because it was necessary to lodge the refugees in the Poppendorf displaced persons camp near Luebeck for screening during daylight hours.

Left on Instructions

Reporters who asked passengers of the Empire Rival why they left the vessel quietly and peaceably this morning, in view of yesterday's violent scenes aboard the Ocean Vigour, received the reply "instructions from Hagana." Hagana is the Jewish underground defence organization which has sponsored many voyages such as that of the Exodus 1947.

A train bearing the Empire Rival passengers to Poppendorf camp to join those of the Ocean Vigour disembarked yesterday left the dock area five minutes after the British announcement was made.

Refugees aboard the train were singing the Jewish anthem "Hatikvah" (Hope).

Red Flag Run Up

An unconfirmed report on the quayside concerning the Empire Rival disembarkation was that British authorities had sent Jewish representatives aboard to tell the refugees that this was journey's end, that their long sea voyage from France to Palestine, back to France and then to Hamburg, was over and that if they did not come ashore peacefully force would be used unhesitatingly.

The nearest thing to a protest visible during the Empire Rival disembarkation when the reporters were admitted to the quayside was a red flag run up with the inscription: "The British Labor Government fights Jewish children."

Meanwhile British officials denied allegations of refugees that Britons put them under duress aboard the Empire Rival last night by sealing hatches and cutting off drinking water.

These allegations were contained in two notes handed reporters for American Jewish newspapers. One note was a semi proclamation purported to be signed by Hagana leaders and concluding:

"We shall in our time and our own way make our reckoning with the British for sending us to this graveyard of Germany."

A British official said that two two cameras were taken from reporters today and that a woman reporter had been caught yesterday with a smuggled camera and escorted from the dock.

Union Rejects Offer

Swift Canadian offered a three-cents-an-hour increase which the union rejected. Workers walked out nearly two weeks ago when contract discussions reached a stalemate.

Fred W. Dowling, U.P.W.A. Canadian Director, said in a statement last night that Canada Packers and Burns and Company had offered to increase wages by five cents an hour. He said the union's policy committee would refer the offer to the union locals with a recommendation that it be rejected.

"This means, of course, the taking of strike votes," Mr. Dowling added.

Negotiations between Swift Canadian and the Union—in progress when the union called the strike at plants in Moncton, N.B., St. Boniface, Man., Edmonton, Moose Jaw, Sask., and New Westminister, B.C.—have continued during the strike. They were scheduled to go forward today.

Pledged to Secrecy

Both sides pledged themselves to secrecy concerning progress of the talks but union officials at a press conference last week charged negotiations were being hamstrung by what they called behind-the-scenes coaching of Canadian negotiators by United States officials of the parent Swift Company.

The latest series of wage talks between the three big packing companies and the union started as the Aug. 31 expiration day for the 1946-47 contracts drew near.

Those contracts were the outcome of meetings in Winnipeg in 1946 between representatives of the companies and the union under the chairmanship of Mr. Justice S. E. Richards of Winnipeg, government-appointed conciliator. The union then was asking a general 23-cents-an-hour increase but finally signed agreements Oct. 1 and 3 providing for a boost of 10 cents an hour and settlement on that basis averted a strike.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What does "Colorado" mean?

"Colorado" is Spanish for "red" and is from Latin "coloratus," which means 'reddish' as well as 'colored."

In 1604 a Spanish explorer and colonial governor named Juan de Onata gave this name to a river in New Mexico and Arizona because the water was nearly red. Later this stream was called the Little Colorado, and "colorado" became the name of the larger stream of which the Little Colorado is a tributary. The Colorado River rises in Colorado and empties into the Gulf of California; the Little Colorado rises in western New Mexico and flows into the Colorado near the Grand Canyon in Arizona.

Several other American rivers were named by reason of the reddish color of their waters, especially at flood time; as, the Colorado in Texas; the Red River in Texas, Oklohoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana, and the Red River of the North, which rises in Lake Traverse on the Minnesota-South Dakota border and empties into Lake Winnipeg in Canada.

What is now the State of Colorado was claimed for Spain in 1706 and named Santo Domingo. Jurisdiction over this territory was acquired by the United States through the Louisiana Purchase in 1803, the admission of Texas into the Union in 1845, and the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo with Mexico in 1848.

In 1859 the settlers in the Pike's Peak region, dissatisfied with being part of Kansas Territory, set up the "Territory of Jefferson" and elected a Governor. The next year Senator Joseph S. Green of Missouri introduced a bill providing for a "temporary government in the Territory of Colorado." Nearly a score of different names were considered during the debates that followed. The Delegate in Congress from Kansas Territory wanted to call the new Territory "Idaho," but he changed his mind and agreed to "Colorado."

The bill creating the "Territory of Colorado" was approved by President Buchanan February 28, 1861, six days before Lincoln was inaugurated. It was admitted into the Union in 1876, the hundredth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independance, and accordingly was nicknamed the "Centennial State." Colorado is also called the "Mountain State" because its average altitude is 6,800 feet above sea level and it is "the most elevated State in the Union."

Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

POISON GAS IS RIGHT

The heavy black letters seize and hold your eye as you glance over the paper—Poison Gas and in smaller type follows the sales talk which the charlatans have found appeals to the greatest number of Yankee Wiseacre customers.

There is no scientific or common sense reason to believe any kind of "poisoning" of the body occurs from retarded bowel movement or constipation. On the other hand there is considerable evidence that interference with the automatic or natural control or regulation of the intestinal function causes a good deal of trouble which the ignorant, morbid, introspective victim readily believes is "toxic-poisoning" or something equally absurd.

Poisonous means poisonous and toxic means poisonous, and nothing else. The term "toxic-poisoning" may frighten ignoramuses more than poison-poisoning would, but that's all.

There's nothing "poisonous" about any gas that may be present in stomach or intestine. It consists mainly of air (swallowed), carbon dioxide, and insignificant amounts of marsh gas and sulfureted hydrogen—all of which are harmless as air itself. In a healthy person there is more or less "gas" in the intestine normally and it aids the churning or propulsive movements which are part of good digestion. Since Prof. Metchnikoff turned up his toes as the age of 71, the notion that bacterial putrefaction in the large intestine (colon) produces "toxins" which endanger health and shorten life is no longer seriously entertained by physicianes and physiologists, although it still helps to sell a lot of nostrums, fancy kinds of sour milk and freak diets to the Wiseacre trade. Putrefaction, as well as fermentation, is a natural part of the digestion of food in the intestine.

Every now and then a reader writes to tell me how nettled or indignant he was when he read my statement that "it is stupid to suffer from piles"—but now, having undergone the painless injection treatment he assures me I am right about the stupidity of it—but why didn't somebody tell him about this modern treatment long ago?

If it is stupid to suffer from piles, it is downright—well, what is more stupid than stupid?—to cultivate the constipation habit, or to tolerate it for years when you have acquired the habit. That's what I say in about 100 times as many words in the booklet The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene, to any victim of the habit who asks for it in writing and incloses twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope. At first reading Yankee Wiseacres are pretty sure they know better than I do about the subject and maybe wish they had not asked for my advice—but a fair number of them read at least parts of the booklet again and again and eventually it dawns on them that maybe they have been d.t.'s about physic, diet and enemas, and so they have to go at my method of breaking the habit. In that event there is a fifty-fifty chance at least that they will succeed. From the letters they write (some of them do) after they have gone six months or a year without resorting to any laxative or other interference, I know that it is stupid for anyone to have the constipation habit.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Wrong

Anything wrong about drawing warm salt water up my nose and letting it run out of my mouth—a teaspoonful of salt in a quart of warm water, night and morning, to wash out sinus residue and bits of the local smog? . . (H. M.)

Answer—Yes. Never draw anything into the nose. But it is all right to allow the salt water to run through from a reservoir a foot above the level of the nose, not every day, but now and then when the nasal secretion fails to clear the nasal passages.

The Irish and the Yankees

We missed your Irish mug in our paper while you were away, and we missed your cheerful outlook too—a thing so many medical or health writers seem to lack. I have the pamphlet called Yankee Stomach in which you tell how to use calcium for acidity and gas. .? (K. A.)

Answer—Send a stamped self addressed envelope for the pamphlet. A Yankee, in my lexicon, is any resident of North America.

Pen Yan and Canandaigua

If anyone doubts the existence of Canandaigua or Penn Yan, call on me as a witness—my sister lived in Dresden and Canadagua and Penn Yan were shopping centres. . (R. H. D.)

Answer—Yes, indeedy, Dresden was a pleasant drive from Penn Yan—in the halcyon days when Hicky and I and the baby would drive down Dresden way, trying too make believe we had a patient down there—even a pay patient. Robert G. Ingersoll once lived in Dresden. Of course Penn Yan is famous as the place where Doc Brady nearly starved when he tried to tell the truth in practice. Canadaigua is famous as the western gateway to the Finger Lakes region of central New York.

Sons of Freedom Claim Orthodox Doukhobors Not Adhering to True Religion of Western Sect

By KEN METHERAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Nelson, B.C., Sept. 9 (CP) — The leathery, wrinkled face of the elderly Doukhobor woman was wreathed in a hospitable smile as she pointed into her spotless, simply-furnished kitchen with a sweeping gesture that was an eloquent invitation to lunch.

"Please stay to eat at our table," Anna Posnokeff said in hesitant, broken English as I was ushered into her tiny three-room house a. Krestova, B.C. headquarters of the radical Sons of Freedom whose announced intention to continue burning the homes of Orthodox Doukhobors has spread a reign of terror throughout the west Kootenay district.

I entered a bare-looking room containing a home-made table, a few old chairs and one large wood and coal range — one of the prized possessions of the 64-year-old woman who came to Canada from Russia 48 years ago with her husband Michael, 68. The elderly Anna is one of the leading spokesmen of the Sons.

Have Served Prison Terms

Both Anna and Mike have served prison terms at Oakalla jail for earlier outbreaks of Doukhobor strife and both spent three years on Piers Island, established from 1932 to 1935 as a special penal colony for more than 600 Doukhobors who took part in mass nudist demonstrations.

While the elderly couple spoke of their beliefs and problems, their pretty sturdily built daughter Mary, 20, prepared the vegetarian meal— at the double.

Water was obtained from a clear, swift - flowing mountain stream 200 yards distant—on the run; vegetables from the garden —on the run. Mary flashed about the tiny home setting the table.

In just 30 minutes we were sitting down to a table loaded with heaping servings of corn-on-the-cob, potatoes and ripe tomatoes. There was no meat—it is taboo in a true Doukhobor home.

Exquisite Example

The embroidered table cloth came from the bottom of Mary's hope chest — an exquisite example of Russian needlework.

Following the meal Mary proudly displayed the contents of her hope chest — she expects to marry a Doukhobor youth next spring. Beautiful silk head shawls, pillow slips, blouses and skirts. All made by hand and most of them embroidered.

Shyly, but without embarrassment she modeled the voluminous, lace-frilled petticoats that Doukhobor women wear under their peasant garb. The petticoats —as many as four and five are sometimes worn under gaily-colored skirts — could be wrapped around her waist at least five times and are gathered at the waist with a draw-string.

They made a picturesque group as we sat talking on the Doukhobor problem — the mother wearing a headshawl, blouse and ankle-length skirt in traditional Russian style; Michael, unshaven and wearing dark-colored western clothing like all Doukhobor men; and Mary, who speaks and writes excellent English, favors western clothes and is a staunch supporter of the Sons.

Not Adhering to Religion

There was little divergence of opinion on the Doukhobor strife. All three claimed the Orthodox Doukhobors are not adhering to the true religion of the strange sect which came to Canada in 1898 to escape Czarist persecution because of their Pacifist ideals.

"We have no argument with independent Doukhobors who have broken away from our way of life and are living normal Canadian lives," Anna explained in Russian with Mary acting as interpreter. "We do not harm them or threaten them.

"But we are against those who do not follow the true Doukhobor ideals and beliefs, yet at the first sign of trouble call themselves Doukhobors and run to us to escape military service and other aspects of Canadian citizenship."

The Sons burned their homes, she said in protest over the coming of a third world war —predicted in their word-of-mouth religious teachings.

Dutch Report Sharp Resistance By Republicans

Batavia, Sept. 9 — (AP) —The Netherlands army Monday reported sharp and continuing Republican resistance to Dutch clearing sweeps in occupied areas of Java and Sumatra. The communique said Dutch forces lost seven killed and 12 wounded yesterday.

Twenty clashes against Indonesion units ranging in size up to 200 men were reported in the communique, which said the sharpest fighting centred in the oil-and coal-rich Palembang region of South Sumatra.

An Indonesian news agency dispatch from Jogjakarta said Dutch soldiers turned two north central Japanese villages into an "ocean of flames" and killed 96 civilians with machine-guns when the population of one town attempted to escape.

Charles Eaton, Australian deputy consul-general, and Etienne Raux, French consul-general, returned by plane from Jogjakarta Monday, cutting short their four-day visit to attend a meeting of consults in Batavia. Plans for investigating the cease-fire order by the United Nations Security Council are expected to be completed.

Propose Division Highway Costs

St. Andrews, N. B., Sept. 9 — (CP) — Division of highway costs between actual users of the roads and the general public was one of three recommendations made Mon. by T. J. Mahony of Hamilton in an address prepared for delivery at the annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association.

Mr. Mahony, who is secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Good Roads Association, also advocated administration of highway systems by appointed commissions and application of all motor revenues to road construction and improvement.

Most of Canada's provincial road systems still are financed and administered in the out-moded fashion of 1915, he said. Two Royal Commissions had recommended that two-thirds of highway costs be met by the users and one-third by non-users. Not only had this principle not been applied in Ontario, but of some $530,000,000 paid to the Ontario Treasury since 1900, only about one-third had been used for highway construction and improvement. The rest had gone for non-highway purposes.

Mr. Mahony said he believed all motor revenue should be spent on highways, some of the provinces' general revenue should be used for the same purpose, and the Dominion government should also make substantial contributions.

The advantage of highway administration by commission included the element of permanence in planning and the retention of able, experienced administrators unaffected by politics. The system of administration by government department held the possibility of a competent highways minister's work being nullified by an incapable successor.

40-Hour Week In Australia Board Verdict

By LESLIE BRODIE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 9 — (CP) — Almost 1,000,000 Australians will benefit from Monday's decision of an arbitration court to grant a 40-hour work week throughout Australia. The new hours will become effective in January next year, and will be a cut of four hours in the 20-year-old 44-hour week standard.

Announcing the result of their 449 days of deliberations, arbitration court justices said the national economy would stand the burden of the 40-hour week and any fall in production could be overcome.

The verdict is regarded here as a triumph for extreme leftwing sections of the Australian Council of Trade Unions, who had threatened a 24-hour general strike if their demands for shorter hours were not met by the court. In Melbourn Monday A. E. Monk, secretary of the A. C. T. U., said simply that it was "satisfactory" that the court has granted a 40-hour standard working week.

Premier McGirr of New South Wales told reporters it was a fitting answer to critics of his government, which has introduced the 40-hour week in the state already.

He was confident that all those who believe in a new world order based on social justice would welcome the decision.

"It is my firm belief that Australia can build the greatest civilization the world has ever known. Great civilizations in the past have given mankind many blessings but only for the privileged class. In Australia we can build a social system and a civilization that will be for all men.

"The necessity for a shorter working week will eventually become recognized by all men."

The case cost the unions $24,860 during the 449 days and the employees paid $96,600. During the hearing one judge died, another resigned from the case and one judge took ill and delayed proceedings for a month. Shorthand writers took down 6,000,000 words. At one stage Foster referred to the hearings as a "40-year" case.

American Visitors to Bermuda Complain of 'Petty Rackets'

Hamilton, Bermuda, (CP) — When Norman Bel Geddes, the theatrical and industrial designer, came to this ocean playground of Canadians and Americans recently, he criticized the colony in a way that shocked its complacent calm but some Bermudians admit there is something in what he says.

Geddes, here on his 13th visit, said in an interview that "a basic change has come over Bermuda since my pre-war visit to the island—and I don't believe Bermudians are aware of it . . . We visitors don't object to spending our money—if we get value received.

"Before the war, there was no place we were made to feel more welcome than in Bermuda. We could relax, rest, laugh, have fun. Today we are continually irritated, merely tolerated instead of treated with considerable. Vacationing here is a continuous battle."

Commenting on the designer's remarks, Henry Vesey, chairman of the board of trade which tries to encourage the tourist business, admits that Bermudians have become careless in their attitude towards tourists as a result of the war.

"Petty Rackets"

He says the board is "concerned over such complaints" and discloses it is investigating alleged petty rackets such as overcharging at hotels and bars.

Kenneth Timingham of Bermuda's premier department store, also goes along with some of the American designer's criticism.

"The Bermudian of today should try to emulate the charm of his ancestors," he said. "There is no doubt that the old friendly atmosphere which existed between Bermuda and the tourists before the war is no longer alive. . . ."

More sympathy for the tourists comes from Hal Butterfield, bank manager, and a member of the advisory committee of the Canada-West Indies Magazine.

"I can understand the feelings of some of the visitors because I myself can feel in the present atmosphere of Bermuda a sort of "Let's get as much as we can for doing as little as we can."

"I do not think that attitude is directed towards visitors only, nor is it confined to any particular section of the community or branch of society—it has just 'growed like Topsy'."

One of the highlights and a new departure were the panel discussions on the various features of the women's work of the church.

Mrs. Denyes made special mention of the worship service held each morning under the guidance of Mrs. Smythe, dean of the School.

"The need of fellowship and

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You may not make a slam you bid. But no need is there to be uncertain as to when you should try to bid it. There is a beaten path to follow. Unless you stray from it, you will be okay.

Before reaching for a slam, bid four no-trump. Before bidding four no-trump, see that you have the ingredients that such a bid needs. The needs for it are three specific features.

First, discover 12 or more tricks in your pair. Second, know what will be the trump suit. Third, have two aces and a king or better in the hand that bids four no-trump.

In reply, partner must tell how many aces and kings he has. He does this by the bids he uses in reply. Each different response tells of a different number of aces and kings, if any.

We have been swapping bids with this pair:

SOUTH
♠A 8 6 3
♥K 9 7 4
♦None
♣K J 8 6 4
NORTH
♠Q J 10 2
♥A
♦A J 8 4
♣A Q 3 2

The bidding has progressed this way:

South	North
Pass	1 S
2 C	2 D
3 S	?

The south three spade jump shows tricks enough to help make a game. Also spade support. So, north sees at least 12 tricks and now knows that either spades or clubs can be trump.

Therefore, with two aces and a king (or better), he bids four no-trump. In reply, south says five spades. This is Kibitzer convention arbitrary signal for showing one ace and two kings.

With this information, north can decide the final bid. He may pass five spades, go to six clubs, or end at six spades. Six spades is where he should be.

Rules that reveal bring a comforting feeling.

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 9 —(AP)— In these days of limited picture-making, a Hollywood reporter has to get around. So hop aboard my jet job and we're off.

First we arrive at Paramount, where Bob Hope and Jane Russell are making the lot's only picture, "The Paleface." We track down Bob and find him pedalling his bike down the studio street. We trot alongside as he tells a joke he wouldn't be able to recite on the air. When we reach the stage, he greets his producer, Bob Fallows, with a cryptic remark, "get out of the sacred cow, Margaret, I'm off to Hollywood." Fallows laughs sheepishly.

Inside, Bob tells the story. It seems he has been fighting to keep any "outside" gags (for instance, about Crosby and his horses) out of the frontier picture. So in retaliation, Bob suggested having a dance hall pianist turn out to be President Truman. "Harry would do it for me," said Bob, and the producer didn't find out till later he was kidding.

We head out of Culver City, where Esther Williams is splashing around in a pool for "On An Island With You." She pops out of the water and looks as fresh as though she stepped out of the makeup building. She explains that her hair is laquered to stay dry, her makeup is water resistant and her metal suit is waterproof.

Then we're off to Beverly Hills, where "Prelude to Night" is shooting.

We look in on Diana Lynn, who is dressed for the picture in a 1922 costume. It is rather a long, weird-looking number, but we are assured that in few weeks it will be the height of fashion again.

And now if you don't mind, I'm going to cease these wanderings for awhile and take a honeymoon. Armand Archerd, Howard Heyn and Ralph Dighton will take over while I'm gone.

Mullikin Respirator Demonstrated To Members of Kinsmen Club

Several members of the Belleville Medical Association were guests of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville at their inaugural meeting of the fall season held Monday evening when the Mullikin Respirator, used on a large scale by the armed forces during the war years, was demonstrated to the club members.

It was later stated that the local club would consider the purchase of a Mullikin respirator for presentation to the fire or police department to be used in near drowning and other emergencies requiring a respirator.

Differing from the conventional iron lung which is more or less stationary, the patient having to be brought to the lung, the Mullikin respirator is of a portable nature the complete outfit weighing but 35 pounds. The motor will work off ordinary house current, from a 6-volt storage battery, or in the case of complete power failure, can be operated by hand.

The unit is equipped with three chest sizes that will accommodate anyone from a newborn baby to a person weighing 300 pounds.

Apparatus Demonstrated.

Demonstrating the iron lung to Kinsmen members and to members of the Medical Association attending the meeting, operators quickly fitted the chest units to a lady attendant, the equipment being in operation in a matter of moments. Later a member of the Kinsmen Club donned the chest units for a further demonstration.

The mechanical respirator has a wide variety of uses and can be used wherever artificial respiration is necessary to preserve life. It has proved its merit as emergency equipment in case of accidents, drownings and suffocations and has prolonged usage in instances of infantile paralysis. If a respirator is purchased, in case of an emergency up to four additional lungs would be provided for the Belleville area.

Added Feature.

A feature of the Mullikin respirator is that it can be taken to the patient and the patient can be comfortably moved while the chest shields are in place, and the respirator in operation.

Doctors attending the meeting were keenly interested in the demonstration and voiced their general approval of the apparatus.

Discussion of forthcoming club projects for the fall season was heard during the meeting which was presided over by the club president, Art Cruji.

Hillier Church To be Dedicated By Bishop Lyons

Rising from the ashes of its predecessor on the 101 year-old site, the new Christ Church at Hillier, Prince Edward County, will be officially dedicated and opened by the Lord Bishop of Ontario, Rt. Rev. John Lyons, M.A., B.D., at impressive services on Sunday, September 28.

The former edifice struck by lightning during a violent storm a few years ago, was completely destroyed by fire.

Built over a century ago by the late Bishop Strachan, Bishop of Toronto at the time, the former structure was one of Prince Edward County's famous landmarks. Situated in the rolling farmlands of Hillier township it stood, a beacon light of religion to the homely farming people for miles around.

It served many generations for nearly a century before it was destroyed. At that time the loyalty that characterized the congregation since the building of the first church, and handed down to generations, blazed anew, and members rallied to the call for the construction of a new building.

Now it has been completed. It is of frame construction, roofed with asphalt shingles and fireproof siding and stands on a cement foundation. A basement will be utilized for Sunday School activities.

The new church stands as an architectural monument to the loyalty and hard work of the rector and the congregation. Not only will it serve the purpose for which it is intended, but it will epitomize and culminate the united efforts of a people whose faith was not destroyed by the fire of adversity.

The present incumbent of the church is the Rev. E. N. Grant, rector of Wellington and Hillier, with Huff's Island. Mr. Grant is also the rural dean of Prince Edward County. He resides in Wellington.

Wardens of Christ Church, Hillier are, Charles E. Margetson and Walter Nind.

Yankees Reach 2,000,000 AttendanceMark,SeemCertain To Attract Another 500,000

Only Baseball Club in Majors to Lure That Many Fans Through Turnstiles

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The magnetic New York Yankees, only baseball club to lure 2,000,000 fans past the turnstiles in a single season, not only have repeated the stunt today, but give promise of making it 2,500,000 before the season ends.

With 53,101 at Yankee Stadium to watch last night's tussle with Cleveland Indians, the Yankees have attracted 2,023,643 paid admissions in 62 home games, an average gate game of 32,639. Should the same attendance prevail for the remainder of the home season, the Yankees with 15 more games to play at the Stadium should wind up with something like 2,500,000. Last year the club set a record of 2,265,512 admissions.

Yesterday's crowd was treated to a brilliant bit of relief pitching by Bob Feller, who saved a 4-3 victory for Bob Lemon with clever clutch hurling. Rapid Robert came to the rescue of Lemon in the last of the ninth when the Yankees had runners on first and third and nobody o.

Feller forced Billy Johnson to pop to third baseman Ken Keltner, got Aaron Robinson on a tap in front of the plate and ended the game by fanning Phil Rizzuto.

The Yankees still need a combination of eight victories and Boston Red Sox losses to clinch the flag.

Batted Winning Run

Lemon, who limited the Yankees to six hits, batted in the winning run in the eighth, with his third single. The blow came off Bobo Newsom, who dropped his 10th game of the year against as many victories. George McQuinn accounted for the first two Yankee runs with successive home runs in the second and fourth innings.

In the only other game played in the majors, New York Giants spotted Pittsburgh Pirates eight runs in the first seven innings, then went on to win 10-8 in a National League contest. Held to two singles for seven innings, the Giants pounced on Fritz Ostermueller for seven runs in the eighth and three in the ninth. The big blow was Lloyd Gearhart's two-run homer in the ninth which put the Giants ahead 9-8.

Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals, both idle yesterday begin their final drive for the National League flag today, the front-running Brooks taking on the Cubs in Chicago in the first of a 10-game swing through the west. The Cards are host to Philadelphia Phils.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 9 — (AP)—A Kentucky College president, Louisville's John W. Taylor, proposes that colleges should hire football players "just like professors" instead of hiring them by the present system.

. . . But what spectator would pay $3 (or more) to watch 11 college professors? . . . Publicist Jersey Jones figures it is ironic that Rocky Graziano, a New York resident, will have to pay an income tax on his ring earnings to a state which bars him from fighting. And if he clashes with Tony Zale again before Jan. 1, Rocky's tax this year will be more than enough to pay Commissioner Eddie Eagan's salary.

Job Insurance

During the summer an umpire from Jersey City, Bill Godfrey, wandered into the International League office looking for a job and was brushed off with the usual "leave your address" . . . that same evening the umpires assigned to a twilight doubleheader at Jersey City got mixed up and failed to appear, so President Shag Shaughnessy called the number Bill had left and put him to work . . . the upshot was a regular job on the I. L. staff.

End of the Line

If you think that Jersey City-Montreal pennant race was close, look at the class "D" Alabama — Georgia League. Heading into the Labor Day doubleheaders to end the season, Oeplika, Valley Rebels and Carrollton all had chances to win the pennant. Carrollton took both games and the flag while the other two clubs broke even.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Point Anne Wings face a crucial test tonight on their home village diamond when they meet the strong Oshawa nine in the first game of the second round OASA Intermediate "A" playdowns. The Oshawans disposed of Peterborough in the first round, the last game being a shambles with the score 20-2 or thereabouts. The Pointers ousted the Kingston Lacos in two straight games, so tonight's tilt at Ox Point should be one for the little book.

• • •

It is likely the Oshawa squad will start the well-known McConkey, their ace hurler, who is said to be some punkins at the chucking art. Or it could be Lewis, a versatile gent who flings 'em and slugs 'em with equal abandon. On the other side of the picture, Manager Sedore will, in all probability, use his ace Don Boyle in an effort to cop the victory nod in this all-important first game. The tilt gets under way at 5:45 this afternoon.

• • •

The boys on the batting rialto are tossing coins over this third joust between the Trenton Flyers and the Batawa Shoemen who clash tomorrow night at the Exhibition Grounds in their third meet for Intermediate "A" first round playdown honors. The lads of the lettuce hereabouts are more or less evenly divided on the outcome and five will get you five that the boys don't tie.

• • •

Coach Reinhardt did an infield shift in the Flyers game against Napanee the other night and according to reports the idea worked very successfully. M'sieu Dunning, who formerly cavorted around the initial sack has been transferred to third base and the tall slim fielder handled the assignment the other night without a miscue. In our opinion, that guy can handle anything on the diamond creditably. Holdershow, a veteran of the team was sent to first base while Bridgeman and Dicky Fitzpatrick held their own spots at short and second.

• • •

As for the starting pitchers, in all probability Al Wade and Gord Muffitt who waged a twelve-inning mound duel at the last meeting of the teams will likely pick up where they left off. Both teams will be at full strength according to last reports and the baseball faithful should see a diamond classic. Game gets under way at 8.30 under the lights.

• • •

Right now, despite some criticism, that bordered on the jeering side from some of the city's sporting gentry, it looks as though a glistening sheet of artificial ice will greet the Philadelphia Rockets team of the American Hockey League when they step into the Memorial Arena next Monday.

• • •

For, it is now a foregone conclusion that everything is on the up and up, the artificial ice plant has been installed, water tests have been made and found highly satisfactory, and the Rockets should be able to get under skating way right on the original schedule.

• • •

Tonight at the Army, Navy, Air Force club rooms, the moguls of the Intermediate "A" hockey squad will rub heads in solemn conclave over the coming season's activities. Much will depend, it is expected, on the activities of the Philly Rockets squad and what arrangements will be made with them, but apart from that, and if all available talent gets out, the 1947-8 edition of the ANAFS should be a good one. But nothing definite has been laid down as yet and much will hinge on the outcome of tonight's meeting.

Dink Carroll, Montreal columnist recalls with gusto some of the clowns of baseball and the contribution they have made to the game. Germany Schaefer, he recalls was one of the first Pierrots of the diamond and Nick Altrock came after him. Schaefer and Altrock worked together for a time and after they split up it was Altrock and Schacht. All four, Schaefer, Altrock, Schacht and the newest comedy star Johnny Price were all major league players.

• • •

Schaefer was possibly the most versatile of the four. A natural comedian, he relied on wit as well as performance for his laughs. Malcolm W. Bingay, one of the editors of the Detroit Free Press and Detroit's famous "Iffy, the Dopester," was his best publicist. He once wrote that Schaefer was the most colorful player the Tigers ever had with the exception of Ty Cobb, who had color of a different kind.

• • •

One of Schaefer's methods of bewildering a pitcher was to steal bases in reverse. After stealing second base, he would turn around and steal first again. Somehow this stealing bases the wrong way had a most disconcerting effect on the pitchers. In fact, it often made a burlesque of the game and old Ban Johnson actually had the rule changed — on Schaefer's account — whereby runners could only circle the bases in one direction, via first base, second base, and third.

• • •

Some of his laughs were at the expence of the umpires. On one occasion when it was raining and Tim Hurst was slow to call the game, Schaefer appeared at the plate in rubber boots and a raincoat. It was a long time before Hurst would forgive him, and anything thrown near Schaefer when he was umpiring was a strike. He further angered Hurst by coming to bat one day wearing a false moustache. While the crowd screamed with laughter Hurst bellowed, "You're out of the game, Schaefer!" The latter demanded to know what for.

"I don't know what for," said Hurst, "but you're out" and he made it stick.

Tommy Ivan Will Coach Detroit Red Wings in N.H.L. This Winter

Saskatoon, Sept. 9 (CP) —Detroit Red Wings, hockey camp here, which also embraces prospects for its farm clubs, Indianapolis Caps, Omaha Knights and Windsor Spitfires, opened yesterday with 90 players in attendance.

Tommy Ivan, who replaces Jack Adams as coach of the Wings this year, is in charge of the camp and his assistant is Mud Bruneteau, coach of the Omaha Club.

Members of last year's Wings who checked in today were Gerry Couture, Gordie Howe, Ralph Almas, Jim McFadden, Pat Lundy, Callum McKay, Roy Conacher and Bill Quackenbush. Veteran Jack Stewart was expected in a day or two.

Detroit is holding another camp at Waterloo, Ont., as well and the cream from both training centres will be taken to Detroit for the final polishing process.

Must Have Will To Win

Waterloo, Sept. 9 (CP) —Fifty-five amateurs and 20 professionals worked out here yesterday as Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League opened training sessions in Waterloo Arena.

Among last year's Red Wings on hand are Syd Abel, Harry Lumley, Leo Reise, Jimmy Conacher, Bill Taylor, Pete Horeck and Eddie Bruneteau. Here from the Indianapolis Capitols are Cliff Simpson, Bruce Burdette, Red Doran, Fern Gauthier and Enzo Scallizi.

General Manager Jack Adams in charge of the camp, described the kind of players he's looking for. "We want the same will to win as was shown by Milt Schmidt of Boston when, with one knee on the ice, he shot the goal that gave Boston a 3-2 win over us in the playoffs last season."

160-Game N.H.L. Schedule Released With Opening Date Being Earliest in History

Toronto Leafs, World Champs, Open Season Against Detroit on Oct. 18

Montreal, Sept. 9 — (CP)—The National Hockey League today made public its schedule for the 1947-48 season, listing 160 games for the six-team circuit and ushering in the season on the earliest date in the league's history.

When Chicago Black Hawks meet Detroit Red Wings on Wednesday Oct. 15, in the Michigan metropolis, the two teams will better by one day the record set last year when Toronto Maple Leafs visited Detroit. No other games are scheduled on the official opening night.

The season will end Sunday, March 21, two days earlier than last season's finish. Each team will play 60 games — 30 at home and 30 on the road — the same number as last season.

New York Rangers and the N. H. L. champion Montreal Canadiens go into action at Montreal Thursday, Oct. 16. Toronto Leafs, Stanley Cup champions, make their season debut at home Saturday, Oct. 18, against Detroit.

Boston Bruins get away to the latest start, playing at home against Rangers on Sunday, Oct. 19.

Toronto Leafs, however, make their first appearance intact on Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 13, when they meet the league's all-star team, inaugurating an annual contest in aid of the new pensions and savings fund.

All in Action Oct. 29

Oct. 29 will mark the first date that all six teams are in action at the same time.

Toronto and Detroit each engage in 19 "double-headers" — games on consecutive nights. Canadiens take part in 18, Boston 17, Rangers 15 and Chicago 14.

Toronto has the toughest chore in the double-header billing, playing nine times against teams that have idle dates the previous night. Canadiens meet "fresh" teams 8 times, Boston and Chicago five times each, Rangers four and Detroit only three.

There are seven more weekend games than in last year's schedule — five on Sundays and two on Saturdays. Canadiens have the two extra Saturday dates. Boston and Detroit each plays two more Sundays and Rangers one.

Toronto's schedule is identical with that the Leafs played last year. Toronto has more Saturday dates — 23 for the season — than any other club. Chicago and New York top the Sunday dates with 16 each.

There are no Monday or Friday dates for any club throughout the schedule.

Eddie Heusser Starting Hurler For the Royals

Montreal, Sept. 9 —(CP)— Eddie Heusser will be Montreal Royals' starting hurler in the best-of-seven playoff for the Governors' Cup tonight when Syracuse Chiefs come to town.

Royals and Chiefs play the first two games of the series here tonight and tomorrow, and then move to Syracuse where games will be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday. If a sixth and seventh game are necessary, they will be played at Montreal Sunday and Monday.

Manager Clay Hopper of Royals has given the green light to Heusser for mound duties, but has declined to say what hurlers he will rely on for the remainder of the series. He has not announced any changes in lineup.

Heusser led the Montreal pitchers with a 19 win, three loss record for the year.

The Montrealers will be making their third try for the Governors' Cup while Syracuse will make a fourth attempt. The cup is sponsored by the Governors of New York, New Jersey and Maryland and the Lieutenant Governors of Quebec and Ontario.

A TIGHT-ROPE WALKER NEEDS BALANCE

AND HOW! But so do the wheels of your car. A wheel 4 ounces out of balance at 40 miles per hour exerts a pounding pressure of almost 14 pounds on your tire. Have your wheels checked tomorrow. Double the life of your tires. Stop the shimmy in your car. You'll be pleasantly surprised at the results and the low cost.

N.B.A. DEBATES PREVENTION OF INJURIES, FUNDS

Merits of Point and Round Systems for Scoring Favored by Delegates

By W.R. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Sept. 9 (CP) — The National Boxing Association, in its 27th annual convention, turned its attention today to further study of means of preventing serious ring accidents and establishment of a fund for penniless former boxers and fighters incapacitated through ring injuries.

The convention, attended by 125 delegates from the 55 member commissions, also prepared to deal with a committee recommendation for the 1948 convention city.

Six cities — Honolulu, Havana, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Milwaukee and Denver — yesterday through their delegates, sought next year's meeting place.

Discussion on ring accidents and means of preventing them was introduced yesterday by Ed Futka of Cleveland, Ohio, where Jimmy Doyle died following a knockout by Sugar Ray Robinson.

Futka said Doyle had been examined by competent physicians before the fight, and that since his death the Clevelanad Commission has instituted private examination by two doctors and a regulation that allows only a physician to touch or order removed from the ring a knocked-out boxer.

Similar regulations in effect elsewhere, particularly in Illinois and the district of Columbia, were outlined by delegates.

Most of yesterday afternoon's session was taken up with a long discussion on uniformity of scoring systems. From all parts of the floor delegates rose to bespeak the merits of the point and round systems.

It was finally decided that a special committee should receive from all commissions pertinent information on the system used in each unit, with sample score cards of actual ring contests. The committee will co-ordinate this information with a view to recommendation of some unifrom regulation.

The convention gave early attention to the New York Boxing Commission, which consistently has held aloof from the N.B.A. and names its own champions.

President Abe J. Greene, of Paterson, N.J., said the New York Commission has always maintained it is prevented by legislative enactments and entanglements from affiliating with another body. The convention thereupon authorized dispatch of a telegram to Governor Dewey of New York, requesting his personal recommendation for legislation permitting affiliation with the N.B.A. and for removal of any statutory obstacles.

The convention by resolution recommended to member commissions that referees be medically examined before each boxing show, that they also undergo yearly physical check-ups and that no fewer than two referees be assigned to any show.

WITHIN SINGLE GAME

New Westminster, B. C., Sept. 9 — (CP) — New Westminster Adanacs moved within a single game of the Inter-City Lacrosse League championship here last night defeating Vancouver Burrards 15-10 in the fourth game of the best-of-seven final series. Adanacs now hold a 3-1 lead in games. Fifth game of the series will be played here Wednesday night.

Canadian Vets Become "Limeys"

No longer do stalwart Canadian soldiers stride the streets of London, or clusters of men on leave plan the day's adventures over a "mild-and-bitter" at the Groom and Dolphin pub. The familiar Canada shoulder flash has vanished from the London scene. But Canadian veterans in civvies are appearing in steadily increasing numbers. Already some 3,500 Canadian veterans of World War II have decided to call England their home. What's the reason? In The Standard this week, Paul Lieven writes a feature article from London that will be of interest to all ex-servicemen who served in England. He reveals how Canadian vets are making out in the Old Country. Read it in The Standard — on sale now at all newsdealers' for 10¢.

FRANKIE PARKER WINS HIS ROUND

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 9 (AP) —Frankie Parker, the forgotten man of amateur tennis, faces an opportunity this week to get even for some of the injustices he feels have been dealt him in the last year.

The two-time former champion has recovered from the injured tendon under his racket arm which kept him out of two important recent tournaments and appears to be playing with all his old skill in the national championships at Forest Hills. Also, he appears to be playing with a sort of tight-lipped intensity which bodes no good for opponents.

Yesterday his famed backhand and his steady forehand were clicking off points as he subdued the former Czech Davis Cup player, Ladislav Hecht 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Lone Canadian survivor in the championships is Henri Rochon of Montreal, who yesterday defeated Jacques Petem, Belgium, 6-, 6-3, 7-5 in a second-round men's match. The only other Canadian to play yesterday, Patricia Macken, Montreal, lost 6-0, 6-1 to Jean Quertier of England in a second-round women's match.

Marlboros Will Represent Toronto In Senior O.H.A.

(By The Canadian Press)

A senior hockey club, to be known as Toronto Marlboros, will represent the Queen City in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A competition this Winter. The team will work in co-operation with Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup champions.

A statement announcing the birth of the new club said Toronto Staffords, only city entry in Senior O.H.A. ranks last year, had amalgamated with the Marlboro Athletic Club, which operated both junior and senior hockey teams before the war.

Jack Stafford, Sr., sponsor of the Stafford team last year, will remain in hockey as president of the Marlboro Senior entry. A coach for the team is to be appointed shortly.

Legislation recently advanced in Alabama to legalize betting on horse racing and dog racing has been declared unconstitutional by a 4-3 decision of the State Supreme Court.

Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgren, who succeeded Lou Gehrig as first baseman for the New York Yankees, has been announced he intends quitting baseball as an active player. Dahlgren played out his 17th year of baseball with Baltimore Orioles of the International League Sunday. He intends to return to Southern California where he started in the Pacific Coast League in 1931.

Two more thoroughbred races died at Rockingham Park, Salem, N.H., Monday, the fifth and sixth victims of an outbreak of swamp fever, which has caused some 900 horses to be quarantined for the last two weeks.

Freddie Mills of Great Britain last night won the European light heavyweight boxing championship at London with a technical knock-out over Pol Goffaux of Belgium in the fourth round of a 15-rounder. Both fighters weighed 172 1-4 pounds.

Leonard (Red) Kelly of Woodhouse, near Simcoe, Ont., defence star last season for Toronto St. Michael's College, Dominion Junior Hockey Champions, has left for the training camp of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League. Wings' camp is at Waterloo, Ontario.

Sixty Aspirants Out For Practice With Toronto U.

Toronto, Sept. 9 — (CP)—Sixty aspirants to the University of Toronto's Intercollegiate senior football team, including seven holdovers from last year, reported for their first practice of the season yesterday.

Two weeks of tough practices will precede a trip west for two exhibition games in Saskatoon and one in Edmonton. The Blues will leave Toronto Sept. 23 and return to open the season with the defending champions, Western Mustangs, here Oct. 11.

Candidates yesterday met big Bob Masterson, former end with Washington professional Redskins, who will work as associate coach with Bobby Coulter this fall. Masterson who had been playing with Hamilton Tigers to familiarize himself with Canadian football, now will devote his full time to the Varsity team.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Sept. 9. (CP)—Nova Scotia—or any of the Maritime Provinces for that matter—does not recognize the Canadian Boxing Federation when the Federation issued its annual list of Canadian champions and leading contenders Alex (Halifax Herald) Nickerson was right on hand to give his idea of the C.B.F.

"There exists in Canada," said Nick, "a body of self-appointed and self-styled dictators of professional boxing who call themselves the Canadian Boxing Federation.

"They meet in Montreal and periodically they make up a list of the people who in their opinion hold Canadian Boxing Championships.

"Though they are not recognized in the Maritime Provinces, and it is extremely doubtful if any municipal or provincial boxing association pays any attention to their claims outside Quebec and Ontario, they nevertheless have no hesitation in attempting to govern professional boxing from Vancouver to Glace Bay."

Foremost among Nick's beefs was the Federation's listing of Len Wadsworth of Sudbury, Ont., as middleweight champ.

"This," muses Nick, "will come as a shock to Roger Whynott (of Mahone Bay, N.S.). Ever since he won a disputed decision over Wadsworth last year. . .He has claimed the championship."

There Nick drops the matter.

Pigskin Patter

With the decision of Halifax Wanderers to play the Canadian brand of football this season, Ace (Halifax Chronicle) Foley sees a coming thing.

"Canadian football", wrote Ace "is the coming game in these parts. English rugby is slowly fading as a major sports attraction and Canadian football figures not only to take its place but add more interest to the Autumn sports season than it ever has known before."

The Death of a Doll

CHAPTER 8.

In Miss Small's suite, Mrs. Marshall-Gill adjusted her hat, which had been knocked askew too often, pinned back her straying hair, and washed her hands. That done, she left and walked to the end of the hall where she rang for the elevator. She heard the preliminary buzz and waited for the active purr. Nothing happened. She rang again and again, and after the third ring the car came, empty except for the operator. She got in, affronted. This, she said to herself, is what comes of letting the masses act like other people. "The party is no excuse, Jewel," she said. "You knew I was there and don't tell me you didn't. I rang three times—three. I call that deliberate insubordination . . . Well, say something!"

The masked head turned slowly to face her. No words came from the red, buttonhole mouth, nothing showed behind the round, black-fringed eyes. The car sank gently downward.

Mrs. Marshall-Gill discovered that her throat was dry and her knees unstable. Something like a cold wind was filling the small cage, wrapping its fingers around her heart, emanating from Jewel.

The car lurched to a stop. Mrs. Marshall-Gill got out and went to her chair. When she was able to raise her glazed eyes, the car had gone up again. She watched the dial, four, five, six, seven, eight. It stopped at eight.

Days went by, and Dr. Kloppel came too many times to Hope House. Too many nights he went down the halls preceded by Mrs. Fister's warning voice, "Man coming, man coming." There was an epidemic of hysteria that took a long time dying. In the rooms facing the courtyard three girls often crowded into one bed and talked all night, staring at the window.

Thanksgiving came and went. Mrs. Marshall-Gill discontinued the Sunday teas.

Lillian Harris asked for day work at her office, and got it. She also asked to room with April Hooper.

There was no change in the evening routine for Miss Brady and Miss Small, except that they met more often in Miss Brady's suite. They had more privacy there, and that was an advantage. Girls with stomach aches, broken hearts, and doubts about the value of maintaining virtue didn't come to Miss Brady when they couldn't sleep.

"I don't see how you stand it, Angel," Miss Brady said.

"It's my work," Miss Small reminded her. "Monny? Some of the girls came to my room after dinner. They said they were a delegation. They've been collecting for a marker for Ruth Miller's grave. I don't know what to do about it, I don't want to seem heartless. But we do frown on collections of any sort, don't we?"

"Send them to me," Miss Brady said gruffly. "We can't have it. They're simply dragging the thing out, and that's no good. Time it was forgotten." She rooted about in the untidy drawer of an almost priceless desk and brought out two envelopes. "Here's something to take your mind off of it. Came today and I got them before anybody saw me. Passports."

"Monny!"

"French line. I think, maybe the first of the year. I'll see to it. We won't say a word until we hand in our resignations, bang! Can you see Marshall-Gill's face?"

That was on a Sunday night in December.

On the following morning young Mrs. Sutton, back from Pinehurst, welcomed two elderly guests from upstate.

The Misses Pond and Petty, both in their late 60's, were not strangers to travel or anything. They loved life and had a passionate interest in death. Other peoples'. Along with their contemporaries they read the obituary page daily, but where the contemporaries accepted the printed fact, Bessy and Beulah challenged it. They didn't believe that natural death was as common as doctors and coroners made it out to be.

In appearance, Bessy Petty resembled an aging Cupid and Beulah Pond a rejuvenated hawk. When Roberta Sutton met their train and walked between them to her car, she looked as if she were being preyed upon. But they were only loving her.

After breakfast Roberta offered a shopping trip, to be followed by lunch with Mark East. This was accepted with little cries of pleasure, and they started out.

"We'll go to Blackman's first, if you don't mind," Roberta said. "I need soap. Then lunch. Then anywhere you like. What do you want to see?"

Bessy said, "The Little Church Around the Corner, the Little Bar at the Ritz, and Grant's Tomb."

They drove to Blackman's and Roberta made straight for the toilet goods, beginning to smile before she reached the counter. But Miss Miller wasn't there. A strange clerk with bleached hair was rearranging Miss Miller's stock. Roberta compared her watch with Blackman's big clock; it was only 11:30, and Miss Miller never went to lunch before 1. She spoke briskly to the strange clerk.

"Will Miss Miller be back shortly?"

The clerk looked blank. "Who?" Then she appraised Roberta's coat, hat, gloves, handbag, and all that could be seen of her blouse. This wasn't a personal. this was a customer. "I'm new in the department," she said formally. "Would you like me to inquire, madam?"

"Yes, I would, please." Roberta wanted Miss Miller to meet Bessy and Beulah. Miss Miller would enjoy that. "Perhaps, if she's been transferred—"

"If madam will wait," the clerk said, "I'll ask our section manager."

She pressed a button under the counter and a tall young man glided to Roberta's side.

"Madam is inquiring for a Miss Miller," the clerk explained. "This is our Mr. Benz, madam."

Mr. Benz replied with an equal mixture of pleasure and regret. "Miss Miller is no longer with us, but I'm sure Miss Collins will do very well."

"I'm sure Miss Collins will do very well," Roberta agreed, "but I want to see Miss Miller just the same. Can you tell me where she is?"

Mr. Benz also appraised Roberta, and he hesitated before he spoke again.

Roberta saw the hesitation She gave miss Collins her shopping list "Charge and send, please" And she added her name and address.

Mr. Benz was a young man with practical dreams of a little business of his own someday, and in preparation he had made a careful study of Blackman's carriage trade. He rifled through the list of Suttons he kept in his head and placed Roberta instantly. Born Beacham oil; married Sutton, copper. Tycoon blood. Don't stall. When he spoke it was in a discreet whisper.

"If I may speak to you privately, Mrs. Sutton. The situation is somewhat unusual."

Roberta gathered up her bag. If they had fired Miss Miller, she was going to do something about it.

Bessy and Beulah followed her down the aisle Bessy plainly agog and Beulah in the same state but not showing it. Mr. Benz was waiting for them at the main door. He indicated that his information was private, and he and Roberta moved out of earshot.

"In deference to the elderly ladies," he explained. "A regrettable situation. Miss Miller is unfortunately dead."

A slow pain took possession of Roberta's heart Dead, she thought and I never did any of the things I meant to do. That poor girl, alone in that dreadful place she was moving to. "When?" she asked.

Lost 48 Hours In Bush, Woman Lives on Berries

Larder Lake, Sept. 9—(CP)—Mrs. Limpi Lipasti, 44-year-old Finnish resident of this northern mining community, has decided she is through as a blueberry picker, although she ate nothing else while lost in the Hearst township brush for about 48 hours.

Mrs. Lipasti went berrypicking Thursday morning and when she did not return for dinner her husband advised police. A search party found her exhausted by a creek in thick bush area Saturday afternoon.

Bruised and scratched the woman said she drank water from the creek and ate blueberries but "I'm through with berrypicking." After medical treatment she was allowed to return to her home.

Flier Lands In Cornfield During Storm

Crosby, Ont., Sept. 8. (CP)—Luck was with Marcel Seguin, 19-year-old member of the Ottawa Flying Club, when he ran into a storm on a flight from Kingston to Ottawa in his light aircraft late yesterday and made a forced landing in a full-grown cornfield.

Erik Watt, an Ottawa reporter returning from the Oshawa Air trials for the Webster trophy, was a passenger.

The two escaped without a scratch when Seguin apparently overshot the field he had picked for a forced landing, bounced in front of a wire fence, hopped it, and plowed an eight-foot-wide, 140-foot furrow in the corn patch.

"People came running to ask, 'How many were killed,'" the reporter said.

FIRST GOOD RAIN

Hamburg, Sept. 9 — (AP) — The first measurable rain since Aug. 7 fell on the drought-parched British occupation zone of Germany during the last 24 hours. The German weather bureau said the amount of precipitation in most places was small, but that in some places readings ranged up to almost an inch.

'Pain-in-Chest Illness' Clears Up In Few Weeks

London, Ont., Sept. 9 (CP) — The mysterious "pain in the chest illness" which has been reported at Victoria Hospital here is called "pleuradynia" Dr. C. A. Harris, city Minister of Health said, adding that its occurence was an "old, old story" in Canada.

"Pleuradynia appears to be a virus disease," he said, claiming that there is not one single Canadian laboratory carrying out research into viruses, believed the cause of many respiratory ailments.

"Pleuradynia as an illness is not considered important," said Dr. Harris. "Nobody ever died from it and there are no crippling after effects. It clears up in a few weeks."

"Nothing is known of the viruses except that they are invisible even to the highest powered microscope and they can pass through any filter," Dr. Harris said.

New Movement For Wage Increases Threatens to Create Industrial Crisis And Over-All Price-Ceiling Urged

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Dublin, Sept. 9. — (CP) — A strong, new movement for wage increases threatens to create an industrial crisis for Eire and trade union leaders are urging imposition of an over-all price ceiling to stop the post-war increase in the cost-of-living.

"There should be a stand-still now on prices as there formerly was on wages," said James Larkin, vice-president of the Irish Trades Union Congress and a member of the Dail.

Demands for pay boosts have been put forward by the most powerful unions in the country. Resolutions for more wages have been passed by thousands of union members at district branches, on grounds that the cost-of-living increase, during the last few months has absorbed increases granted by the labor court since it was set up last Autumn.

Union wage claims average a 25-per-cent increase. What labor leaders want is a Public Prices Tribunal similar to the labor court, with power to authorize price increases in the same way as the labor court can approve higher wages.

"The prices situation seems out of hand," said the T.U.C. official.

Housewives Agree

No one agrees more thoroughly than the Irish housewife. A "parliament of women" will be convened in Dublin Sept. 19 to discuss proposals looking toward price reductions and to protest against the government's failure to stem increases in living costs.

Swedish, Dutch and British women's "parliaments" are being asked to send delegates. Behind the scheme is an organization known as the Dublin Lower Prices Council to which is affiliated the joint committee for women's organizations.

Second session of the "parliament" will be on the eve of reassembly of the Dail and there will be general lobbying of Dail members next day. There will be a woman's "cabinet" to remain in constant session until "effective price control is secured."

New Threat

Proposals for a new Anglo-Irish trade agreement are expected by trade union leaders to increase prics in Eire still further. It is thought Britain will offer increased prices, as well as an improved supply of feeding-stuffs and fertilizers which Eire needs badly.

Export rates largely dictate prices in this country. Thus, a rise in the price of beef or eggs on the export market always causes a similar increase at home.

Because of the overall food-shortage, many nations are trying to buy Eire's surplus Agricultural output. Some continental countries are offering even higher prices than Britain.

Most Irishmen feel that their country's best hope of prosperity lies in increased trade with Britain, however.

Man's Body Found At Cornwall

Cornwall, Sept. 9 — (CP) — The nude body of an unidentified man was recovered from Cornwall canal shortly after seven o'clock Monday morning. The body had apparently been in the water about five days.

Police said the body was noticed floating in the canal near the bridge by Mrs. Earl Lalonde, of Northfield Station, who was on her way to work. She notified the bridge tender, who in turn notified police. The body was recovered by police.

The body was battered almost beyond recognition, apparently by the propellers of boats. The legs were missing. There was no clothing on the body by which to promote identification.

Police said the man was between 45-50 years of age, about five feet seven inches tall, weighed about 160 pounds. He had brown hair and a fair,tanned complexion.

Housing Contracts Increased in August

Toronto, Sept. 9 — (CP) — Housing contracts awards for August increased substantially over the previous month, MacLean reports Monday revealed in announcing a total of $27,278,900 for the month. Principal reason for the increase was the awarding of contracts by the Dominion government, through its agency, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, for 2,165 houses at an estimated cost of $10,500,000.

All building contracts throughout the Dominion totalled $72,380,000 for the month, an increase of $21,900,000 over the $50,414,000 reported during August, 1946. Ontario registered the heaviest gain, with increases in all classes of construction, totalling $28,428,000, an increase of $13,600,000 over the last August figure.

The Dominion-wide cumulative total for eight months is $474,068,700, an increase of $13,376,300 over the $460,692,400 for eight months of 1946.

Youths Given Eight Years Each For Robbery

Whitby, Ont., Sept. 9 —(CP)— Defence Counsel, A. W. M. Creer today blamed "lurid pulp magazines and crime radio programs" for his clients' troubles as Theodore Gregor, 23, and Frank Polsanski, 19, were given eight years each in Kingston Penitentiary on charges of armed robbery.

"The other fellow getting away with it and not being punished has a lot to do with it, too," commented Judge D. B. Coleman. The youths had pleaded guilty to the $14,000 holdup Aug. 13 of the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at nearby Pickering.

The two Toronto men were also charged with stealing two .38 calibre revolvers from the bank. Approximately $2,000 of the loot was not recovered.

In passing sentence Judge Coleman stated it made no difference that the guns used in the holdup were toys.

"Toy guns are just as effective as real guns," he said. "If there had been any violence used during the robbery, I would have imposed a whipping with the sentence."

Mamie had a Baby

Mamie Maloney is a newspaper-woman. Her daily column in the Vancouver Sun is one of the most popular features of B.C. journalism. She recently gave birth to a baby. Three hours after it was born, she was sitting up in bed recording for her readers some first-hand impressions of life in a maternity ward. In private life she is Mrs. Teddy Boggs. Mamie has done for the B.C. housewife what showman Florens Ziegfeld did for the American girl — glorified her. In her column she records conversations with the Fuller Brush man, discusses soap operas, muses over why the baby hasn't started to talk, and records the hundreds of minor crises that add up to family life. The story of Mamie's success makes for excellent reading in The Standard this week. The Standard is on sale now at all newsdealers' for 10¢.

TWO ARMED BANDITS HOLD UP BANK IN HULL

21 DEAD IN EXPLOSION ON EXCURSION SHIP

Top Deck Visible As Firemen Search Ruins For Victims

Cause of Blast Unknown, $600,000 Estimated Damage

Pittsburg, Sept. 10 (AP)—Firemen today resumed a grim search among the blackened embers of the excursion vessel Island Queen for victims of yesterday's explosion-fire whose toll of dead and missing is counted at 21. There were no passengers aboard at the time.

Thirteen of the 17 persons injured in the blast which rocked Pittsburg's "Golden Triangle" were still under treatment in hospitals.

Efforts to recover the bodies were tempered with caution as the charred hulk of the five-deck boat sank deeper into the muddied waters of her Monongahela river berth.

Once, firemen were ordered from the boat because the hull was shifting and threatened to break sideways as it slipped into deeper water. Only the top deck was still visible and it was believed many of the victims would remain in the river's bottom.

Of six bodies recovered, only three were identified. They were Mary Jones, a negro maid, Virginia Yeager, and David O. Heath. Three other charred torsos rested on morgue slabs, burned beyond recognition.

Edward L. Schott, 40, of Cincinnati, president of Coney Island, Inc., which owned the ill-fated steamer, last night set the number of dead and missing at 21.

$600,000 Loss

He estimated loss to the boat alone at $600,000. Fire Chief William Davis estimated the loss to the boat and its furnishings at $1,000,000.

Cause of the explosion was still unknown. Andrew Charles, assistant superintendent of police, said the boilers in the vessel were found intact, dispelling an earlier report that a boiler explosion set off the holocaust.

At noon yesterday the glistening white ship stood at anchor in the Water Street docks. Crew members dozed in the bunk room or worked about the ship to prepare her for the night's six-mile "moonlight cruise" down the Monongahela.

Fifteen minutes later two explosions rocked the area and the ship was enveloped in flames. The impact hurled crew members into the turgid waters where many swam to safety or were rescued.

The current unseasonable hot weather is expected to persist today and Thursday over southern and northeastern Ontario with scattered thunderstorms developing tonight and again Thursday night.

Protest Delay In Negotiations With Nfld.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 10—(CP)—A telegram protesting against delay in Ottawa negotiations and calling for termination of the Confederation conferences there was sent Tuesday to F. Gordon Bradley, leader of the Newfoundland National Convention delegation which is meeting with Canadian officials.

Twenty-one of the National Convention's 45 delegates signed the telegram which recalled that the negotiations had been in progress since June 20. A copy of the telegram was sent to Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The telegram asked the convention delegation to return immediately. It said, in part: "You are openly negotiating with the Canadian government and this is wholly unauthorized and beyond the terms of reference as you are fully aware. We advise you we wholly dissociate ourselves from all negotiations conducted by you in excess of the strict legal limitation."

There had been a previous protest on the duration of the Ottawa talks.

Meanwhile a recent Ottawa dispatch said officials participating in the discussions still do not know where the talks are likely to end.

American Fleet In Mediterranean To Stay - - Bieri

Rome, Sept. 10 — (Reuters) — Admiral Bernard Bieri, commander of United States Naval forces in the Mediterranean, told a correspondent of the Italian newspaper Momento Sera today: "The American fleet in the Mediterranean is here to stay."

"It will continue the closest cooperation with the Royal Navy and will continue to navigate Italian waters and other Mediterranean zones even after the signing of the German peace treaty," the Admiral said.

74 INDICTMENTS RETURNED

Chicago, Sept. 10 — (AP) — A special Federal Grand Jury formed last February to investigate an alleged country-wide sugar black market was discharged Monday by Federal Judge John Barnes. During the seven-month session the jury returned 74 indictments of which 40 resulted in convictions, one in an acquittal and 33 are still pending.

Misused A-Energy Could Cause Man To Disappear For Long Ages

Chicago, Sept. 10 (AP) — A Nobel prize scientist said today a world-wide misuse of atomic energy could ultimately destroy the human Gene system and result in the disappearance of mankind for hundred of millions of years — if not forever.

He also maintained an atom bomb killing 100,000 persons in a large city would plant hundreds of thousands of minute, delayed action "time bombs" in the germ cells of the survivors "resulting in a spattering of hundreds of thousands of deaths from now on through the very distant future."

The observations were made by Dr. H. J. Muller, professor of zoology at Indiana University, who was awarded the Nobel prize in medicine and physiology last year for discovering that Gene mutations (changes) can be produced by X-rays.

Genes are the tiny essential particles in all living things which, when transmitted from parents to children, make the offspring what he is. They are the heredity elements that cause children to resemble their parents in some respects.

U.S. MAY SHARE PART OF BRITAIN'S COSTS IN GERMANY

Action to Meet British Dollar Crisis Will Be Temporary Pending Further Discussions

Washington, Sept. 10 — (CP)—Prodded by an urgent new plea from London, the United States was reported making preparations today to assume a large share of Britain's occupation costs in Germany.

Presumably, however, American action to meet the British dollar crisis will be on only a temporary basis, pending final action on the Marshall recovery plan for Europe.

The State and War Departments disclosed last night that the British Embassy had sent word that Britain will run out of dollars to cover its expenditures in Germany about the end of this year. From that time on, the Embassy said, the British government will be unable to make any more dollars available for maintaining the civilian population in the British occupation zone.

An Anglo-American conference to consider this latest dilemma was asked and arranged for early next month.

Britain currently in spending at a rate of $380,000,000 a year in Germany with $273,000,000 in dollars and the balance in sterling. What additional sum the United States may have to put up to cover the months until the Marshall plan becomes operative — assuming Congress approves that mutual help formula — has not been determined. It might run around $75,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep. - N. H.) disclosed yesterday that the Senate appropriations committee will meet here Sept. 20, presumably to canvass the German situation. No plans have been announced, however, for a meeting of the House of Representatives committee, many of whose members are Europe-bound for a first-hand look.

There is growing speculation over the possibility of a special session to consider an administration request for some sort of temporary aid fund to keep Europe going until the Marshall recovery program can be made effective.

Acquittal May Bring Rewriting Of Laws of War

Nuernberg, Sept. 10 — (AP)—War crimes legal experts said today that yesterday's acquittal of towering, scar-faced Otto Skorzeny and his seven aides on war crimes charges may well lead to a rewriting of the laws of war.

A court of American colonels at Dachau ruled the giant S. S. (Elite Guard) officer and his mates innocent of crime when they infiltrated United States lines during the Battle of the Bulge in 1944 and spread havoc while wearing American uniforms.

Skorzeny, whose first turn under the world spotlight came when he kidnapped Benito Mussolini from the Allies at Adolf Hitler's command, and his men wore the uniforms of the enemy in battle. They admitted it. The Geneva Convention, basis of all laws of war, forbids that and such men are deemed to be spies and may be shot on the spot. But Skorzeny and his men were not caught red-handed. The Geneva convention does not clearly cover that contingency.

Therefore, the crux of the situation seems to be not what you do, but what you get caught doing.

TURNED OUT ALL RIGHT

Sarnia, Sept. 10 — (CP) — For weeks Sarnia firemen on night duty slept luxuriously on 12 new mattresses. Yesterday they had a rude awakening. It was discovered that the mattresses had been delivered to the fire hall in error after an alderman asked for quotations on the mattresses. But it turned out all right for city council finally decided to buy the firefighters six new mattresses.

Britain May Cut Armed Forces Below Strength Originally Estimated

London, Sept. 10 (AP) — A highly-placed government source said today Britain would cut her armed forces below the strength originally contemplated in Prime Minister Attlee's economic crisis program.

The cuts, the extent of which has not been determined, will not mean any new "revision of strategic concepts," he added.

Attlee originally proposed to reduce the British forces to 1,007,000 by the end of March, 1948. The forces now total 1,300,000.

Other developments in the economic sphere:

John W. Snyder, United States Secretary of the Treasury, conferred privately today with Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer. A government source said it was a "safe assumption" that Dalton inquired about the possibility of the United States releasing the frozen portion of her $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain. The last $400,000,000 was frozen after Britain withdrew permission for other governments to change their British currency into dollars.

The source said that under a plan which the Board of Trade president, Sir Stafford Cripps, will announce Friday, Britain would attempt to increase exports to 140 per cent of the 1938 level by the middle of 1948 and to 160 per cent by the end of 1948.

The cabinet was reliably reported to have approved the plan yesterday. Among the measures to be taken to reach the goal, government sources have said, will be a limited direction of labor. The plan also will set up restrictions on captial investments, according to government information.

The government continued informal talks with financial experts representing other countries in the sterling area. Details were withheld.

A government source again denied reports of an impending shakeup in top levels of the government. He said, however, ministerial changes on a secondary level were probable before parliament reconvened Oct. 20.

6,200 PACKING PLANT WORKERS NOW ON STRIKE

1,500 Employees of Two Montreal Plants Leave Posts Early Today

(By The Canadian Press)

More than 6,000 Canadian packinghouse workers were in strike today as some 2,700 left their posts at plants in Montreal, Edmonton and Vancouver, joining 3,500 who have been on strike since Aug. 27.

These were today's developments:

1. In Montreal, 1,500 employees of Canada Packers Limited and Wilsil Limited walked out after failure to obtain "a substantial wage increase."

2. In Edmonton, 400 struck at the Canada Packers plant and 300 at the Burns and Company plant after not obtaining "a satisfactory working agreement"

3. In Vancouver, 420 launched a strike at the Burns and Canada Packers plants.

The 3,500 workers on strike since Aug. 27 are employees of the Swift Canadian Company in six plants across the country. The strikers in all cases are members of the United Packinghouse Workers (C.I.O.)

Fears of Meat Shortage

The new walkouts heightened fears of a Dominion-wide meat shortage. In Vancouver it was predicted the strikes will cut the city's meat supply 75 per cent. A spokesman for Vancouver butchers said: "The average shop will have (no meat) left within a week."

With strike votes expected to be completed by about 7,500 more employees of Canada Packers and Burns and Company by the weekend, union officials reiterated a belief that the entire industry is likely to be tied up soon.

Union officials, who yesterday made their first move for appointment of a government conciliator, said such action seemed the only way to avoid the anticipated meat shortage.

Fully effective strikes at all Swift, Canada Packers and Burns plants would halt about 75 per cent of the Dominion's meat production.

Announcement late last night of the impending Vancouver walkouts came only a few hours after the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.) had proposed that its wage differences with the companies be submitted to conciliation.

But almost simultaneously with the proposal, which suggested that Mr. Justice S. E. Richards of Winnipeg be appointed conciliator, word came from Edmonton that 400 workers at the Canada Packers' plant there and 300 Burns workers had voted in favor of a strike.

SENATOR HARMER DIES AT NAPANEE AT AGE OF 74

Educated in Napanee and Went West in 1891 Also Served in Alberta Govt.

Napanee, Ont., Sept. 10. (CP) Another vacancy was created in the Senate late yesterday with the death of 74-year-old Senator William J. Harmer of Edmonton, in a local hospital. Seriously ill for the last month, Senator Harmer was moved here from an Ottawa hospital a few days ago.

Sometimes referred to as "silent William from Alberta", because of his infrequent participation in senate discussions, he was the first Liberal Unionists to be appointed to the Upper Chamber.

His appointment, by Sir Robert Borden, came Feb. 5, 1918, while he was serving as deputy minister in the Alberta Department of railways and telephones, and his precedence in the Upper Chamber ranked behind that of only three other senators.

Educated at Napanee after his parents settled in this area, he became a telegrapher and went west in 1891, where he engaged in railway operating and traffic departments and telephone management. He was superintendent of operations for the Alberta government's telephone system for three years prior to his appointment as a deputy minister.

He last visited Alberta in 1942 when he went to the McMurry district to observe oil sands development there. During his years in the senate, he was never known to make a speech, although he did sponsor a bill for the extension of a C.P.R. line to Prince Albert.

His death brought the number of senate vacancies to eight, with 66 Liberals and 22 Progressive Conservatives in the 96-seat senate.

Arrangements have not yet been completed for the funeral, which will be held here Thursday.

Edmonton, Sept. 10 (CP) —Alberta government officials last night expressed deep regret in the death of Senator William J. Harmer of Edmonton, 74, who died in hospital yesterday at Napanee, Ont.

Works Minister Fallow, acting Premier, said the Senate had lost one of its oldest members and Canada, and Alberta in particular, had lost a prominent man. He had known and worked with Senator Harmer 40 years ago on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

"We were old friends and his passing will be deeply regretted," said Mr. Fallow.

TEMPORARY AID NEEDED THIS YEAR SAYS MARSHALL

Adequate Data Will Be Available Shortly On Which to Chart Course of Action

Washington, Sept. 10 — (AP)—State Secretary Marshall said today that Europe must have some kind of temporary aid this year and only Congress can authorize it.

This was a strong intimation that he believes a special session of Congress will be necessary. But Marshall declined at a news conference to say flatly such a session should be called.

The secretary did say the State Department would have at hand by late October adequate facts on which to chart a course of action.

His statement came on the heels of an urgent new plea from London that the United States assume a large share of Britain's occupation costs in Germany. There were reports the United States is making preparations to do so.

Marshall, when saying the state department will have needed data at hand by late October, commented that the majority of Congressional committees visiting Europe will have returned by that time.

No Estimate on Total Aid

He declined to estimate how much aid may be required preliminary to the long range plan Marshall has projected for European reconstruction.

The Secretary of State said he has not made up his mind on any details of the problem. He classed the question of a special session also as a detail.

At the same time, Marshall said he does not think it is possible to get authority for aid without a special session.

The total of Marshall's comments appeared to those at his news conference to add to this:

Marshall believes there will have to be a special session in late October or early November to provide a temporary aid fund as a sort of advance on the Marshall long-range assistance program.

But he is not yet ready—pending final word from President Truman — to make his decision known. He said the president is being kept informed of all the facts in the situation.

His statement added that he hopes that "shortly thereafter the complete data for the European recovery program can be screened and made available, in order that the program may be faced in its entirety and that any action taken to meet immediate needs may be correlated into the general program."

Marshall made these other reports on the status of foreign policy matters:

1. The Anglo-American talks on shifting some of Britain's dollar burden in Germany to the United States are primarily a war department problem but the state department will be represented at hearings of the Senate Appropriations Committee in its special session Sept. 20.

2. Marshall is "gratified" at the creation of a coalition government joining Greece's two main political parties in a single cabinet.

3. Talks wth China and Britain on Korea had to be postponed because the Russians rejected Sunday an American invitation that they also attend a proposed four-power conference.

4. The state department now is studying the question of whether to go ahead with preliminary meetings on a Japanese peace settlement concurrently with the general assembly meeting in New York.

OTTAWA'S MAYOR 'HAVING FINE TIME' IN RUSSIAN CAPITAL

Moscow, Sept. 10 —(CP)—Mayor Stanley Lewis of Ottawa, one of a group of mayors from various countries attending celebrations marking Moscow's 800th anniversary, said he is "having a fine time."

Lewis, who spent most of yesterday sightseeing and plans to do the same today, said he plans to make a statement on his impressions.

Assault Customer With Pistol Butt As They Leave

Bank Officials Estimate Loot Taken at $3,000

Hull, Que., Sept. 10—(CP) — Two youthful gun-brandishing bandits escaped from a bank branch here today with loot estimated at $3,000 after knocking a customer to the floor with the blow of a pistol butt as they fled the holdup scene.

The injured man is Romulus Beauparlant, president of the Hull Police Commission, who entered the premises as the men were escaping. He was rushed to hospital for treatment to head injuries.

The bandits were believed to have escaped in a motor car.

They entered the bank, a branch of the Banque Provinciale Du Canada at Champlain and St. Laurent Streets, shortly after noon and ordered the manager, Gerard Caron, a teller, Erneste Lanoue, and a customer, Joseph E. Sequin, to lie face downward on the floor.

Both Masked

One of the two bandits, both in their early 20s, was masked.

As they fled the bank, the men cut the telephone wires.

Beauparlant was entering the front door as the men were leaving and one struck him a blow with his revolver butt.

Police said none of those in the bank during the holdup could identify the men as any of the three escaped Kingston convicts —Nick Minille, Mickey McDonald and Ulysse Lauzon.

Beauparlant later was released from hospital after treatment for his injury.

At the time of the holdup Seguin had $500 in his pocket which was overlooked by the bandits.

Police recalled that the same bank was held up in 1937 and robbed of $9,000.

Way Opened for Germany To Rejoin Europe's Family of Nations

Stuttgart, Germany, Sept. 10 — (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay told the German Council of States that the way has been opened for Germany to rejoin the "European family of nations."

The path, the United States military governor said, has been paved by western Germany's new level of industry recently authorized by the British and American governments.

TWO WORKERS AND RESCUER ARE SUFFOCATED

Follansbee, W. Va., Sept. 10 — (AP) — Two workmen and a companion who went to their aid were suffocated by gas fumes while working in a water well at a steel plant. Dead on arrival at hospital were Charles Fowler, 60, machine shop foreman; John Schmitz, 30, and Robert Ryan, 34, pipe fitters.

Priceless Work In Ojibway Work of Years

Wikwemikong, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP)—Jesuit fathers at the Holy Cross Mission in this tiny settlement on the eastern shore of Manitoulin Island treasure a priceless Ojibway-English dictionary compiled 50 years ago by a Jesuit missionary named Father Ferard.

Working with a quill pen under a magnifying glass, the missionary who had been sent from France spent 20 years translating thousands upon thousands of Ojibway phrases into English. Yet no one has ever used the three-volume work which contains 3,580 pages on which the ink has turned brown and faded with the passing of years.

Father Ferard started his task at the age of 50. He finished the first draft April 23, 1884. Corrections took him three more years but on Sept. 30, 1887, he pronounced his work complete.

Present day priests at the Holy Cross Mission say that in addition to making the most of his contacts with the Indians among whom Roman Catholic missionaries have worked at Wikwemikong for more than 300 years, Father Ferard went far afield for material.

"He travelled among Ojibways everywhere," says Father Edward O'Flaherty. "From here to Lake Nipigon and down as far as Wisconsin. He wanted only the best Ojibway and to make this dictionary authentic he had to be forever on the lookout for other dialects. Cree sometimes crept into the language and had to be deleted."

The dictionary was written for language students rather than a practical handbook for Jesuit missionaries or for the Indians. Typical of the phrases to be found in it are "Jibi," meaning "I stretch myself" and "Jowibi," meaning "I am half drunk."

On more than one occasion the Smithsonian Institute has offered to buy the unique dictionary but the offers have been rejected, the priests say, because the institution wanted the works to appear as those of an American.

Bust Hurricanes With Dry Ice, Science and Navy Ready to Test

Miami, Fla., Sept. 10 —(AP)—Scientists and the United States navy's hurricane hunters are awaiting the opportunity to become history's first hurricane-busters.

The next great tropical storm to whirl through the Atlantic, the Caribbean or the Gulf of Mexico will be dusted with carbon dioxide (dry ice), silver iodide, or some other cooling crystal which —perhaps—will condense its water vapors, cause a record-smashing rainfall at sea, and dissipate the great swirling air mass.

It will be a cautious experiment at first, because nobody quite knows what will happen when the tremendous energy stored up in a great hurricane is tackled. The experiment may not work at all.

A special B-17 weather-science plane is on the ground at Schenectady, N.Y., awaiting the word that a hurricane has formed. The plane is specially equipped for "seeding" chemicals into a cloud, like a farmer plants wheat.

When the time comes, it will fly into one of the great storms, accompanied by one or more "hurricane hunter" planes from the Miami naval air station. The Miami plane will fly above the storm to photograph the effects of "seeding" by the weather-science plane.

Only a little of the chemical will be fed into the storm the first day, then photographs and observations will be analyzed before a heavier attack is made.

MoreFundsNeeded For Victims Of Coe Hill Tornado

Donations to the Coe Hill Tornado Relief Fund are still urgently needed. These unfortunate people were dealt one of nature's cruelest blows and through no fault of their own they were stripped of all their wordly possessions. Their houses and farms were devastated by a 90-second freak that left them nothing but the clothes on their backs.

If you were in the same position as these people what would your reaction be? Winter is just around the corner and it would be easier to leave the wreckage than to stay and rebuild. But would you leave the spot which you cherished as home?

Consider the plight of these people who are our neighbors. Picture yourself in their place. Now look about and consider how fortunate you are. Then dig into your jeans and be as generous as possible. Give what you can or what you feel you should give. Then send or bring your contribution to the office of the Ontario Intelligencer. All contributors will receive a receipt.

Augmented Prize Lists and Many Entertainment Specials Will Feature Belleville Fair Program

Result of a keen study of the methods of operation, prize lists and other features of outstanding Ontario fairs, the 1947 edition of the Belleville Exhibition is predicted by members of its board to be the best ever offered the public of this district.

Added attractions, augmented prize lists, extended accommodations for live stock, and the fair-going public tend to substantiate the justifiable boast of those in charge.

Additional Horse Barns

A new constructional feature is the modern horse barns erected by the Fair Board which will augment those erected by the City Parks Board last year. These barns are of cement block construction and will be the best of their kind in Ontario. There is added accommodation for horses as well as sleeping quarters for attendants.

A new wire fence now encircles the grounds, a decided improvement over the wooden structure formerly in use. An innovation this year will be the use of the floodlighting system which will be turned on at special periods.

Exhibition of livestock and horses will be one of the special features of the exhibition. Roadster, carriage, and heavy draft prize winners at the Canadian National Exhibition will be on view here as will be numbers of the main breeds of cattle.

Industrial Displays

Industry and business have not been forgotten. In the Manufacturers Building and the Club Commodore's Building which was remodelled this year will be outstanding displays by city merchants and industrialists. There has been a great demand for space in these buildings and fair goers will see the last word in exhibits of this nature.

The fair will be formally opened at 8 o'clock on Monday evening, Sept. 22 by Andy Clarke, well-known broadcaster of "Neighborly News" a Sunday morning feature of the CBC. The Belleville Municipal Band will be in attendance.

May Better Position

The Belleville Exhibition ranks fourth in Class "B" fairs in Ontario, and this year all indications point to it bettering this position. Entries are coming in freely, and directors and staff are wasting no time nor effort to make this year's fair one of the best in history.

President Elmer Sandercock, Secretary Erle Denyes have travelled extensively visiting other exhibitions and studying methods and procedures. A recent treasurer's report by Ben Bleecker revealed the Exhibition to be in sound financial condition.

Problems of Guidance Outlined By B.C.I. Director to Members Of Kiwanis Club at Luncheon

A thought provoking address entitled, "Some of the Problems of Guidance with the Adolescent Boy," was delivered by Mr. W. J. Musgrove, director of Guidance of the Belleville Collegiate to the members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly meeting yesterday.

Mr. Musgrove divided his talk into three broad classifications, Personal, Economic, and Educational. "The boy between the ages of 12 and 18 years faces several physical changes that alter the effect of his outlook. He becomes over-confident of his new-found strength and untried abilities. Experience is discounted in favor of intuition and natural ability. The personal factor has always existed but owing to the decline of home influence on the young because parents are unable to be with their children sufficiently due to business reasons the problem has become more accentuated," he said.

Unfavorable Influence

"The inflationary wages of wartime have influenced adolescents unfavorably. Peacetime industry is unable to afford to pay the fabulous wages for untrained help that were paid in the recent national crisis. Youth who expect that they will realize the money which their older relations received are disillusioned by the lower pay scale at which they must start. They drift from job to job hoping that they will be recognized for their true worth or find a position that will come up to wartime standards." He continued, "Other students are turning to the professions because they see stability against the collapse of wartime booms which bring only temporary prosperity."

"Schools in an attempt to keep abreast of the times offer a variety of courses leading to numerous interesting lines of work that would have dazzled students thirty years ago," Mr. Musgrove continued. "This is the case in several instances today. This attitude of uncertainty carries over to industry and is a product of the increasing complexities of modern living.

"The influx of veterans into the educational field is a further cause for student confusion. They ask themselves "What will be the demand in our profession?" and "will we be able to get into university?" The preference is given to veterans thus eliminating all students but those who have exceptional academic standing."

Mr. Musgrove went on to say that many students postpone their decision in an effort to attain security by striving for a certain standard in the educational field. They secure a graduation diploma and are then faced with the problem which they have been avoiding. Then in a matter of a few weeks they must make the decisions that will influence their whole lives.

Mr. Musgrove concluded his address by stating his faith in the youth today. He said that students of the present time have a far harder job ahead of them than their predecessors. Men in business and industry should realize that the changeover from school to the job involves a tremendous readjustment on the part of the student. Tolerance and assistance are the ways to help the youth of today to accustom themselves to the complex problems that face them.

Question Period

A question period followed the address and the several penetrating queries revealed an interest and enthusiasm in solving the problem that bodes well for the youth.

Mr. Musgrove was introduced by Mr. Norman Smith and the thanks of the club were expressed by I. L. Moore and passed on to the speaker by the president Jack White. William Brown told members of the plight of the people at Coe Hill and asked that any assistance which the Club could give them be extended immediately. Mr. Addison Lloyd asked all Kiwanians to attend the picnic at Roblin Lake, Wednesday afternoon and to bring along the kiddies.

The sing song was led by Vic White with Phil Huddlestone at the piano.

Motoring Public Already Becoming "Meter Minded"

With parking meters having been in official operation for approximately one-and-one-half weeks, the motoring public is already becoming "meter minded," according to Police Chief Walter Probert who this morning stated the general public was taking fairly well to the new system of parking.

However, every day still sees a number of motorists turning up at the police station with parking tickets, either for over-staying the limit permitted by the amount of coin deposited, or for failure to drop their nickel in the slot.

"Did you not know that the meters were in operation?" is the question repeated several times each day by the desk sergeant.

In reply some motorists rather sheepishly reply that they did know, but that they had stayed shopping slightly longer than they expected. Others seem a bit huffy about the whole thing, some claiming they did not know what the meters were for.

But the meters are at least bringing the occasional Good Samaritan to light. Yesterday a retired gentleman living on the west side of the river was seen talking with a crony on the sidewalk when he observed the red violation signal showing beside a parked car. Casually he reached into his pocket for a nickel and dropped it into the meter.

"I don't know who the motorist is," he was heard to remark, "but nevertheless I would not like to see him get a parking ticket for remaining longer than the one hour limit."

Explosion Rocks Trenton Garage, No One Injured

Early this morning the C. F. Wallace garage located at 107 Dundas Street, West, Trenton, was rocked by an explosion that blew the glass windows three hundred feet and lifted the building from its foundations.

The explosion, thought to have been caused by the leaking of fumes and set off by the spark from an electric motor, tore up the floor of the service station and lifted the building from its foundations. The roof was ripped open by the flying fragments of cement that made up the floor.

Mr. Wallace, proprietor of the Texaco plant, stated that the station is a "mess." A small fire in the basement was extinguished by the Trenton Fire Department.

Mr. Wallace stated that the tanks were tested and there was no evidence of leaks of any sort. "However, it must have been fumes of some sort that caused such a terrific blast," he said.

No one was in the station at the time of the explosion and there were no witnesses. No one was injured.

Service will be continued in a "haphazard" manner until repairs can be effected. The building was insured.

France Makes Final Offer To Viet Namese

Paris, Sept. 10 (AP) —France offered today to turn over the administration of Indo-China to the Viet Namese if they would remain within the French Union and permit the French to retain strategic military installations, Agence France-Presse reported.

Emile Bollaert, French High Commissioner to Indo-China made the offer in a speech at Handong, the agency said.

"The offer I am making in the name of the government of the republic constitutes an indivisible whole while is to be accepted or rejected as a whole," the agency quoted him as saying. "This is my last appeal."

Bollaert also offered an exchange of prisoners and said there would be no reprisals against the Viet Namese, who have been fighting the French since last December because of a dispute as to the future status of Indo-China, long a French colony.

Another condition of the French offer was that France keep control of Indo-China's foreign policy.

This was a point on which the French and Ho Chi-Minh, Viet Nam president, disagreed in a Paris conference that broke up last year before the beginning of hostilities. Ho insisted that Viet Nam should control its own affairs.

Hong Kong, Sept. 10 (AP) — Thirty delegates, in what they described as a session of the "Viet Nam National Assembly," today unanimously invited Bao Dai, former Emperor of Annam, to take over power and negotiate for peace with France in Indo-China.

"The people of Viet Nam, misled by false propaganda," the group's resolution said, "are conscious of the real intentions of the Communists of Viet Nam to put their ideological preference above the supreme interests of Viet Nam."

'Home Sweet Home' Sign Greets Mr. King At Old Homestead

Kitchener, Sept. 10 (CP) —A sign "Home Sweet Home" nailed half way up the trunk of an elm tree by six-year-old Teddy Kilbsco greeted Prime Minister King this morning as he drove up to his old homestead at "Woodside."

He was greeted by Mrs. Kilbsco, smiling and radiant in a white frock, and four-year-old Marilyn who won the heart of the Prime Minister when she pinned a flower on the lapel of his coat.

Both Teddy and Marilyn were born at Mr. King's homestead where Mr. and Mrs. Tony Kilbsco have lived for 10 years. They have kept the place in good condition.

Despite yesterday's heavy program, Mr. King was up at 8 a.m. today and after breakfast dealt with correspondence and business matters for an hour with his secretary J. E. Handy.

At "Woodside," where he lived for nine years before and during university training, he noticed the once vine covered home had deteriorated somewhat. But the lattice work still remains around the eaves.

"It was a joyous place," Mr. King remarked. "Mother was fond of Lily of the Valley. They were abundant here in those days."

Members of the W. L. Mackenzie King Woodside Foundation were at the 11 acre-site hopeful of an agreement from Kitchener's distinguished native son to proceed with conversion of the homestead into a memorial park.

Mr. King strolled down Lover's walk, once an archway of trees, but now trimmed of its once abundant forest growth.

Republican Wins Congress Seat

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 10 (AP) —Republican Franklin H. Lichtenwalter has retained for his party Pennsylvania's eighth district seat in Congress, soundly defeating a labor-supported Democratic opponent in a by-election that has as its central issue the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

Lichtenwalter, speaker of the State House of Representatives, was chosen to represent the rich industrial and farming district of Lehigh and Bucks Counties over Democrat Phil H. Storch, president of the Lehigh Valley Newspaper Guild (C.I.O.).

The election was necessitated by the death of representative Charles L. Gerlach, five-times Republican winner of the seat.

In early returns today Lichenwalter had received 44,065 votes to Storch's 27,884 with 198 precints of the district's 214 reported. Total registration in the district was 73,000, Republicans and 46,000 Democrats.

G. Mason Owlett, Republican National Committee member from Pennsylvania, declared in a statement that the vote "was a smashing rebuke to the radical labor bosses who chose to make the Taft-Hartley Labor management act the paramount issue of the election."

A statement issued by the United Labor Division of the Storch For Congress committee, and signed by various union officials, said "we've just begun to fight. We don't consider the vote as a repudiation of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law issue."

Storch campaigned on a promise to seek repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law.

Marshall Reveals U.S. Disapproval Of British Action

Washington, Sept. 10 — (AP)— State Secretary Marshall disclosed today that the United States unsuccessfully urged the British government to reconsider its decision to send the 4,400 "Exodus" Jews back to Germany.

In a press conference comment, Marshall revealed strong American disapproval of the British action.

Three shiploads of the Jews, seeking to enter Palestine on the "Exodus 1947" were turned back and their disembarkation at Hamburg was completed yesterday.

Marshall said American officials had been keenly aware of the unfortunate results which would follow from the British decision to unload the Jews at Hamburg.

British troops had to use force to remove some of them.

Their final disposition is still unsettled and some are reported on a hunger strike.

Marshall said the American government urged Britain to reconsider the decision.

The British government replied, he said, that the only available housing was in Germany.

However, Marshall added that a French offer of admittance was still open and that the Jewish refugees therefore need not necessarily remain long in Germany.

FAST WORKER!

Toronto, Sept. 10 — (CP) — During the three weeks since he arrived here from England by the Ontario government's air immigration scheme, Bill Chapman has found himself a place to live, a job and a car. Having mastered the car's left hand drive and passed a test, he drove it to nearby Malton yesterday to meet his wife, Ethel, a Yorkshire girl, for whom he obtained a position as a nurse in the Toronto area.

Bishop Warns Of Church Needs In Rural Areas

By DOUGLAS GREEN

Saskatoon, Sept. 10 (CP)— Anglicans today had before them a warning from Bishop A. H. Sovereign of Athabasca that the church, in the words of the late Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen of Toronto, is strong at its "terminal points"—the north and urban areas, but is losing in rural districts.

Speaking to a joint meeting of the executive council of the General Synod and the Church's Missionary Society, Bishop Sovereign said yesterday it would be difficult to carry on missionary work if grants from the society were to be used only to provide stipends for the clergy.

As Bishop W. F. Barfoot of Edmonton had said, "most rectories in the north had been provided for bachelors" and some should be described as "wrecktories."

A great life was expanding in Canada's northern areas, but homes for married clergy in this field should be warm and provided with as many conveniences as possible.

It was "not a good policy" for a mission to feel it must always be a mission, said Bishop W. L. Wright, Algoma.

"There is a section of our Canadian Church which feels that other parts might do more than they are doing" he said "To pay these grants, we need over $90,000 more than we now have."

Other delegates said the missionary society was intended for the whole work of the church. It was, in fact, the only thing upon which a missionary or missionary bishop could depend.

Vigorous debate followed a recommendation that an advisory board on work among Indians be established, carrying with it the appointment of a field secretary with special responsibility for this work for a three year term.

An amended version of the recommendation calling upon the missionary society to take what steps is considered "practical and necessary" to strengthen the Indian work committed to its charge was finally passed.

Bishop R. J. Renison of Moosonee told the meeting that Canada's future lay in the north, and warned that if the English speaking people don't "watch themselves they will find themselves an island surrounded by alien influences."

6,200 PACKING

Some 3,500 union members have been on strike for two weks at plants of Swift Canadian Company in Moncton, N.B., Toronto, St. Boniface, Man., Edmonton, Moose Jaw, Sask., and New Westminster, B.C.

In the case of all three firms, the union seeks master contracts which would guarantee packinghouse workers a minimum basic rate of 92 cents an hour The combined working force of the "big three" in Canada's meat packing industry approximates 14,000 persons. Swift Canadian has offered to boost wages by three cents an hour, the others by five cents.

Wage negotiations, still in progress with Swift Canadian despite union picketing, were broken off Monday between Canada Packers and Burns and Company and the union representatives.

The conciliation suggestion recalled that similar conferences supervised by Mr. Justice Richards headed off a packing industry strike nearly a year ago. At that time the union sought wage increases of 25 cents an hour but settled for a 10-cent boost.

At that time, however, the situation posed a problem for the Federal government. Since the jurisdiction in the matter has reverted to the provinces and they would have to waive that jurisdiction to permit appointment of a conciliator by the Dominion government.

Duplication Order Causes Box To Disappear for Time

Disappearance from a Dundas Street verandah of a large box which was intended to be expressed to a Maritime address, caused the owner of the box, as well as police, a bit of worry Tuesday evening until the matter was cleared up.

The Dundas Street lady had packed the large box and had placed it on the verandah for the express man to pick up. Later when the express man came for it the box had disappeared and police were notified.

First thought of the police was that the box may have been picked up by employees of Public Works Department who are collecting parcels for the Coe Hill tornado victims. A check revealed this had not happened.

A close check with the express office however, turned up the missing box and also revealed just what can happen through a duplication of orders.

Earlier in the day an express man had actually called for the box but it was too large to be moved alone. He returned to the office and orders were given for additional help to pick up the box. One truck did pick up the box, while when the party who received the duplicate order came around for the same purpose, the box had gone.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept 10 (CP)—Junior golds, favorites of the last few weeks, slumped sharply on heavy trade in the early session of the Toronto stock exchange today with Eldona leading the downward move for losses ranging up to 70 cents on a turnover of about 750,000 shares in the first three hours of trading. Following closely behind Eldona which sold at about $1.06 at 1 p.m., Ashley, Beaulieu, Discovery, Donalda, God's Lake, Osisko and Pen Rey, each with sales ranging about the 100,000 share level, lost from five to 22 cents. Eureka, strong in the base metals yesterday, dropped 35 cents while Sherritt —was off 10. Senior golds were a little firmer on fraction gains.

Key industrials held on minor gains with papers firmer.

Work is Halted In Two Major Packing Plants

Montreal, Sept. 10 —(CP)— More than 1,500 employees of Canada Packers and Wilsil Limited went on strike here early today, halting production in Montreal's two major meat packing plants.

The strike action followed a vote taken last night among 400 to 500 members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.) Canada Packers employs about 800 while Wilsil employs 700.

Spokesmen for both companies said pickets were lined outside employee entrances, but that no trouble had occurred.

Last night's union meeting also approved the action of 150 employees of Swift Canadian Company who left their jobs yesterday in a "sympathy move" with a Toronto decision to call a national strike of that company's plants.

M. J. Ryan, district manager of the Swift Canadian Company said in a statement today that "there is no dispute" of grievance between the local management and employees. Union officials admitted yesterday that the strike had been "expected in Montreal and other Canadian plants when company officials refused to come across with the desired increases."

Local officials of the U.P.W. of A. said: "We are a national organization. "The 'Big 5,' Swift Canadian, Canada Packers, Burn, Wilsil and Dominion Packers Limited will have to grant us a substantial wage increase . . ."

A survey among leading local butchers revealed only two or three days' stocks on hand. The packinghouses affected by the strike supply about 80 per cent of the meat consumed in Montreal.

Act Apparently Prevents Individuals From Selling Property

Toronto, Sept. 10 — (CP)—Under the Real Estate and Business Brokers' Act, passed by the Ontario Legislature in 1946, a person can not sell his own property if it is located in the province, it was shown in a ruling by Magistrate S. T. Bigelow.

The ruling introduced in court yesterday when George H. Bingham of Toronto was remanded for sentence on a charge of trading in real estate without a licence, also held that a person can not trade in real estate unless registered under the Act as a broker or salesmen for a broker.

In the case against Mr. Bingham it was brought out in evidence that he sold a house before he actually owned it and had made more than $1,100 on the deal.

Agreeing with defence counsel E. R. Peacock that the law as it stands is a "monstrous" thing, His Honor said: "Nevertheless, monstrous as it may be, that is exactly what the Act says and it is no function of mine to usurp the law."

Second Series Savings Bonds

Canadians who were buyers of war and victory bonds and who last year bought the first series of Canada Savings Bonds have for weeks been expecting the announceent just made by the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of the forthcoming sale of the second series of the Savings Bonds, which will go on sale on October 14th.

This second offering has been prompted by the reception given the first issue. The new Savings Bonds will be dated November 1st., and will bear interest at the rate of 2¾ percent each year for ten years.

Like the former issue the bonds of the second issue will be redeemable at any time at any bank in Canada for full face value plus interest and will be registered in the owner's name — affording protection against loss. Not more than $1,000 of this series may be issued in any one name.

The Payroll Savings Plan now in operation in thousands of organizations throughout the country will be continued. The issue will permit its installation by other companies who recognize the value of payroll savings. The new Canada Savings Bonds will also be available for purchase by the general public who have found them a convenient and profitable investment for personal savings.

The record of the first series last October was such as to prompt this second offering. Purchases in that issue have been made by more than 1,200,000 Canadians, including 623,000 employees who used the Payroll Plan facilities provided by their employers.

One of the salient facts associated with the Savings Bond issue is the importance of widespread holdings in the national economy. Present holdings have made more than a million Canadians better able to meet personal emergencies or to carry out personal plans. These personal resources are counted as an element of strength and stability in the nation.

Every appropriate means of informing the public of the details of the new series will be used and it is confidently expected that the people of Canada will again recognize this fine investment and make arrangements to take full advantage of the offering of the issue. More and more the people have grown to know the importance of government issues of bonds to the individual and to the country. That the response of the people to the new loan will be very great is believed by everyone. The public has been expecting it and will show confidence and trust in Canada's financial strength and resources and their reliance upon the place these bonds occupy in the national financial structure.

New Primate Chosen

Bishop G. F. Kingston of Nova Scotia has become the Primate of all Canada and proves the strength of the religious denomination to which he belongs. The new head of the Church of England in Canada has been an outstanding figure in the religious life of the country. He is a man of great energy, and is a prominent figure in the church because of his personality, his infinite capacity for work and his interest in his people. His rise in the counsels of the church has been marked and he is regarded as a man of great strength of character and spirituality.

Successor to the late Archbishop Owen, Primate, whose death not long ago saddened the members of his communion and of other communions, the new Primate has an important part to play in these days of unrest. That he is fitted for this exalted office his life has shown.

Members of every communion will pray for the success of the new Primate in the important office he is called upon to fill. The election of so strong a leader in one church is reflected in other communions and is assurance that the religious life of Canada is of the greatest importance as this nation grows in influence and power.

Arrive by Plane

Canada is a vast land in which the airplane is assured of an important place in the development of the nation. Much of Canada is already known and is the basis of her increasing importance in the world of nations. And yet much is yet to be learned and much achieved in the developments which are to come as Canada's influence grows.

From Sault Ste. Marie and Port Arthur comes word of increasing use by visitors of airplanes in touring into the hinterland which might be otherwise inaccessible. As the Port Arthur News-Chronicle says, in speaking of United States plane arrivals, "In nearly all cases they are bound for lakes and fishing grounds which can be reached in no other way. One of the planes which reported in at Port Arthur was en route to James Bay.

"The prospect is that the coming years will see a large increase in this form of travel. Generally, the visiting planes are prepared to land and take off from the unimproved lakes but where they can find supply depots and other conveniences beyond the regions of the motor roads they regard them as an additional attraction."

Canada is so vast as to stir the admiration of visitors and her own people. It is a land of varied climates and of infinite appeal in the various parts of the country. Its expanse and infinite variety of attraction make one think of it as a wonder land of growth and opportunity.

Says Many Drownings Needless

Many deaths by drowning are needless, according to the Health League of Canada. It is the belief of the League that many drowning deaths could have been and can be prevented — first, by the running of no unnecessary risks, and second, by the prompt application and long-continued use of artificial respiration methods when accidents do occur.

The Health League believes that many artificial respiration efforts are discontinued too soon. It is the belief of the League that many drowning victims died because all necessary efforts were not made to revive them.

The League emphasizes that the possibilities of artificial respiration should be fully realized at all times, and in its statement says that there are well-authenticated reports of artificial respiration being successful after as many as five hours.

Artificial respiration must be started as soon as possible and should not be discontinued after a mere half-hour of effort. It should be continued until there are definite signs of rigor mortis — possibly up to six hours. It is also well to note that there have been cases of recovery after a person has been unconscious in the water up to half-an-hour.

Rescuers are advised that there is always a possibility that a spasm of the larynx occurred and that the victim suffocated rather than drowned. Therefore, it is important to be sure that air is entering the lungs properly during the application of artificial respiration.

Air Escape at Five Hundred M.P.H.

An employee of a United Kingdom aircraft firm last week made a successful descent from a jet fighter flying at over five hundred m.p.h. This is the highest speed at which anyone has ever been ejected from a plane. The object of the descent was to test new apparatus invented by the head of a United Kingdom aircraft firm.

SENSITIVE GARDEN

It seems to me a garden is like people that I know,
Who must be given attention or a pout begins to show.
They fancy they've been slighted and neglect they cannot bear,
So they sit and sulk in corners and refuse the fun to share.
Well, a garden that's been slighted is as pitiful to see,
For ugliness starts creeping in where beauty ought to be.

A garden plot is sensitive; it wants its friends to show
That it is truly cherished by the care that they bestow.
It's selfish and it's jealous; be it real or fancied slight.
As one who takes to drinking, it becomes a sorry sight.
A garden craves attention, wants the love for it displayed,
And if it's ever slighted, every rose begins to fade.

A garden must be pampered and be fondled as a child
Or the weeds will overtake it and will soon be running wild.
Then haggard and disheveled will the phlox and larkspur be,
And weary things and seedy will be all that's there to see.
Yes, a garden's much like people oversensitive to slight.
It must be given attention or it ceases to delight.

The baseball match between the Printers and the Clothiers was not very fast; it took two hours to play five innings and then the score stood 12 to 10 in favor of the Printers. If either team was stronger in one way than in another, it was in their erratic throwing of the ball. The Clothiers tried several pitchers and three catchers, but none of them have been signed for next season. The following composed the teams: Printers, Black, MacDiarmid, Wilson, LaPalm, Leonard, Ferguson, Dunn, McCoy and Stevenson. Clothiers Jack Burns, Symons, McGinnis, Gillick, Byrnes, Dolan, Fahey, Panter and Meagher. The umpire was Joe Board of Hamilton.

Prime Minister Back in Ottawa

Kitchener, Sept. 10 (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King left for Ottawa last night, tired but in a jovial mood after a two-day visit to his hometown and to the North Waterloo constituency he represented when first elected to parliament.

A tour of the riding wound up a heavy program which included a civic reception here.

At St. Jacob's he dropped in on Dr. T. M. Robinson who at 88 still practises medicine and swapped stories with William Wingler, former village postmaster who remains spry at 91. He made a brief address at Elmira in which he said he was "amazed at the tremendous development throughout the district."

Joseph Ott, former Kitchener taylor who made the Prime Minister's first morning coat after his election to parliament, beamed when Mr. King stepped up to his porch at Floradale and shook hands.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How did the kangaroo get its name?

Nobody knows for certain how the kangaroo got its queer name, which is believed to be of Australian native origin.

There are 14 or 15 families and some 50 species of these picturesque marsupials and they range in size from that of a rabbit to that of a large man.

All of them are indigenous to Australia and certain neighboring islands.

So far as known the earliest mention of these animals was in 1711, when the Dutch governor had one in his garden at Batavia, Java. It came from one of the Aru Islands southwest of New Guinea.

Sir Joseph Banks, who accompanied Captain James Cook to the Pacific to observe the transit of Venus, was the first naturalist to observe the kangaroo in its habitat. A member of the expedition reported that he had seen "animals as large as a greyhound, of a mouse color and very swift."

According to an apocryphal story, when Captain Cook asked the Queens land natives what the odd animal was, they replied "Kan-ga-roo," which actually means "What did you say?" or "I do not know," but which Captain Cook mistook to be the native name of the animal.

The natives did not use "kangaroo" but called the larger species "wallaby" and the smaller ones "walleroo," terms that are still used.

Some of the largest kangaroos attain a height of seven or eight feet and a weight of 200 pounds.

Their young at birth are smaller in proportion to the size of the parents than the young of any other animal. The new-born young of a female gray kangaroo, which is as tall as an average man and weighs 150 pounds, are about an inch long and weigh about 20 grains or 1-350th of a pound.

Multiple births are rare in these animals. By means of its perfectly formed front legs the tiny, pinkish, naked mass propels itself to the pounch on the mother's abdomen where it is nourished and sheltered for several months until it may weigh eight or ten pounds.

V-I-T-E SPELLS YOUTH

A young animal, child or youth with vite is lively, sprightly, spirited, happy. A good description of vite is this report from the mother of a girl whose entrance to college had been postponed because of the extreme fatigue she complained of. The family physician could find no reason for it except possibly slight anemia, but treatment of the anemia gave no evident relief. Finally the girl began taking a daily Iodin Ration (two or three times a much iodine as nutrition authorities consider essential to maintain good nutrition). As her mother reported, the result of this was "very good.... she is resuming her college course this week and she is very happy ... she was so tired she couldn't enjoy life as other young people do, but now she is bubbling over most of the time."

"Bubbling over"—that's vite.

Melancholic moping — that's lack of it.

Not that mere iodine deficiency is accountable for lack of vite in youth. The young person's daily diet should be supplemented with the other five essentials of good nutrition as well.

Other causes of borderline departures from perfect health which a physician practicing preventive medicine—if a physician limiting his practice to preventive medicine could conceivably make his living— must keep always in mind are carbon monoxide anoxia, from exposure to atmosphere polluted with automobile exhaust gas or industrial furnace fumes or leaky or faulty gas burners, portable gas heaters, gas ranges without stovepipe vents, or other gas-burning appliances, in the home or shop; chronic lead poisoning from exposure to fumes or dust containing lead or chronic arsenic poisoning from eating fruit, greens or vegetables that have been sprayed with lead arsenate and not thoroughly washed with 1 per cent hydrochloric acid solution in water to remove the spray residue which ordinary rinsing or washing does not readily remove.

This by no means covers all causes of borderline faults of health—I mention such chronic poisoning because the nature of the trouble is so often unrecognized, since the affected individuals do not consult a physician, as a rule, until they have exhausted all of the usual remedies.

According to Joslin's "Treatment of Diabetes" there are 250-000 diabetics in the United States and one fourth of the entire population perhaps thirty million persons carry the potentiality or tendency to develop diabetes, an inherited tendency. How many of these potential diabetics will sooner or later become diabetic depends primarily upon the state of nutrition. For example, relatives of a diabetic who, through faulty nutrition, grow fat after thirty, are most likely to develop the disease. For years I have endeavored to teach people the importance of getting enough vitamin B complex—and basing my teaching on the established scientific fact that vitamin B complex, particularly B1, (thiamine), is necessary for the metabolism of carbohydrate(sugars and starches), I have called it "poor man's insulin"— and many diabetics have found that they may reduce their daily dose of insulin after they have taken an optimal daily ration of vitamin B complex for several weeks —that is, four or five times as much as nutrition authorities believe necessary to prevent deficiency manifestations.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Now, Now, Children!

You stated, I believe, that nothing can be absorbed through the skin if there is no puncture, cut, scratch or other break of the skin. How do explain the germs of cri gaining admittance? (C.B.B.)

Answer — Diphtheria, for instance — the germs generally float in through mouth or nose in droplets of sneeze, cough or conversation spray — and the Common Respiratory Infections would prevail as widely if the skin were constructed of concrete and steel. How can you (apparently) understand the significance of CRI yet be so childish about the function of the skin?

Dope

Brother's wife literally eats aspirin and (a proprietary mixture of aspirin and acetanilide) and has been doing so for years. Lately she acts queerly, is very absent-minded, nervous and restless nights. She looks almost sallow ... (Mrs. W. R.)

Answer—Aspirin is bad enough —it is not a remedy for any ailment, just a pain - killer or sense-deadener—but acetanilide (in the other nostrum you mention) is worse because it is more destructive to red blood corpuscles and more poisonous to the heart. We'll have an article on that some other day, meantime you might like to read the chapter on the abuse of analgesic drugs in the booklet CVD —for booklet sent twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope. The booklet deals with cardiovascular degeneration — heart and artery diseases.

Some Refugees Reported On Hunger Strike

Hamburg, Sept. 10 — (AP) — European Jews of the Exodus 1947 who began a fruitless voyage to Palestine just two months ago, were in displaced persons camps today undergoing screening to determine their final disposition. Some were reported on a hunger strike against their British custodians.

Reports from various sources indicated that the 4,311 refugees, forcibly unloaded this week from a transport convoy that brought them here from the Holy Land, were scattered among the Poppendorf and Am Stau displaced persons camps near Luebeck and in a Hamburg jail.

Special British teams already had begun questioning those at Poppendorf in an effort to learn their countries of origin so that they could be returned there. Most were believed to be of Polish origin. British officials said the teams would seek to separate confirmed Zionists and "ringleaders of resistance."

Poppendorf camp attendants reported that about 100 of the some 3,000 there had started a hunger strike by turning down the meal offered them last night. A British officer told correspondents a cage had been set up there for confinement of those deemed dangerous.

The Jews numbered 1,406 from the transport Ocean Vigour, 1,420 from the Empire Rival and 1,485 from the Runnymede Park. British troops fought Runnymede Park passengers for two hours before that vessel was emptied.

Wedding of Princess Will Be London's Biggest Show Since Victory Parade Last Summer

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 10 — (CP)—The wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten in Westminster Abbey Nov. 20 will be London's biggest public spectacle since the Victory parade last summer but will not approach in grandeur such pre-war Royal celebrations as King George V's Jubilee or King George VI's Coronation.

Austerity of Britain's post-war existence will cut deeply into plans for the ceremony and its attendant processions. Some editorial writers have suggested the affair should, in keeping with public hardships, be semi-private and inexpensive. Others have argued Britain needs the relaxation of a gala holiday and there could be no more fitting occasion for pomp and circumstances than the marriage of the Princess.

Compromise between the two extremes will be the keynote of arrangements for the wedding day.

The Abbey seats only 2,000 persons and the King has decided against special stands being erected inside. Thus there will be no chance for the general public to see the service but all will be able to catch a glimpse of the Royal couple en route to or from the wedding.

The Princess will ride with her father in a state landau from Buckingham Palace to the Abbey, escorted by a squadron of the Household Cavalry, a few minutes after the Queen and Princess Margaret have left.

Make Separate Way

Lieut. Mountbatten will make his separate way to the Abbey, also in a state landau. The bride and groom are expected to return by an extended route after the ceremony, probably crossing the Thames to give South London a sight of the cavalcade.

Exact routes are not yet known but already many persons are offering large sums for accommodation in windows overlooking streets along which the processions are expected to drive — the Mall, Trafalgar Square, Whitehall and Parliament Square on the way to the Abbey and the Albert Embankment, Vauxhall Bridge Road and Buckingham Palace Road on the way back.

An official of a major London theatre-ticket agency told reporters recently: "We have been getting applications, some enclosing cheques for considerable sums, from the day the engagement was announced. But we cannot arrange for any seats until the routes are made known."

The Ministry of Works, because of timber and labor shortages, has not authorized building of stands such as those which lined the routes of big pre-war processions.

The King, also, has requested Londoners not to throw confetti or almost-unobtainable rice at the Royal carriages.

The wedding breakfast, first function to be held in the palace's first-floor state rooms since before the war, will be for only about 150 guests. A three-course "off-the-ration" meal will be served and the King will propose the toast to his daughter.

The cake which Princess Elizabeth will cut with her husband's sword will be on a much more modest scale than the huge iced edifice cut at the 1934 wedding of the late Duke of Kent and Princess Marina.

Final austerity note: the Princess has announced she will purchase no trousseau; the wardrobe gathered for her recent visit to South Africa will suffice.

Personal Appeals Made to Miners To Start Work

Barnsley, Yorkshire, England, Sept. 10 — (CP)—"Flying squads" of local Members of Parliament and spokesmen for the National Union of Mineworkers touring the disaffected areas of the Yorkshire coalfields said early today they had persuaded men from six mines to return to work — but 42 pits, including the storm-centre of Grimethorpe, were still inactive.

Loss of coal through the dispute began Aug. 11 when workers at the Grimethorpe coal face refused to increase their daily stint at the order of the National Coal Board and the N. U. M. The loss now is estimated near 500,000 tons. About 45,000 miners are still out in support of the Grimethorpe action.

Fifteen speakers making "personal appeals" to the workers and hastening from meeting to meeting by automobile hoped to swing Grimethorpe's opinion possibly late today. But the workers there already have turned down appeals from union chiefs and apparently have turned a deaf ear to statements that the strike may endanger the life of the Labor government.

Meanwhile from Whitehall, it was reported the government planned no immediate further action to attempt to end the stoppage, considering the dispute one to be settled by the union and strikers themselves.

The temper of the Grimethorpe pitmen, described by Fuel Minister Shinwell last week as "in ugly mood," did not improve when they learned 600 of their number would have to pay 11 shillings weekly rent instead of 10, effective Aug. 30, at orders by the National Coal Board.

They angrily surrounded messenger boys pushing notices of the increase under doors — reason for the increase was given as higher costs —and shouted: "Burn the coal board! It's just another try to force us back to work."

Under nationalization, the National Coal Board took over Grimethorpe miners' houses last January from the Carlton main colliery.

22 Train Wreck Victims Buried In Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Sept. 10 — (CP) — The bodies of 22 unidentified victims of a Labor-Day-night head-on collision between two Canadian National Railways passenger trains at nearby Dugald rested today in 22 flower-strewn graves in suburban Brookside Cemetery.

They were brought there yesterday in the greatest mass funeral in Manitoba's history, borne in 22 hearses which moved slowly through streets where people stood with bared heads and where flags fluttered at half-mast. Behind the hearses, representatives of the federal, provincial city and municipal governments, and the railway and scores of friends and relatives filled more than 50 automobiles.

The spot chosen in Brookside for their last resting place is almost in its centre — an area shaded by spreading maples, ash and elms, bordered by lilac and honeysuckle.

Three groups of pallbearers—six men from the R. C. M. P., six from the Winnipeg city and six from the C. N. R. police — carried the caskets from the hearses and placed them gently in two rows beside the tiers of graves.

Then, as the mourners, formed a semi-circle about the spot, Dr. S. C. Studd, president of the Manitoba Conference of the United Church of Canada, and Canon F. Gloves of St. Margaret's An Church, read the brief com service. Fifteen other Prot clergymen, representing the gregations to which the dea longed, stood in silent prayer

50th Wedding Anniversary Celebrated by Sidney Twp. Couple, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lake

Residents of Foxboro district throughout their entire lives, Mr. and Mrs. James Lake, 5th Concession Sidney township on Monday celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage, the event being marked by a surprise celebration at the Sunday School rooms at Foxboro Presbyterian Church, Monday evening.

Approximately 100 members of the church congregation, together with relatives and neighbors of the 5th Concession gathered to pay tribute to the couple, who have lived practically all their lives in the community. The Sunday School room was attractively decorated for the party which caught Mr. and Mrs. Lake entirely by surprise.

A native of Sidney township, Mr. Lake has lived practically all his life on the Lake homestead where he still resides. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lake, while his bride of 50 years, is the former Elizabeth Ashley, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Ashley, West Huntingdon.

It was fifty years ago on Sept. 8th., that Mr. Lake, then a young man of 26 years, hitched up the family democrat and drove to the home of his bride-to-be at West Huntingdon, where he was married. Attendants at the marriage 50 years ago were Mr. Charles Ashley, West Huntingdon, brother of the bride, and the present Mrs. Mary Anderson, of Stoney Creek, Niagara district. Both faithful members of Foxboro Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Lake is active in W.M.S. and Ladies' Guild circles, while Mr. Lake is a member of the Loyal Orange Lodge. They have one son, Jack, at home.

Cartoonist is Millionaire for a Day

Jim Frise, well-known cartoonist, was strolling through his garden. He thought he smelled oil. Kneeling down to examine the grass he got the shock of his life. Oil was oozing out of the ground. He suddenly remembered reading lately about farmers out West striking oil on their farms. He grabbed a spade and began to dig. The more he dug, the larger the pool of oil became. He dashed into the house to call his newspaper pal, Greg Clark. In a voice trembling with excitement he yelled "C'mon over right away, Greg. I'm a millionaire. I've struck oil". What happened after that makes hilarious reading in The Standard this week. It's another episode in the laugh-provoking adventures of Greg Clark and Jim Frise. Political Circles Await Results Of By-Election

London, Sept. 10—(Reuters) —Political circles today awaited with keen interest the result of a parliamentary by-election at Liverpool Thursday which will test public reaction to the government's handling of the economic crisis.

Big guns are being brought up by the Conservatives in an effort to break the government's record of holding all the seats they won at the general election in 1945.

Anthony Eden, wartime foreign secretary and now deputy Conservative leader, interrupted his holiday in Ireland to fly to Liverpool where he will address an open air meeting today amid bomb ruins.

Lady Grant, Conservative member for Aberdeen, will address women electors who outnumber the men in this area.

The fight is for the working class constituency of Edge Hill, which Labor won at the general election when Dr. Richard Clitherow was elected by a comfortable majority of 6,000 votes in a poll of some 20,000.

Dr. Clitherow has since died and the picture today has changed. In the first place, Dr. Clitherow, who served with the Northwest Mounted Police in Canada from 1919 to 1922, had a straight fight with a Conservative. Now there are five candidates.

The Labor candidate is Maj. A. J. Irvince, a London lawyer who has failed twice in attempts to enter the House of Commons.

There are said to be 20,000 workless in this great Merseyside port and full employment for all was given great play by Labor leaders before the 1945 general election.

Labor confidence in victory is strong. But with so many conflicting elements the result of this five-cornered battle remains uncertain, the more so since this constituency has a record of frequently changing sides.

Six Young Men Held Since Aug. 18 Are Discharged

Toronto, Sept. 10—(CP) — Six young men held since Aug. 18 on nominal charges of vagrancy in connection with the $200,000 safety-deposit-box robbery of a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada were released yesterday.

The men are Jack Garvie, 24; Clifford Blanchfield, 22; Eddie Blair, 22; Victor Chernick, 20; his brother Harvey Chernick, 26, and Jack Isenberg, 19.

A seventh man, Eddie Guller, 26, was arrested at the same time but was released earlier and now faces a shopbreaking charge at Owen Sound, Ont., police said.

The seven were arrested the night of August 18 as police raided places in central and west-end sections of Toronto in swift moves to apprehend the men who robbed 33 bank safety boxes during that weekend.

The loot consisted of cash, jewelry and negotiable securities from the individual boxes. The robbery was discovered early Aug. 18 by a worker who found a three-by-three-foot hole smashed through the wall from an adjoining furniture store into the bank's safety deposit vault.

Police said when the robbery was discovered that the thoroughness of the job — a replaced padlock on a side door of the furniture store, rags used to deaden the sound of sledge-hammering through the wall — led them to blame the Numbers Gang.

This gang was so named when its members called each other by number while tying up six persons in another Royal Bank branch here last April and escaping with $250,000. The gang, also blamed for a $200,000 bank robbery at Carp, Ont., last July, is believed to have a red-headed girl accomplice.

Suspected of Murder

Flikka Ashley was a talented young sculptress. Her private life was the talk of the little English village in which she lived. Her loves were many. A murder is committed. The lovely Flikka is suspected of adding poisoning to her accomplishments. Finally, the police take a hand. It seems as if the trap is going to close on the talented sculptress. Then things start happening. The result is one of the liveliest and most dramatic murder mysteries you've ever read, full of suprises and the clash of personalities. It's a detective story by Maureen Sarsfield, with enough vitality to electrify your armchair. Read "Green December Fills the Graveyard" — a 20,000-word novel in The Standard this week. Scotland Yard Pressing Hunt For Killer

London, Sept. 10 — (CP)—Theatre-hour crowds in London's Shaftesbury Avenue last night heard three shots ring out from a second-floor apartment, saw a man dash from the building, dodge police who tried to intercept him and disappear amid milling pedestrians.

Today Scotland Yard is pressing a hunt for the alleged perpetrator of one of the most daring London murders in years.

Found dying at the door of her Rupert Street apartment, two short blocks from Piccadilly Circus, was a six-foot brunette, aged between 30 and 35, variously identified as Mrs. Rita Green and Mrs. Rita Driver. She did not recover consciousness en route to the hospital, where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

A well-known figure in the Soho area, she had worked as a mannequin and show girl. Friends described her as "most handsome, with startling black hair and eyes."

Police threw a cordon across Rupert Street minutes after the shooting, and also entered the apartment to find no trace of either a struggle or of the weapon, believed to have been a .45 revolver.

The cordon was lifted after 2½ hours but all through the night men from Scotland Yard's flying squad and police women hunted Soho restaurants and cafes for the killer.

Police issued a statement saying they "wished to interview" a fair man, 35 to 40, wearing a blue suit, about five feet nine inches tall and carrying a dispatch or instrument case.

Rita was reported to have been married three months ago. Police found her husband in a nearby club. It was reported he told them he had lunched with his wife and arranged to meet her later in the evening. Reporters who saw the husband described him as "greatly distressed."

Ontario's Grain Harvest Now In Full Swing

Toronto, Sept. 10 (CP)—Ontario's grain harvest is in full swing, with the cutting of some crops almost completed in several counties, the weekly crop report of the Provincial Agriculture Department showed today.

Yields and quality of grain vary greatly but in most sections of the province the harvest is fulfilling expectations.

Worst conditions are in Grenville County, where grain production is estimated at only 25 per cent of normal. Lennox and Addington reports most farmers have less than one-half the grain of other years and Renfrew reports "very spotty" yields.

The tobacco harvest is nearing completion in Southern Ontario but many growers still are seeking to evaluate the damage caused by late August wind and hail storm. Hardest hit were Kent County's Dover and Raleigh townships.

Farmers in the Muskoka and Parry Sound districts are faced with a milk surplus now that the tourist season is almost ended. In Glengarry County, milk production has fallen off as a result of the prolonged Summer heat.

Highland Light Infantry veterans are seen parading to the Garden of Remembrance to deposit a wreath in Galt, Saturday, during the unit's weekend reunion. Col. J. A. Russia Submits Figures For U.N. Police Force

Lake Success, Sept. 9—(AP)—Soviet Russia proposed today that the United Nations police force have 12 divisions of troops, 1,200 planes and five or six cruisers.

The figures were submitted by the Soviet delegation to the U. N. military staff committee as Russia's estimate of the size and strength of the forces to be put at the disposal of the security council by U. N. members.

The United States, France, Britain and China submitted estimates last June in response to a demand from the security council for actual figures on the U. S. force.

Russia refused then to turn in figures. The Soviet estimates are given now only a few days in advance of the U. N. Assembly, where the world police force is expected to be discussed in some detail. The actual force still appears far in the future.

The figures submitted for Russia, Britain and the United States now stand:

Russia—

Land forces, 12 divisions.

Air forces: 1,200 planes, including 600 bombers, 300 fighters, 300 other planes.

Naval forces: Five or six cruisers, 24 destroyers, 24 minesweepers, 12 submarines, 24 escort vessels.

United States—

Ground forces: 20 divisions.

Air forces: 3,800 planes, including 1,250 strategic and tactical bombers, 2,250 fighter bombers, 300 miscellaneous.

Naval forces: three battleships, six carriers, 15 cruisers, 84 destroyers, 90 submarines, six assault shipping and craft for number of divisions shown.

Britain—

Ground forces: Eight to 12 divisions.

Air forces: 1,200 planes, including 600 bombers, 400 fighters, 200 miscellaneous.

Naval forces: two battleships, four carriers, six cruisers, 24 destroyers, 48 escort vessels, 24 minesweepers, 12 submarines.

Graveside Service For Unknown 22 Of Train Wreck

Winnipeg, Sept. 10—(CP)— A province's last sorrowing tribute will be paid today to 22 of the 31 victims of a head-on collision Labor Day-night between two Canadian National Railways trains at Dugald, 20 miles east of here.

None was identified and, because the bodies recovered or otherwise accounted for fell two short of the number killed, the 22 shared 24 names.

Five were from one Winnipeg family, three from each of two others. Since the crash of a Campers' Special and an eastbound Transcontinental, they had lain wrapped in gunny sacks, in a temporary morgue in nearby Transcona. Originally there were 27 but seven which yielded their anonymity had been removed for private burial.

Officials said the remainder—one 18-year-old girl a few months ago had been chosen as queen of her suburban district — had been burned beyond any hope of identification.

So, province, city and railway company planned a simple, graveside service for the unknown 22 with a funeral cortege of 22 hearses leaving Manitoba's legislature building grounds at 2 p.m. C.D.T. today and winding through hushed streets to Brookside Cemetery.

Behind were to follow about 50 automobiles bearing Lieut.-Gov. R. F. McWilliams, representatives of the Provincial Cabinet, the city, the suburbs, the railway — including Vice-President W. H. Devenish of the western region and W. S. Thompson of Montreal, personal representative of President R. C. Vaughan — and the railway brotherhoods, and the relatives of the dead.

The public was barred from the cemetery where two Protestant clergymen were chosen to read the last prayers.

Little Benny's Note Book

I saw pop getting off the buss and we walked home with each other for company, and we passed Skinny Martin practicing with his lasso rope by lassoing the fire plug, and I said, Aw, he don't need to think he's so grate. I bet I could throw that lasso twice as good as him if I had half as mutch practice as he's had. I bet he'd stop being the champeen if I even practiced for a week, I said.

It's not always wise to try to beet the masters at their own game, pop said. Alixander the Grate found that out. I suppose you never heard of him, he said, and I said, Sure, he's a general in the history books, but I don't think we're up to him in school.

I'm thinking of another Alixander the Grate, pop said. This one was an Airdale dog that a job in a circus because he k so many tricks. In fact he wa smart he learned to read, and day he read that an Airdale do anything any other dog ca and then lick the other dog. Alixander decided to prove it, that was the beginning of downfall, pop said, and I said, you mean he found out it wa true?

Oh, it terned out to be tru right, pop said. He took all other dogs in the act, one by and learned their tricks and t picked a fite with them licked them so badly that t all ran away, so Alixander Grate was the only dog left, said, and I said, But anyway, must of been smart enough to a whole show by himself by t time.

You've got a good point the but unfortunately the gene public is more intristed in qu nity than quility, pop said. So circus cancelled the act and A ander was thrown out of a all because he insisted on ju ing higher than the greyhou and dancing on his hine legs b ter than the Frentch poodles. you get the generel idea? he s and I said, Yes sir.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

If you are sensitive to rebuffs, stuff cotton in your ears when you argue a bridge deal. While you are pointing out several facts, someone else may see a countermeasure you have failed to notice.

The boys waded into this deal:

NORTH
♠J 7 6 4
♥9 2
♦K J 7 5
♣A Q 9

WEST
♠5
♥K Q J 7 3

SOUTH

♦A Q
♣J 10 5 3

South was dealer at four spades and took the ten tricks his contract called for. West led and took the heart king. Thereafter his side got another heart and the trump ace. That was all.

In the post mortem, east laid out the cards in their original order and jumped all over west. "Why didn't you go to five hearts," he fo-med. "It would have paid us to go down one trick."

Sure enough. By careful play east and west could have collected ten tricks with hearts as trump. Seeing this, west made no attempt to put up an argument in his own defence.

An innocent bystander was only a pinochle player. And no bridge player expects much from such a kibitzer. But this one stuck out his jaw and remarked that east was the player at fault.

Challenged for what he meant, the pinochler pointed to the east heart ace. "Take the heart king lead with that," he said, "and return your singleton club. When you take trump ace, come back a heart."

"West can take it," he continued, "and lead a club for you to trump. That will give you the four tricks to defeat the bid. After you let west keep the first heart trick, it is too late."

There was no denying the result of such a play. It may require much foresight and courage in its execution. But there was no doubt that it would have defeated the four spade contract.

East started to protest: "Do you expect a guy to lead into the dummy A Q?" And the reply was: "Maybe you guys should take lessons from a pinochle player." That was the unkindest cut of all.

The Movie Column

By ARMAND ARCHERD

Hollywood, Sept. 10 —(AP)— While most of us are comparing vacation experiences with the neighbors, Lana Turner is just getting ready to leave town. Lana of course will not have to dig down into Junior's piggy bank to assure herself passage home, but she has problems that face only a movie star like — Lana Turner.

The former sweater girl (she now is a "dramatic actress") told of her worries on the "Homecoming" set. Portraying an army nurse, she just stepped out of surgery. It occurred to me that an entire army might show up at sick call if Lana were in charge.

Lana can't simply go away to the mountains or the seashore for a couple of weeks. She has from six to eight months to kill. Last year she went to South America, so she can't go there.

I suggested Africa since Tyrone Power is there.

"No," she laughed, "I'm not that much of an outdoor girl."

She decided on Europe, mostly southern and Italy. But another problem reared — the thought of being mobbed by fans frightened her.

"Remember what happened to Barbara (Stanwyck) and Rita (Hayworth,) she remembered. They were mobbed.

On her last trip there was only one place where she wasn't mobbed. That was in Acapulco. She added that Tyrone Power was also there.

Bob Hope must be getting old. He's starting to celebrate anniversaries. It's now 10 years since he arrived in Hollywood.

In September, 1937, he started "The Big Broadcast of 1938." He made some shorts for Warners before that, but Warners is in Burbank. (Paramount fits into the loose boundaries of Hollywood).

"My first day on the lot," Bob told me on "The Paleface" set, "a falling scaffold missed me by inches. I should have known then ......"

Since that time he's become one of the busiest (and wealthiest) members of Glamorville. He assures me he'll take it easier in the next ten years.

His new contract calls for two pictures a year for his bosses. A third is sponsored jointly by him and Paramount. "My Favorite Brunette" is the first in this series.

Looking back philosophically he had one comment: "It's been grand. I've enjoyed every dollar of it."

Gold for Elizabeth's Ring May be Mined Here

If Princess Elizabeth's wedding ring is to follow tradition and be made from gold mined in Britain, as were her mother's and her grandmother's, this mine in the mountains of Snowdonia, Wales, can supply the precious metal. The owner of the mine, Thomas Michaellones, has offered the gold for this romantic purpose. The mine shown here is believed to be the only active gold mine in Britain. Blocks of quartz being carried out of the adit here may contain as much as one-eighth of an ounce of the precious metal.

Primitive Living Conditions Aboard Ship Reported

Hamburg, Sept. 10 (AP) —Dov Mills, 22-year-old former soldier from Brooklyn, one of 1,481 persons disembarked from the transport Empire Rival today, told reporters that the refugees went ashore peaceably because there was no practicable alternative.

Dov Mills, who said he was speaking as a representative of Hagana, the Jewish defence agency, added:

"When we pick the proper time and place, we will strike back."

Two correspondents; Marguerite Higgins of the New York Herold Tribune and Norman Clark of the London News Chronicle, said in a story pooled for distribution by news agencies that Mills told them he planned to accept the lot of other Jewish refugees so he can "continue to help my people get to Palestine."

Mills voiced two complaints—against living conditions aboard ship and an allegation that food from Jewish stocks had been pilfered.

"We were treated like people living in a zoo, in cages with locks on the doors and soldiers standing guard with rifles and Sten guns."

Mills said the decision to come off peacefully in Hamburg was made several days ago and that although the refugees heard that resistance had been put up by those on the Ocean Vigor, that did not alter their decision.

By the time the two correspondent got aboard the ship today, they reported that the holds were an "evil-smelling mess, with garbage strewn about, water spilled, battered cardboard boxes, littered with decaying food and damp strips of blanket."

"The troops themselves agreed that the refugees had to live hard," the correspondents wrote.

"There were no beds or wooden berths as in the Ocean Vigor. Everybody had to sleep on the decks or floors of the holds."

There were no deaths reported during the long voyage during which five babies were born. There are 57 women in advanced stages of pregnancy.

ONLY ONE SOLDIER

Niagara on the Lake, Ont., Sept. 10 — (CP) — Today there is only one soldier at Niagara camp where, during World War II, as many as 25,000 Canadian soldiers passed through their training phases in a single year.

The presence of the single soldier illustrates the virtual disappearance of the camp as a military site even better than does the wholesale removal or destruction of the buildings which housed 7,000 men in arms at a single time during the war.

THREE MONTHS FOR LEAVING BABY FIVE HOURS IN SUN

St. Catharines, Sept. 10 (CP)—Convicted of leaving her four-month-old baby in a basket in the hot sun for five hours while she visited a local beverage room, Mrs. Olive McIntee of St. Catharines was sentenced Monday to three months in jail. The charge was laid by the Children's Aid Society following an incident Aug. 7, when Lloyd S. Richardson of the Society found the baby girl, badly burned by the sun.

The Society has taken charge of the infant.

Cliff Aberson of Cubs Clouts Grand Slam Homer to Defeat Dodgers While Cards Take Phils

National League Lead Reduced to 4½ Games With Cards Having Edge

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Somebody ought to have warned Brooklyn Dodgers about halfbacks. In their first start of their crucial western tour the current leaders of the National League baseball world were mousetrapped by an ex-football player named Cliff Aberson.

Yesterday Manager Charlie Grim sent Aberson to the plate as an eighth-inning pinch hitter with the bases loaded and the cubs trailing Brooklyn, 3-0. Aberson promptly belted a Vic Lombardi pitch into the stands for a grand slam homer that broke little Vic's heart.

Lombardi had been pitching a one-hit ball game for seven innings, until Bob Scheffing and Bill Nicholson opened the eighth with singles. Ray Mack, making his first start for the Cubs, bounced an easy double play grounder to Pee Wee Reese but the Dodgers' shortstop messed it up and the bases were full. Clyde McCullough fanned then came Aberson to make it 4-3.

The loss reduced the Brooks' lead to 4 1-2 games, only three of which are on the all-important losing side.

Cards Beat Phillies

The St. Louis Cards mowed down Philadelphia Phils, 2-0, in a night game to slice that full game off the Brooks' lead. Murray Dickson gave a six-hit job on the lowly Phils.

Bucky Walters of Cincinnati Reds turned in a job that would have been enough to grab the headlines most days, when he celebrated Walters night by blanking Boston Braves 2-0, with four hits. After accepting a shiny new automobile and other gifts Walters mowed down the tough Braves for his 198th major league victory and 42nd shutout.

New York Giants continued to make the most of their specialty the home run, downing Pittsburgh 3-1, on Jack Luhrke's blast over the fence with one on in the ninth.

Red Sox Second

American League action centred around the second-place scrap between Boston and Detroit as New York Yankees and Cleveland were not scheduled.

With the help of Jake Jones' three-run homer and some relief pitching by Johnny Murphy, Joe Dobson copped his 16th game for Boston by a 5-3 edge over Detroit. The result left the Red Sox 1 1-2 games ahead of the third-place Tigers.

Al Zarilla's triple, followed by Jeff Heath's play, enabled St. Louis' Ellis Kinder to down Philadelphia, 1-0, despite a three-hit job by Phil Marchildon of Penetanguishene, Ont., who now has won 16 and lost 9.

Luke Appling set a new American League record by playing his 1,986th game at shortstop for Chicago, breaking the old mark set by Roger Peckinpaugh as the White Sox thumped Washington, 6-1.

TOMMY WHITE BEATS BOEHMER

(By The Canadian Press)

Tommy White has hurled steady ball for the majors all summer and his reputation with the hometown folks is higher than ever these days. Last night before 7,000 Londoners he chalked up his 20th victory of season on as Majors lambasted Kitchener 3-1 to take a 3-1 lead in the Senior Inter-County baseball finals. The London ace has won 14 games straight.

The fifth game of the best-of-seven playoff series will be staged here tomorrow night and, if necessary, the sixth will be played at Kitchener Saturday afternoon. A London victory tomorrow would finish the series and give Majors the title.

London collected only five hits off sturdy Pat Boehmer but combined two of them with a pair of walks and a passed ball to get all three runs in the sixth inning. The young Kitchener hurler issued a couple of free passes but turned in one of his best efforts this season.

TWO UNDERDOGS, BISONS, CHIEFS WIN OPENERS

Jersey City Giants Beaten by Buffalo and Montreal Taken by Syracuse

(By The Associated Press)

Buffalo and Syracuse, the two underdogs in the International League playoff scramble, are away and running at the expense of the champion Jersey City Giants and Montreal Royals who struggled down to the last day of the regular season in a tight pennant race.

The Bisons knocked off the Little Giants, 3-2, in dramatic fashion on a homer by Earl Rapp with one out and one man on base in the ninth inning before a Jersey crowd of 14,096 last night.

Although the Bisons collected only six hits to seven for the Little Giants, they bunched three hits off starter Jake Wade in the sixth for the first score and then pulled the game out of the fire with two more in the ninth. Pinch runner Johnny Bero was on base when Rapp banged his homer. Hank Perry who worked the last three innings after Ted Gray was lifted for a pinch-hitter, received credit for the victory.

Syracuse knocked out Ed Heusser early and piled up a six-run lead that just lasted for a 6-5 decision. Howie Fox was knocked out of the box in the sixth but Mike Schultz came in to put down the threat when Schultz ran into heavy going in the ninth. Alex Mustaikis put out the blaze.

Al Gearheauser hurled shutout ball after the third inning when he came to the rescue of Heusser and permitted three Syracuse runs to score. Despite two doubles and a triple by Dick Whitman, the Chiefs' early edge prevailed. Hank Sauer homered in the first and Syracuse added four more in the third.

Each game was the opener of a best-of-seven semi-final series.

ABE J. GREENE PRESIDENT N.B.A. FOR 7TH TERM

Six-Man Vice-Presidential Slate About the Same as Last Year

Montreal, Sept. 10. (CP)—Re-electing President Abe J. Greene of Paterson, N.J., to his seventh consecutive term, the National Boxing Association today wound up its 27th annual convention and began translating into action an accumulation of recommendations and resolutions adopted at the three-day gathering.

The six-man vice-presidential slate was also chosen, showing little difference from that of last year. Executive Secretary Harvey Hill of Washington, D.C., and Treasurer Frank Landry of Friars Hill, Miss., were returned to office. The convention will meet next year in Philadelphia.

The 125 delegates sat till late yesterday cleaning up major business and counted among its accomplishments:

1. Disapproval in principle of championship return-bouts before the leading contender has been given a chance at the title.
2. Recommendation of safety regulations to protect the health and life of a boxer and to uncover suspicious fight performances.
3. Preliminary steps leading to a uniform licence and identification card for all boxers under N.B.A. jurisdiction.
4. Instruction to member commissions to prepare data so an injury and accident fund may be set up on a national basis.

Continue Count

The convention also made it an N.B.A. rule that referees shall "continue the count until its conclusion" so a technical-knockout decision may be avoided when a fighter has clearly been knocked out.

The championship return-bout subject provoked long debate but unanimous approval was given the resolution setting up N.B.A. principle in "deploring" such bouts.

The newly approved safety recommendations, which must be reported upon by all commissions, stipulate an investigation shall follow four consecutive knockouts or six consecutive defeats. Physical fitness of the boxer, any incompetence or unscrupulousness on his or his manager's part and any evidence of a faked fight will be probed.

Suspensions for six months are recommended where a boxer has suffered serious concussion, and the injured fighter may not return to ring competition except with the unanimous approval of three physicians.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 10. (AP)—If you're puzzled about the fuss over Olympic Hockey (and who isn't), the whole thing seems basically an argument between the Amateur Athletic Union, which "gave up" on hockey and the Amateur Hockey Associations of the United States and Canada, which kept the game going through the war by stretching amateur standards to the limit of elasticity. . . Both groups are interested mainly in the gate receipts and hockey is the only Olympic winter sport that brings in important cash. . . . By-passing efforts at detailed explanations, the upshot probably will be that the United States and Canada will be represented only by "bush-league" teams, if at all, and a European country finally will win the Olympic title.

Sports Before Your Eyes

Average attendance at seven All-America conference football games so far is 37,482, beating last year's figures for the same games by about 15,000 a game. . California's George Engel, age 72, claims to be the oldest active fight manager except Billy McCarney. They did business together in Philadelphia 50 years ago.

Official Word

While Bob Hooey, Ohio State Journal Sports editor, was in hospital recently recovering from an operation, he had a private phone in his room. . . Each day he'd call the hospital's regular number and ask: "Can you give me the condition of Bob Hooey, please?" . . . Then when visitors would ask: "How are you?", Bob would reply: "The girl at the switchboard says my condition is good."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Tall, bespectacled Johnny Metras, coach of the University of Western Ontario's Mustangs, intercollegiate football champions for the past two years, took off a bedraggled cap, wiped his brow, and placed his bulk on a nearby table. Johnny was in town yesterday on a business trip, and rushed back to London where he was due to put his football squad of some ninety young Western colts thru their training paces.

• • •

Naturally the conversation turned to football. There was a definite twinkle in the coach's eyes when we asked: "Can Western repeat this year?"

"When you take a duck out of his favorite pond in the fall does that mean he won't be able to swim the next year?" he countered.

• • •

Then in a stage whisper, the Mustangs' mentor said:—"We've got the best team this year we ever had. A backfield any of whom can trot the 100 in 9.9; a line that will be up there with the best of 'em, and reserves that resemble the first string so much that you can't tell the Varsity from the Yannigans."

• • •

Johnny seemed to swell with pride when someone mentioned that now famous relay race in Montreal when his backfield copped the honors. He scratched an ear when another waggishly remarked that he should put leaden weights on their heels so the rest of the team could keep pace with them, not to mention Toronto, Kingston and Montreal.

• • •

"I've got a kid coming up from Assumption College from Windsor, who stand as good a chance to out-Krol Krol, out-Parry Parry, and out-Cope Copeland within a year or so," Johnny said.

• • •

"What about those intermediate champions of yours this year, Johnny?" came a query.

"What intermediate team?" he countered, but there was a suspicious gleam in his eye. "Do you mean the squad that won the intermediate intercollegiate title last year? Well, seven or eight of 'em will go up to the Varsity, but that won't effect the squad at all. There's plenty more where they came from and I've got them. Don't worry too much about where that intermediate title is going."

• • •

Johnny would not comment as to how the Intercollegiate race would finish this fall. He has a wholesome respect for Coach Obeck of the McGill Redmen and Bob Elliott of Queens. Toronto will look after itself. "See me after that first Varsity - Western game in Toronto," he said. "and maybe I'll tell you then how the teams will finish."

• • •

Poppa O. B. A. administered a neat verbal spanking to the Oshawa Juniors at a sub-committee meeting held in Hamilton on Monday night. It seems that the naughty Oshawans did not or could not produce signed certificates prior to a game with the Peterborough juniors, and this not conforming to OBA rules and regs. the Petes promptly protested. The OBA listened with a sympathetic ear to the tale of woe, shook its head approvingly and promptly gave the Oshawans the old heave-ho out of the playoffs. So now the doughty Motor City kids can watch their favorite pastime from somebody's benches. Some folks will never learn.

• • •

Toronto Staffords and Peterborough meet on Saturday in the first round of the OBA senior playdowns. The games will be arranged by team managements. The OBA has ordered that no additional series will be decided upon until winners have been declared in the Niagara District and the Intercounty League. (Later) a report from Hamilton early this morning revealed that there is a possibility that the Petes might drop out of the series. In this case Staffords will meet the winners of the Niagara district.

• • •

The protest lodged by the Trenton Flyers against the Batawa Shoemen based on an alleged balk in their first playdown game was tossed out on its ear by the OBA at Monday night's sub-committee meeting. The parent body on the evidence submitted could not find that the umpires were at fault, and ruled accordingly. It is a waste of time and money for teams to lodge protests unless they are reasonably sure that their case is a good one. The Ontario Baseball Association realizes the jobs of its officials and stands firmly behind them unless the fault is a glaring one. Especially when there is a dozen garbled accounts of what happened.

• • •

Kingston and Ottawa Juniors go to bat in their third and deciding game of the second round OBA playoffs in Kingston on Thursday night. The game will be played under the lights in Megaffin Stadium starting at 8 o'clock Neutral umpires will be appointed by Convener Ernie Summers of this village. The squads are evenly matched each having nudged the other and the Thursday joust should be worth seeing.

• • •

And a later report just to keep the record clear says Don Thomas and Eddie Schrieder of this village were named last night to handle the Kingston-Ottawa junior game. That should put the quietus on the cockeyed rumor spread by gossipping screwballs that the above-mentioned duo of arbiters were suspended by the OBA following the Trenton-Batawa protest. 'Tis plain to be seen that all the figurative "old women" in this district do not wear skirts. Phooey!

• • •

Well, well, so that squad that played in Point Anne last night were the Oshawa representatives of Intermediate "A" softball. On their performance, they might be better, in fact they couldn't be much worse. Oshawa mushball authorities might better have sent a juvenile squad here to defend whatever the Legionnaires have won. Without getting too sarcastic, it was a little on the pitiful side. Point Anne was perhaps over its head in the outfield, Green and Genereaux never played better, but they were about normal otherwise.

• • •

There was something definitely wrong somewhere. We've seen hurlers like Hillier and McConkey perform before, and they are chuckers of no mean ability, but they were sad sacks last night. It was perhaps the first time in McConkey's softball career that he was sent into a game in a relief role and was yanked in the same innings with the putouts unchanged but the visitors three runs richer.

• • •

The Oshawa squad couldn't or didn't do a thing right. The infield committed errors that a public school squad would laugh at. Their pitching staff was composed of three men who stood there and threw the ball. As a gate attraction, the game had an aroma and as a ball game the aroma was stronger. Now we Know why Jim Coleman put the blast on the Argonauts football team the other day.

• • •

However as we said before, we think there was something definitely wrong with the Oshawa team last night. If not, then the Leafs should romp through to the Intermediate title. Comparing last night's exhibition with those staged by Oshawa teams of former years, it gives a guy a funny feeling in the pit of the stomach. But Friday is another day. The teams go at it again at Oshawa, and things might be different. For the good of the game we hope they are. And we could have gone fishing.

• • •

Tonight's the night for the baseball fans. Trenton and Batawa their protest differences all ironed out stage their third and final OBA Intermediate 'A' struggle at the Exhibition Park. Neutral referees have been named and we understand they are Messrs. Frawley and Reason of Kingston. Looks like a real battle and a huge crowd will likely take in the festivities. Game at 8:30 under the lights. The joust will be aired via Jack Devine over CJBQ starting at that time.

ARMED, ASSAULT RACE FOR $10,000 ON SEPTEMBER 27

Meet at Belmont Park in New York and Winner Will Take All

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—The masters of Calumet farm and King ranch have spoken and the $100,000 match race between Armed and Assault is definitely down for decision at Belmont Park, Sept. 27.

The terms of this winner-take-all special between the Golden Gelding and the Clubfoot Comet are identical with those of the one which fell through at Washington Park last month when Assault developed a foot injury. It will be at a mile and a quarter with each horse carrying 126 pounds.

The go-ahead was given yesterday when both owners pronounced their steeds fit and ready. Robert J. Kleberg, Jr., formally accepted terms of the match in behalf of Assault and a few hours later Warren Wright consummated the deal by declaring Armed in.

This will be the richest match race in turf history, exceeding by $15,000 the amount put up when Zev met Papyrus in the International Special at Belmont Park in 1923.

Both horses appeared near peak condition, Monday Assault breezed an impressive mile in 1:43 2-5 at Belmont after which Trainer Max Hirsch pronounced him physically fit. Over at Warden State Park, Armed's workouts had been confined to slow gallops but he breezed three furlongs in :35 yesterday and Trainer M. A. (Jimmy) Jones said he planned longer drills at once.

Point Anne Leafs Pound Three Oshawa Hurlers for 18-6 Win In Int. 'A' OASA Playdowns

Murney Green Jr. and Art Genereaux Give Sensational Display in Field; Mallory and Sero Hit for Circuit; Second Game in Oshawa Friday Night

Point Anne Leafs in one of the weirdest softball games ever played at Ox Point smothered the vaunted Oshawa Legionnaires 18-6 last night to take the first game of the two-of-three second round O.A.S.A. Intermediate "A" playdowns and eastern Ontario championship. The teams meet for the second game in Oshawa on Friday evening.

Last night's tilt was one for the playdown book. The Oshawa team either terribly over-rated or reverting back to their kindergarten days proved nothing but a workout squad for the Leafs. As a matter of fact from a spectator point of view a game of checkers would have been more exciting.

Practically everything in the softball calendar was displayed for the fans. Oshawa's three hurlers Hiller, Romaniski, and McConkey paraded to the mound in an effort to stifle the bats of the doughty homesters, but to no avail. In fact Romaniski undertook the job twice when the Oshawa ace hurler McConkey went in in the fifth with one out, and left five runs later with the count the same.

The Oshawa infield was like the proverbial sieve with the shortstop committing no less than five errors. They couldn't locate the sacks and their fielding was woefully weak.

Pounded All Pitching

The Pointers pounded all the pitching that Oshawa had to offer for 19 safeties, including home runs, triples and doubles. Every man on the team connected safely while the fielding, especially that of the outfield, was par excellence. In fact young Green in left field was one of the stars of the piece. He grabbed himself a double and two singles and his work in the field was little short of sensational. The last out in the ninth innings saw a towering fly go out to deep left. Green raced back, disappeared into the jungle leaped high, went out of sight over a knoll and came up with a smile—and the ball. Art Genereaux galloped all over the outer pastures pulling down balls that appeared to be labelled, he was hero Number 2 from a Point standpoint.

Don Boyle, Point pitching ace, went the route for the winners and was touched for nine hits, four of them coming in the third when the Oshawans threatened with a triple, double and two singles, to tuck the game away. But 'twas only a flash in the pan and the five runs they scored were just that until the seventh when the Oshawans in a desperate effort shoved over their sixth and final marker.

Hiller Went Out Early

Portly Hiller, Oshawa flinger essayed the starting role for the visitors. Five runs and six hits later, in the fourth to be exact he retired in favor of Romaniski. The Point batters showed no mercy and in the fifth with one out Mr. Romaniski retired in favor of ace chucker McConkey after three runs were over the plate. With one out McConkey strode to the mound, from the outfield, and the Pointers promptly pounced on his slants for five more runs. Exit Mr. McConkey who did not retire a man, and re-enter Tovarich Romaniski.

From then on it was monotonous. Romaniski gallantly stayed by the sinking ship and gave up five more runs for a half dozen hits. All told the Pointers fattened their batting averages with plenty of clouts. Boyle coasted the rest of the way and it was just a case of how many.

Oshawa Infield Weak

The Oshawa infield appeared to be weak, Vann, the shortstop bobbling no less that five chances. The throwing was poor and the Oshawans appeared to be ill at ease on the strange diamond.

Roger Mallory was the batting hero of the piece with a homer and two singles Nicky Sero clouted a four-bagger while Green got a double and two singles, Horwood bashed out three singles while Art Genereaux connected for a triple and a pair of bingles. All the Pointers connected for base hits.

Oshawa Legionnaires: Yorkavitch, c; Turner, lf; Brisbois, 3b; McConkey, rf, p; McMullen, cf; Hidgood, 1b; Bathe, 8b; Vann, ss; Hiller, p; Romaniski, p. rf.

Point Anne: Genereaux, cf; Mallory, c; Bennett, 1b; Sero, ss; Horwood, 2b; Boyle, p; Whitehead, 3b; Green, lf, Bradshaw, rf.

Score by innings:

Point Anne	021 282 30x—18	19	3
Oshawa ..	005 000 010— 6	8	7

Boyle and Mallory; Hiller, Romaniski, McConkey and Yorkavitch.

Toronto, Sept. 10 (CP) — The Canadian Ladies' Open Golf Championship tournament which opens it five-days' play at the Toronto Golf Club Sept. 15 now has an entry list totalling 112, club officials reported yesterday. Title-sockers will come from all parts of Canada, with the United States, England and South American also represented.

England is sending Mrs. G. R. Walker, a nine-handicap player from London Golf and Country Club, and Mrs. Mary G. C. Tetley, 10-handicapper from the Royal Ashdown Forest.

Mrs. R. H. Crease, Caracas Golf and Country Club, Venezuela, is the South American entry while the United States is represented by Miss Grace S. Lenczyk of Connecticut and Mrs. Eddie Bush, Detroit.

Defending champion for this 34th Open is Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen, Toronto Golf Club, who will face tough competition from such fellow Canadians as Mrs. Hugh O'Callaghan, Quilchena Golf Club, and Barbara Davies, Marine Drive Club, both of Vancouver. Another outstanding contender is Mrs. John C. Whitelaw, Le Club Laval-Sur-Le-Lac, Quebec.

Among Ontario threats are present provincial champion Ada Mackenzie of Toronto Ladies' Club; Mrs. Cecil Gooderham, Toronto Golf Club, and Rose Kampman, of Kitchener's Westmount Club.

An entry list showing a large number of players with a handicap of 10 or higher—attributed to a lapse of golfing practice during the war—has prompted tournament officials to raise the handicap entrance to 27.

New Rooms for Old

When the Barbers moved out of their apartment and bought the old three-storey house on Maple Avenue, their friends said they were crazy, that they would lose their shirt trying to fix up the old barn. Far from losing their shirts, the canny Barbers have added a shirt or two to their collection. What the Barbers did to that old three-storey barn of a house sounds like a good story, but it's true. It was all a matter of using a little head work in making new rooms out of old. In The Standard this week, Mary Scott tells how it was done. It's an article that shows what a little initiative, some paint, a few nails and a hammer can do in solving some of the housing problems. Read it in The Standard this week. Regina, Sept. 10—(CP)—When Arthur Chipman, boss-man of Winnipeg's Blue Bombers, suggested that Winnipeg should secede from the Western Football Conference and move into the high-priced Eastern leagues, football fans farther west merely snorted: "Good riddance!"

Local football circles were in no mood to listen to such fancy talk. Many of them had been suggesting for some time that the west, with its smaller crowds and limited budgets, could no longer compete with eastern teams. And the shellackings their Roughriders absorbed on their exhibition tour down east didn't make them any more optimistic.

Dave (Regina Leader - Post) Dryburgh summed up local sentiment with unerring accuracy when he snickered politely and suggested that maybe Mr. Chipman was verging on the brink of over-optimism.

"Winnipeg's Arthur Chipman isn't leaving anyone holding the satchel when he hints that Winnipeg is ready to cast aside its poorer football relations (Calgary and Regina) and start fraternizing with the Eastern Canada Jones' in a trans-Canada league," he said.

"If Mr. Chipman is prepared to build a $65,000 team and make hops to Montreal and Toronto that's his business. But he'd be wise to take another sounding and see if Winnipeg is prepared to stand the traffic. He could have a losing team for a few years and even a good football town like Hamilton doesn't exactly gush over losers. The Tigers are stoney broke and had to be subsidized by the Big Four last season. That's one reason why a few clubs are burned over the Tigers outbidding them to land the celebrated Mr. Filchock."

Dryburgh says both Calgary and Regina are ready to forget about the Big Time and play for the fun of it. Calgary had said many times there was no future in beating the stone wall and now Regina had seen the light. 'A Regina-Saskatoon - Calgary-Edmonton circuit would keep everybody happy and the big-money-boys could scramble for the Grey Cup.

"Regina isn't going to win the Grey Cup this year anyway — and neither is Winnipeg." said Dryburgh. "Those eastern bankrolls would choke a hippopotamus.

" . . . Those guys (the eastern teams) don't live on our street.

"Let's get on with our Western Conference . . . and to heck with what the rich people are doing."

New York Rovers, Boston Olympics In Quebec Loop

Montreal, Sept. 10 —(CP) — New York Rovers and Boston Olympics, formerly of the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League, were given the green light to play in the Quebec Senior Hockey League for the 1947-48 season last night at the annual fall meeting of the league.

League president George Slater said the two American teams will not be eligible for the Allan Cup, emblematic of the Canadian Amateur Hockey championship. The trophy is reserved for Canadian teams in accordance with a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruling.

The seven-team league includes Montreal Royals, Ottawa Senators, Quebec Aces, Shawinigan Cataracts and Valleyfield Braves.

A previous decision by Rovers to play half of their 24 home games at Granby, Que., was discarded when four of the league teams agreed to allow the New York team rink facilities for eight home games.

Each team will play a 48-game schedule, 24 at home and the remainder on the road. The league will get underway Oct. 18.

A six team playoff was tentatively approved by the League delegates.
